Make Them Speak Up .

Voters can't tell from the spoken or written campaign pledges of the candidates, but nevertheless there is an out and out "whiskey ring" among them, especially those running for the House of Delegates and the Senate. These candidates are dedicated to one purpose—and that is to legalize the sale of whiskey. It is their only concern. Backing this group are those who would like to make a "killing" from the liquor business, regardless of the economic or moral effect upon the county.

There are definitely many other things more important to the welfare of the county than trying to restore liquor here, and those who have no thought of anything else but their own selfish interests in having whiskey do not deserve to be nominated by the thinking voters.

This referendum business is just a blind. Already one backing the whiskey ticket has threatened another candidate in urging him to withdraw, because they fear defeat if the votes become too scattered.

They seem to wave the American flag and say the only democratic way is to pass a referendum law, but with ethics at a low ebb, who knows what would happen, once this type were elected to office.

It would be just as democratic and a lot more honest to come out openly on the question, and it is certainly up to the voters to insist that they come out in the open. Tnese candidates should be put on the spot, so to speak, by every person who expects to cast a vote in the coming primary election.

Church women indicate they are particularly interested this year in economic problems and what they can do about them. They can start right now in cornering every candidate for the legislature and see what their attitude is about the sale of whiskey, and whether they feel any moral obligation. Make them speak up. Once this question is out in the open then people will know how to vote.

Fire Damages Miller's Market

Fire early Monday morning in the Miller Sanitary market, corner of Second and Liberty streets in Oakland, caused damage estimated at $15,000 before it was brought under control by the Oakland Fire department. The blaze was thought to have originated around the compressor for the cooling system.

The fire was discovered about 3:30 a. m., by Robert Root who occupied an apartment over the store with his wife. When the Oakland firemen arrived a few minutes later flames were shooting skyward from the storeroom area, but by use of the high pressure nozzles the blaze was brought under control within a short time.

Also routed out of their apartment overhead were Mr. and Mrs. William L. Gibson and Harper Bartlett. The apartments were damaged mostly by the smoke as were the street level businesses in another part of the building. H. D. "Hub" Swartzentruber has a harness and shoe repair shop and Thomas Kight an insurance agency on the first floor but no fire penetrated this area.

Flames were confined to a rear section of the market and the storage room but smoke, heat and water damaged a lot of the stock. In the storeroom among other articles were 50 cases of instant coffee which had arrived the day before. The cost of this one item alone was estimated at $1,500.

At 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon firemen were recalled to the scene when smoke again began pouring up from the floor of the building near the rear partitian, but some additional water stopped this threat before any flames were seen.

Earl Shartzer and William Naylor, proprietors, estimated damage to the stock at $10,000 and damage to the building at $5,000. Insurance adjustors were here this week and the proprietors said most of the loss was covered.

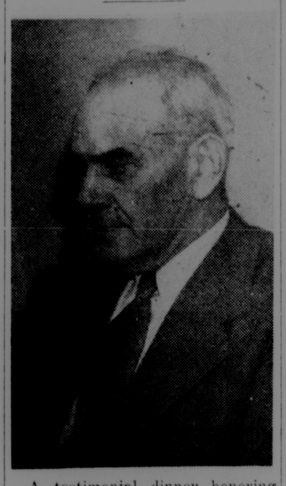
Testimonial Dinner Honors John Carter

County Agent Has Completed Twenty-five Years' Service



A testimonial dinner honoring John H. Carter for twenty-five years of service in Garrett county as county farm agent, was held last night at the William-James hotel in Oakland. Approximately 125 farmers and other friends attended.

The dinner was arranged by members of the Board of Supervisors of the Soil Conservation district here, which includes Foster Yost, chairman, Emerson Bishoff, Arthur Fitzwater and Audley Riley.

Serving as toastmaster was Merle Garletts, one of Mr. Carter's first 4-H boys in the county, presently a 4-H leader and teacher of industrial arts at Northern High school.

L. S. Hartley, manager of agricultural development for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was the principal speaker. Additional remarks were made by John Magruder, county agent leader, University of Maryland extension service; R. F. McHenry, Allegany county farm agent; and Marvin Callis, president of the Garrett County Farm Bureau.

Mr. Yost presented Mr. Carter with a seal skin wallet, engraved with Mr. Carter's name and years of service.

Mr. Carter became county agent in Garrett county January 1, 1929, after having served about three years as vocational agriculture teacher in Friendsville High school. He is a native of Smith county, Va.

One of his early programs was concerned with improvement of the potato crop and he organized 4-H club demonstrations in an effort to improve the seed. Later efforts dealt with improved fertilization and adequate spray programs. Other programs he has advanced have been the marketing of maple syrup, dairy herd improvement associations, artificial insemination, pasture improvement, cool weather crops and has cooperated with many others for the betterment of the county.

Last year Mr. Carter received the County Agent Distinguished Service award at a national meeting in Philadelphia.

He states in his announcement that he has been sheriff and county treasurer and for the past eleven years has been clerk to the Board of County Commissioners. He feels his experience would be valuable to the people of the county in the position he seeks. He declares he is not obligated to any individual, group or organization.

Census Shows Most Householders Would Accept Bombed Out Refugees

Oaklanders Could Care For Over Thousand In Case Of Emergency

One of the most comprehensive surveys of household facilities in the Oakland area has just been completed as part of the local civil defense planning, according to the Rev. John J. Atwell, civil defense chairman of the city.

He reported that a recent survey of 317 homes and apartments, representing more than 95 percent of the households of the town, disclosed that most residents could and would accept into their homes persons displaced by bombings of metropolitan centers.

The door-to-door census was conducted by the Civil Defense committee of the Oakland Civic club, headed by Mrs. Wilbur W. Close. With other volunteers, it was ascertained that 785 persons could be accommodated within the corporate limits, and if sufficient beds were available at least 1,903 refugees could be placed. The average household reported one or more extra beds, with floor space for several more.

Other interesting information about the living habits of local residents was discovered. The average household keeps on hand enough food only for its immediate needs, it was learned. Most of the householders reported enough to feed two or three persons for a day or two. One prudent housewife, however, reported enough on hand to feed eight persons for a month. Several extra tables and from two to six extra chairs are found in the average Oakland home. Most also possess one small or medium size first aid kit, in addition to other medicinal supplies.

Radio Still Popular

Television sets are found in about three out of five local homes, and most families possess from one to three radios. In almost every instance where television is a household feature, radios are still a popular form of entertainment, the survey showed.

Of the homes surveyed, only two or three refused to accept persons in an emergency, although several qualified their offers with such provisions as "only for a limited time" or "one or two women only," in the case of an elderly widow. Most offered to give as much aid as their facilities would permit.

The survey did not include the Garrett County Memorial hospital or the local National Guard Unit or Armory, since it was felt that in an emergency those institutions would have their own problems. However, several local organizations and lodges were included.

Among those assisting in the survey were Mrs. Phillip Whitaker, Mrs. John Castilow, Mrs. Milburn W. Mann, Mrs. Wade Meese, Mrs. Frank Robinson, Mrs. James Lusby, Mrs. Richard Davis, Mrs. Frank Rathbun, Mrs. Russell Smith, Mrs. Ray Jones, Mrs. Robert Ault, Mrs. Glenn Dixon, Miss Susy Smith and Mrs. Richard Dayton.

Russia broke off diplomatic relations with Australia over the Vladimir Petrov case, accusing Australia of kidnapping Mrs. Petrov and of manhandling Soviet personnel.

Democrats Name Two Candidates

At a meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee last night in the office of A. T. Matthews, local attorney, the members selected two candidates to partially fill the Democratic ticket in the coming general election.

They were William Treacy, candidate for state's attorney; and Mrs. I. E. Baumgartner as candidate for the House of Delegates. The former was graduated from the University of Maryland Law school in 1951 and practiced in Hagerstown a year before coming to Oakland. He is a son of Mrs. James P. Treacy and the late Mr. Treacy. Mrs. Baumgartner is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Owen T. Treacy, and is the wife of a local physician. She is active in women's club work in Oakland and the state. Their names will not appear on the primary election ballot.

The Democratic committee is expecting to fill other office candidates before the deadline which is 15 days before the primary election.

Southern High Nine Trims Parsons High

Coach Leonard Ritchie's Southern High school tossers won their third straight win of the season at Oakland last Thursday by crushing Parsons High school to the tune of 17 to 5.

The Highlanders scored eight runs in the first inning.

Southern collected 13 hits and Tim Sisler and Bob Glaze sparked the attack with three safeties each. Bowley, Parsons pitcher, issued 10 bases on balls.

Howard Sweitzer, Southern Hi pitcher, kept Parsons' seven hits well spaced and struck out eight. Playing for Southern were Glaze, F. Colaw, Glotfelty, T. Colaw, Sisler, Knotts, Holtsnider, Garrett, Sweitzer, Friend and Schaeffer.

Gas Production Shows Increase

Report Shows Amount Has Increased Over $1,000 In Three Months' Period

Natural gas production in the Mt. Lake, Gortner and Bear Creek areas over the past three months ending March 31, has shown another increase, the second time since the reports began in 1951, and the second time in succession. The regular report was received this week by the County Commissioners from the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas company.

The company sent a check for $6,327.87 as the county's total from the seven percent tax on the marketable gas, which totaled $1,319.33 more than for the three months' period October 1 to December 31. The breakdown of the tax showed $2,531.15 as the purchasers' proposition of the tax (2.8 percent) and $3,796.72 as the producers' proportion of the tax (4.2 percent).

The report showed twenty-seven producing wells (one less than the previous period) have yielded a total of $401,569,000 cubic feet of gas during the 90-day period, or an average of 4,461,877 cubic feet per day. The marketable value was listed at $90,398.18. One-eighth of this amount which normally goes to the land owners would amount to $11,299.77.

The town of Mt. Lake Park will receive $87.09 as its share of the tax, while Loch Lynn, which figured slightly in the last report when the O'Donnell well output was renewed, again comes in for a small share of $8.08. The O'Donnell was one of four wells which showed an increase, the others being the Baker well and the Lohr well in the Oakland area, and the McCullough well in the Bear Creek section. The McCullough well took a big jump from 43,136,000 in the last three months' period to 145,748,000 cubic feet. Other wells showed decreases in production and the Naylor well at the Park was eliminated altogether from the tabulation.

The Swartzentruber well continued to be a big producer, and showed a greater production than the N. K. Welch well. The latter had consistently been the biggest producer ever since 1951. The McCullough well shows production of more than one and one-half million cubic feet per day. The possibility of further development in the Bear Creek section was contemplated.

Since quarterly payments began June 30, 1951, Mt. Lake Park has or will receive $5,744.44; and Loch Lynn, $1,508.56.

Since the first check for the tax on the marketable gas was received by the Commissioners in July of 1951, the county's governing body has received $105,594.47. The first check was the largest, totaling $17,344.27. Each succeeding check has been less up until six months ago. The first four remained about $11,000.

Rain Plentiful

A plentiful supply of rain fell in Garrett county Tuesday and Wednesday to end danger of forest fires and to augment the supply of the county springs and streams. The storm brought cooling temperatures, and both Sunday and Monday temperatures were in the upper 70's and early 80's.

Unemployment Checks Hit $30,248 During March

Unemployment compensation checks issued from the Oakland office of the Department of Employment Security during March amounted to $30,248, it was revealed by Charles L. Briner, manager. The amount was given out through 1185 checks to individuals. Since a person must file a claim every week when he is out of employment, this means approximately 300 people or more were involved.

During February 955 checks were sent out totaling $24,962, and for three weeks in April the amount was $24,566 in 925 checks.

This compared to similar periods of 1952 as follows: February, 86,028 in 295 claims; March, $5,655 in 315 claims; and April, $4,937 in 226 claims. For the same periods in 1953: February, $7,334 in 440 claims; March, $12,672 in 561 claims; and April, $6,496 in 295 claims.

Briner said other claims had been filed in the Oakland office for some residing in this area who had formerly worked in West Virginia and Pennsylvania, but that those claims were paid through those states.

"Our Growing Edge"

MRS. MARTHA GLOTFELTY

Understanding—A Key Word

Misunderstanding of each other is probably at the root and cause of most of the world's troubles and ills. So, the goal to better world relations, better class and family relations is its opposite, understanding.

I have always thought that no group of people has such poor public relations as rural people.

Take the way they are portrayed in the entertainment world. On radio, they always speak the worst possible English, have very odd and strange accents, and are generally pictured as just plain dumb. Many times a farmer and his wife in a dramatic play are called "ma" and "pa" and sometimes have so many children they cannot count them or remember their names. These ridiculous portrayals give a picture in the public mind of rural people which is really tragic.

The other evening on TV, I saw a play sponsored by a company that nearly always has really fine plays. This one was no exception. The plot was good, the acting superb. Yet, the farmer's wife, who played a leading role in the picture was so ugly in appearance as to really show bad taste. Yet, this was typical. Check on it sometime and see if that is not so. Few of us who are rural women would rate as "Glamour Gals," yet I hardly think we are much worse than other groups.

I have had people come from the city and raise their eyebrows in surprise at the modern gadgets I have in my home, electric dishwasher, and the like. They also seem surprised that anyone living in the country would have any knowledge of world affairs.

Last year, one of the deer hunters who stayed at my home made a remark that is typical of their thinking. I was rather taken aback when he made the comment that I probably had deer hunters to relieve the monotony of life in the country. He could not have been more wrong. The only reason I had them was for what women generally call pin money. As for monotony, there are so many interesting things I would like to do in my lifetime, I will probably not live long enough to do them all.

What are the real facts about rural people? They are no different from other people. Some of them are good, some bad, wise and foolish. They are as a rule a little slower about grabbing on to each new and sensational movement. I think that has had a stabilizing influence on national affairs, and can be considered an asset.

I have lived among rural people most of my life, and I have found our rural women to be charming, intelligent and cultured. I have the first time to hear one of them speak in the manner in which they are portrayed in the entertainment field.

Our farmers are progressive, too. They have to be, in this competitive twentieth century, to survive.

Many of the nation's greatest leaders in all walks of life come from our farms and rural districts. It is a fact that 80 percent of the self-owned business establishments in this country are owned by men who were once farm boys. This is a tribute to the initiative and self reliance of our rural boys.

I have an ambition in my life. It is to portray the rural people as I have known them to those who do not know them. I would like nothing better than to show the constructive part rural people have played in the development and progress of our nation.

I have often asked myself this question: Why don't they tell the truth about us?

Meeting Called To Discuss Travel Trade

A meeting to discuss promotion of the tourist and vacation trade in Maryland has been called by Governor Theodore R. McKeldin.

It will be held in the House of Delegates chamber, State House, Annapolis, on Wednesday, May 12, at 11 a. m.

The governor pointed out that the travel industry in the United States was "big business," with reliable sources estimating its value at $20 billion annually. Maryland's estimated share of this is placed at $125 million.

He gave figures to show the increase in travel business since 1951, doubling the number of persons visiting the State House. Requests for information show the tremendous growth in interest in the date.

"Our beautiful Western Maryland mountain resorts are growing daily in popularity as are all of the Chesapeake Bay areas, and I am convinced that the time has come when with just a little more effort we can make Maryland one of the outstanding travel-vacation states in the nation," he said.

The governor said he was convinced that Maryland's rich historic background, her scenic beauty, her fine cultural heritage and her traditional hospitality offer the traveler everything he could find elsewhere.

All persons and organizations in Maryland who have an interest in furthering Maryland's travel-vacation business are being invited.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

Washington, April 26, 1954—Today, the Far Eastern Conference is scheduled to commence in Geneva, Switzerland, with the United States, Great Britain, France and Soviet Russia as principal participants. Though extremely difficult to rationalize in the minds of many, many people, Communist China and North Korea, at the insistence of the Soviets, are "invited guests."

Ordinarily, the complexities of foreign policy are beyond the grasp of understanding of all except the most informed. But, one can safely assume that the real work of the Geneva Conference will surround an attempt to establish, very belatedly, an "armistice agreement" with respect to the Korean War. Under the terms of the cease fire in Korea, this agreement should have been reached by October 28, 1953. Also, the agenda of these meetings will most certainly include some discussion of the present crisis in Indo-China—the key to Southeast Asia of great political and economic potentiality and significance.

It is anticipated that the communists will typically, and deviously, endeavor to inject the question of recognition of Red China as an odious bargaining wedge. Already, evidences of these tactics are crystal clear. To debase the propriety and morality of these efforts, and to expose the deliberate machinations of the treacherous international communist conspiracy, inspired by the Kremlin, the world need only recall that more than 79,000 persons, including 31,500 Americans, gave their lives in Korea in the fight against communism.

Last December, in a letter to Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan, Chairman of the Senate Majority Policy Committee, I had this to say about the issue of recognizing Red China:

"I have been unalterably opposed to the admission of Red China to the United Nations, and the shocking disclosures pertaining to Korean war atrocities, together with the knowledge that there can be no trust in, or respect for, such modern day barbarians, should definitely preclude any further consideration of this issue. I, for one, do not intend to shatter the faith and hope of the people under the yoke of Communist domination by inviting their enemies into the family of decent, law-abiding nations of the world. The Congress must express an inviolate opposition to any such proposals."

Now, as then, my sentiments and feelings as regards the recognitions of Red China, and the admission of this blackguard and aggressor nation to the community of free nations, remain unchanged, and I shall vigorously oppose any efforts to accomplish these objectives.

Along The Potomac

With Your Congressman DeWITT S. HYDE

Another in the series of "great debates" which have marked America's participation in the cold war seems to have begun with Vice President Nixon's speech on the Indo-China situation.

Nixon was widely misinterpreted as saying, the week before last, that U. S. troops were going to fight in Indo-China. He really said practically the opposite. He had been asked what we would do if the French pulled out of the battle there.

The Vice President replied—and emphasized—that this was extremely unlikely, but that if it happened we might have to pitch in ourselves to win the fight. He was in fact reiterating the firm policy of our government to stop Communism in its tracks—a policy that was endorsed by the people in the 1952 election.

There have been many moves against the Communists by the U. S. government in the past 16 months! Withdrawal of the Seventh Fleet from protection of the Red China coast; tougher employee security programs in the government; no fooling around or appeasement in the Korean armistice terms; constant work to bring our allies closer together, and attempts to unify Germany and Austria under free governments.

Since World War II 800 million people have been swept behind the enlarging Iron Curtain. After finding that kid-glove treatment of the Kremlin conspirators did no good, the American government decided that maybe the conspirators, who rule by force, will respect force.

The tragic assault on the tiny free fortress of Dien Bien Phu in Indo-China was the enemy's way of setting the stage for the current conference at Geneva—their way of displaying power. Our way was to develop the capacity for fearful retaliation against aggression and to announce that we would and could use it if provoked. We intend to give the Communists nothing more.

So Mr. Nixon's speech was no warning to GI's to get their uniforms out of mothballs. It was a warning to the Reds that we mean business. If we come to blows in Indo-China, it will only be after the President has asked for and received authorization from Congress, under our Constitution.

"Night of Harmony" On Tap May Eighth

"A Night of Harmony" is coming to Oakland on Saturday, May 8, provided by barber shop quartet members from the Tri-state district. It will be held in the Southern High gymnasium beginning at 8 o'clock. Admission will be $1.

Among the visiting groups will be The Pittsburghers, international winners; the Charlestonaires, and a number of others.

The local chorus and local barber shop quartet, the Mountain Aires, will take part.

The SPEBSQSA, Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, started about 25 years or more ago as a joke, but it was discovered it filled a need deep inside many men, too often neglected since music went so-called "high hat."

Final Appeal Is Made To Reach Red Cross Drive Quota

A final and urgent appeal has been issued by the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Red Cross in an effort to reach its quota of $3,185 in the current campaign, which is required to carry on its program fully. The total amount raised thus far in the campaign, according to Olonzo P. Fike, campaign, is $2,418.16.

This leaves a total of $766.84 to be raised. Mr. Fike gave a breakdown of the budgets as follows:

Blood program	$ 750
Home Serv., off. sup.	700
Disaster Relief	100
Home Nursing	80
First Aid, water safety	25
Fund campaign exp.	45
Total for county	1,700
National Red Cross	1,485
TOTAL	$3,185

Mr. Fike pointed out the largest portion of the county funds would be used for the blood program. Last year 343 pints of blood were used in the Garrett County Memorial hospital, and it was indicated that if the quota was not reached the blood bank might be dropped.

Mr. Fike also stated no salaries are received by any person who works for the local Red Cross chapter, all work being volunteer, and that unless the quota was reached all of the services of the local chapter would be greatly hampered.

"We believe that when you citizens realize the importance of reaching our quota you will come to the rescue with donations sufficient to more than achieve our goal. We sincerely appreciate what has been given and the work done by the various volunteers," he said.

Those wishing to make a larger contribution than they already have made or those wishing to make a donation, may do so by sending a check or money order payable to the American Red Cross, to Mr. Fike, campaign chairman, Oakland. He said any dollar donations may also be sent by mail. Credit will be given to the community in which the contributor resides.

"We are making this appeal to business men, farmers, professional people and everyone in the county to come to the rescue of a great cause," Mr. Fike concluded.

The breakdown of contributions to date: Oakland $965.85; Grantsville $400, Crellin $166, Accident $158, Kitzmiller $144.10, Jennings $100, Deer Park $70, Mt. Lake Park $60.58, Bittinger $50, Friendsville $50, Red House $49, Power House $18, McHenry and Sang Run $30.05, Swan Meadow $40, Sand Flat $30, Loch Lynn $25, Bloomington $25.98, North Glade $11.07, Swanton $10.29, Associated Women $10, and Sunnyside $4.31; total, $2,418.16.

Wreck Delays Trains

One of the worst wrecks to occur on the Cumberland division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad occurred last Friday morning about 7:55 when 18 freight cars of an eastbound train left the rails at the foot of the 17-mile grade, three quarters of a mile west of Bloomington.

A defective wheel on one of the cars was blamed for the wreck. Westbound traffic was restored at 7 p. m. Friday and eastbound traffic about 10 p. m.

About 100 workers from Cumberland, Keyser and Grafton reported to the scene to clear the tracks.

GETTING THE IRISH UP—

One well-known member of Oakland's canine population received an unexpected drenching Sunday afternoon, following a fall into Wilson Run beside the former Oakland Bakery. An Irish Setter belonging to Mrs. D. Edward Offutt, "Gus" wandered helplessly up and down the stream for more than an hour, unable to scale the high walls. He is shown being given a boost by Junior Evans, while Dr. E. I. Baumgartner prepares to render assistance on a higher level. (Staff Photo)

ONE WORD . . .

Can Change Your Life

By REV. ROBT. OLEWILER
Pastor, Grace Reformed Church
Washington, D. C.

Humor

Don't you think we pastors ought to include in our prayers more often a petition on behalf of a sense of humor?

The other week I heard a layman pray: "Give me a good digestion, Lord, and also something to digest; give me a healthy body, Lord, with a sense to keep it at its best. Give me a healthy mind, good Lord, to keep the good and pure in sight, which seeing sin, is not appalled, but finds a way to set it right. Give me a mind that is not bored, that does not whimper, whine or sigh; don't let me worry over much about the fussy thing called I. Give me a sense of humor, Lord, give me the grace to see a joke; to get some pleasure out of life and pass it on to other folk."

The layman said this prayer hangs outside the door of the refectory of the cathedral at Chester, England. "Give me a sense of humor," the word that can change your life.

"Mathematics Is Useful," Is Theme Of School Assembly

Presented Tuesday Afternoon At Northern High School By Algebra Classes

"Mathematics Is Useful" was the theme of an assembly program held Tuesday, April 27, at Northern Garrett County Jr.-Sr. High school. The program sponsored by the Algebra II class featured original skits and song lyrics based on the year's work in Mathematics, and was witnessed by the entire student body. Guests for the occasion were R. Bowen Hardesty, superintendent of schools; Foster Bittle, supervisor of high schools; C. O. Bender, president of Board of Education, and Mrs. Bender; Ross Speicher, vice-president of Board of Education, and Mrs. Speicher.

The backdrop featured booklet covers from special projects and spelled out the word "Math" and its appropriate symbols. Part of the setting consisted of three model houses built from plans developed by the students. The interior of one of the houses had been decorated by members of the Vocational Home Economics girls. This work was described in detail by Sara Stanton and Wilma Butler.

A puzzle sheet containing tricky quizzes, magic squares and a cross number puzzle was presented to each member of the audience to illustrate Mathematics in Recreation and Amusements.

The "Mystery of Numbers" written and presented by the 11th grade algebra students, compared the words for the numerals from 1-10 in various foreign languages and traced the origin of the English words.

Vida Schroyer recited "Algebra"—a poem lamenting the historical quest for "X."

Ruth Harman explained the fundamental Mathematical knowledge required for a nurse and cited her recent pre-nursing test as an example of the need for computational ability.

Juanita Bittinger and Mona Lea Collier related the necessity for understanding mathematical relationships in Chemistry, Physics, and Photography. "To be an adequate shutter-bug, you may not need to handle complicated processes, but some one has to be able to work them out for you."

A comedy song, "Take Me Back to Alegbra," written by Betty Friend and sung by Betty Friend, June Lee Corle and Patricia Minnick, served as the introduction for Rose Lee Chaney's report on "Mathematics and Music." She illustrated her talk by drawings of notes, rests, scales, etc.

"Twigs from the Tree of Math" named and explained the various branches of Mathematics. This was written by Gail Kesner and Dorothy Glotfelty and the parts were portrayed by Dorothy Glotfelty, Janet Coddington, Kenneth Glotfelty and Ross Selby, Jr.

"Find What X is Worth," the lyrics of which were written and sung by Delores Wright, illustrated the steps by which Janet Coddington solved a complicated quadratic equation in mathematics.

"All in a Day," adapted by Mildred Harman and Audrey Schaefer from an original story by Mildred Harman, illustrated the many ways in which Mathematics is useful in the life of an average family. "The number of eggs for breakfast, the cost of wheat per bushel, the geometric lines in the kitchen stove and time all make us dependent upon our system of quantity and number" was the theme portrayed by William Speicher, Joe Bender, Charles Schroyer, Nancy Franke and Audrey Schaefer. Props for this skit included a stove and refrigerator.

The boy's quartet, Ross Selby, Joe Bender, Allan Younkin and Robert McKenzie, induced the audience to help them sing "We're Trying"—a statement of their difficulties with Algebra written by Nancy Mummert.

The opening and closing songs were greeting and farewell messages from the Algebra I and Algebra II classes.

Hospital Grounds Being Beautified

The beautification of the Garrett County Memorial hospital grounds is continuing under the direction of Edward O'Donnell. Mr. O'Donnell has contributed his time and services to the project for the past two years and finally succeeded in locating the Koster Blue Spruce desired and contributed by Mrs. Thomas Gonder in memory of her husband.

Ralph Weber has located the Copper Beach desired and contributed by Mrs. Susan Brown, of Baltimore, in memory of her husband, Judge George Stewart Brown. This species of Beach is not a native tree of North America and hospital officials said it had been extremely hard to located.

Miss Cara Weber, girl scout captain, and her girl scouts have prepared and have charge of the flower beds on the hospital grounds.

The entire beautification and landscaping of the grounds is a project of the Business and Professional Women's club, and to which they have liberally contributed.

Church Women Plan May Fellowship Day

Oakland area women will participate in a nation-wide observance of May Fellowship Day on Friday, May 7. The yearly observance is sponsored by United Church Women, a general department of the National Council of Churches of Christ in America, and by more than 2,000 state and local councils of church women.

During this month women in hundreds of communities will begin to examine their roles in the nation's economic life, as job holders, homemakers, consumers and citizens.

"May Fellowship Day is the observance the church women set aside especially for 'neighborliness'," said Mrs. E. Ray Jones, president of the Oakland Council of Church Women. "This year we are particularly concerned about economic problems and what we as Christian women can do about them."

The May Fellowship program for this area will be held in the Ev. United Brethren church in Loch Lynn on May 7 at 2 p. m., EST. The program will be followed by a tea.

Devotions will be in charge of Mrs. William W. Grant, Oakland, chairman of Christian Social Relations. The theme, "The Christian Woman's Trusteeship," will be presented by Mrs. Paul B. Naylor, president of the Moorefield district, WSCS of the Methodist church.

Mrs. D. L. Bittinger, Mt. Lake Park, will speak on the magazine, "The Church Woman." Mrs. Alfred Haines, wife of Rev. A. J. Haines, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal church, will tell of the work done at Clagett Center, in Buckeystown, Md., where the annual meeting and workshop will be held May 25 and 26.

Mrs. Mabel Brock, Mt. Lake Park, will outline the program of the Fellowship Fund. All church women of the community and surrounding area are invited to attend.

Governors of coal-producing states held a conference in effort to revive ailing coal industry.

State Gas Fields Unable To Meet Customer Demands

The gas fields of Maryland cannot meet the demands of the C. & A. Gas company's Maryland customers.

This was revealed by Albert B. Lauderbaugh, chief engineer for the firm, at last month's hearing on the gas rate increase before the Maryland Public Service Commission.

They were seeking to determine if the gas fields in Garrett county could be utilized to supply the firm's consumers in Allegany and Garrett counties.

Laudebaugh stated that 51.2 per cent of the gas sold by the company is consumed in the two counties of Maryland it serves with the remainder 48.8 per cent going to consumers in central West Virginia in the counties of Mineral, Tucker, Harrison, Braxton, Barbour, Lewis, Grant, Preston, Randolph and Upshur.

The firm sold 6,223,804,000 cubic feet of gas in 1953. Of this amount, 1,798,073,000 cubic feet came from independents, 742,725,000 cubic feet from Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, and 279,373,000 cubic feet from Atlantic Seaboard Corporation. The balance was produced by the C. & A.

There are 25 gas wells in Maryland, six owned by the C. & A. and 19 by independents. All of these except one at Accident are in the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park field.

In 1953 the Oakland field produced only 1,407,000,000 cubic feet of gas. This falls far short of the 51.2 per cent of the total 6,223,804,000 cubic feet sold by the firm in Maryland last year.

During 1953 the C. & A. obtained 4,255,000,000 cubic feet of gas from the Terra Alta field, all from its own wells; 180,000,000 cubic feet from Tucker County, with 90,000,000 coming from company-owned wells; Upshur county, 1,617,000,000 cubic feet, of which 378,000,000 cubic feet came from independents; Lewis-Harrison county, 331,000,000 cubic feet, of which 111,000,000 came from independent wells, and Braxton county, 133,000,000 cubic feet, of which 97,000,000 cubic feet were from independent operators.

Leader Who Failed

Lesson for May 2, 1954

IT IS said that at the time of the French Revolution there was one day a tremendous uproar in the streets, of Paris, and an elderly gentleman who had not kept up with the news, inquired what it was. "It sounds like a revolt," said he. "Not a revolt, Sire," was the reply, "—a revolution." A revolt is a revolution that doesn't "click"; a revolution is a revolt that succeeds. Yet the success of a revolution is not to be measured by what it accomplishes there and then. Only as the years go on can any man assess a new movement, political or any other sort. What happened to Jeroboam's revolution, the one the prophet Ahijah had approved and authorized?

Dr. Foreman

Success in the First Chapter

If Jeroboam had had any ghost writers and if they had written up the story of his political coup, they could have made it sound like a tremendous success. Jeroboam himself was young, able, and with immense political sagacity. He was a good organizer, and he was a popular man. As a labor leader under King Solomon he knew how to deal with people and as a political exile in Egypt for many years what he had not learned about the ins and outs of international politics was probably not worth learning. He had succeeded in drawing out of the original united Kingdom of Solomon ten out of the twelve tribes that composed it. Population, wealth, opportunity — everything was in his favor, plus the basic fact that a prophet of God was behind the movement to begin with. With God and the people on his side, how could Jeroboam lose?

* * *

Failure in the Last Chapter

When Jeroboam was some years older, a son of his lay very sick, and the king thought again of the prophet Ahijah who had once been his friend. Ahijah could surely tell him whether the child would live. But Jeroboam's queen, at Ahijah's door, met with no welcome. Quite the contrary: the old prophet cursed King Jeroboam and all his house. The revolution which had begun with the blessing of God upon it, ended by incurring the anger of God. The king who had begun with such overwhelming success ended as a failure. If the secession of the ten tribes had proved to be a failure, it was not that there was anything sinful in the idea itself, but that the revolution had been in Jeroboam's hands not a means of helping the people but of doing them harm.

* * *

". . . Who Made Israel to Sin."

More than one writer in later times used the same standard formula for this Jeroboam. He is called "Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin." That is a terrible tag to hang on a man; that he is the cause of a nation's sin. But it was true of this man. What in particular had Jeroboam done, as King of Israel, to "make Israel to sin"? His great sins were two, but they were part of the same policy. It will be remembered that this was shortly after the time of Solomon, and the great temple which Solomon built was still the center of the religious life of all the twelve tribes. When Jeroboam engineered his revolution, he felt it to be a dangerous thing for the temple to be in the hands of the Kingdom of Judah up there in Jerusalem. So he organized two other religious centers, at convenient locations, Bethel in the south, Dan in the north; and in these newly appointed "shrine cities" he set up gold-plated calves and other animals as the gods of his people. In two ways among others, this was ruinous to right religion, and led to the decay of the nation.

God Is Not Mocked

First this involved the sin of making religion a department of the government. As King, Jeroboam attempted to dictate (and only too successfully) where and how his people should worship. The priests in his shrine cities were political appointees. Religion was subsidized by the state. But worse than that: Jeroboam tied the people down to a crude and cheap kind of religion. For the great invisible God of heaven and earth (see Solomon's prayer in I Kings 8) Jeroboam substituted gold-plated statues of bulls and he-goats. Debasing religion, he debased his people. Cheap and bad religion will ruin a nation faster than fire or famine.

What a thrill to land that old "granddaddy" of all fish . . . to feel his vicious tug at the line . . . to see his silver side gleaming in the sun as he rolls and breaks the surface. Then the big moment . . . out of the water with a final great splash and into the landing net. He is yours!

The catch of a lifetime. You tell about it a hundred times over—about your new fly-rod, that special lure, the deep hole in the lake, the big rock where "granddad" used to lie. But somehow you can't put it all in words. It was your own personal experience with old "granddad."

In a way, religion and fishing are alike. You can't put religion all in words either. It's not just rules for living, or doctrines, or spiritual values. Religion is a personal experience with God. It's your struggle with God until you surrender your rebellious spirit and become His.

Come to church. There you will learn to know and love God. It's the one great experience of a lifetime—an eternal lifetime.

HOLY BIBLE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Homemakers Pay Tribute To Member

Members of the Oakland Homemaker club are paying tribute to Mrs. Sallie Wooddell, one of its oldest members, during National Homemakers week, May 2 to 8.

The club is honoring Mrs. Wooddell for her outstanding work in Hooked Rugs as a hobby. The art of dyeing and hooking rugs was brought to the county by Miss Eleanor Dearborn, former home demonstration agent in January, 1950. To date Mrs. Wooddell has hooked ninety-two rugs. Her patterns are of various floral designs. Friends and neighbors contribute old woolens for her rugs.

Extension work began in the county in 1917. Each agent has had a part in the expanding program which is designed to help every homemaker make her home more lovable and livable.

Mrs. Wooddell, member for a number of years, is the daughter of the late Hopwood and Elizabeth Starr Kildow who resided in Oakland. She taught school for twelve years at Bray, Mt. Zion, Gorman, Sunnyside, Red House, Cherry Creek and Fair Sweep. After completing a course at Mountain State Business college, Parkersburg, W. Va., she did stenographic work at Webster Springs and there married Mr. Wooddell who was sheriff of Webster county at that time.

She has four children, a son, Dr. Hopwood Wooddell, a dentist at College Park; a son Matthew, with the communications division of the U.S. Air force; two daughters, Mrs. B. I. Gonder, Sr., and Mrs. Jacob Mumma. Mrs. Wooddell makes her home with the latter who operates the Youthland shop in Oakland.

To Wed Next Month

Mr. and Mrs. John Kope, Star Route, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Amy Ruth, to Sgt. Charlie Earle Griggs, Jr., of Baltimore.

Miss Kope is a graduate of Oakland High school, class of 1952. She has had one and one-half years training in the School of Nursing at Church Home and Hospital, in Baltimore.

Sgt. Griggs has been in the Air Force for three years, and after his present furlough, will be stationed at the Air Firce base in Macon, Ga.

Dedication Program Set For Kitzmiller

Planners for a dedication ceremony to be held here decided today it might be a good idea for "the parade to stand still and watch the crowd go by."

C. C. McIntyre, who heads the committee on scheduling events for the half-day program, made this statement after deciding there may be too many citizens in the parade.

Governor McKeldin will be the principal speaker at the ceremony dedicating Kitzmiller's new Civil Defense rescue training site here on May 9th.

In addition to the parade, plans were made for a band concert, a baseball game, dance and chicken dinner.

Demonstrations will be put on by the 549th E. O. D. Control Detachment and units of the local rescue service.

Almost 1,000 persons are expected to attend the dedication. The population of Kitzmiller is 850.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

The passing of Easter traditionally indicates the half-way mark of a legislative session, and the spurt of activity on the Washington scene makes this year no exception.

Between now and adjournment there is much to be accomplished, and in the next few weeks it may at times appear as if Congress is in a great hurry to pass laws—but the thing to remember is that during the weeks prior to the Easter holiday the preliminary and spade work was being done.

This week should see the Senate complete discussions on the wool price support bill, which it is believed will give an indication as to how the Eisenhower Administration's farm program will fare in Congress.

There are some who are endeavoring to amend the wool price support bill to cover other basic crops, and it is reported that if this is done the President will veto the bill.

A veto would mean that next year the flexible price support program favored in part by Secretary Benson would go into effect, since the present rigid price support program expires and under the law would be succeeded by a flexible system permitting lower parity.

Also scheduled for Senate action soon are amendments to the much debated Taft-Hartley Act. House amendments are still in committee, but the Senate cleared its bill for early action, and the discussion should separate the Senate on fairly partisan lines.

Labor unions, which once called the Taft-Hartley Act a "slave labor act," now contend that they prefer to keep the law as is rather than see it amended. It should also be added that a number of business men, who formerly argued that Taft-Hartley should be made stronger, likewise favor leaving it unamended.

At this point the only sure thing is that regardless of what action is taken on Taft-Hartley you will hear a lot about it between now and November, because it will undoubtedly be an issue in the campaign.

Housing legislation should also be cleared for Senate action soon, possibly this week, despite the charges of irregularities in the Federal Housing Administration.

The Committee on Banking and Currency is continuing to hold hearings on the housing bills in order to permit Senate passage, the necessary House-Senate conferences, and signing by the President.

Following action on the housing bills the committee will launch a full scale investigation into reports that some individuals took advantage of the law to make huge profits—allegedly running into millions of dollars.

Coming up for action also are appropriations bills providing funds for the operation of government agencies during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1954. Appropriation bills are time consuming and ordinarily are the last to receive Congressional action, but so far this session three bills already have become law. The House has finished action on ten, the Senate has six pending in committees, and one has been reported to the floor.

Other activities in Congress may be monopolizing the newspaper headlines, the radio and television broadcasts, and attracting spectators by the score, but such spectacular events move no legislation through the Congressional mill and in the meantime the unglamorous, laborious tasks which occupy the time of the great majority of members go on as usual.

Parochial Registration Set

Registration of children who intend to enter either St. Peter's Parochial School or the Kindergarten this coming September will be held during the week of May 9 to 15, in St. Peter's school building, it has been announced. The hours will be from 3 to 5 o'clock each afternoon.

About eighty were enrolled at the school during the present term, and around 10 in the Kindergarten.

Wed In Deep Creek Baptist Church

A beautiful candlelight wedding ceremony was solemnized in the Deep Creek Baptist church last Thursday evening, April 15, when Vincent Chester Parker claimed Miss Joyce Ann Brant as his bride. The church was tastefully decorated with rhododendron, hydrangea, Easter lilies, Easter cactus, roses and California palm. The groom's father, Dr. Paul S. Parker, pastor of the Deep Creek Church, officiated, using the double ring Episcopal service.

A fifteen-minute sacred musical prelude preceded the ceremony with Mrs. Rachel M. Parker, of Buffalo, N. Y., as pianist. Mrs.

Millard E. Wetzel, of Baptistown, N. J., a sister of the groom, sang "Wonderful One," "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly."

At 8 o'clock Rev. M. E. Wetzel of New Jersey opened the service with a prayer of invocation, after which the groom's party came slowly up the aisle, followed at intervals by the ring bearers, flower girl, bridesmaid and matron of honor. A white carpet was placed in the aisle as the bride, on the arm of her father, Mr. Gerald Brant, of McHenry, presented herself at the pulpit rail.

After the exchange of vows and rings, the contracting couple knelt on a prayer cushion as Charles D. Parker II, of Lewes, Delaware, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and Dr. Parker pronounced them man and wife with the blessing of the church. Following the recessional a reception was held in the Parsonage which was attended by more than 150 persons.

The bride, a student of Southern High School in Oakland, was attired in a white taffeta floor length gown with pointed sleeves to the finger tips, trimmed with handmade flowers; tiara, also trimmed with flowers, and veil reaching the waist, carrying a white New Testament with white orchid and ribbon streamers. The bridesmaid, Miss Pauletta Wetzel, of New Jersey, a niece of the groom, wore a green net over taffeta, floor length gown, with corsage of pink roses. The matron of honor, Mrs. Marjorie E. Parker, of Delaware, wore green net over brocade satin floor length gown, carrying a corsage of pink roses. The flower girl, Miss Darlene Parker, wore a yellow organdie flowered floor length gown and carried a basket of daffodils.

The ring bearers were Masters Paul and Dale Parker of New York. The best man was George G. Edgar, of McHenry, and the usher was Paul S. Parker, Jr., of Buffalo, N. Y.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Gerald Brant, of McHenry, wore a black silk rep suit with pink and white waist, black straw hat and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother, Mrs. Paul S. Parker, of Deep Creek, wore a black silk rep suit with yellow waist, black straw hat and a corsage of yellow roses. Messrs. Bobby and Fred Brant, brothers of the bride, placed and rewound the white carpet for the bride and groom.

The groom is a licensed Baptist minister and, since Rev. W. C. Rogers' recent illness, has been assisting his father in the care of the three Baptist Churches of Garrett County. He will return to college in the Fall, his college work having been interrupted during his tour of duty with the armed forces. The young Mrs. Parker will finish her high school course, graduating with the class of '54, and will enter college with her husband.

After a brief honeymoon spent in a cottage on Deep Creek Lake, the young couple will temporarily make their home with Dr. and Mrs. Parker.

Water Is Flooding Gas Wells In Mt. Lake-Gortner Areas

The natural gas wells in the Mt. Lake Park and Gortner areas are gradually decreasing in production because of water encroachment into the gas supply.

Albert B. Lauderbaugh, chief engineer for the C. and A. Gas company, recently released figures that showed production decreased from 3,421,000,000 cubic feet in 1951 to 2,224,749,000 cubic feet in 1952, and finally to 1,449,840,000 cubic feet in 1953. Only 833,000,000 cubic feet are expected from this area in 1954.

Lauderbaugh said the 25 wells in the Mt. Lake Park section were slowing down at about a rate of 8 to 10 percent each month. The gas in this field comes from the Oriskany sands and in the past three years water has been seeping into this origin of supply.

While he pictured the future in this field as bleak he pointed out there were two other sources of natural gas supply that are being worked.

There is a new 30,000-acre field in the Accident section where the C. and A. has under lease 1,700 acres and has a contract to purchase gas from the owner of the rest. There is one well (the McCullough well) producing there that has been supplying 1,800,000 cubic feet daily. Lauderbaugh stated his company expected to remove a total of 373,000,000 cubic feet of gas during 1954. Production is expected in increase to 423,000,000 cubic feet in 1955.

Because the C and A has no competition from independent drillers in this field it proposes to restrict its operation in such a manner as to keep it shut in the warm summer months. This practice would make it possible to obtain as much as 75,000,000 cubic feet of gas a month out of the field during a winter season month.

Another new field which did not get into production in 1953, is located in Randolph county, W. Va. During January it began to produce 2,400,000 cubic feet per day. Independent companies are exploiting this field.

Hummel-Glotfelty Wedding

Miss Betty Louise Glotfelty, of Reisterstown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orval C. Glotfelty, of Bittinger, became the bride of Ralph Hummel, Baltimore, son of Mr. D. J. Hummel and the late Sarah Turner Hummel, Frostburg, Saturday, April 17.

The double ring ceremony was solemnized at 2:30 p. m., in Emmanuel Lutheran church, Bittinger, with the bride's pastor, Rev. James M. Allan, officiating. Rhododendron, white lilies and candelabra were used to decorate the church.

Miss Alberta Glotfelty, Reisterstown, cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor and Mrs. J. Daniel Englar, Westminster, and Miss Dorothy Glotfelty, sisters of the bride, were the bridesmaids. Henry Hummel, Frostburg, served as his brother's best man, while Dale Glotfelty, brother of the bride, and Robert Glotfelty, Baltimore, were ushers.

A program of nuptial music played by Mrs. Joseph W. Myers, Westminster, preceded the ceremony. She also played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white taffeta and lace. The fitted bodice had long sleeves with deep lace cuffs ending in points on the hands, and a standing lace collar. The full skirt ended in a short train. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion was caught in a tiara of orange blossoms. She carried a white bride's Bible on which rested a white orchid.

Her attendants' gowns were of taffeta, fashioned with full skirts, fitted bodices with sweetheart necklines and cap sleeves. The maid of honor's gown was deep green and she wore a pink flowered hat and carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations and roses. Mrs. Englar and Miss Glotfelty wore lighter shades of green with yellow hats and carried bouquets of pink and yellow carnations.

Mrs. Glotfelty chose a blue print dress for her daughter's wedding. With it she wore pink and navy accessories and a pink rosebud corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Grantsville High school and Western Maryland college, and is employed as a case worker at the Montrose Training School for Girls, Reisterstown. She previously worked for the Garrett County Welfare Board in Oakland.

Mr. Hummel is a graduate of Grantsville High school and served in the Navy for three years. He is currently enrolled in the University of Maryland Medical School in Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Glotfelty entertained with a reception in their home following the ceremony. Approximately 100 guests were present. The bridal motif was carried out in a four-tiered wedding cake with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Kenneth Buckel, cousin of the bride, served the cake, while Mrs. Robert Glotfelty, the bride's sister-in-law, presided at the punch bowl.

For traveling the bride chose a navy shantung suit with a rose hat and navy shoes and bag, and a white orchid corsage.

Following a brief wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Hummel will reside in Pikesville.

Former Missionary To Speak in Area

Mrs. Julia Norton Clemes, former Methodist missionary to India, will speak at the spring meeting of the Moorefield District WSCS of the Methodist church to be held in Kingwood, W. Va., on Tuesday, May 4. Registration will begin at 9:30 a. m., and a number of women from Methodist churches of the county are expected to attend.

Mrs. Clemes will use as her theme "In His New Day," which will furnish a background for next year's study on India.

Mrs. Clemes was graduated from Northwestern University and took advanced study at Garrett Biblical Institute. She taught school for four years. She and her late husband went to India in 1915 under the division of Foreign Missions of the Methodist church. They did further work in the field in the Meerut Boys School with the Normal Training School, in district work, and terms at Lucknow College and at Isabelle Thoburn College. Mrs. A. T. Stewart, conference secretary of youth work, also will speak.

Rural Carriers To Meet

The first organizational meeting of the Allegany and Garrett County Rural Letter Carrier's association will be held at Anton's Big Savage Inn, west of Frostburg, on Saturday evening, May 1, at 7:30 p. m. With the organization of the two counties the entire state of Maryland will be organized into eight group associations.

Attending will be Paul G. Benson, president of the National association and John W. Emeigh, secretary, from the Washington headquarters. Clyde V. Hawes, Maryland state president, and Mrs. Vesta Moore, state president of the Ladies' auxiliary, also will attend.

The county carriers were formed into one group at the state convention last July in Frostburg. Officers were Gorden B. Griffin, Cumberland, president; Walter M. Twigg, Flintstone, vice-president; and Wilbur L. Ross, Frostburg, secretary-treasurer.

All RFD mailmen in Allegany and Garrett counties are invited along with wives and substitute carriers.

To Observe National Hospital Day on May 12th

In observance of National Hospital day on Wednesday, May 12, there will be an "open house" at the Garrett County Memorial hospital, it was announced.

The hours are from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and from 7 to 8:30 in the evening. There will be a tour of the hospital and refreshments will be served. The hospitality committee of the auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Hugh Echard, chairman, is in charge of arrangements. Interested persons are invited.

Candidates Announce

FOR STATE SENATE

To the Citizens of Garrett County:
I am a candidate for the office of State Senator from Garrett County.

I have been a resident of Garrett County for the past forty-three years. I was County Treasurer from 1947 through 1950 and have served in the House of Delegates during the years 1927 through 1930, in 1945 and 1946 and in 1951 up until the present time. In the Sessions of 1952, 1953 and 1954 I was elected Minority Leader by the Republican members of the House. As such, I was a member of the Rules Committee, the Ways and Means and of the Legislative Council. The information and knowledge I will gather at the Council meetings this year will be of great value to our County and State if I am elected to this office.

I feel that my background as a farmer, a veteran of World War I, a merchant, an employee of the Board of Education (all of which I have been in the past) together with my experience as County Treasurer and as a member in the House of Delegates for seven regular and three special sessions fit me for this office.

I make no idle campaign promises, but, if elected, I pledge to follow the same policies and serve my County and my State in the same manner as in the past. I will give careful and thoughtful consideration to any suggestions and will earnestly endeavor, at all times, to keep myself worthy of the confidence placed in me by the Citizens of Garrett County.

Arthur H. Green

Your vote is solicited.

No. 4454 Equity, In the Circuit Court For Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property situate in Election District No. 16 of Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Late Collector and Collector of Taxes for Garrett County and the State of Maryland to the plaintiffs in this proceeding:

Lot No. 130 and a triangular lot adjoining said Lot, West side of E. Street, in Mt. Lake Park, District 16, assessed to Nellie Agnew, et al, and being a part of the same which was conveyed to Nellie Agnew, Caroline Bardell, Holton Wolfe, Florence S. POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT

TO ALL CITIZENS OF GARRETT COUNTY:

I hereby announce my candidacy for the House of Delegates on the Republican Ticket.

I own my own home and live in District 7, Oakland. I have owned and operated my business at Red House, District 8, since 1939. My first job in Oakland was in 1911 when I was bookkeeper for the Gas Company. I am not a stranger to Garrett County.

I have never held Public Office and so have no Record of Failure to try to defend with excuses. I would hope, if nominated and later elected, to make a Record that would need no defending by weak excuses.

I believe Honest and Unselfish Legislation for the benefit of all should replace Class Legislation for the benefit of the favored few and that the Honest and Unselfish application of such Legislation will eliminate waste and inefficiency and prove beneficial to the Tax Payer. Since I am not a hand-picked Candidate obliged to take orders, but am free to act for the benefit of all citizens, I can and will sponsor Honest and Unselfish Legislation.

The Spending Spree we have been on for the past several years in Garrett County should well make all Tax Payers ask "What comes next?" The forgotten person appears to be the Tax Payer.

I WANT LOWER TAXES AND MORE JOBS. DON'T YOU?

I earnestly ask your Help, Influence and Vote to the end that something Constructive may be done for the benefit of All the people of Garrett County.

Respectfully,

RUSSELL L. SMITH

District No. 7, Oakland.

—Political Advertisement Authorized By The Candidate.

To The Republican Voters Of Garrett County:

I herewith place my candidacy before you for the office of State Senator. This is the fourth time I have been a candidate; twice I was successful, and once I lost. Unlike Delegate Green, I have never been hand-picked by the so-called political leaders at Oakland to run as their candidate, nor do I have any position with the school board, or any other public body in the county or state.

There are a few cardinal principles pertaining to public affairs in which I firmly believe. One of these most basic principles is that all public moneys should be strictly accounted for; and that all the people are justly concerned with the public business.

Most of you, no doubt, like myself, have been waiting in vain for information on the cost of our new school buildings. The annual statements that were published may have met the requirements of the law, but they have not shown us the cost of the new school plants. Nor have they told us what we need to know in order to get a mental picture of our county finances.

The building of the schools is no longer an issue, and I do not intend to interfere with the school building program, but we have a right to know what the schools cost. In order to obtain this information I have contacted the County Commissioners and have asked for a statement showing the amounts paid the architects, for other professional services and for other information to show the total cost of each separate plant. I have also asked for the amount of money borrowed and the total of our county debt. They have agreed to furnish this information as soon as it can be assembled. When this has been received we will be able to see just where we stand.

I am entering this contest as a free man. I do not owe allegiance to any political machine. No officeholders have any strings that they can pull against me. If elected, I can be a representative of all the people, including those who have been so long forgotten.

I will work for economy in our state and county governments, and when it is possible I will legislate against waste and extravagance. I will especially see to it that our people are not again threatened with hasty, ill considered and destructive legislation like the gas law, just repealed. New and greater efforts will be made by powerful corporations to obtain another gas law that would enable them to filch the gas from under our lands without paying for it. If I am in the Senate I will be on guard to protect your interests. If there is any future legislation on this subject it must be for the protection of our citizens.

Local Women To Observe Home Demonstration Week

Some 350 homemakers, who are members of the 16 Homemakers' Clubs in Garrett County are joining more than 18,000 women in Maryland in observing the 9th National Home Demonstration Week, May 2-8.

From a small beginning in 1913, the National Home Demonstration program of the Cooperative Extension Service has grown to the point where more than three million women in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico are participating.

This home economics education program is carried into urban and rural homes and communities by home demonstration agents and state specialists. Their services are made available through cooperative action of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the University of Maryland and the county. In the county, the program is developed jointly by a committee of homemakers and the home demonstration agent.

Garrett County is one of 23 counties and Baltimore City in the State employing a home demonstration agent. Helping the home demonstration agents to spread home economics information are 6,271 women who serve as local leaders. In Garrett county 144 volunteer unpaid leaders help to forward the Extension program, making a real contribution toward better living for families in the county.

The theme of National Home Demonstration week centers around "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World." "It is in the home that future generations gather their ideals and principles to build the world of the future," says Mrs. Florence Low, State Home Demonstration Agent Leader.

The state Extension Service provides specialists to work with 48 agents to guide in the training and teaching of these projects. Each county and Baltimore City is served by home demonstration and assistant agents who direct the program.

The N. H. D. week is to be celebrated by a program at the Accident school, May 5, at 7:30 p. m., EST. The Homemaker club presidents will give the History of their club and present their charter members. The history of Home Demonstration Extension in Garrett county, will be given.

Production Testing Increasing In State

Maryland dairymen apparently think production testing is a good pretty good thing—nearly 12 per cent of all the cows in the state are now on test, as compared to a national average of 5 per cent.

This rate of participation in production testing in the State can easily be explained, according to Dr. Glen H. Beck, head of the University of Maryland dairy department. "It means that farmers realize they can't make sound judgments on selection and breeding without records."

Dr. Beck reviewed the history of production testing recently at the first annual meeting of the Maryland Herd Improvement Corporation. About 60 Maryland dairymen attended the meeting at the University.

There were only 3,800 cows on test in Maryland 25 years ago, according to the dairy department head. Today, there are 35,127. In the same period average milk production for cows on test has increased from 7,200 to 9,200 pounds.

"Any prediction of the future must be based on past results," Dr. Beck told the group, "and on that basis the only prediction I can make is that production testing will continue to increase. And it appears one of the important factors in this increase will be the establishmen of state organizations such as yours to make DHIA testing more efficient."

Peculiar Arguments . . .

Advocates of a law to legalize the sale of whiskey in this county use peculiar arguments to try to justify their position. They proclaim whiskey is necessary to keep business alive on Deep Creek Lake. Don't let anyone make you believe that. Records in the County Commissioners' office will prove there is continuing building activity there and that property values are being improved constantly. There aren't many places of business like some along the lake that can operate for four months and where the proprietors can take it easy for the balance of the year. As a resident of the lake area said this week—"Just put wide open liquor there and see it go to the dogs."

These advocates point out the amount of tax revenue if liquor were legalized. Tax revenue from liquor in other areas has never done one solitary thing in reducing other taxes, lowering real estate tax, sales tax, property or income tax. But excessive use of liquor has added to the burden of countless families.

They point out how law abiding the holders of liquor licenses would be if it were legal to sell whiskey, but many of those who would likely be selling it, have been before the courts for failure to abide by present laws. What assurance that their standards would be improved?

No one can get around the fact that when all is said and done, there's still the moral question. Having it legalized in other areas doesn't make it morally right there and wouldn't make it right here.

It is a peculiar situation when we find some who would like to see whiskey sales legalized here won't admit it openly or publicly because of business reasons. There must be a moral reaction somewhere along the way.

Voters must wake up and bestir themselves. How many candidates for the legislature do you find are in favor of legalized whiskey sales? And would they like it over the bar, in state controlled stores, in hotels and restaurants? How many are definitely opposed? Better ask them this week. It may be later than you think.

McKeldin and Beall Will Attend Civil Defense Dedication

Ceremonies To Be Held At Kitzmiller on May 19th

Governor McKeldin and Senator Beall will attend the dedication of the new rescue training center at Kitzmiller on May 19th, it was announced this week.

Present plans call for a parade, chicken dinner, band concert, baseball game and dance, in addition to the dedication ceremony.

Local officials expect over a thousand persons to witness the affair and hope many will visit the Kitzmiller Botanical Garden during the day.

Visiting dignitaries will include the State Civil Defense directors of West Virginia and Maryland.

The 549th Explosive Ordinance Control Detachment and units of the local rescue service will present an exhibition.

The Botanical Garden here was opened in 1947 when it was started by the High School's Science class. The Lions Club now sponsors the park.

It is believed that the garden contains about 500 species of plants, many of which are rare or imported.

The building to be dedicated contains a council room, a garage for the Kitzmiller mine rescue truck, a dance hall and rescue room.

The following persons attended a meeting at Kitzmiller to make arrangements for the ceremonies: Rodney Selders, H. B. Buckley, Earl S. Shank, J. J. Walker, Dr. Ralph Calandrella, C. C. McIntyre, Frank Burgess, J. Paul Ewing, G. D. Dick, James Banning, G. R. Iman, Ross D. Sowers, C. B. Kimble, Melvin Arnold, Melvin Brown, John Elliot, and Peter Lawson-Johnston.

Bands To Be There

It was announced this week that senior bands of both Northern and Southern High school would be at Kitzmiller on May 19 to take part in the ceremonies.

Award Contract For Addition To Hospital

Commissioners Pass Resolution To That Effect This Week

The County Commissioners, by resolution this week agreed to construct the addition to the Garrett County Memorial hospital according to plans and specifications drawn by Johannes and Murray, architects. They also agreed to award the contract for construction to the George F. Hazelwood company, the low bidder on the project. Bids were opened last week and that of the Hazelwood company was $277,480.

The Board of Directors of the hospital on May 3 recommended unanimously that the addition be constructed and that the bid be accepted.

The new addition will provide 20 more beds, more space for the bookkeeping department and quarters for the county health department. The Commissioners said in their opinion the addition was necessary for the health and well-being of the citizens of the county.

The acceptance of the bid was subject to approval of the State Department of Health and the U. S. Public Health service.

The Federal government announced in March that it was prepared to contribute $110,000 toward the construction.

Application for assistance on the project was made some time ago and the legislature in 1953 made provision for the Commissioners to borrow up to $200,000 to complete the addition. Enlargement of the hospital has been made necessary because of crowded conditions in the hospital that was built in 1950.

Work on the addition was expected to get underway in the near future. Completion was set for 300 days after construction begins.

Forestry Boards To Meet This Week

Foresters will correlate programs in the district and review the sample woodland management practices which have been instituted at Swallow Falls State forest.

Chairman of the boards include Joseph Fahey, Grantsville, for Garrett county. Seventeen members of the four boards as well as forestry supervisors and workers are expected to attend.

William H. Johnson, district forester, stated that the machine planting of young trees in the district would be completed by the end of the week with only state forest lands in this county remaining to be planted.

The spring planting program involved approximately 1,500,000 trees being set in the four counties. Of these 715,000 were planted by machine.

Football Assured At Southern High; Fund Presented

Booster Club Provides $3,000 For Purchase Of Equipment

Members of the Oakland Booster club have complied with the provisions of the Board of Education under which football will be inaugurated at Southern High school this coming fall.

They formally presented Dr. James Collins, principal, with a check for $3,000 on Saturday morning, May 1, at 9 o'clock. The check was presented by Erval Ream, treasurer of the Booster club, and is to be used to purchase uniforms and equipment.

Dr. Collins announced this week that in carrying through the plan to start football this fall, that the field had been laid out and seeded in grass, that lines and markers had been staked and the school was making plans to set the goal posts.

An iron railing about 12 feet from the playing field was being placed around it to hold back the spectators, and that bids were being obtained this week for the equipment.

From two to four games are contemplated for the coming season and it was the hope of the school officials that a squad of forty boys would be equipped.

Dr. Collins said Southern High school would follow the policy recommended by the County Board of Education wherein football would receive no more emphasis nor require any more time from the school administration than physical education or basketball or soccer, and that emphasis would be upon sportsmanship rather than over-emphasis upon winning.

The coaches will receive no pay beyond a regular teacher's salary and no coaching during practice or game will be done by anyone other than by a member of the school faculty. The program is to be carried on without any curtailment of any other part of the physical education program.

The collection of $3,000 from local citizens climaxed an effort of a number of months by members of the Booster Club. Heading the job of collecting and providing the money were Erval Ream, Dr. H. R. Gibson, Howard Naylor, Dr. Harold Ashby, Emeric Dusic, Guy William Hinebaugh, Irvin Feld, William Rees, Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, Irvin R. Rudy, Jr., Robert W. Lohr, John Weber, James Bell, Jr., and others.

A lot of the money was provided last fall but too late for the program to get underway at that time. Then in March the Board of Education set out ten provisions under which it would be acceptable to have football at the local school, and a deadline was placed for turning over $3,000.

With several of the pledges not turned into cash at that time several of the Booster club members borrowed the balance of about $500 needed so that the full amount could be presented before the deadline.

Dr. Collins said he was not sure as yet what person would be named as football coach.

Miss Lillian Compton, head of Frostburg State Teachers college, will be the speaker and Mrs. William Maltbie, state AAUW president, will be in attendance.

"Night of Harmony" Is Set For Saturday

The Oakland chapter of the SPEBSQSA is having its first "Night of Harmony" on Saturday, May 8, at 8 o'clock p. m., DST, at the Southern High school gymnasium.

The program is designed to bring together some of the notable quartets of the area. All are members of the Barber Shop Society and specialize in close "barber shop" harmony. Admission will be $1.00 per person.

Two of the quartets have been in national competition and the "Pittsburghers" have gained international prominence by out-singing all other quartets in the United States and Canada when they won the quartet contest in Oklahoma City in 1948. Since that time they have traveled professionally throughout the United States and Canada. They recently returned from Miami, Florida.

The Charlestonaires have finished in the first five quartets on several occasions in competition in this district which includes Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Western Maryland. They also have traveled widely to fill many requests for their talents.

The "For-Mal-Tones" from Weston, W. Va., will be on hand as will be the "Fairmonters" from Fairmont, W. Va.; the "Fortissimos" from Clarksburg, W. Va.; and the "Mountain Aires," from Oakland. The latter recently placed first in a contest at Keyser, W. Va.

Since the organization sponsoring this night of Harmony is a non-profit organization, all proceeds will be utilized by them for charitable purposes.

The Master of ceremonies will be the president of the "Johnny Appleseed" district, of which Oakland is a member.

Immediately following the stage performance the Barber Shoppers have planned an "afterglow" at the Mt. Lake Hotel to which the public is invited. An informal song fest will be held along with refreshments.

S. route 40, grading, drainage and surfacing of approach roadways to that route and route 40, the grading, drainage and surfacing of temporary roadways for maintenance of traffic and construction of a multi-plate structure at the Little Savage river.

An "open house" will be held at the institution from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and from 7 to 8:30 in the evening.

There will be a tour of the hospital, and refreshments will be served. The committee is preparing for a large number of visitors. The public is invited to attend.

Packaging Discussed By Turkey Growers

The packaging of turkeys and the kind of tags to be used were under discussion at the last meeting of the Garrett County Turkey Growers which was held at the Bittinger school Monday evening. Kermit Glotfelty, president, was in charge.

Also discussed by the members were the kind of billheads, loading tickets using the trade mark, etc. Roy Glotfelty and Harland Beckman were named on a committee to work on these items for the next meeting. It was agreed that the group proceed to secure a copyright of the design to be used by the association.

Also at the next meeting there will be a panel discussion on debeaking and wing notching along with actual demonstrations, in charge of Robert O. Glotfelty, Carlton Knox and Russell Teets. It will be held Monday, June 7, at the Bittinger school at 8 p. m., EST.

Cub Pack To Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Oakland Cub pack will be held Friday evening, May 7, at the City Hall, at 7:30 DST.

This will be the last regular meeting until fall, it was announced. All parents and cubs are being urged to attend. The program will consist, in part, of movies.

Aircraft Warning Service Planned For Oakland Area

M. C. Cargo, resident engineer for the Pennsylvania Electric company, has been appointed supervisor for the Oakland Ground Observer corps, it was announced by John S. Elliott, director of civil defense for the entire county. Mr. Cargo is a deputy director in charge of utility services, having taken E. L. Bussey's place recently.

Elliott said that the new supervisor would need the help and assistance of all resident of Oakland, Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn to man this post.

It is planned to send instructors here from the army air force filter center, Pittsburgh, to train the group as soon as there are sufficient volunteers. Identification cards and silver wings will then be issued.

It was also announced that Oakland's new 7½ horsepower siren had been shipped from Hagerstown and should be in the city in the near future.

Given Sentence For Having Mash And Equipment

Robert Heavner, of the Cove section, was found guilty of a charge of having possession of equipment for the operation of a still and 35 gallons of mash, when given a hearing Tuesday before Trial Magistrate W. O. Bitzer. Bitzer sentenced him to serve thirty days in the county jail.

The warrant was sworn out by Sheriff Paul Fisher upon information furnished by members of the State Alcoholic Tax unit. The specific charge was that on April 30 Heavner had possession of material and equipment used or intended to be used in connection with the unlawful manufacture of alcoholic beverages.

Temperatures Drop To Below Freezing

Frost covered Garrett county two mornings in succession as temperatures dropped to below freezing. There was considerable damage to fruit blossoms and flowers but crops were not advanced enough to be hurt.

The overnight low on Wednesday morning was 25 degrees, according to R. E. Weber, veteran weather bureau man south of town. The night before the official reading had been 30 degrees. The cold spell was preceded by a rainstorm on Monday evening. Previous to that the weather had been hot over the week-end.

The cold weather was in evidence in southern states where frost was reported as far south as Texas.

Friday will be fair and warmer, it is indicated.

Board Seeks To Condemn Land For Lake Park

Proceedings Filed Tuesday In Circuit Court At Oakland

Condemnation proceedings were instituted in the Circuit Court in Garrett county Tuesday by the State Board of Forests and Parks, against Fulcher P. Smith and wife, of Oakland, in an effort to force the sale of a parcel of land for use as a public park on Deep Creek Lake.

The land in question is located in district No. 6, in the area around Meadow Mountain inlet near Glendale bridge, and near where the State already owns about 600 acres with only a small quantity of shoreline. The state is seeking about 70 acres with 3000 feet of lake frontage that would be suitable for a public park, boating, swimming, etc.

Filing the petition in the court were the members of the state board of forests and parks which includes Paul B. Naylor, of Oakland, acting on behalf of the State of Maryland. Attorneys are Edward D. Rollins, attorney general; A. T. Hartman, assistant attorney general, and William J. Gunter, special attorney.

They represent that under provisions of the public general laws of Maryland the petitioners are empowered to condemn lands in the name of the state for the purpose of advancing aims of forestry, parks and recreation and they declare it is necessary and proper to acquire for the purposes of the Deep Creek Lake state park a tract of land consisting of 70.82 acres, conveyed to the Smiths by deed in 1948.

The petitioners declare they have been unable to make an agreement with the Smiths to purchase the above property, notwithstanding that petitioners have "made a reasonable and bona fide effort to do so."

An order signed by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris asks that a summons be issued to the Smiths to answer the petition and show cause why the property should not be condemned as asked for in the petition. The summons is returnable on May 20.

According to Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the Department of State Forests and Parks, it was found that the area on the end of Meadow Mountain between Cherry Run and Meadow Mountain run would serve the public purposes best for a number of reasons by attracting business to private enterprises on the lake, by providing an easily accessible area which could be used by many and that it was near land already owned by the state which would be used to advantage.

Last year the Legislature provided $85,000 for a public park on the lake and this past year added $40,000 allocated as follows: $15,000 for road construction, $7,500 for sanitary facilities; $5,000 for parking space, $5,000 for self service bath house, and $7,500 for picnic facilities.

County To Open Roadway At Lake

The Board of County Commissioners, by resolution this week, agreed to open a roadway from the Paradise Point-Deep Creek county road to the Glendale county road, for public use of people in that area of Deep Creek Lake.

The decision was made when property owners along the way consented to convey to the Commissioners sufficient land in fee simple to construct a 30-foot roadway. Property owners involved were Mr. and Mrs. Fulcher P. Smith, Richard S. Browning and Margaret S. Browning, and John E. Legge. Deeds were accepted from the Brownings and Mr. Legge early in January, and from the Smiths as of April 21.

Two Bus Breakdowns

The Osgood line was apparently jinxed on Tuesday when two of their busses broke down, about the same hour, although miles apart. The eastbound bus from Morgantown to Oakland broke down on Caddell mountain shortly before noon. The eastbound from Oakland to Cumberland, also broke down about 10 miles from town shortly after noon. Passengers were taken to their destination hours later by transfer to automobiles.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Democratic May Party

Early in May the Democratic National Committee will meet here [in Washington] and another one of those enthusiastic so-much-a-plate party dinners will be held. It will be managed by Chairman Mitchell and the major speeches will be made by Mr. Adlai E. Stevenson and Mr. Harry S. Truman. It is also believed that Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt may be induced to say a few words.

—o—

The general idea is to tear the Republican party to pieces and shoot the Eisenhower Administration full of holes. Young Franklin Roosevelt, the most eager aspirant for governor New York has ever known, undoubtedly will be on hand. But Brother James is not expected to be there. The CIO boss, Mr. Walter Reuther, will play his usual prominent part and a good many of the intellectuals from the Americans for Democratic Action will lend weight and grace to the tables. There also will be numerous Democratic members of the House and Senate, among them many "up-jumpers" and "breast beaters" of the Monroney, Douglas and Humphrey type. It is also well understood that the aged but spritely ex-Vice President Alben Barkley, probably the most effective tub thumper of them all, and now, despite his 76 years, running like a race horse for the Senate in Kentucky, will figure well up on the program.

The project is a healthful one and may serve a useful purpose. For one thing, the opposition party should live up to its function of opposing. To gather for a couple of days of concentrated criticism of the Administration is what is expected and no one is justified in complaining. Of course, it will be a completely partisan affair and there is not likely to be much new about it. For, nearly all of the scheduled speakers have been firing at Ike and his program more or less regularly for much more than a year. Nevertheless, Mr. Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., and the other left-wing speech writers can be expected to present a product that will look new, even if it isn't.

From the Administration standpoint all of this may not be without profit. For one thing, criticism reveal some sins of omission or of the party in power easily could commission which should—and could—be corrected. For another it may be helpful in making clear the kind of campaign which the Democrats will make next fall. It will give the opposition headlines for a few days, but there will also be the opportunity to reply, and if the attack is exaggerated and absurd the reaction would favor the Administration—if it has sense enough to take advantage of it.

In this connection, the fact must also be considered that the scheduled Democratic orators are not exactly fresh. They have been vociferously assailing General Ike and all his acts with great vigor and force since the inauguration. There is little they can say that is new, and some of their better speakers have understandably gone more than a little stale. Certainly that is true of Mr. Truman and his "give-'em-hell-Harry" type of eloquence for quite a while. It is a little sad that to some extent it seems also to be true of the good Adlai, whose oratory has been so highly lauded by the left-wing columnists and commentators. Even his most ardent admirers do not regard his last two speeches—in Miami and Charlotte—as quite up to the mark.

Whether this is due to the fact that his candidacy for renomination in 1956 is now wholly transparent or because some of those gifted ghost writers of the 1952 campaign were not available, or because of his kidney trouble now happily over, or for some other reason, is impossible to tell. But the fact remains that neither of these speeches was what had been expected of him, and it was something of a strain on the Democratic publicity forces to whoop it up. In the first place, they distinctly were not on that "high plane" for which his admirers so regularly applauded him. On the contrary, his criticisms of the President and his Administration were down on the level of the routine Democratic politician. It made him sound like the ordinary, bleating, defeated candidate.

Also, there was a somewhat lower form of humor than Mr. Stevenson usually provides. He has, it is true, been urged by some of his friends to cut out his customary puns and witticisms altogether. They argue that these tend to rivet the "Little Joker" name upon him and that that is not politically good. The recent deterioration in his humor may be due to this friendly advice. Or it may be just because Mr. Stevenson does not find things quite as funny as they used to be. Anyhow, that sentence in one of his recent statements, "Come on eggheads—you have nothing to lose but your yolks," does not seem quite mature enough—or even mature enough—for a statesman running for the presidency.

Two Home Nursing Classes to Start

Two more home nursing classes will be started in the county, it was announced this week. One will be at Bittinger and one at Hoyes.

Mrs. Russell Klotz and Mrs. Ralph Buckel will instruct a class for the Bittinger area May 10 and May 13, at 7:30 EST, at the home of Mrs. Marvin Beitzel. Interested persons are urged to attend.

Mrs. Klotz plans to start a class at Hoyes in the Hoyes church, on Tuesday, May 11, 1:30 p. m. EST. Hoyes and McHenry homemakers club members are cooperating. Interested persons are urged to attend. Health chairmen for these groups are Mrs. Hubert Friend for Hoyes and Mrs. Gerald Glotfelty for McHenry.

These classes are an outgrowth of a cooperative project with the County Civil Defense, the County Red Cross chapter, and the Homemakers' clubs. Mrs. Paul Naylor is chairman of the County Red Cross Home Nursing classes. Two classes were held previously by the American Red Cross nursing representative in April.

County Boy Drowns In Posthole at Home

A 21-month-old boy drowned in a water-filled posthole on his parent's farm on Route 40 near Lighthouse Inn, in this county, yesterday morning.

The victim was Roger Lee Carey, son of James A. and Agnes (Wilhelm) Carey, Star Route, Frostburg.

The child was found by his mother at 10:30 a. m. in the hole that had been recently dug, but had not been filled.

According to Frostburg Miners Hospital attaches, the farmer was working in a field nearby sowing oats.

The child had been seen by its mother just a short time before and in looking for him discovered the boy lying face down in the water-filled hole.

The family took the little victim to Miners Hospital, where the body was examined by Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner for Allegany County.

The child was born August 25, 1952. The parents have one other son, Douglas, three years old.

The body is at the Durst Funeral Home, Frostburg.

Dr. Deming said the father had dug the post hole for a clothes line in the back yard of the home. The mother was washing clothes in the house while the child was out playing in the yard, he said.

She missed him for a few moments and then upon looking in the yard found him with his head partially submerged in the water.

Play School Being Held for Youngsters

In spring when every student is thinking of the finishing of a school year, Southern has twelve youngsters, ranging from two to five years of age who are just getting a taste of school life. But their type of school is so different. It is termed Play School. It is made up of seven girls, Chris Veader, Susie Veader, Marilyn Wilson, Shellie Wilson, Donia Wilson, Lois Prince, Valerie Smouse, and five boys, Tom Hoffman, Butchie Bell, Robbie Sharps, Curtis Soukup and Randy Rodeheaver who report to Room 118 three mornings a week at 9:00 and depart at 11:00. Play School will last for six weeks. It started on Tuesday, the 20th.

Students Follow Schedule

Each day when the girls in their crisp, cotton dresses and the boys in their neat shirts and pants report to Play School, there is a definite program with a central theme worked up for them. For instance the first day's theme was "Circus Day." Working with the chosen theme, Play School is started out in the mornings with about one half hour of free play where they may color, paint, cut out, work with clay, or do various other activities. There is a news circle where the children discuss their own happenings. They do group singing and about the middle of the morning, after washing their hands and saying grace, they have refreshments of juice or milk and small cookies. After refreshments there is a story-telling time—a story told by one of the girls. Games are played often to such records as Farmer In the Dell, I'm a Little Teapot, In And Out the Window, and Train to the Zoo.

Mrs. Randol Supervises

Play School was planned by Mrs. Randol and her home economics class of senior girls. The class is studying child development, including such phases as studies of growth patterns and social, physical and mental abilities at different age levels. The home economics girls stuffed toys, painted spools, collected and painted toys, and often bake cookies for the children. A few girls, rotating each week, take care of the children while the remainder of the class observe. At the end of the six weeks there will be a tea and evaluation with the mothers. The girls will discuss with the parents their observations and notes.—The Acorn, Southern High School's newspaper.

ENGLANDER'S PHARMACY Monthly News

A Message from Clinton W. Englander,
"Your Pharmacist"

PHARMACY IS A VERY EXACT PROFESSION. We Pharmacists must have very high standards. When compounding and dispensing medicines we strive for absolute perfection.

NO MARGIN OF ERROR CAN BE ALLOWED, because every time we compound a prescription your health and life are in our care. Every medicine must be perfect. Anything else is unthinkable.

EVERY PRESCRIPTION IS CHECKED, and double checked for accuracy. All ingredients are naturally of the best obtainable, because we price prescriptions by adding to the cost of ingredients the charge for time required to compound, plus the necessary moderate profit needed to operate a Pharmacy.

IT IS A TRIBUTE TO PHARMACY that despite the fact that all operating expenses have advanced, including all salaries, the average nation-wide price of prescriptions is about $2.35 each. This incidentally is just about our average also.

WE WILL ALWAYS DO OUR PART to keep that average price as low as good Pharmaceutical practices will permit. And in strict observance of the Ethics of Pharmacy we will continue to strive for absolute perfection in the compounding of your prescriptions.

Says Recreationists Are Being Restricted

Editor, The Republican:

Visit the Pleasant Valley Recreation area near Bittinger.

After having transformed it into a park, with a sizable dam of fresh mountain water and built a number of cabins and utility buildings on a portion of the land, they turned the entire property over to the University of Maryland, to be held and operated as a recreation area. For a number of years, many groups of Four-H, Boy Scouts from this and adjoining counties, spent weeks encamped in the restricted area of the park.

Many church groups of various denominations also camped there during the summer season and it became a very popular resort for campers.

A number of family groups held their annual reunions on the grounds and on every Sunday during the summer many families and parties of friends motored to that spot and enjoyed hours of relaxation in the shade, breathing the fresh mountain air.

In recent months there have been reports of displeasure and dissatisfaction with the treatment the public has been receiving when they visit the resort. It is said that upon one occasion, those in charge ordered a family group which had gathered there for a reunion to leave the grounds as another party of folk desired the use of the grounds, although there was ample room for both groups to have spent the day there. The family group got their things together and went to a nearby privately owned grove for their reunion and since that occurrence many families have preferred to use the private grove for their reunions. It is also said that the group which took over the grounds at that time spent the day in gambling and in indulging in the use of such beverages as is usually the accompaniment of such activities.

The loudest criticism and expressions of displeasure seem to come from the local baseball team members, who assert that they, with the permission of the authorities, constructed a ball field on the ground, leveled and put in shape a diamond, with their own labor and at their own expense. For some years they were allowed to enter the grounds at their pleasure and they went there regularly for evening and Sunday practice and at intervals entertained visiting ball teams on the diamond.

These ball players and those who enjoy watching them play, say that the gate to the grounds is being kept locked and they are obliged to park their cars along the public highway and walk and carry their equipment to and from the ball field, which is not pleasant.

It is suggested that if some one who is interested wishes to prove or disprove these charges will visit the area and talk with the residents nearby they might be able to suggest some reform in management which would restore and likely increase the popularity of this resort and that would ultimately fulfill the real purpose of maintaining a public recreation center.

Recreation Enthusiast.

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

A subcommittee of the House Committee on Government Operations has been making a study of "The Government in Business." The study has not been completed but the subcommittee has made its first report. The report reflects the bigness of the federal government, and the vast expansion in recent years of its businss and industrial operations.

The federal government owns and operates more than 100 business-type activities, most of them in competition with private enterprise; and it has inventories estimated at from $75-billion to $100-billion, which is comparable to those of all private enterprises combined.

Much of the government's sprawling manufacturing and processing activities ought to be closed. Most of them are adding unnecessarily to the tax burden of all citizens, since they do not pay federal taxes and in many cases the products manufactured cost the government (the taxpayers) more than it could buy them for from private manufacturers.

"The military services," reports the subcommittee, "insists that it is economical to roast and grind their coffee. (They require) some 88 million to 105 million pounds annually, which is about five per cent of the United States total consumption. They insist that quality control can only be obtained by production in their own factories. On the other hand, the Veterans' Administration, which procures some five million pounds of coffee annually, alleges that the coffee it buys on a competitive contract basis, f.o.b. the hospitals, is a better blend at a lower price than that obtainable from the military factories."

No doubt the government got into many business activities out of what was considered at the time "absolute necessity." And perhaps there are some few activities, particularly among the armed services, which necessity still dictates should be done by the services. However, since operating a business is alien to the fundamental concept of our government even these few should be rigidly examined and not permitted to give birth to others. Thomas Jefferson said: "Agriculture, manufacturing, commerce, and navigation, the four pillars of our prosperity, are then most thriving when left most free to individual enterprise."

In private enterprise there is the strong incentive of profit and the constant spur of competition. The prosperity and even the freedom of all Americans depend on our keeping the profit incentive and competition as our basic productive force.

"Our Growing Edge"

MRS. MARTHA GLOTFELTY

Wanted: Leaders

Some years ago, I was a counselor and teacher in one of our church's summer camps, for our boys and girls. These summer camps are training schools for future Christian leaders in all walks of life.

The particular group which I taught had a course of study called WANTED: LEADERS. It was a thrilling study of the life of St. Paul as a great leader, and made known to the boys and girls the qualities of character that make a great leader, even in our day and age. We have always had leaders, some wise, some foolish, some of them betrayers of public trust.

What do you think makes a good leader? Here are some of the qualities I think he should possess.

I. A leader must have vision. A man who wants to be a leader should be able to see the work that needs to be done. He is a dreamer. He has ideals. He arouses the interest of others in worthy goals. He must know where he is going. How can he lead others if he does not know the way himself?

He is not satisfied with the status quo if things can be better. He visions a world with less poverty, a world of peace and good-will. He is indignant over racial, economic or social injustice.

II. He should be competent. To be a leader he should prepare himself to the work in which he plans to lead. Full use of talents and abilities are marks of a good leader. One professor of psychology says most of us use about 30 percent of our potential ability.

III. A leader must have character. Character is even more important than competence, for competence can be acquired. Character is built upon convictions. The leader who has the right ones, attempts to persuade his followers to have the right ones, also.

Convictions imply certain standards up to which leaders urge their followers to come. Such leaders create public opinion, rather than reflect it. It is often said that members of Congress are sensitive to public opinion, and are moved to vote as the pressure back home. This may show lack of genuine leadership, for the public can be wrong. Militant minorities may be selfish and partisan. True leadership shows a conviction for what is right, regardless of the consequences. In my opinion, the late Senator Taft was just such a leader in the political field.

4. A leader must have courage. Convictions are easy when all goes well. When they are challenged by opposing forces, it takes courage to hold on to them. False leaders compromise or tone them down rather than take the consequences.

5. A good leader delegates responsibility. He is not a one-man show. He does not do all the work himself, but inspires others with his enthusiasm.

6. A good leader is a Christian leader. All through the pages of history, we see this. They have been the ones with the most vision, the most constructive programs, the greatest concern for the welfare of their fellowmen. From St. Paul to President Eisenhower, it has been so.

The other evening I saw the President on television. As he spoke of the great dangers facing our nation today, I was impressed most of all by his quiet and deep confidence, as he spoke of his trust in God, and his deep Christian faith. With a faith like that, we cannot go far wrong, in our desire to preserve our own freedom and help others to win back that which they have lost.

Here in Garrett County, we have some would-be leaders, who are running for public office. Using this measuring stick, how do they measure up?

All over the land in business, politics, in the professions, in the church, goes out the cry, Wanted: Leaders!

Praise To Garrett

Garrett County

Garrett county, in the Allegheny mountains, west of Cumberland, is noted for its hospitality. That its reputation along that line is well merited was illustrated last week when a survey by local Civilian Defense officials showed that virtually every household in Oakland, the county seat, would accept refugees from areas bombed in wartime.

Those refugees might be from Baltimore, or from Pittsburgh, or from any other bombed out area. The people of Oakland will accept them into their homes, no matter from where they come.

Dispatches from Oakland state that upwards of 1,000 victims of bombing attacks could be sheltered in the homes of Oakland.

The humane attitude of the people of Oakland is greatly to their credit. Their willingness to accept bombed-out persons is in strong contrast to that of another community (not in Maryland) which indicated recently that it wanted no part of homeless, frightened, penniless "displaced persons" fleeing from big city bombing.

In Oakland the survey disclosed that most households have extra beds to care for refugees.

Oakland's Civilian Defense chief, Rev. John J. Atwell, should be proud of his people. For Maryland is proud of Oakland.

Heads of unions of mine, steel and trucking industries formed an alliance to push for federal spending to combat unemployment and seek other legislation they favor.

The Pentagon may soon ask Congress for new draft-reserve program involving radical changes.

SANG RUN

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Rodeheaver, who recently sold their farm, have moved into the house belonging to Jack Hinebaugh at Sang Run.

Mr. and Mrs. Worley Reckart, Cuzzart, W. Va., and Mr. and Mrs. John Rodeheaver and daughter of Uniontown, visited Mr. and Mrs. William Savage on Sunday.

Mrs. Charlie Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carr, Jr., attended the funeral service for Rev. R. W. Glass near Hyndman, Pa., Monday. Rev. Glass was a former evangelist of the Pentecostal church here.

Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Weaver, of Spencer, W. Va., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Junior Carr and other friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker DeWitt were Monday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Frazee and family.

Need Good Stand For High Yield

"Think of sweet corn yields in terms of ears per acre," says Andy Duncan, University of Maryland Extension specialist in vegetable crops. "That way you quickly get to one of the basic principles of sweet corn production—getting a good stand."

Duncan points to the state average yield of 2 tons per acre and says, "We should do better than that. I think growers should try for three tons per acre. But if we don't get the stand we don't get the tonnage."

There are about 4,000 ears of corn to a ton, or 12,000 ears in 3 tons. That means it takes 12,000 ears per acre to make a 3-ton crop.

How does a farmer grow 12,000 ears per acre?

"The very first thing to consider," says the vegetable specialist," is variety. We want lots of big, high quality ears and there are several excellent sweet corn varieties well adapted to Maryland which will yield those ears. These varieties are listed in University of Maryland Fact Sheet No. 1, which is available at county agents' offices."

Some stalks won't bear an ear, so it is recommended that growers shoot for 15,000 stalks per acre to give a margin of safety. To get that many plants, the seed has to be dropped 9 inches apart in rows 36 inches apart.

The best a farmer can do to assure that the corn will come up after it has been planted is to buy certified seed with at least 90 per cent germination, and treat it before planting. A new combination seed treatment containing fungicide and insecticide is available for home treatment, or treated seed can be purchased.

"Of course these things aren't all that are needed to produce a top yield," Duncan adds. "For instance, we have to have plenty of rainfall and fertilizer. But the practices I have mentioned are often overlooked and if more farmers follow them we can raise our average production considerably."

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors for their kindness and helpfulness during the illness and following the death of our wife and mother, the late Mrs. Willis Glotfelty.

We also want to thank all who gave flowers and contributed the use of their automobiles for the funeral service.

Half of Maryland In Commercial Forest

The first intensive survey ever made of Maryland forests shows that nearly half of Maryland's land area is covered with commercial forests which contain about 6½ billion board feet of sawtimber.

Foresters making the survey found that oak species account for 2.3 billion board feet of Maryland's timber. Other hardwoods account for 2.7 billion board feet. Loblolly pine accounts for 1.1 billion board feet, and other softwoods for the remaining ½ billion board feet.

The survey also shows that only 16 percent of the commercial forest land has stands of sawtimber, averaging more than 5,000 board feet per acre. Lighter stands of sawtimber, 1,500 to 5,000 board feet per acre, occupy 31 percent of the forest land. The remaining 53 percent of the forest land has little or no sawtimber on it.

Harry W. Dengler, University of Maryland Extension forester, says the survey was made by the Northeastern Forest Experiment Station of the Forest Service in the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Collaborating with the Forest Service in the survey were the Maryland Departments of State Forests and Parks, Research and Education and Game and Inland Fisheries.

The survey is part of a nation-wide study being made to find out the conditions of the nation's forests.

Aerial photographs were used in the survey. A large number of sample plots were marked off on the aerial photographs. Trained interpreters then examined these plots on the photographs and classified the timber on them.

Later field crews went into the forest and examined on the ground a certain percentage of the plots. The results obtained with the method are more accurate than by any other, foresters have found, short of a complete count of all trees.

With the completion of the survey, the Northeastern Forest Experiment Station in Upper Darby, Pa., published a pamphlet on forest statistics for the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Reports on the western and central sections were published previously. A copy of the latest booklet may be obtained by writing to the Northeastern Forest Experiment Station, 102 Motors Ave., Upper Darby, Pa.

Tableland Farming

A column devoted to agriculture in Garrett County
By John H. Carter
County Agent
William W. Nace
Soil Conservationist

The Garrett County Conservation District is ten years old this month. Actually, the District was organized in the fall of 1943, but work on farms, under the District program, began in April, 1944. Before that, demonstration jobs in soil conservation had been started on the farms of Willis Silber, Emerson Bishoff, Foster Yost and Dorsey Guard.

One of the things that happened in connection with the demonstration on Foster Yost's farm makes a good story, and should be a good lesson to any so-called professional worker in agriculture. There had been a couple of real gully-washing rains, and Foster had lost some soil from his hillside cropland. He knew he had to do something about it, but didn't know exactly what, so he asked John Carter to look it over with him. John thought he knew the answer, but wasn't sure how it would work out on Foster's hillside. (Contour farming was really a radical idea then, and a fellow who plowed crooked strips was in danger of being laughed at by half his neighbors and ostracized by the other half.) So they decided to get a little more information.

Arrangements were made for John Hull, who was then soil conservationist at Middletown, to show them the conservation work on several farms in the Catoctin District. Together with Emerson Bishoff, Arnold Georg, the late Emory Georg they made the trip to Middletown, and picked up Hull, who took them around to see the work on two or three farms. After taking their leave of Mr. Hull, and thanking him for his assistance, Foster said "Now, let's go back to one or two of those farms and talk to the farmers. I'd like to see what they really do think about that kind of farming."

They did go back, and what they heard must have sounded pretty good, for it wasn't long after that that John Carter asked me if I would come up from Cumberland and help Foster plan some soil conservation jobs on his long hillside. And it wasn't long, either, until that hillside was pretty well nailed down, as far as soil washing was concerned. Foster built two diversion terraces to catch runoff from the upper part of the hill, established pasture on part of the upper slope, and changed all the cropland from straight strips that were pretty wide, to contour strips that average about 100 feet in width.

At the time this happened, Emerson Bishoff already had contour strips started on most of his cropland, and soon after Arnold Georg had contours to the top of his 3,000-feet-above-sea-level hill.

The moral of this story, if any, is that the way to learn about a job is from the fellow who is doing the job. The ideas that were brought back from that trip to the Catoctin Valley were put into practice on Garrett County farms. And I feel sure that the neighbors of the men who made the trip have profited also, for quite a few of them, after watching the results on those demonstration farms, have established the same soil-saving practices.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Two Presidents

BY GEORGE PECK

Two Presidents have recently announced their convictions that as America was founded on man's belief in God, to keep strong this nation must remain steadfast in the Faith of our Forefathers.

The first, Dwight D. Eisenhower, President of the U. S. A. in an address to the nation over radio and television on April 5th, said:

"I don't think it's amiss in this season of the year that has so many religious over-tones, to recall attention to this fact, that in conception our nation has spiritual foundation, so announced by the men who wrote the Declaration of Independence. Do you remember what they said? 'We hold that all men are endowed by their Creator with certain rights.' That is a spiritual conception. It's the explanation of our form of government that our Founding Fathers decided upon. And now, today, that spiritual strength is just as great in its requirements as it has ever been in our whole history. By this I mean it is very important that you and I value the spiritual things that they had in mind when they founded this country."

On March 27th, just a few days prior to the Chief Executive's address, Clifford F. Hood, President of the United States Steel Corp., addressed the Lenten Communion Service of the Episcopal Diocese of Pittsburgh. He warned that the television set must share with the Bible its prominent position in the American home or individual liberty will be lost to America in the current cold war crisis.

"Wherever freedom has retreated before the onslaught of Communism or its equivalents," said Mr. Hood, "the actual practicing of Christianity likewase has lost ground."

He pointed out that Eastern Europe is a Godless realm, that Western Europe teeters and totters on the edge of a precipice from which there may be no return; that in China the suppression of religion is just about complete; and that in North Korea most of the churches have been destroyed.

Mr. Hood declared that only through sound religious training does the individual gain the moral equivalents of a steering wheel, brakes and speedometer with which to enter adult life; that we must return to the Biblical principle of "Seek and ye shall find," forsaking the modern motto of "Sit still and I'll bring it to you."

The nation's 280,000 churches comprise the finest equipment for producing religious inspiration, according to Mr. Hood. "But what religion needs today," he said, "is more effective merchandising and this will call for a greatly expanded sales force."

These added salesmen must be recruited from the laymen of our churches, to spread the Gospel, said Mr. Hood, just as God called upon Isaiah in Biblical times. "You can't leave the job to the Clergy alone," he added.

Calling his speech "Our Period of Decision," Mr. Hood said it is now up to the American people to decide if we shall return to the Faith of our Fathers. To show how far we have strayed, he asked, "What has become of thrift, for instance?" We emphasize its virtues to our young people and our fellow citizens, and then permit our Federal Government to plunge the nation into debt that presently averages some $160 for every man, woman and child."

In concluding, Mr. Hood asked, "Is it too late to bring the old-time Bible stand down from the attic or up from the cellar? Is it too late to give it the choice spot it once enjoyed in almost every home—a spot today no less prominent than the T.V. set? If it is, gentlemen, then it is very late indeed."

So it would seem the President of the world's greatest nation and the President of the world's greatest steel manufacturing company are in complete agreement that Faith in God is the armor that will protect us from Communism and all other destructive Isms.

Over Ninety At Rally

Over ninety young people attended a district Luther League rally at Aurora, W. Va., Sunday afternoon.

Lutheran church groups were represented from Cove, Accident, Bittinger, Oakland, Red House, Keyser, Westernport, Aurora, Elkins and Davis. Glenn Shackleford, student at D. and E. College, Elkins, led the devotions. Workshops on topics, missions, recreation and devotions were led by Rev. William Renn, Red House; Mr. Shackleford; Mrs. George Hanst, Oakland; and Rev. Robert Cassell, of Westernport.

Members of the Aurora Lutheran church prepared and served supper. Gene Ridder, Red House, president of the Mt. Top District League, conducted a brief business session.

"Streamlining" Of State Constitution Is Being Sought

A novel idea for clearing the deadwood out of Maryland's old constitution was put up to the Legislative Council last week.

Dr. Carl Everstine, director of the Bureau of Legislative Reference, suggested what he called an "omnibus amendment."

As far as he knows, this is a completely new thought on the problem to eliminate obsolete, ambiguous, and even contradictory provisions.

Up to now it has always been assumed the only practical way to do it was to have a constitutional convention and do a complete re-write job. But Maryland has never gotten around to having a constitutional convention since the present constitution was adopted in 1867.

The only alternative seemed to be amendment by the voters piecemeal, a procedure which would require balloting on literally hundreds of separate questions.

Everstine told the Legislative Council:

"It seems to me that as many of the obsolete provisions as was deemed desirable could be included in one 'omnibus amendment.'

"It would mean that the change could be accomplished with a minimum of confusion to the voters, since only one question would then be on the ballot for this particular set of changes. The result, it seems to me, would be most helpful in bringing the language of the constitution into conformity with actual conditions today."

Everstine pointed out since 1922 there have been contradictory provisions in the constitution on the length of terms which members of the Legislature, clerks of the courts, registers of wills, states attorneys and others are to serve. There is no question that the later provisions govern, but the old language still is in the constitution.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

A Case of Absent Mindedness

Now, I don't feel so bad when I go to another part of the house to get something and forget what I've gone for. There are lots keener people than I who have a little trouble keeping their minds where they belong.

—o—

There's the young professional man, right here in town, who pulled into his drive following church and still hadn't remembered that he had left something behind. He turned a bit pink when his neighbor drove up with his very small son.

Feeling so relieved that he could walk in the front door with his offspring he forget to turn the motor off in his car and it used a half tank of gas before he discovered it.

—o—

Then there's one of our sharpest business men in town, and I mean sharp. He waited and waited outstide the church one Sunday for his mother-in-law. It was only when his wife said, (who had come earlier for Sunday School) "What has happened to mother, she's usually the first one out," that his memory snapped back.

"I forgot to bring her!"

—o—

The Professor Still Takes the Cake

But the best I've heard in a long time still goes to the college professor. This one belongs to West Virginia.

The educator drove to New England to attend a meeting. Forgetting he had a car he came home on the train.

He returned by train to get his car but the poor soul bought a round trip ticket!

—o—

Things Are Not What They Seem

Of all the disillusioning things I've heard of in some time concerns the blue bird. It is claimed by the authorities that the blue bird is not a blue bird. Under the microscope there is nary a pigment of blue.

A bit of the bite is taken out of that knowledge if our imaginations will permit us to think that maybe the bird of happiness is reflecting the blue of heaven.

—o—

The poor Baltimore Oriole that arrived three days early and sang her (or his) prettiest from the blossomed apple tree, has gone into hiding. Or it could be since winter came again this week that she returned south.

—o—

Aunt Sally Says

"The older timers say," says Aunt Sally, in her ninetieth year, "That there's always a cold spell when the services are in bloom. Their quality is improved if snow falls on the blossoms."

We are due to have a bountiful season of service berries.

—o—

Grandma, Behave!

Couldn't help but chuckle as I listened in on a leaders' meeting in a state farm women's camp last week. It seems that they have some behavior problems—even greater than are found in 4-H camps.

These women, the officers of their clubs, were assembled for a week of planning for a state-wide program. As responsible as they appeared to be there was still the problem of discipline and how to handle it.

Some of the women were carousing most of the night, short-sheeting beds, playing tricks with night crawlers they had sneaked out to find. Sleep for the serious or fatigued was impossible.

How could order be restored to a working camp?

Finally the dear little minister, 75, whom I mentioned once before in this column, spoke with wisdom and tact.

"It seems that it is the grandmothers and great grandmothers who are causing the trouble. They're just trying to prove that they are still one of the girls.

"Now, if I may, I'll speak to them and tell them there are a lot of young mothers here who work hard at home and need their rest."

Bet that would take them back!

Is Your Name RILEY?

DO YOU KNOW THAT:

RILEY, as a surname, is principally of English and Irish origins. In its former aspect, it was the name bestowed in mediaeval times upon those who migrated from a town in Brittany, France that was called Rilley or Relay. In connection with its Irish antecedents, it is stated that RILEY stems from the Gaelic "railleac" meaning "rakish" or "sportive"; and it therefore was applied to those in whom such a characteristic was rather predominant. The RILEY family of Ireland was closely related to the O'Rourkes; they were especially active in church affairs; and their coat-of-arms bore the motto "By Fortitude And Prudence."

ROGER RILEY (1737-1822) and JOHN RILEY (1737-1803) both of whom were born in Wethersfield, Conn., served as captains in the Connecticut troops during the Revolutionary War.

RILEY COUNTY, Kansas, is named for Major General BENNET RILEY (1787-1853), U. S. Army.

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY (1853-1916) was a noted American poet. Much of his verse is in the middle-western dialect and he has long been known as "The Hoosier Poet."

MELVILLE FULLER RILEY (1872-1938) served as president of The Potomac Edison Company, Frederick, Maryland, for ten years.

FRANKLIN LAFAYETTE RILEY (1868-1929), an educator of note, was professor of history at Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va., for the fifteen-year period preceding his death.

EDWARD RILEY entered the employ of General Motors Corporation in 1922, advanced steadily through the ranks of the organization and is now one of its vice-presidents, with headquarters in New York City.

JAMES BREINIG RILEY is judge, West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals.

President Eisenhower called for a nation-wide observance of Mother's Day on Sunday, May 9.

Family Group To Gather

The twenty-first Mother's Day anniversary meeting to honor their mother will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emeric G. Dusic this Sunday, May 9, by the four sons of the late Mrs. Agnes Dusic, of Cleveland, Ohio.

After the death of Mrs. Dusic on November 19, 1932 the five surviving sons decided to meet with their families on Mother's Day each year at the home of the eldest down to the youngest son in rotation. Five meetings were held when the youngest son, Nick, was drowned at Deep Creek Lake in 1938. Since then the four remaining sons have kept up the custom and are meeting this Sunday for the twenty-first time, as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Emeric Dusic on High street.

Reunions have been held in Lorain, Ohio; Clarksburg, W. Va.; Cleveland, Ohio; Erie, Pa.; Cumberland, Md., and Romney, W. Va.

Attending this gathering will be Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Dusic and children, of Romney, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Dusic and son and Louis S. Dusic and daughter, of Cumberland.

A BOOST FOR WELFARE—A boost was given to the Garrett County Child Welfare fund this week by the Garrett County School Bus Operators' Association. A check for $100 was presented on Monday by Charles V. Harvey, president of the bus operators, to Rev. John J. Atwell, chairman of the Legion Welfare Committee. This fund was started officially on April 25 by the State Department of the American Legion when it presented a check for $1,000 to the local group. This fund is to be used for all children of the county in need, regardless of whether or not they are children of veterans. Plans are being made to set up a Garrett County League for Crippled Children and Rev. Atwell said that if this is done the county will be able to receive 80 percent of the Easter Seal sale in the county each year and also a percentage of the poppy sales of the American Legion. Rev. Atwell, shown at the right as he received the check for $100 from Mr. Harvey (left) said he was hopeful that this gesture would give other organizations and individuals an incentive to do likewise. Gifts may be made out to the Child Welfare Committee of the American Legion of Garrett County. The action of the bus operators came at a recent meeting of the county group. (Staff Photo)

Challenge to Evil

Lesson for May 9, 1954

IF YOU have never read the story of Elijah and the prophets of Baal, you have missed one of the most dramatic stories of the world's literature. And yet however you take it, you may be left with the feeling that this tale does not belong in the twentieth century. Nobody believes in Baal any more, and miracles like fire from heaven that will in one instant burn up animals, wood, stones and deep trenches full of water—such miracles just don't happen any more. But this is more than a wonder-tale out of the far past. Like all of the Bible, it has something to say to us today as to men of all times and places.

Dr. Foreman

* * *

When Evils Are Idols

Every age has its Baals. Idols are not always made of stone or wood. They may not be in any physical shape at all, an idol may be an idea, a "spirit of the times." It can be a desire or a dream. All idols are bad because they are always in place of the true God; but the worst idols are evils which are so popular that they are taken for granted. The Baal against whom Elijah fought his brave battle single-handed was the god of the royal family; and it was so nearly the god of all the nation that Elijah had the impression that he and he alone could see the hollowness of this cruel god. The truth was that the worship of Baal was not a theological heresy; Baal was not simply a wrong name for God. Baalism involved crimes in Baal's name; no true worshipper of Baal could be pure or kind of heart. Baalism was worse than a national religion; it was a national cancer and the end of it would be national death. Elijah knew it; but nobody else knew it; and so when he attacked Baal the authorities marked him down as a bad character. So, far from thanking him for challenging a great evil, he was run out of the country like an ordinary criminal.

* * *

Why Reformers Are Hated

You can divide all citizens into two kinds. One (whether realizing it or not) takes for its motto "Whatever is, is right." The other kind sees that some things that are, ought not to be. And a few of this other kind begin to agitate and talk about changes that must be made. They are sometimes called reformers; but they are usually called worse names. One hundred years ago and more, there was a book written by a man named Helper, which pointed out in detail the bad economic effects of slavery in the states that practised and legalized it. The book was not answered; it was banned. In at least one state it was a legal offense to own a copy of it. Helper himself was attacked in newspapers and in pulpits. For he had dared to challenge the Baal of slavery. In those days, in the north as well as in the south, to be an "abolitionist" was to be low-rated as a crack-pot or a liar, or worse. Nowadays, two of our Baals are war and the liquor traffic. What happens to persons who say a word against that great temple of the Pentagon? What happens to people who come out with the truth about the effects of liquor and propose even to limit liquor advertising? They too are called crackpots, liars and worse.

* * *

The Tide of Tomorrow

Elijah was mightily discouraged at one time. It looked to him as if the whole country was against him. God had to explain to him that there were seven thousand good people still in his country, even if he was the only man who had the courage to speak out. It is always that way. For one person was has the nerve to challenge evil in a loud clear voice, there are thousands who believe as he does, only with their mouths shut. But the important thing was not that Elijah had some sympathizers. The important fact was that he was on the side of God. Little David never looks as if he had a chance against Goliath; but the real reason why David is stronger is that God is for him and against Goliath. Those who are against God, no matter how popular they may be, are pushing against the tides of the universe; the Elijahs, ridiculed and outlawed though they be, when they challenge the destroyers of man, in the name of God, know that God at last always wins.

Maybe most of those cuts and scratches would heal without any medicine. But who can tell when a simple scratch is going to develop into a serious infection?

Mother is alert to every possibility of danger for her children. Guarding them against infection is part of her daily responsibilty.

Incidentally, that accounts for Mother's constant concern for her children's religious training. She knows that there are "infections" which destroy our moral and spiritual well-being.

Every Sunday, with her husband and her children, you'll find Mother in Church. For the Church is one of the few things that Mother considers even more essential to the well-being of her family than that bottle of antiseptic in the medicine closet.

HOLY BIBLE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

In anticipation of the forthcoming Congressional deliberations, I have been devoting much attention and study to some of the more complex aspects of the subject of international trade and the corollary problems of reciprocal trade agreements and tariffs. Perhaps you might be interested in several observations which have crystallized from these studies.

The United States, from the standpoint of vast natural resources, technological achievements—all of which are essential to our economy and defense.

A few economic criteria, of governing impact, are worth mentioning here. . . .with only 5 percent of the world's population, the United States produces more than 40 percent of the world's total output of goods and services. . . for example, we produce more than 50 percent of the world's supply of crude petroleum, automobiles and steel . . . the extent of our imports is closely related to the level of our national income . . . U. S. imports represent a principal source to foreign countries of earning dollars with which to finance purchases of much-needed goods and services from the United States. Limited space does not permit a more complete listing, but I believe these few will give you some indication of the true nature of the problem.

So, it is readily apparent that any international trade or tariff policy cannot be simple and forthright. Fundamentally, the issue surrounds the question of "what is best in the national interest," as expressed by President Eisenhower, or "should this country embark upon a program of unrestricted foreign imports or free trade," as recommended by the Commission on Foreign Economic Policy, popularly known as the Randall Commission. The answer to these questions and the resulting actions by the Congress, will have great bearing on the livelihood of the businessman, the farmer and the worker, affecting practically every community. The relationship between national defense and foreign trade cannot be denied. But, the problem is further complicated by the havoc which foreign competition has already created in certain of our industries.

While I have not as yet reached a specific decision on all the many facets of a very perplexing and far-reaching situation, it would seem to me that the first controlling consideration should be a foreign trade and tariff policy primarily based on the promotion of the economic welfare of the American people. It must be evident to all that this important issue requires further intense scrutiny and I feel quite certain that it will be viewed and resolved in the best national interest.

Telephone officials here to assist in the observance were H. McGowan, general traffic supervisor; Charles Emory, commercial department, Baltimore; George Warner, district traffic supervisor, Baltimore; Tom Dwyer, Hagerstown; Walter Haschert, Cumberland area manager, and William Keller, of Cumberland, former local manager.

R. K. Dayton, local manager, said that each half hour during open house some person was designated to make a long distance telephone call, free of charge. The longest call was to Los Angeles, Calif., and the shortest to Baltimore.

ONE WORD . . .

Can Change Your Life

By REV. ROBT. OLEWILER
Pastor, Grace Reformed Church
Washington, D. C.

Ceremony

Ceremony's a good thing, providing your heart's in it. If it isn't, then bowing and scraping are little more than cozy calisthenics.

No, I'm not anti-ceremonial. I'm not crying against creeds, nor libeling liturgy, nor declaring that rites are wrong. I'm simply pointing out that it's possible to kneel without praying, bow without adoring, genuflect without honoring and sing without praising.

I agree with that man who said: "Pilate's wash basin was a dead failure because his heart wasn't in his hands. Ceremony is only the sheath of the sword, the shell to the kernel, the lamp to the flame, the body to the spirit."

Whatever our outward maneuvers may be, they are but symbols of inward movements. Behind the symbols must be genuine thought, pure feeling and conscientiousness. When your heart's in it, you're not standing too much on ceremony, the word that can change your life.

An appeal to reason

A few thoughts on the battle of the adjectives in current gasoline advertising

The public must be bewildered these days. We're astounded ourselves. Claims and counter claims about gasolines have been flying around for months. New claims are out, others may be on the way.

No doubt you have noted the keen competition in the statement of claims . . . power increased a given per cent, engine life increased a greater per cent and valve performance increased even more. There are claims to correct spark plug troubles of which Amoco users are not even aware.

Way back in 1910, the American Oil Company published a creed: "Our policy is to offer honest values, honestly described; to market distinctive and better products; to work constantly towards their improvement; to sell them at fair prices; to render efficient service." We haven't changed a word of this today.

The American Oil Company's premium gas is Amoco-Gas. A few weeks ago we published an advertisement headed: "Excuse us! Count us out of the additive race, because Amoco-Gas needs no additive." We have elected instead to bear any cost necessary to give the motorist the finest product that science can produce.

We have no desire to get into the battle of the adjectives. We believe the performance of our products exceeds our claims. We ask you to make your own tests and come to your own conclusions.

Bloomington Mine Recently Inspected

Failure to rock-dust surfaces that were not definitely wet, remove dangerous coal-dust accumulations, and 27 other violations of the Federal Mine Safety Code are cited in a coal mine inspection report released today by the U. S. Bureau of Mines for the No. 3 mine, P. and G. Coal Company, near Bloomington.

The Federal inspector recommended preshift and weekly examinations for explosive gas and other hazards, improved ventilation in the face regions, adequate fire-fighting facilities, and the use of goggles or shields while doing eye-hazardous work.

Ward also urged strict compliance with the adopted minimum standards for roof support, stemming boreholes with incombustible material, and the use of permissible electric cap lamps and discontinuance of smoking underground.

Along The Potomac

With Your Congressman
DeWITT S. HYDE

Washington, May 5—Railroad unemployment, the Cumberland-Hancock highway, and an attack in Congress on the director of the federal Bureau of Prisons are three problems with which I have been concerned in the past week.

Railroad layoffs which have resulted from modernization of equipment and the use of fewer men in train maintenance crews can be partially helped by lowering the eligible age for retirement benefits from 65 to 60. There are bills pending in Congress to achieve this, and while my position on them is nothing new, I want to restate my support of this legislation.

I am not a member of an appropriate Congressional committee to speed up action on this matter, but when it comes to the floor I will be among its supporters.

Senator Beall and I, after a conference several days ago in Cumberland have written to Russell McCain, chairman of the Maryland State Roads Commission, that we think it would be a good idea for the commission to move immediately to plan highway construction between Cumberland and Hancock on Route 40.

This is supposed to be a defense highway, yet the present road would be terribly inadequate if it had to handle any heavy evacuation traffic in an emergency. Now that Congress has completed action on the new federal highway assistance act, we feel that Maryland should be planning to make immediate use of part of its share of the federal funds for this project.

Last week I was distressed when one of the members of the House made a personal attack on James V. Bennett of Maryland, who is director of the federal Bureau of Prisons in the Department of Justice. The criticism did not square up with the facts.

It was charged that Bennett coddled a prisoner, who is a former top Communist leader, by transferring him from the relatively tough Atlanta penitentiary to the prison at Danbury, Conn. Conditions at Danbury were alleged to be much more pleasant.

However, I was able to inform the House that the transfer was made at the request of the chairman of the Subversive Activities Control Board, who wanted the prisoner moved nearer his attorneys to prepare him for testimony in an investigation of the Communist Party which the board was conducting.

Furthermore, the prisoner was kept in solitary confinement at Danbury and allowed visits only by his mother and his attorneys.

I feel that members of the House should test their criticisms of individuals with appropriate committees of Congress or executive agencies before making them public.

—o—

This Saturday I will review the AAA Safety Parade in Washington. . . Hagerstown High School students will visit the Capitol on Tuesday. . . Wednesday night I will address the men's club at the Grace Episcopal Church in Silver Spring.

Six Are Candidates For State's Governor

There will be six candidates for governor on the Republican and Democratic primary election ballots in Maryland. Four of these are Republican candidates and two are Democratic candidates.

There was a third Democratic candidate, but he was drowned at Daytona Beach, Fla., on April 30.

Altogether there will be six candidates on the state and national ticket on the Republican ticket, and ten candidates on the state and national Democratic slate.

Listed by the Secretary of State in his official notification to the Garrett County Board of Election supervisors are the following:

Republican

For Governor, Temus R. Bright, Baltimore City; Pedro A del Valle, Elkridge, Howard County; James Wolcott Gum, Dickerson, Montgomery county; and Theodore R. McKeldin, Annapolis.

For Attorney General, Edward Dorsey Ellis Rollins, Elkton, Cecil county.

Democratic

Comptroller of Treasury, Harry Kemper, Baltimore; J. Millard Tawes, Crisfield, Somerset county.

Attorney General, Philip H. Dorsey, Jr., Leonardtown, St. Mary's county; T. Barton Harrington, Baltimore city; C. Ferdinand Sybert, Elkridge, Howard county.

For Congress, Byrne Austin, Takoma Park, Montgomery county; Charles M. Irelan, Silver Spring, Montgomery county; Edward J. Ryan, Frostburg, Allegany county.

Also listed as Democratic candidate for governor was John B. Kennedy, of Baltimore. Lifeguards said Kennedy was swimming in an unprotected area when he was pulled out to sea by the surf.

Kennedy, a frequent candidate for office, filed for governor a few hours before the deadline April 19. He unsuccessfully sought Democratic nomination to Congress in 1950.

Bittinger Getting New Phone Service

The Bittinger area is due to get telephone service second to none, beginning about August 1, it was announced this week.

A new and modern dial system is being constructed there, to provide complete local and long distance service. The company now has crews of workmen in the area setting poles, stringing wire and planning to install telephones. The commercial department, upon checking the area, found 85 residents where telephones are wanted and will be installed.

Party lines, private lines and business phones are being made available to the entire rural area around Bittinger. A new building to house modern dial equipment has been constructed.

This building will be unattended except for an occasional visit by testmen or repairmen, since the equipment is completely automatic.

For over fifty years the Bittinger area has been served by a privately owned telephone company, serving about 50 area subscribers. Then a sleet and wind storm struck in January of 1953 and after it was over the service of the Bittinger Mutual Telephone company was non-existent. Poles were down, wires were down and the service was paralyzed.

Owners of the company headed by Nelson Orendorf, president; W. E. Buckel, vice-president; I. O. Yaste and Marvin Beitzel made a survey and realized that the task of rebuilding the system would be too great. They appealed to the C. and P. Telephone company for assistance. The company accepted the task and allocated an expenditure of $102,000.

The threat of sleet, high winds and snow in the area has posed a problem for the telephone engineers. Poles, bearing the heavy telephone cables are being placed as close as 35 feet instead of the customary 100 to 125 feet.

The area has had minimum telephone service for about 32 subscribers since the sleet storm.

In working out the new set up residents helped obtain right-of-way for the new lines and in many places helped to clear the right-of-way.

A telegram yesterday morning from John R. Reeves, secretary of state, ordered the local board to delete Kennedy's name from the certified list of candidates.

MUSKRAT

RANGE: Muskrat found in shallower parts of all waterways and marshes of Maryland. Greatest population in Dorchester County.

BREEDING: Male probably mates with more than one female; 3-13 blind and naked young born about 29 days after breeding; February 15 earliest record of mating. First litter appears March-April; last of 3 which is usually largest litter, appears in late summer. Young animals (known as kits) born early in year breed following fall.

HABITS: In marsh areas of counties bordering Chesapeake Bay builds house of marsh plants over water run or gut; under water entrance, cone-shaped, 6-9 feet in diameter at bottom, rising 2-3 feet above water-line, contains 1-4 rooms or compartments, occupied by one or more families. Along small streams in Western Maryland burrows in banks and makes home. Does not hibernate, most active at night, stores up roots and other material for winter, all food washed and rewashed. Partly webbed hind feet aid in swimming as does long, scaly, nearly naked tail flattened on sides serves as rudder; swims under water even ice.

MANAGEMENT: Food largely plant materials as roots of aquatics, pond lilies, sedges, bullrush, cattails, three square grass, splatter dock and vegetables of all varieties; also shellfish such as freshwater mussels, fish, frogs and other small aquatic animals. Stabilizing and controlling water levels on marshes and control burning of marsh vegetation for production of preferred food is most important management practice, which also benefits waterfowl.

VALUE: Not classed as game animal but most valuable of all wild fur bearers. Maryland produces more than any State except Louisiana, however, Maryland pelt is far superior. Meat sold as marsh rabbit.

Cows Need Grain for Efficient Production

With falling milk prices, dairy farmers have a tendency to reduce the amount of grain fed to the milking herds.

"Overproduction is the main reason for falling prices, and reduced grain feeding may be one method of putting less milk on the market," admits John Dietrich, University of Maryland Extension dairyman. "But it means that cows capable of high production cannot produce at their maximum efficiency."

Dietrich compares a cow's efficiency with that of an automobile. "We get very poor efficiency from an automobile if only four of the six cylinders produce the power. The same thinking may be applied to a cow capable of high production when she gets less grain than she needs. In both cases, the output costs more per unit when the 'machine' is operating at below maximum efficiency."

The dairy specialist points out that cows capable of producing large quantities of milk cannot eat enough forage to maintain their bodies and produce at their maximum ability.

"Even when excellent pasture is available, high producing cows need some grain," he says. "When grain is left out of the ration for a cow of this type her production is reduced to about two-thirds of that which she is capable. A good dairy cow that is well fed needs about one-half of her feed merely to maintain her body."

Dietrich explains how it is possible to give good cows all the grain they need without reducing profits: "This is the time to get rid of the inefficient 'one- and two-cylinder' cows. They bring little or no profit—or may even produce at a loss—and these cows are contributing to the oversupply of milk. Give the better producing cows a little extra feed to keep them producing at their maximum efficiency."

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Rodamer and son, Harrisonburg, Va., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Rodamer.

Robert Diehl, student in a business college, Pittsburgh, Pa., spent the Easter holidays with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Diehl.

Fay L. Miller, who has been employed at the Motor Service Co., recently accepted a position with the State Roads Commission as an inspector and is located at Frederick.

Mrs. Nelle Zeller and sister, Mrs. James Lemmert, Frostburg, were guests of friends here and called on Mrs. Eva B. Beachy, who bought and lives in their home place. Mrs. Zeller and Mrs. Lemmert are the daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. Noah Broadwater.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hahn and family, of Westminster, were recent guests of Mrs. Hahn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Speicher.

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Bittinger, Baltimore, were guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Bittinger.

Donald E. Swauger, who recently returned from Korea, has enrolled in the Pittsburgh Barber School. Mrs. Swauger is owner of the Beauty Lounge in Grantsville.

Miss Elizabeth Ann Warnick, a student at Mellligan college, spent the Easter holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Emmons Warnick.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stanton and daughter, Joyce, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Markel Stanton, Cumberland, were recent guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Stanton.

in "Go" Ford's new 130-h.p. Y-block V-8 is the most modern in the automobile industry . . . the only V-8 in the low-price field! And Ford's 115-h.p. I-block Six is the industry's newest Six. Both of these engines give you the smoothest, savingest performance you've ever experienced.

in looks You'll see more Fords parked in front of the finest homes and country clubs than any other car in its field. One reason is that many people who have owned the costliest cars realize that Ford offers the same beauty, quality and distinction—and for a far more practical price.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Everybody Agrees—But

One wonders how much it takes to stir the American people into action in their own interest. For years now they have been groaning under the burden of almost confiscatory taxes; heavily oppressed by a dangerous inflation, due to the vast deficits which the due to vast deficits which the Government has been running for two decades; increasingly threatened with a Federal financial bankruptcy that concededly would be devastating—and with the cost of living greviously high.

—o—

Of course, a considerable portion of our vast heterogeneous population is incapable of logical thought on these subjects and hence impossible to arouse. But this does not excuse the apathy and inertia of millions of intelligent citizens who really understand our situation. They have been told the facts thousands of times. The dangers have been pointed out so often that it has become monotonous. But no one disputes the facts; no one denies the danger. They all agree that immense waste exists, that the present state of our fiscal affairs is incredibly bad, that our enemies rejoice at our failure to act with decision and sense.

Yet we just sit and watch things get worse. Thousands upon thousands of stirring editorials are printed. Hardly a day goes by that some speech is not made. Warnings come from almost every side. The problem is above politics—or should be—and the solution is too clear to be debated. Somehow or other we have got to get back to living within our means or we are going to go bust. There is no other end to continued borrowing. If war comes there is no real strength in a nation whose economy is weak and unstable. Everybody agrees about that. All these things have been stressed until the phrase "a balanced budget" seems hackneyed and meaningless. It just bores people.

—o—

Within the past few months, as previously pointed out in this space, two outstanding figures in our public life—one a Republican, Mr. Herbert Hoover; the other a Democrat, Senator Harry Byrd, of Virginia—have again laid the facts "on the line." Working separately, each has come to the conclusion that sufficient economies can be made in governmental nondefense expenditures to save annually between $5,000,000,000 and $7,000,000,000 without crippling a single vital governmental function. Again, working separately, each of these men is ready to blueprint how this can be done. Neither is vague; both are specific.

—o—

Now they have been joined by another notable man in the field of economics and taxation—Mr. Roswell Magill, of New York. During the early Roosevelt days, Mr. Magill was an Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and then Under Secretary. He is a recognized authority, as are Mr. Hoover and Senator Byrd. In dealing with the Federal finances, Mr. Magill is just as nonpolitical as Mr. Hoover and Senator Byrd. Mr. Magill is head of an unofficial group which calls itself the Committee on Federal Tax Policy and is composed of experienced experts in this field. Going somewhat beyond Mr. Hoover and Senator Byrd, Mr. Magill's committee asserts that $8,000,000,000 above what is now proposed could be knocked off of the Federal spending without national damage. In fact, the committee contends that the national economic health and defense strength would be greatly increased.

Mr. Magill is even more specific than the Messrs. Hoover and Byrd. He not only puts his finger on the departments where waste is clear, great and undisputed but urges that the Government get out of many activities in which it should have no part. Among these are "the lending of money, the building of houses, insuring of lives, crops and cargoes, roasting of coffee, making of ice cream, clothing, rope, rum and paint, marketing electricity, managing hotels, running of railroads and indulgence in many other businesses." Thus the Magill plan goes further than Mr. Hoover and Mr. Byrd in that it calls not only for economy but for the Government simply to stop doing a lot of things it now does and should not.

Everybody wants taxes reduced. Here are three of the ablest men in the country whose disinterested patriotism and general capacity are admitted and who separately point the way. Why, then can't we have the action that would relieve us all? The reason—clearly stated by Mr. Hoover—is the existence of more than 200 powerful pressure or lobbying groups, who resist all large reductions because, inevitably, any large-scale cuts would affect the relatively small special interests they are employed to protect. The one way to defeat these blocking groups is for the tax-burdened people to elect to Congress only men who will vote for economy despite them. And after election keep them reminded by letters and telegrams of the way they feel.

Way back when . . .

Remember how far ten miles in the country used to seem? And twenty miles, why, that was quite a journey! Now, of course, it takes only a few minutes by automobile and only seconds by telephone. Yes, the telephone leaps the miles to save you time and trouble—helps you avoid unnecessary trips into town—gets you the information you need—keeps you in touch with friends and relatives. When you stop to add up all it does for you you'll probably say, like so many others, "My telephone is worth more to me than it costs."

Gets things done

Remember the story of Tom Sawyer, and how he got his pals to give him a hand whitewashing the fence? Thanks to the co-operation, he got the job done in no time flat, and was off to the old swimming hole. Co-operation works wonders on the telephone party line, too. When party line users co-operate by sharing the line considerately, the value of the service goes up for all concerned. And when one party line neighbor starts it, all seem to take the hint and return courtesy for courtesy. That's when the service does the most for everyone!

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

Our national security remains the first and primary consideration of the Congress and the Eisenhower Administration.

There are threats of wars and rumors of war, and one can almost hear at times the ghostly, anguished cry of Patrick Henry's "peace, peace, but there is no peace."

The Senate has now received a bill appropriating $28,684,251,484 for the operation of the air, ground and sea forces for the next fiscal year beginning July 1.

Secretary Dulles is in Geneva attending the Asian conference endeavoring to maintain at least a semblance of Western unity against the determined onslaught of Communists aggression by diplomacy.

President Eisenhower has pointed out repeatedly the importance of Indo-China to the free world, and this beleagured country is now referred to as the cork in the bottle—which, if removed, would permit the forces of Communism to pour throughout the rest of Asia.

The President recently explained that the United States at this time is steering a course between two extremes—the one unattainable and the other unacceptable.

As the President put it, to arrive at a completely satisfactory answer to problems with the Communists would be unattainable; and it would not be acceptable to this country to see the whole anti-Communist defense of Southeast Asia collapse.

The line between war and peace is at this time a fine and devious one, and the President and the Secretary of State must make use of all their skills and abilities in order to lead this nation through the dangers and risks of war.

The President has given renewed assurances that the United States will not go into any war except through constitutional processes, involving a declaration of war by Congress.

If it becomes necessary to defend the free world by force, then we must be prepared and that accounts for the huge peace-time defense budget which the Senate has received. However, the defense appropriation now in Congress is $5,632,614,500 less than last year's, and $1,206,348,500 below the original budget estimates.

Our military strength is very great, and growing; and as Representative Dewey Short, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, stated, "If a possible enemy attacked us today, God pity them."

In concluding, I believe the American people will attach particular significance to President Eisenhower's statement that this country will not become involved in any war except through the Constitutional process of a declaration by Congress—which means that both the House and Senate would formally act on a declaration of war.

Candidates Announce

FOR STATE SENATOR

To the Citizens of Garrett County:
I am a candidate for the office of State Senator from Garrett County.
I have been a resident of Garrett County for the past forty-three years. I was County Treasurer from 1947 through 1950 and have served in the House of Delegates during the years 1927 through 1930, in 1945 and 1946 and in 1951 up until the present time. In the Sessions of 1952, 1953 and 1954 I was elected Minority Leader by the Republican members of the House. As such, I was a member of the Rules Committee, the Ways and Means and of the Legislative Council. The information and knowledge I will gather at the Council meetings this year will be of great value to our County and State if I am elected to this office.
I feel that my background as a farmer, a veteran of World War I, a merchant, an employee of the Board of Education (all of which I have been in the past) together with my experience as County Treasurer and as a member in the House of Delegates for seven regular and three special sessions fit me for this office.
I make no idle campaign promises, but, if elected, I pledge to follow the same polcies and serve my County and my State in the same manner as in the past. I will give careful and thoughtful consideration to any suggestions and will earnestly endeavor, at all times, to keep myself worthy of the confidence placed in me by the Citizens of Garrett County.

To The Citizens Of Garrett County:

In order that we may all be informed concerning the cost of the new school buildings, I herewith publish the information I have been able to gather on the subject to date. I have obtained the figures from the books in the County Commissioners' office, and from the office of the Board of Education. I cannot afford to buy space to furnish each individual item but I have added the many items together to arrive at total costs, and believe that the totals are correct. However, the possibility does exist that I have missed something. In that event the costs would be higher than are here reported.

Southern High Has Landscaping Project

The outdoor educational committee working with the Oakland Rotary club has begun the landscaping of Southern High School grounds. Mr. Carl M. Johnson, of the University of Maryland, gave suggestions which the committee is going to follow. No estimate of the time to complete the landscaping can be made because of the long range program.

The county maintenance men, working under O. T. Graser, have leveled and seeded the front lawn adjacent to the building. The large trees will be planted around the edge of the lawn next spring by the Rotary club, so that the center of the school can be seen. Three black-topped tennis courts are planned for the front side of the gym.

Botanical Garden

A Botanical Garden, with a small fish pond, will be constructed in the back of the school adjacent to the Stockman property. This garden will be used for educational purposes and will contain most of the trees native to Garrett County. In later years a large pond will be built in the lower back corner of the school grounds. Along the sides of the industrial arts building will be planted grass, and an attempt will be made to seed the hill at the far left of the shop.

Members of the outdoor educational committee are: Dr. Collins, Mr. Everly, Mr. Reckner, Mr. Pope and Mrs. Shumate, acting chairman, Ralph Weber, Harvey Winters, Melvin Kight, John Carter, Paul Naylor and R. Bowen Hardesty are members of the Rotary club on the tree planting committee..

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON

President of Harding College

A businessman friend recently said to me: "I belong to several civic and fraternal organizations, but I feel that I'm not doing all I could for the betterment of my community. What is the most important public service task I could undertake, on my own, in my town?"

That's a wonderful attitude, and the question thus posed is challenging. What IS the most important public service task that a citizen leader could undertake? It would depend somewhat on the circumstances in the community. But here are some thought-starters:

1. Mobilize the intelligent citizen leadership of the community to solve the local public school finance problem. It can be done. And yet this problem of school finance is chronic in 99 per cent of the school districts of America today.

2. Get the citizen leadership working with the teachers toward the development of a course in American citizenship education in the high school of your community. Very few schools are adequately teaching the youngsters about how America was founded, how the U. S. A. was created, how our private enterprise system evolved, and what makes it tick.

3. One dedicated man can move a community to raise its health standards, its medical and hospital facilities to an adequate level. There are a number of examples of this fact, yet the records show that comparatively few towns and cities in America have adequate health facilities.

4. Juvenile delinquency is a problem found to some degree in most American communities. Yet, how many communities have any organization that does more than give lip service to the problem locally?

5. Lift the per capita income of your community. How? Any community in America has the factors necessary, or can develop the factors, for establishment of a new industry. Industry creates new wealth. And new wealth in a community lifts the per capita income.

Our nation today needs individual local efforts more than it needs anything else on earth. The trend throughout the world is toward huge centralized government—government that does all things for all people. The trend is robbing us of self-reliance at the grass roots, and thus is poisoning the wellspring of freedom. Local self-government and local self-responsibility are the essence of the free way of life.

THE REPUBLICAN

A Big Business . . . . .

Just suppose the adult population of this county was called upon to select a person to head a million dollar corporation. How would that selection be made? Knowing a lot of citizens, we feel certain that a large number would take many things into consideration. A man's character, his ability in a business way, how he conducts his present business, if he has any, his reputation as a man of integrity and honor, to merely mention a few.

Where is this corporation, you might ask? Why, it's your own Garrett county. Every year the County Commissioners have under their direction the expenditure of a million dollars. They, of course, do not have the money right in their desk drawer, but they are authorized to issue county orders which are payable by the treasurer. Much of the expenditure is set by law, but the responsibility in handling the accounts is placed in the hands of three men, who are elected by the voters.

This business of running Garrett county is a serious one and voters must consider thoughtfully and prayerfully the qualifications of all candidates who are seeking this office.

In times past, this corporation was not nearly so big, but in recent years it has grown tremendously. In fact it has reached a stage where consideration should be given to the idea of a county manager system, where a highly trained and capable individual would be selected to make the county's business a full time job, and one in which the salary would attract the best.

This idea casts no reflections on present office holders. They will readily admit that the county's business is a big business and that it takes more of a man's time than he is properly paid for.

But while the system remains as it is, voters will do well to realize the size of the job and elect those who will measure up to their responsibility in a sincere manner.

More than $375,000 will be expended in improvements in Oakland this spring and summer, according to present plans of individuals and the County Commissioners. Permits granted at a meeting of the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland on Monday evening show the following construction plans:

Irvin Feld, trading as the Half Price Stores, to construct a one-story brick building, 70 by 106 feet, at the corner of Second and Green streets, to replace the present two structures there, at an estimated cost of $40,000.

Oakland Pharmacy, now in process of remodeling, estimated cost $10,000.

The C. and A. Gas company also received permission to construct a new gas line on Center and Pennington streets, over a mile in length, to improve the gas service to consumers in west Oakland and to improve the gas regulation in other parts of the town.

The company asked permission to dig ditches of 2,731 feet along South side of Pennington street, thence to Center, 216 feet along Center, thence to Liberty and 206 feet on Liberty. The company plans to lay 2,404 feet of four-inch line and 2,082 feet of six-inch line. The cost of this improvement was not estimated.

A building by Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Rudy, Jr., already is under construction on 9th street, to add to the total expenditures for improvements in Oakland this year.

Friendsville Rotary Has Anniversary of Town's Charter

The fiftieth anniversary of the date when Friendsville received its charter was observed Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Friendsville Rotary club. The charter was received May 10, 1904.

R. Earl Guard was the principal speaker and he gave some historical facts about the town in his address. He told of the first major improvement being electric lights which were placed there in 1905 and 1906 when L. E. Friend was mayor. W. W. Savage was the town's first mayor. The first concrete streets were constructed in 1925 from money raised by a bond issue, which has long since been paid back, he pointed out.

City Tax Rate To Remain at 90 Cents

The tax rate for the city of Oakland will remain at 90 cents on each $100 of personal property, it was decided at a meeting of the Mayor and Town Council on Monday evening. Sixty-five cents is to be used for general expenses and 25 cents to pay bonds and interest on bonded indebtedness.

The assessable basis of the town is $3,030,436 which does not include returns from the State Tax commission, estimated at $700,000. During the past year the town lost $139,368 in personal property assessments due to a new method of state tax assessment, but gained $61,774 in real estate assessment. This made the net loss $77,594. A gain in real estate assessments is also expected for this year.

Collections for April at the city hall amounted to $8,152.54, with $3,904.78 from water, $348.48 from taxes and $3,899.28 from miscellaneous. Among the miscellaneous accounts received were $1,874.21 from gasoline tax, $1,035.89 from motor vehicle tax and $750. from parking meters. Expenditures were $6,589.21, leaving a balance on hand of $1,251.01.

Set Clean Up Week

The Mayor and Council of Oakland set the week of May 24 to 29 as clean up week for the town. This usually gives citizens time to tidy up their properties, vacant lots, cemetery, etc., in time for Memorial Day.

The council approved an additional $25 per month for J. Edward Tasker for garbage removal in the town. This makes a total of $325.00 for this work. Mr. Tasker told the council he made the rounds of some 560 properties each week in the collection of garbage.

The town voted to contribute $50 toward the formation of the Little Baseball League, and $100 to Southern High school for the football fund.

An additional street light was ordered placed at the corner of 9th and High street extended.

The council favored twenty-four-hour police protection during June, July, August and September, which will mean securing an additional man to augment the police force which now consists of Henry Arnold, chief, and Leslie Baker. The police department is being supported solely from funds from the parking meters.

Porter DeWitt was named yesterday as the third officer for the summer.

An ordinance is being prepared to give the mayor and council power to add 10 percent to water bills if not paid by the 10th of month following billing. This will give the customer forty days to pay before interest is added. The change would be effective in the June water billings.

Sunday movie tax at the Maryland theatre for April amounted to $83.45. A test of the city water made monthly by the state health department, showed it to be O.K.

Barber Shoppers Please Audience

Several hundred citizens were entertained Saturday evening at the Southern High school by a parade of quartets featuring a foursome of Pittsburgh, who were National champions of the Society for Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

The occasion marked the initial appearance of the local society and much enthusiasm was expressed by the audience when they opened the program with a number of selections.

Members of the quartet of the local chapter, composed of Wayne Hamilton, Harold Holsopple, Harold Benson and Jay Bell, were presented for the second number on the program and were well received by the audience. Following the appearance of the local groups, organizations from Weston, Fairmont, Clarksburg, Charleston and Pittsburgh, took over and in many instances took down the house.

The Pittsburgh champions have become professional entertainers during the past year and are in demand on a national scale. It is said they had cancelled an engagement in Buffalo, N. Y., and had also received an invitation from Miami, Fla., at the time the local chapter invited them to Oakland. They came to Oakland to assist in the first appearance of the local society in preference to their other engagements.

Russell Brown is director of the local society and directed the entire group of quartets in the final number on the program.

Freak Cold Snap Brings Snowfall Here

The freak cold snap that chilled the eastern two-thirds of the nation for more than a week began breakup yesterday as clearing skies brought higher daytime temperatures. A return to normal readings was in prospect over the coming week-end.

Garrett county and surrounding territory got a real parting shot by old man winter, particularly on Sunday and Monday. Snow fell in most of the county to a depth of two to three inches, while at nearby Thomas and Davis the depth reached four inches.

Flakes were large and fell steadily Sunday evening and continued intermittently Sunday night and again on Monday. By Monday evening however, most of the snow had disappeared. Thermometers remained slightly above the freezing mark.

The Weather Bureau indicated that the May snow in this county was not too surprising, since it had been occurring about every third year.

A resume of the week's weather showed rain all day on Friday, turning colder on Saturday. Sunday remained cold and rainy with snow falling in late afternoon. It continued cold with a light snow on Monday. Tuesday continued cold with rain and hail. There was some moderating on Wednesday. A heavy frost covered the ground this morning.

OLD SIREN RETIRED—The old fire siren, in use by the Oakland Fire Department for the past 20 years or more, was brought down from its perch into retirement Sunday afternoon, as the new one was placed in position. Grover C. Stemple, in center, looks like he is doffing his hat in honor of this faithful servant which has called city firemen to many a conflagration, and whose melodious(?) tone has aroused many people in the dead of night. The new siren was provided through the State Civil Defense service, with the local fire organization providing half of the cost. It has a stronger motor than the old one and arrived just in time, according to some of the firemen, who were of the opinion that the old faithful had outlived its usefulness. Aiding in erection of the new and dismantling of the old were Donald Stemple, on the roof of the fire hall, and on the ground, left to right, Carl "Dutch" Wolf, Percy Thayer standing behind Grover C. Stemple and Boyd Sanders, behind John Sharps. Thayer Sanders is operating the crane. The old siren was attached to the City Hall for a number of years, and just a few months ago was placed on the new fire department building on Third street. Bells' Studio Photo.

Smith Declares Offer Of $21,000 For Land Is Low

"Twelve Cents on the Dollar" Is Not Fair Price, Real Estate Man Declares

A formal answer is to be made soon to the petition in Circuit Court seeking condemnation proceedings against Fulcher P. Smith for part of his Deep Creek Lake land for a public park, it was stated this week by Mr. Smith, but in the meantime he made a few statements on his own behalf.

Stating he was in favor of a public park but felt that there was more suitable land in other sections of Deep Creek Lake, Mr. Smith declared that he did not feel that the offer of $21,000 for the 70 acres of shoreline, made by the Department of Forests and Parks, was a reasonable one. He said he did not believe that an offer of "12 cents on the dollar was a fair offer."

The land in question is near Glendale bridge, on Meadow mountain, now owned by Mr. Smith. The 70 acre strip has a shoreline of 5,916 feet, instead of 3,000 feet as stated in last week's issue, Mr. Smith pointed out.

A total of 1,650 feet of this area borders on the former John O. Thayer tract now owned by the State and in use as a game refuge, and according to Smith there are at least three other areas back of his property before coming to the present state property, along the balance of that mile strip.

He said lots along the six thousand foot frontage sought by the state could be sold at a minimum of $20 a front foot, or a total of $120,000, and that it was possible to realize $30 a front foot for some of that area. Mr. Smith rejected the price of $21,000 offered by the state on the basis of $300 an acre for the 70 acres.

Condemnation proceedings were instituted in the Circuit Court last week by the State Board of Forests and Parks in an effort to force the sale of the land for use as a public park on Deep Creek Lake.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris had a summons issued to Smith to answer the petition and show cause why the property should not be condemned as sought. The summons is returnable on May 20.

Schools Working Toward Evaluation

Work of preparing for evaluation of the two high schools of the county in an effort to have them approved for higher accreditation by the Middle Atlantic States conference, was conducted here last week.

A supervisory meeting was held last Wednesday attended by Dr. Wilbur Devilbiss, dean of Education, University of Maryland; Dr. James Spitznas, director of instruction; Willis White, state supervisor of high schools; Miss May Graham, supervisor of libraries, Miss Evelyn Miller, supervisor of home economics; Miss Elizabeth Amery, supervisor of home economics; Miss Arline Petrie, director of practice teaching at Frostburg State Teachers college; and Herschel James, supervisor of industrial arts for the State Department of Education.

Some of the questions under discussion included the effectiveness in teaching reading, writing, facts, arithmetic, spelling, guidance of youth in developing skills; the techniques used to develop a greater holding power for those beyond sixteen, educational value of outdoor education or trips; development of a continuous program, teaching in a functional way, and a number of other subjects.

Both school principals began last December working with their teachers in preparing for the evaluation.

For approval unusual standards must be reached in all phases of school work. The actual survey will be made in the spring of 1955.

Child Welfare Group Meets

At a meeting of the Child Welfare committee of the county last Saturday, May 8, at the American Legion home in Oakland, Rev. John J. Atwell, chairman, was also named temporary treasurer. Edward P. Kahl was named secretary.

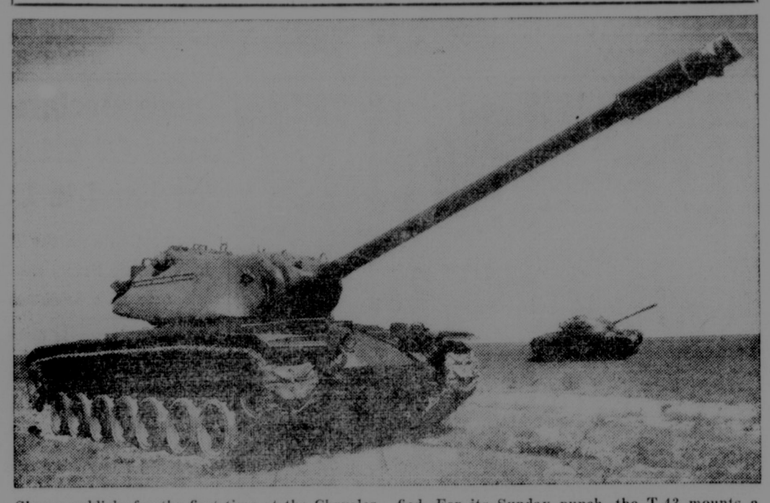
NEWEST HEAVYWEIGHT SLUGGER



Shown publicly for the first time at the Chrysler Delaware Tank Plant, here is the long-secret T-43, newest, heaviest, and most powerfully armed of Uncle Sam's land battleships. The armored giant was designed by engineers of Army Ordnance and Chrysler Corporation and has been in production at the Delaware plant for the past three years, although many of its details are still classified. For its Sunday punch, the T-43 mounts a 120mm cannon, plus .50 caliber and .30 caliber machine guns. Hull and turret are each cast from a single piece, with contours sloped to deflect enemy fire. The biggest tank ever put into production by the United States, the T-43 is claimed to be more than a match for any tank that could be put in the field against it.

"Best Seller" for 3 good reasons

Bright new Buicks appearing here, there, everywhere. And more and more of them in recent weeks.

Know what's happening?

Folks in growing numbers—(and maybe you'll be joining them soon!)—are finding Buick styling, performance and value far too wonderful to pass up.

Matter of fact, latest figures for the first quarter of 1954 show that, in total national volume, Buick is outselling every other car in America except two of the so-called "low-price three."

A look and a ride and a peek at the price tag will be all you'll need to know what's back of this best-selling success.

There's styling in Buick that's the greatest beauty advance in years—the very look of tomorrow—and with the spectacular panoramic windshield that's part and parcel of this dream-car look.

There's performance in Buick as never before—with record-high V8 power, with the sensationally smooth whip of Twin-Turbine Dynaflow,* with the buoyant ride of all-coil-springing, with a new precision of control and handling.

And there's value in Buick that's hard to match—with prices starting near the "low-price three"—prices that buy more Buick beauty and power and thrill and sheer automobile than smart money ever bought before.

How about you?

Are you ready, willing and waiting to be shown that this best seller called Buick is the buy of the year for you, too? Drop in this week, or give us a call, and we'll arrange a demonstration.

THE NEW LOOK—Here's an architect's conception of how the new Half Price Store's new building will look, at the corner of Second and Green streets, when completed sometime late this summer. Workmen began tearing down the rear of the old structure this week. It is the plan to have business continue as usual during this period of tearing down and constructing the new building. The rear portion of the building will be demolished first and the new section of the structure erected. Then by mid-summer the store will move into the completed part and demolition of the front section will begin. In the meantime the store will operate in its present quarters less about 12 feet in the rear of the store. When completed there will be a one-story brick building with steel and glass front, with a six-foot overhang over the street. The size will be 70 by 106. The Green street side will be of buff brick with plate glass windows. A concrete floor will be covered with asphalt tile. The estimated cost is $40,000. Earl Zepp is the contractor. The seventy foot frontage on Second street will include both the former Dixon and Wade Hinebaugh buildings, and will reach to the Oakland Pharmacy, which is now undergoing extensive alterations including a plate glass and brick front.

Over 500 Attend Glee Club Concert

The senior chorus of Southern High school, composed of over seventy boys and girls of the 10th, 11th and 12 grades, presented a concert Tuesday evening in the school gymnasium. Over five hundred persons were present.

There were numbers by both the boys' section and the girls' section and a number of specialty selections. Vocal soloists were Phyllis Lee, Harold Lantz, Frank DeWitt, Harold Ayres, Kitty Wainer, and David Benner.

A girl's trio composed of Gene Ridder, Ida Moon and Gladys Harsh sang two numbers, while the boys' and girls' quartets sang several selections. Gene Williams, Jack Harvey, John White and Reuben Rodeheaver composed the boys' quartet, while the girls' group included Annice Friend, Phyllis Lee, Romaine Hershman, and Jackie Groves. Jack Harvey and John White were also cornet soloists in the final number "Battle Hymn of the Republic," a selection arranged by Fred Waring.

Other specialty numbers were a rhythmic novelty, "The Typewriter," by Tom Turney; a square dance with chorus; dancers, Barbara Biser, Wilma Long, Kitty Wainer and Gene Williams, a solo dance by Kay Hanlin.

Directed by Mrs. Ruth C. Brown the audience appeared well pleased with the entire program.

Miss Frances Patterson was the art directir and Miss Janet Heyer, dance director. Accompanists were Shirley Shaffer, Rebecca White, Shirley Calhoun, Carolyn Dusic and Reuben Rodeheaver. Official announcer was D. F. Lane.

The American Way

WHO IS A COMMUNIST?

By Willis E. Stone, author of the "Proposed 23rd Amendment" and President of the American Progress Foundation, Los Angeles.

The question, "Who is a Communist?" commands our attention these days, and properly so, yet we seem to lose track of the main threat of communism in the passion and prejudice of the discussion of "Who."

The McCarthy, Jenner and Velde Committees of Congress are doing an amazingly fine job against tremendous odds. The principal handicap they face is the surprising absence of a legal definition identifying exactly what it is that makes a communist.

The threat of communism has been growing with astounding speed during recent years, scoring enormous inroads upon traditional American concepts. We continue to lose ground for the very apparent reason that we put unusual emphasis upon personalities rather than the poisonous doctrine he imposes upon us.

This is a curious fact, because every dictionary defines a "communist" as one who advocates "communism." The word "communism" is then defined as being the use of political force to abolish private property and private enterprise.

When Russian communists, in the iron curtain countries, used political force to abolish private property and private enterprise in the banking, insurance, housing, real estate and electrical businesses, it was pointed out as an example of the ruthless brutality of the communist system.

When political force was used to abolish private property and private enterprise in the United States to make way for TVA, CCC, RFC, and the rest of the federal corporations, hundreds of millions of tax dollars were spent to sell us the idea that in this country such a practice is a public benefaction.

Our language became so confused that a double standard was imposed upon us without our consent—a double standard which nullifies the basic American principle of "equal justice for all."

What is equal or just about bureaucratic empires being built at taxpayers expense without constitutional authority? What is equal or just about forcing private citizens to disgorge a third or more of their gross revenue to support the bureaucratic empires which compete with the enterprises of the private citizens?

What is equal or just about the competitive system which bleeds the private competitor to death to meet political requirements, while permitting the bureaucratic competitor to operate tax free, rent free and cost free? What is equal or just about forcing private enterprise to toe the mark ethically, morally, financially and legally, while permitting the bureaucratic empires to function without ethical standards, moral consideration, financial responsibility or constitutional authority?

So enormous has this level become that today it is estimated about 40 percent of the land area and 20 percent of the industrial capacity has been taken from the American people and assigned to these bureaucratic empires.

So expensive has this corruption become that it is now estimated that at least 45 cents out of every tax dollar paid to the federal government goes directly or indirectly to pay the losses and hidden costs of the federal corporations which compete with us.

The fantastic growth of this process, which the dictionary defines as communism, has somehow been concealed by the very clamor of the search for communists. The reason may be the political assumption that all communists are members of the communist party, but what about the advocates of communist practices who have infiltrated the other political parties?

Remember, party labels are no proof of faith. Anyone can join the Democratic or Republican party by simply registering. There is no course of indoctrination of principles given—no declaration of faith required.

The search for communists must go on, but it can be made tremendously effective and infinitely more valuable to all of us if we recognize the historic symptoms of the disease as a means of identifying those who are infected.

We can do more than that. We can outlaw the practices the dictionary defines as "communistic" by adding a "Proposed 23rd Amendment" to our Constitution, such as that now pending in Congress as H. J. Res. 23, to provide that: "The Government of the United States shall not engage in any business, professional, commercial, financial or industrial enterprise, except as specified in the Constitution."

AURORA - EGLON

Funeral rites were conducted on Tuesday afternoon at Maple Spring church by the Rev. Hugh Shiley, pastor of the Aurora Methodist church, for Edgar Flynn, 42, of Erwin, who died Saturday, May 8, in a Baltimore hospital following a mine accident near Kingwood. His widow is the former Miss Millie Wotring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wotring, formerly of this area.

Word was received here that Rev. Wade of Gormania, a former local pastor, is a patient in a Cumberland hospital as a result of an automobile accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Gnegy, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Harold White and Mrs. Florence Wotring went this week to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gnegy at Akron. Mrs. Gnegy, the former Beatrice Spiker, is seriously ill, and their four small children were brought back to be cared for until the mother's recovery.

Russell Feather returned to his home at Eglon, Friday, from a Philippi hospital.

Claude Pennington returned Friday to his home in Cash Valley, from a Martinsburg hospital, where he had been a surgical patient.

Mrs. Sarah Blamble, widow of the late John Blamble, of Horse Shoe Run, fell Sunday and received a fractured hip. She was removed Monday by Spiggle's ambulance to the Garrett County Memorial hospital.

Kenneth Hauser, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hauser, near Eglon, narrowly escaped injury on Sunday when his automobile skidded on the slippery road, turned over a couple of times and landed in a field. The machine is almost a total loss.

Fred Fike, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilmour Fike, near Eglon, left on Tuesday for New Jersey where he will have employment.

Pastor Paul Crumley and family, Eglon, left Sunday afternoon for Virginia, where Rev. Crumley will be in charge of a revival this week. Rev. Showalter will fill his pulpit at Maple Spring church Sunday.

Miss Leatrice Harsh, student of Bridgewater college, spent the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Artenis Harsh, Eglon. She has as her guests, the Misses Lois Holler and Nancy Withrow, also from the college.

Plymouth
is your "best buy" in the lowest-price field!

Recently a 1954 Plymouth and current models of the other two best-known low-price cars were taken apart by Plymouth engineers and compared, part by part. Standard "stock" models were used. We've listed some typical findings below.

Front Wheel Brakes
Plymouth engineers provide two hydraulic brake cylinders in each front wheel to ensure smooth stops without "grabbing." The other two low-price cars have only one.

Seat Springs
Plymouth uses coil seat springs, for longer lasting support. The "other two" have a zigzag platform type. Also, Plymouth's "springs-on-springs" design adds more comfort.

Piston Rings
Plymouth has four rings on each piston; the "other two" have three. Result: decreased carbon deposit, more consistent power output. Increased oil economy, too!

Micronic Oil Filter
Standard on most Plymouth models. Keeps abrasive dirt out of the engine, reducing wear and achieving greater oil economy. Extra cost on the other two low-price cars.

And dozens of other part-by-part comparisons prove Plymouth is your "best buy"! See us today... and get the facts!

Ask us for the big illustrated booklet that shows how Plymouth leads in frame construction... engine design ... performance... economy... comfort... safety.

The Essential Core - - -

"The character of man still forms the essential core of a lasting civilization." With that phrase Charles A. Lindbergh closed a striking address, delivered at The Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences Honors Night Dinner, after he had been given a Daniel Guggenheim medal for his achievements in aviation.

The theme of his talk is found in another phrase — "We have measured success by our products rather than by ourselves." In other words, he dealt with the materialism of the times, and the unprecedented tensions, conflicts, worries and uncertainties that have become a world-wide plague.

Near the beginning General Lindbergh described the hopes that were held when flying was young. It was believed that the airplane would be a major instrument in bringing the peoples of the world closer together—closer not only in terms of time and space but in terms of understanding. Nothing could have been more tragically wrong. As he said, "We are confronted with the stark fact that the historical significance of aircraft has been primarily military and destructive. With hindsight, we see that our early enthusiasm over the discoveries of science and the conquest of the air blinded us to natural laws which govern the conduct of men. All our scientific progress has not changed the fact that God made life on earth prolific, competitive, selective. From wood-wheeled cart to turbine airplane, men have always used their inventions to advance their beliefs, trade and sovereignty—alternating their support, according to their purpose, between forces which unite and forces which divide."

All of us know the present-day fruits of that truth. Its most evident manifestation is the world's war machines, with their incredible demands upon human and material resources. As General Lindbergh put it, "In a competitive world, life and freedom must be backed by strength."

Then he came to his primary point, which he put in these words: "But survival has a time dimension which says that power consists of more than strength of arms. Short-term survival may depend on the knowledge of nuclear physicists and the performance of supersonic aircraft, but long-term survival depends alone on the character of man. While we concentrate our attention on the tools of economics and war, we must not neglect the basic means of surviving, the basic reason for survival, man himself."

In short, General Lindbergh believes, and the world is full of thoughtful people who agree with him today, that we have concentrated so hard on material progress, invention and achievement, to the neglect of the inward human qualities, that the very products we have created threaten to destroy us. This, to his mind, is the over-riding problem of our age.

What is the solution? General Lindbergh offered one—and, inevitably, it had to be phrased in very general terms. He said: "I believe the solution lies in each individual, through the standards he holds; that it lies not in political parties or radical movements, but in human values and gradual trends; not a greater complication, but in a greater simplicity of life. In other words, I believe that the solution lies within ourselves, and that we can find it nowhere else. We desired a mechanistic civilization; that set the trend, and we achieved one. To achieve a civilization based on human values requires the desire within ourselves."—Industrial News Review.

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

Fifteen years ago when I first began to speak up on the great human, material and spiritual values embedded in the American way of life and to warn of the growing influence of Communist propaganda, very little was being done in a positive way by any segment of our society. In 15 years many millions of Americans have been aroused and are participating to some degree in efforts to strengthen our nation through education and to safeguard the basic principles by bringing about an active awareness of subversive propaganda.

We haven't won the propaganda war with the forces of the Left, but each year in the past 15 we have gained ground, and we can win—IF we mobilize our manpower strength still further and use our intelligence, enterprise, resourcefulness, and imagination. Throughout the country people continue to ask me how individuals and local groups can be most effective in the ideological conflicts. My answer has been: "Accent the positive."

We must continue to expose and root out the Leftwing propaganda, but at the same time the best defense, as the football coach says, "is good offense." The best authorities in America on Leftwing propaganda, including men who once helped produce it, have told me over and over again that the strategy of the Leftwing forces is to undermine the faith of Americans in their own political and economic principles and institutions with subtle propaganda. Therefore if we get across to all citizens, especially the youth of America, a clear understanding of the American way and the great advantages it brings to all, the propaganda of the Left will roll off like water on a duck's back.

Here's a statement made by the Attorney General of the United States a few years ago: "The FBI has learned that the Communists have started a campaign to recruit our children to their ideology. The younger they are, the better." Trying to lead our children toward acceptance of socialisic policies is a first strategic step of the Leftwingers.

If we "vaccinate" our oncoming generations of children with positive facts about our system, its great advantages over any other system known, the youngsters then would form the greatest force we could possibly muster for the preservation of our basic principles which have given us individual freedom and a living standard unmatched in world history. It is the citizen's obligation to work effectively toward this educational goal.

MEMO TO ADVERTISERS
Questions and Answers about NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Q. What are the 3 most important rules for profitable newspaper advertising?
A. 1. Your advertising message should be newsy, friendly, informative, easy to read. Give facts and news about your merchandise and service.
2. Advertise regularly. Make your advertising do what successful salesmen do—call on customers and prospects consistently.
3. Insist on audited circulation reports that give you the FACTS about the audience that your sales messages will have when you buy newspaper advertising.

Q. Is there a measure for the value of newspaper circulation to an advertiser such as the standards a merchant uses in buying merchandise—for example, like STERLING on silver?
A. Yes—in the well known circulation standards of the AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS.

Q. What is the A.B.C.?
A. The A.B.C. is a cooperative, non-profit association of 3,450 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers in the United States and Canada. Organized in 1914. Brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing a definition for paid circulation, rules and standards for measuring, auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.

Q. What does A.B.C. do for me?
A. At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors makes a thorough audit of the circulation records of each publisher member. The results of each audit are published in an easy-to-read A.B.C. report for your use and protection when you buy newspaper advertising.

Q. What are the FACTS in A.B.C. reports?
A. A.B.C. reports tell you how much circulation, where it goes, how obtained and other FACTS that help you buy advertising as you would make any sound business investment—on the basis of known values and audited information.

Q. Are all publications eligible for A.B.C. membership?
A. No. Only those with paid circulation. This is important to advertisers because it is evidence that the paper is wanted and read.

Q. Is this newspaper a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations?
A. Yes. We are proud of our circulation. We want you to know the FACTS about the audience your selling messages will have when they appear in these pages. Ask for a copy of our latest A.B.C. report.

Originally a private retreat, the property was a give to the State of Maryland. The original manor house still stands, although in a poor state of repair.

T. B. Group Set To Meet Friday

The Allegany-Garrett Tuberculosis association's annual meeting will be held Friday, May 14, at 3 o'clock at the association's office in Cumberland. The purpose is to elect officers and new directors for the coming year and to approve a budget and program.

The two counties were merged temporarily last year, but the year's operations, according to the annual report, showed that developing a full time program in this county would be very difficult since the returns from the seal sale campaign here would not carry the program.

The Executive secretary is recommending that the merger between the two counties be made permanent only with a guarantee from the Maryland Tuberculosis association to yearly subsidize the program until this county's seal sale is sufficiently high to insure a net working income of $2,500. Gross returns from the sale in 1953 were $2,026.54, but with the percentage of returns of $25.57 turned over to national and state associations, there remained only $1,600.97. Net returns in 1952 amounted to $1,244.63.

In the two counties in 1953 there were 32,000 seal sale letters mailed to residents, an increase of 1,889 letters in Garrett and 8,289 in Allegany county. An attempt will be made to increase the seal sale list to 44,000 names this year, which means the addition of around 20,000 new names.

The Maryland Tuberculosis association will grant up to $2,500 in funds providing the Allegany-Garrett association be treated as an area and that there be no breakdown on a county basis as to program or budget. Miss Jean Reinhard, Cumberland, is executive secretary of the association.

T. N. T. To Hit Oakland This Week!

(TOTALLY NEW TIRE — U. S. ROYAL 8)

A new automobile tire that gives 25% more mileage and which does not squeal or hum, was announced today by the United States Rubber Co. It has the greatest advances in performance and appearance since the introduction of the extra low pressure tire in 1947, according to Company officials.

The tire, called the U. S. Royal 8, was specifically engineered for both tube and tubeless construction, and both types will be available locally from Hawkinson Tread Service at Oakland, Md. It is believed the tubeless version will be original equipment on several 1955 automobiles.

The extra mileage results in part from the new tread design. The usual design has been reversed, and the narrowest rib is on the outside edge to eliminate annoying tire squeal and hum.

The footprint of the tire is almost rectangular, according to Mr. Burgwald, of Hawkinson Tread Service. This places relatively more rubber on the road than other tires with ovalized footprints, and gives improved traction and braking.

Easy rolling and easy steering are aided by the tire's wide center rib. Riding comfort is materially better, U. S. Rubber says, and electronic measurements show that less shock reaches the steering wheel and the passengers than with any other comparable tire.

New automobile styling tends to expose more of the wheels and tires. In the new U. S. Royal 8, Mr. Burgwald says, the usual "gingerbread" has been removed from the sidewall, which now looks much cleaner and blends with new style bodies. Safety slots give skid resistance, and outer grooves are dog-leg in shape to cast off small stones. Rupture resistance has been increased about 16%.

The U. S. Royal 8 is in the regular non-premium price range. Prices of the tubeless will be roughly equivalent to the tube tire version plus the tube itself.

U. S. Royal 8 Tire has wide, flat footprint to give good traction and braking power. A. E. Benson, manager of tire design, points to new tire which does not squeal or hum.

THE AMERICAN WAY

FAITH AND KNOW-HOW

By DeWitt Emery

To think about our whole free enterprise economy as one vast economic machine is really not so very farfetched because that is the way it works. No single part of it functions all by itself. Every industry, every factory, every machine tool, even every one-man-business, every newspaper daily or weekly is connected in many ways with all the rest of the economy.

This maze of inter-connections, the meshing of all the gears, large and small, economic and mechanical, has been growing steadily more close and complicated ever since our first loose and scattered colonial economy began to take shape. One needs only to scan our history to recognize that gadgeteering, mechanization, and the complicating business patterns they lead to are not just recently acquired habits of ours.

How succeeding generations of Americans have built our vast and complex present-day national economic machine is exceptionally well known. On the average, we can probably name more famous American inventors and empire builders than statesmen.

But note this about the process—within our own lifetime the growth of our national economic machine has become so speeded-up, changed, complicated and periodically upset by depressions, booms, wars, revolutionary inventions and political experiments that the whole economic machine and its workings have become one vast confusion so far as the individual's ability to see it all is concerned.

Our economy, like our automobiles, now has most of its working parts obscured under the hood. We are familiar only with a few exposed levers, dials and controls with which we are supposed to operate the machine. It takes a lot of faith as well as a working knowledge of which control does what.

Mention of the essential element of faith, while it weakens the comparison of our economy to one vast mechanism, at the same time emphasizes the most vital aspect of our economic machine—which is that all of its mechanical parts are utterly useless without the people who run it.

That is why no mere listing of all our tools, devices, factories, patents, formulas and physical resources—impressive as they are—can ever really explain the American economic system. While we usually think of it in terms of its more obvious physical assets—our thousands of factories, some containing more than a square mile of area under their sprawling roofs; plus the acres of complex machine tools at work in them; plus the myriad of appurtenances like railroads and power lines that link our vast industrial plants with the mines, the mills, the forests, the land and other raw material sources on the one hand and with all the warehouses, stores and marketing equipment on the other—even all these things together do not encompass all that is our economic machine.

Its key parts are people—160,000,000 of them. And the secret of this productive machine of ours is the way we make it work for us, as opposed to our working for it. No small aspect of the miracle that results is the peculiar kind of faith or confidence that we place in it.

Besides faith in our economic system, which so far has withstood enormous buffetings of criticism and doubt from within and without, there are some other purely human factors that are essential to explain why it works so well for us. Call it know-how or the American Way or what you will, but it is clear that besides having all the gadgetary physical parts, there is also required a certain dynamic state of mind and attitude of spirit essential to creating and operating a system like ours.

IN MEMORIAM

A tribute of love to the memory of my beloved father, Mr. Grant Wiley, who passed away May 6, 1953.

Sad and sudden was the call of one so dearly loved by all.
A bitter grief, a shock severe, it was to part with one so dear.
We often sit and think of you and speak of how you left us,
To think you could not say goodbye before you closed your eyes.
For all of us you did your best;
Oh God, grant you eternal rest with Mother dear.

Sadly missed by all.
Your Loving Daughter,
Mrs. Bessie Herring.

FOR CIVIL DEFENSE—Here is the building constructed by a lot of civic minded people of Kitzmiller, to be used as a rescue training center for civil defense. The building will be dedicated next Wednesday at a special celebration with Governor Theodore R. McKeldin and U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall in attendance. The construction of this building was begun over a year ago through efforts of members of the championship mine rescue team. Citizens contributed money and labor in bringing the structure to completion and other funds were contributed by the county and by the State Civil Defense organization. The building contains a council room, a garage for the Kitzmiller mine rescue truck, a dance hall and rescue room. Activities next Wednesday will include a parade, chicken dinner, band concert, baseball game and dance, in addition to the dedication ceremony. Both Northern and Southern High School Bands will take part. Visiting dignitaries will include the State Civil Defense directors of West Virginia and Maryland. The 549th Explosive Ordnance Control Detachment and units of the local rescue service will present an exhibition.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

Do It!

Discipline is an interesting study. One thing for sure, whatever we do as parents is apt to meet with disapproval from our youngsters.

Sometimes they complain that we parents won't let them do this or that—but just say to them, "Do what you think best," and they'll lean all over you for help.

I got such a kick out of an article on how young America lives in Ladies' Home Journal a month or two ago. This young father was being questioned on how he got work out of his children. First he said he explained just what he wanted done and how to go about it. If they didn't seem inclined in that direction, "I'd say, DO IT."

It is easy to spot well disciplined youth. They seem more sure of themselves than those who rule the roost. They are regular in attendance at meetings. Yet there is a sense of freedom about them, too. I believe parental discipline is necessary before self discipline.

It's harder to spot in our own than in someone else's. But anyone who works with youth knows what I mean.

Yes sir—that man had something—"First I explain—then I say DO IT!"

—o—

The homemakers had a lesson last month on making discipline easier—with so many constructive ideas. In the course of the discussion one mother asked "Do other children always ask—"What can I do, what can I do?"

The reply: "Just move out to a big farm and they'll be so busy hiding from what they can do that you'll never hear the question."

—o—

Thank Goodness

Special styles for the aged are rapidly becoming a thing of the past. How I dreaded the day I'd have to wear old woman black (now it's pastels) and horrors upon horrors—those awful old ladies' shoes.

Recently I noticed a youngish woman in her nineties wearing the same type flat heel pump our young girls wear. Another one of 75 wearing a crisp tailored suit with such style that a 20-year-old might be envious. She remarked that the children had given her earrings for Mother's Day "and I really must learn to wear them."

Whenever I think of age with elegance I think of Mrs. E. Z. Tower and Mrs. E. L. Winchell, of the Park. Somehow the sting is taken out of aging when I think of these two glamorous women.

I've made up my mind—though I don't want to look S. S. and G. (sweet, simple and girlish) I'm never going to say again, "It looks too young for me." For the time has come when you're about as young as you dress.

—o—

Back Fence Competition

When this cold snap came along, I looked out over my neighbor's garden at his corn waving in the blizzard and thought to myself, "bet that will 'learn' him." For wise and practical as he is—this time I knew I was wiser because I didn't have any corn planted and up, to be tossed about by snow and hail.

But doggone it! That corn pulled through and again he'll beat me!

—o—

Famous Lines

For the past few months our circle has been studying the life of Albert Schweitzer, whom many call the world's No. 1 citizen, and who has been named the man of the century by artists, writers and musicians of 17 countries.

There's a lot he has written that is too deep for me; but this I can comprehend. When asked what we ordinary people might do to carry out his principle of reverence for life, his answer was:

"Just do what you can. It's not enough merely to exist. It's not enough to say, "I'm earning enough to live and to support a family. I do my work well, I'm a good father, I'm a good husband.'

"That's all very well. But you must do something more. Seek always to do some good, somewhere. Every man has to seek in his own way to make his own self more noble and to realize his own true worth.

"You must give some time to your fellow man. Even if it's a little thing, do something for those who have need of a man's help, something for which you get no pay but the privilege of doing it. For remember, you don't live in a world all your own. Your brothers are here, too."

Swanton P.-T. A. Elects

At the regular meeting of the Swanton P.-T. A. Monday night the following officers were elected: President, Weston Friend; vice-president, Ellis Harvey; secretary, Mrs. Alice Rhodes; treasurer, Mrs. Betty Wilt.

It was decided to have a hamburger fry at the Bittinger Recreation Area June 15 for members of the P.-T. A. and their families. The sixth grade trip was discussed and money alloted for it. Paint will be bought for the swings and seesaws and they will be painted in the near future.

Mr. Myers announced that Play Day will be at North Glade May 26 and that the sixth grade social to help finance their trip will be held May 14.

Canal Parkway Given Final O.K. By McKay

Beall Now Seeks Funds And President's Support

Senator J. Glenn Beall announced last week that the Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay has approved a parkway to be constructed along the historic Chesapeake and Ohio Canal.

The Senator now proposes to take the project up with President Eisenhower in order to secure his support, and to request the Interior Department to earmark funds authorized by the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1954 for construction of that section of the parkway between Cumberland and Hancock.

Secretary McKay's approval of a vehicular parkway along the canal was the only remaining action necessary for construction of the road, which has been opposed by some conservationists and nature lovers.

Recently Justice Douglas and an entourage of endorsers walked the 185 mile towpath along the canal from Cumberland to Washington in an effort to organize opposition to the project.

Justice Douglas and proponents contend the project would destroy what is a haven for birds and other wildlife.

The parkway would give a roadway without impeding the entire distance from Cumberland to Washington but would be farther than the present routes.

The Grabbers

Lesson for May 16, 1954

ONCE there was a little boy who went to a party. His sister Annie was invited but she was sick and couldn't go. When the party was over the lady of the house gave each little guest a sack of chocolates. The little boy got two, one for himself and one for his sister, just alike. On the way home he stumped his toe, fell down, and when he fell one of the paper sacks broke and the chocolates spilled into the road. "Poor Annie!" he said. We are all like that little boy. There is something in each of us that wants more than half of everything. If anybody is going to take a loss, let it be some one else! One car will pass another and perhaps the driver of the car being passed (if he has no manners) will yell out of the window: "Road Hog!" As a matter of fact, isn't a road hog just a person who takes the wide share of the road you'd like to have yourself?

Dr. Foreman

* * *

Greed and Deceit

You might think the little boy in the story would be less of a grabber when he grows up; but he may be worse by that time. You might think people could be cured of being greedy by giving everybody just exactly the same; but there would be any number of schemers figuring how to get their share increased. You might think people could be cured of the grab-habit by letting them have all they want; but that seldom works, because some of the greediest people in history have been people who had more than any of their neighbors. The Bible story of Ahab and the vineyard of Naboth is a case in point. It isn't a story of the poor stealing from the rich, it is the story of the rich stealing from the poor, which after all is a rather common occurrence. The story of Ahab also illustrates some notable facts about this thing called Greed. One is that greed and deceit go hand in hand. Ahab told some terrific lies, and got others to do the same, all because he wanted Naboth's vineyard. When Hitler was on the rise, he made the solemn statement that all he wanted was the little area of the Sudentenland; what he really wanted was all of Europe, only it would never have suited his schemes to say so. When a poor man gets into the clutches of a loan shark, he is never told at first what the rate of interest is. When the St. Louis Post-Dispatch back in 1898 justly accused some prominent citizens of having accepted a quarter of a million dollars in bribes, of course those gentlemen denied the whole thing. Your greedy man—or for that matter the greedy corporation—all the way from the simple robber who pretends to be the night watchman, up to the monopoly that overcharges the public—never likes the light of truth on the operation.

* * *

Greed and Murder

When a murder has been committed, almost the first question the police ask is: "Who stands to make money by this crime?" Murders are about as common in the country as in the city, in proportion to the population. What is the story back of killings in the farmlands? Very often it is some quarrel about a boundary line, about some stock, about the price of land or produce. Not all murders are for the sake of gain; but if a man is greedy enough, he will not stop at murder. Penitentiaries contain many a "lifer" who would not be there today if he had not been a greedy man.

* * *

The Prophetic Spirit

There must have been thousands of Israelite citizens who knew Ahab was a greedy murderous scoundrel. But it took the prophet Elijah to come out with the truth in plain language. Prophets are not always wild figures in hair-cloth robes. They are not always even preachers. A newspaper can have the prophetic spirit. That St. Louis paper, for instance, broke the Teapot Dome scandal; it exposed a half-million dollar "slush fund" spent by a utility company to bribe a legislature; it defeated a Democrat for governor who had tried to steal the election; and it defeated a Republican by showing that his party was tied up with those number-one Grabbers, the big-time gamblers. The spirit of Elijah is not dead; otherwise the grabbers might inherit the earth.

They're always talking about me! They say all sorts of things I can't understand: Isn't she cute? Just a year old. Looks like her mother, doesn't she?
I wish I knew what it all means. But they always smile when they talk about me—so it must be complimentary.
Frankly, I haven't a worry in the world. My Mamma and my Daddy always seem to know what's best for me. I'm sure they want to do everything possible to make mine a wonderful life.
I just hope they realize how important it will be for me to go to Church School. But, of course, being the wonderful parents they are, they'll realize that little souls must grow up just like little bodies. And they'll not only provide for my religious training—they'll set the Christian example that a little "princess" like me simply has to have.
HOLY BIBLE
THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Communist Party Seeking More People In United States With "Thought Control" Methods

About two weeks ago there came to the editor's desk a pamphlet entitled "The American Way," published by the Communist party and distributed by them. It contained 28 pages of what was considered by the editor as communist propaganda. Mailed from Baltimore the letter had no other distinguishing marks and there was some concern as to how widespread this distribution was.

Sunday the pamphlet came in for a thorough analysis by an Associated Press news analyst, and his remarks are being published so that any others who received this pamphlet may know it for what it is—a lot of Communist hooey.

The article by J. M. Roberts, Jr., of the Associated Press, follows:

The Communist party in the United States is reaching out to people it has never contacted before in a new "thought control" campaign and a new, direct, political effort.

New names are being added to its mailing lists, new books and pamphlets to its publications.

The latest pamphlet, a general outline of the program, is entitled "The American Way to Jobs-Peace-Democracy."

Play On Prejudices

It joins numerous recent tracts playing on the prejudices connected with racial and labor problems, and in defense of the Communist leaders convicted during the past couple of years. Among these tracts are "New Opportunities in the Fight for Peace and Freedom" by Andrew Stevens; "Next Steps in the Struggle for Negro Freedom" by Hugh Bradley; "Thirteen Communists Speak to the Court," being the speeches of defendants in the New York Smith Act trial; and the summation speeches by Pettis Perry and Elizabeth Gurley Flynn.

"The American Way," published in April, carries the imprint of New Century Publishers, 832 Broadway, New York, does not carry the author's name, but is being distributed by mail accompanied by a letter signed by William Z. Foster, Pettis Perry and Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, on stationery of the Communist Party, U.S.A.

One phrase in the letter calls for "resolving differences, not their sharpening," and calls attention to "the American way" for doing so.

U. S. Faces 'Depression'

The pamphlet starts out with the flat statement the the United States is on the verge of an economic depression designed by the monopolists, aided by the government, to flatten small business and the common people. It goes on to American foreign policy, and the section might have been written by Molotov. It is brief, but manages to offer almost all the most significant and most familiar Kremlin policies, including:

A return to what it terms the Roosevelt policy of big power negotiation against—presumably—the United Nations system designed to give weight to the desires of all nations, large or small.

An end to the arms race.

Promotion of world trade.

An end to the rearming of Germany and Japan.

No intervention in the affairs of other nations, such as the Dulles effort to encourage the European satellites that liberation is eventual.

The third section attacks McCarthyism—an attack which the senator must find very helpful at this moment—and pays the usual Communist lip service to the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

The treatise admits that no one group can meet the nation's needs, and calls for unity of all the "democratic" and "peace-loving" forces, which in the Red lexicon is a call to join the Communists.

Play On Emotions

Many phrases in the pamphlet actually are designed to play on the emotions of the radically prejudiced and the confused liberal. They are followed by many whole paragraphs which are almost identical with the official instructions of the old Comintern as to how class disunity is to be created. The American Communists don't say publicly, but the Cominform did, that the disunity thus created shall be seized upon at the proper time as the basis for armed revolution.

All this new campaign is being carried on against the background of instructions recently issued by the Russian-controlled Cominform.

"The American Way" makes specific appeals to small business men, farmers and laborers as the Cominform ordered.

It attempts to identify "anticommunism" with fascism, as the Cominform ordered.

The party in the United States announced originally that its new outline of objectives would be issued in a million-copy edition. That is "The American Way." People who never received any Communist propaganda before are receiving it now. It makes efforts to appear interested only in America, even to the point of asking for criticism of the program in an effort to achieve a coalition front with non-Communist Americans—as ordered by the Cominform.

But it also says, in the so-familiar words of the Kremlin Communists: "We proclaim our fraternity with all peoples who have pioneered the new frontiers of history toward socialism." That is the fraternity—disowned by True Socialists—upon which the Lenin-Stalinists have always proclaimed their reliance for world revolution.

Along The Potomac

With Your Congressman
DeWITT S. HYDE

Despite the fight waged by members of the Maryland delegation and others in Congress, the St. Lawrence Seaway bill was enacted last week. During the debate on it I took the floor to point out eight reasons why I disapproved of the measure:

1. It would be open only part of the year, frozen in winter. 2. It is useless from a defense standpoint. 3. It will not make iron ore available to the U.S. at lower prices. 4. It is on U.S. soil and cannot be a Canadian venture alone. Those who were for the bill argued that it could be.

5. It will disrupt the extremely important railroad transportation system in the eastern U.S. This is a prime defense facility. 6. It will not be deep enough to be used by American maritime vessels. 7. It will severely hurt the coal industry on which the nation must depend in emergencies. 8. The electric power to be developed with the Seaway could be provided for separately and privately, if needed.

Maryland will watch these developments closely, since it is situated in the heart of the rail and coal industries. Congress will have more to say about the Seaway construction when it is called on to appropriate funds. In view of the likely harm to American business (and the fact that Canada will be chiefly benefitted) we do not feel the Seaway will be a wise expenditure of American taxpayers' money.

The debate on Indo-China, which tends to produce more heat than enlightening information, continues to be the No. 1 news story. Secretary Dulles' report over the air last Friday shows that the Administration has asserted its foreign policy leadership without at the same time abusing its power.

The question is one of intervention with American troops. The object would be to save southeast Asia as free territory. With the majority in Congress, I believe there should be no intervention unless it is a joint project of our allies and the French take sure steps to make their colonies in Indo-China independent nations.

Secretary Dulles has assured us that both these conditions may materialize. He has also assured us that the Administration will rest on Congress' decision. It remains now to see what will be done diplomatically. The effort at Geneva has not been successful because the Communists knew the thinking of our Congress and that Mr. Dulles could only go so far in his bluffing.

The current effort to gather the southeast Asian nations into an alliance is a major undertaking and would call for a great shift in our military arrangements which have done so much in making Europe secure. We can hope this effort will be successful, and it would also seem that it is the right moment to do a little praying.

Southern High Is Victor Over Parsons

Timmy Sisler singled home Roger Glotfelty in the eighth inning with the run that gave undefeated Southern High School an overtime victory over Parsons High school last Thursday at Parsons. The score was 8 to 7.

The victory was the fourth of the season for Coach Leonard Ritchie's Highlanders.

The winning run was scored after two were out. Glotfelty had walked and advanced to second when Toby Colaw reached base on an error. Then Sisler broke up the game.

Toby Colaw and Bob Glaze hit the first home runs credited to Oakland in fifteen games over two seasons. The Highlanders played 11 games last year, winning nine and losing two.

Toby Colaw struck out 14 batsmen and two of the eight hits he yielded were Terry Fairbanks' triple and home run.

The win gave Southern a sweep of the series with the Tucker Countians, having won the opener on April 22, 17 to 5.

Surveys Keep Tab On Md. Insects

Insect surveys in Maryland show that spittlebugs are numerous in many parts of the State and are damaging brome grass, timothy, alfalfa and clover. The damage is much more evident on the legumes.

The surveys are being made by University of Maryland entomologists in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Theodore L. Bissell, Extension entomologist in charge of surveys, says alfalfa weevils have been pupating since April 28 in the neighborhood of College Park and in Southern Maryland.

Pea aphids have been very thick on alfalfa in some areas but are now disappearing on that crop. The insect is also infesting peas. Growers are treating peas with malathion, according to Bissell. Treatment is at the rate of 1½ pints of insecticide in 25 gallons of water per acre.

Asparagus beetles and eggs are quite common on asparagus and large cutworms have been found in hay fields and in grass at College Park. One percent rotenone dust is recommended for asparagus beetles and toxaphene is effective against cutworms.

"Watch for cutworms in corn fields and on tomato plants," says Bissell.

Potato flea bettles have been found on potatoes and tomatoes. This insect is controlled with DDT spray or dust.

Ornamental plants are also inspected in the surveys. Bissell says it is time to use DDT on holly leaf miner flies, which have begun to emerge. Boxwood psylla, which are present in larval form, can be controlled with a spray consisting of 1½ quarts of malathion emulsion to 100 gallons of water. Bissell says to watch Euonymus for hatching crawlers and spray when they appear.

County agents should be contacted for detailed information on the treatment to use for different insects.

ONE WORD . . .

Can Change Your Life
By REV. ROBT. OLEWILER
Pastor, Grace Reformed Church
Washington, D. C.

Price

Here's a sobering incident, if there's something you want so badly you're ready to pay any price for it.

It's about a housewife who had her husband arrested because he threatened to kill her and their two sons. When she told the judge she believed her husband insane, the court ordered him sent to a mental hospital. Then the woman decided she wanted her husband back again. She said she had lied to the court and staged a four-day sit-down strike at the hospital. Finally, she won his release by signing a waiver on which she stated: "I want him out, even if he kills me."

That's what he did, three months later. The husband beat her and the two children to death with a two-foot length of pipe.

Better stop and think again before you want something so badly you'll pay any price, the word that can change your life.

Grantsville Team In First Place

Grantsville took over sole possession of first place in the Pen-Mar Baseball league last Sunday when the Garrett county team emerged winner over the Hyndman Eagles in a 1-0 battle at Grantsville.

Don Buterbaugh's single over second base in the last of the ninth inning scored Jack Mort with the lone run of the game and broke a pitching duel between Bill See and Glenn Evans.

Evans hit Mort with a pitched ball to open the ninth and he advanced to second base on Cain's sacrifice. Then Buterbaugh delivered the winning wallop.

Lester Hunter's two-bagger for Grantsville was the game's only extra base blow.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

The fall of the valiant little garrison at Dien Bien Phu will add to the problem of the negotiators in Geneva, and here in Washington it will enter into the controversy over the Administration's conduct of our foreign policy, which has taken on a bitter partisan tinge.

During such periods it often appears that only differences of opinion exist, and those differences are portrayed as being vast chasms which cannot be bridged.

The differences in opinion are so violently expressed that one often wonders that there can be any unity among the free world at all, and when the leaders of the opposition party get together in Washington, as they did last week, and bombard the Eisenhower Administration's foreign policy with rich invective, then it looks as if our real problems are with our friends and allies.

Of course, the areas where there are disagreements are always more provoking, and therefore receive more comment, than those points on which there is complete unanimity.

While this reappraisal, or re-examination, of our foreign policy is being conducted we should remember that the thing which causes all the difficulty is international Communism as espoused and agitated by Soviet Russia.

There is complete unanimity of opinion that Soviet Russia must be blocked in its endeavor to dominate Europe and Asia, and the fact that the United States, Britain, France — and Republicans and Democrats — may at times disagree on details as to how to accomplish our objectives does not alter the fact that we are all allied in a common effort to halt Soviet expansion.

Senator Knowland, the Majority Leader, took time out last week to remind us of some significant remarks in 1948 by Sir Winston Churchill. In this address delivered six years ago, Mr. Churchill stated the things the Soviet Union must do if it really wants peace.

Throughout the coming weeks as the controversy on foreign policy develops it might help to keep these words of the Right Honorable Winston Churchill in mind. He said:

Nothing stands between Europe today and complete subjugation to Communist tyranny but the atomic bomb in American possession.

If the Soviet Government wish to see atomic energy internationalized and its military use outlawed, it is not only by verbal or written agreements that they must reassure the world but by actions, which speak louder than words.

Let them retire to their own country, which is one-sixth of the land surface of the globe.

Let them liberate by their denasture the 11 ancient capitals of Eastern Europe which they now hold in their clutches.

Let them go back to the Curzon line as was agreed upon in the days when we were fighting as comrades together.

Let them set free the million or more German and Japanese prisoners they now hold as slaves.

Let them cease to oppress, torment, and exploit the immense part of Germany and Austria which is now in their hands.

We read continually of the blockade of Berlin. The lifting of the blockade at Berlin would be merely the stopping of blackmail. There should be no reward for that.

Let them cease to distract Malaya and Indonesia.

Let them liberate the Communist-held portion of Korea.

Let them give others the chance to breathe freely, and let them breathe freely themselves.

No one wants to take anything they have got and that belongs to them away from them. After all, we are asking them to do no more than what the other victorious states have done of their own free will. None of the other allies has tried to add large territories and nonulations to its domain. Britain, indeed, has gone to the opposite extreme and cast away her empire in the East with both her hands.

Let the Russians be content to live on their own and cease to darken the world and prevent its recovery by these endless threats, intrigues, and propaganda.

Senator Knowland pointed out that since Mr. Churchill made that speech in 1948, all of continental China has fallen to the Communists, Korea was invaded and North Korea incorporated into the Communist empire, Russia has developed the atomic bomb—in 1948 it had not—and Communist activities in Indochina have become overtly aggressive.

In any discussion of our foreign policies it is good to keep in mind that the free world is united on the basic issue—and that is Russia cannot be permitted to enlarge its Communist Empire.

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

Bob Rock is a good-looking, black haired 17-year-old St. Louis school boy. He's six-foot-two and powerfully built. He loves football and plays on the Bishop Bebourg High School eleven. But Bob is playing another game he loves as much as football, the game of American business. He is production manager of a thriving corporation, and the kick he's geting out of marketing a good product, paying dividends to his stockholders, and perfecting new mass production techniques on his assembly line thrill him as much as scoring a touchdown for Bishop Bebourg High.

Bob is one of many thousands of high school youngsters who are in business for themselves in the expanding nation-wide Junior Achievement movement. In 90 small and large communities in 24 states, Junior Achievement corporations are in business. The boys and girls operating them are getting a wonderful experience in self-reliance and a wonderful education in the fundamentals of the American economic system.

Bob Rock's story of the company he and his school chums operate in St. Louis gives life and power to the JA movement. Last year when he entered school, he attended a meeting with 15 or 20 of his schoolmates. Businessmen JA sponsors explained the movement. Industrial technicians were on hand to advise on possible products which would find a market in St. Louis. Bob and his pals organized Union Products, Inc.

The youngsters incorporated their business, capitalized for $100. They issued stock at 50 cents per share. At a JA Center, they began to spend an evening a week manufacturing a modernistic magazine rack. They purchased raw materials and with machinery provided they set up a production assembly line. The sales department found a market; the article sold briskly, and a profit was achieved.

Bob and his pals stay in business during the school months, making profit, paying wages, rent, overhead and all the other expenses of busniess; declaring a stockholders' dividend, paying taxes (ouch!) and tackling some pretty serious small business problems. In June all JA corporations are liquidated. "All of us," Bob told the Freedom Forum conferees, "have found out what business is like, its problems and its possibilities. JA has taught us, too, that life isn't a rosy bed of violets. I think the JA boys and girls, after solving the business problems, will have a better understanding and be better able to cope with the problems of the world."

And this feeling is shared by all who are actively interested in JA. For instructions on forming a JA group in your community, write Mr. Francomano, 345 Madison Avenue, New York 17, New York.

Poultrymen Advised To Reduce Waste

Current trends indicate that broiler, egg and turkey producers will have a hard time showing profits for the next year, unless they cut production costs and reduce waste as much as possible without lowering production efficiency.

Wade H. Rice, University of Maryland Extension poultryman, describes the situation as one that is "unpleasant to talk about, but we are faced with critical problems so we must be realistic."

The critical problems which Mr. Rice refers to are overproduction, which means low prices for poultry and eggs, and prospects for higher feed costs. This combination places the producer in the familiar cost-price squeeze.

Rice points out that prices which broiler producers will receive for the remainder of 1954 probably will average below 1953 prices, because new commercial broiler areas are springing up and chick placements are averaging three-fourths of a million per week above the first 4 months of 1953.

There is a similar situation with egg production. U. S. Department of Agriculture hatchery reports indicate a 19 percent increase in replacement chicks for laying pullets for the fall and winter of 1954. On May 1 of this year there were larger stocks of eggs in storage than in other recent years. These factors indicate lower egg prices for producers in 1954-55 than in the past few years.

It's the same story with turkeys. Indications are there will be larger crops of both light and heavy type turkeys this year than in 1953, with prices averaging lower than last year. Rice says that "light turkey growers have experienced close margins or losses for the past 4 or 5 months, and light breeds may be in best demand this fall and winter due to the recent reductions under price pressures.

In examining the prospects for higher priced feed, the Extension poultryman points out that the tremendous numbers of poultry on feed in recent months have caused shortages of soybean meal, meat scrap and other protein supplements for rations. "No improvement in this situation can be expected until increased supplies affect prices," he adds.

Young Teams Practice

The Oakland Crash Hitters baseball team beat Crellin in a game Saturday at Crellin. All boys playing for Oakland have signed up to play with the Little League, now being organized.

Labor Bosses Vs. Voters

As the latest fight over the Administration's amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act got underway, the character of the propaganda voiced by the CIO dominated senators and the claims of the labor bosses were not flattering to the intelligence of the American people. These assumed that the people would not remember that the same sort of violent charges were made seven years ago when the act was first passed by Congress and then —by a most convincing vote— passed over the veto of the Democratic President, Mr. Truman.

Since then a good many things have happened which seem worth recalling. One is that the enactment of the Taft-Hartley bill marked the first time in fourteen years that the labor bosses had failed to have their way in Congress. Coddled by the Roosevelt and Truman administrations and protected by the one-sided Wagner Act, they had been given everything they demanded. In addition, they had come to dominate the Democratic party—and still do as was shown by the way they made the noble Mr. Stevenson change his mind during the last campaign, joining with them in urging repeal of a law he had previously approved.

Another thing to recall is that the dire predictions that union labor had been dealt a dreadful blow by this law, turned out to be silly. The unions not only have survived but gained in numbers, strength and wealth. The "slave-labor" slogan is now a joke. Not only have wages generally advanced but the freedom to strike certainly has not been curtailed. On the contrary, in the last few years many wholly unjustified and damaging strikes have occurred. A number of these have been in defense plants and some in direct violation of contract. Probably the most inexcusable is the one which closed the port of the great city of New York.

Some labor unions have themselves used the provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act to further their own interests, and there does not exist any proven instance in which the law has worked to the disadvantage of the unions. Yet here we were going through the same old fight again as though all the undisputed facts could be removed simply by ignoring them. President Eisenhower had indorsed the Taft-Hartley law in his campaign, but said, as did the late Senator Taft (and Mr. Stevenson, too, until they put the heat on him), that it should be amended. But the Democratic leadership has now managed to prevent Senate action at this time. The bill has been voted back into committee.

—o—

Some of the amendments did not please labor and some of them did not please management, which is about the best evidence of their fairness. As to the desire of the Administration to be fair, few really questioned that. Yet the labor bosses and the labor senators would rather leave the law as it is than vote for the improvements. Considering the record, it did seem reasonable to expect that the Administration amendments indorsed by a strongly supporting President, instead of a strongly opposing one, should go through.

Also, there was the trenchant fact that since the Taft-Hartley bill passed, the labor bosses twice have been overwhelmingly defeated when they united in making that law the issue. Once was in 1950 when they tried to defeat the late Senator Taft for re-election in Ohio. They were defeated again in 1952, though supported by Mr. Stevenson, his cocky young chairman, Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Truman, then President, and all the other Democratic speakers who this week in Washington ganged together to tell the country, in their jocular way, what a "mess" the Republicans had made in Washington and what a dreadful fraud and failure President Eisenhower had become. These things seemed to promise that the act revised in the way the President wants would go through.

Still, Friday's vote in the Senate to recommit the amendment bill does not settle this fundamental issue forever. No one can tell for certain what a Congress as evenly divided as this one will ultimately do on this question. It is true that since 1952 the rich labor unions have greatly increased their concentration on Washington. They have put up great buildings near the Capitol. They are in control of banks. They have vastly increased their propaganda facilities. The whole effort is to scare and influence Congress. Perhaps, through the ineptitude of Republican Senate leadership, it can be done. However, the fact remains that despite the attacks of the Messrs. Truman, Stevenson, Mitchell, etc., the polls attest and many Democrats agree that General Ike is as popular now as he was in 1952. Also in two striking elections the voters have given evidence that they dislike a labor boss dominated government.

Britain accused two Soviet diplomats of attempted spying and ordered them to leave the country.

Kitzmiller Mine Recently Inspected

Drilling test holes in advance of a place approaching abandoned workings, removal of dangerous accumulations of loose fine coal from active underground workings, and adequate rockdusting of mine surfaces that were not definitely wet were urged today by the U. S. Bureau of Mines for the Sharpless Coal Company's Hamill No. 1 mine, near Kitzmiller.

The Federal inspector recommended fireproofing of the fan housing, continuous operation of the fan while men were in the mine, preshift and weekly examinations for explosive gas and other hazards, and ample fire-fighting facilities.

Other suggestions called for incombustible stoppings between main airways, several haulage betterments, and the wearing of goggles or shields by workmen doing eye-hazardous work.

Recent improvements included the use of permissible electric cap lamps for portable illumination and discontinuance of smoking underground.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

The present precarious situation of our shipbuilding and ship repair industries was accentuated by a report of the Shipbuilders Council of America, which was discussed in the Senate last week. The Council is a truly representative group of shipbuilding companies and allied industries, composed of some 22 firms (large and small) operating 45 separate construction facilities throughout the country.

The basic question facing the shipbuilding industry at the moment, of course, is the amount of construction under contract. Second only to that point in interest is the production achieved in 1953—and this, let it be noted, was exceptionally favorable in total.

During the year 1953, the Shipbuilders Council Report shows, 45 merchant ships of more than 1,000 gross tons were delivered, for a total of 570,326 gross tons. This was 14 more vessels than were produced in 1952, and an increase of more than 170,000 gross tons. Of this grand total, I am gratified to say that our own Maryland yard, Bethlehem-Sparrows Point, delivered 140,000 gross tons, or approximately 25 percent.

On the other hand, the total of new ship construction contracts placed during 1953 was exactly four vessels, of a combined gross tonnage of 19,465 tons. Not a single passenger vessel, not one combination passenger-cargo vessel was ordered, delivered, or under construction during 1953. Not one vessel of as much as 3,000 tons was contracted for with any shipyard on the Atlantic, the Pacific or the Gulf Coast.

Is it any wonder that Admiral Leggett, speaking for the Navy Department before the Water Transportation Subcommittee, of which I am chairman, declared that the Navy officials are gravely concerned over the plight of the American shipbuilding industry? It is only right that there should be concern over a situation which, if not corrected speedily, can only spell doom for an industry which is vital alike to the economy of the nation and to its security, in time of emergency.

As a Senator from a State whose great Port area is menaced by this decline in shipbuilding, I am vastly concerned. But it properly is a matter of concern to all Senators and all members of Congress, whether they come from Coastal areas, or from the heart of our country, many, many miles from ocean or gulf.

There can be no real prosperity in a nation so dependent upon shipping as is the United States, when that shipping industry goes into decline. There can be no assurance of security in these uncertain times, without a strong merchant marine and a healthy shipbuilding industry.

The Senate Water Transportation Subcommittee is proceeding on an "emergency basis" with the full realization that immediate corrective measures are mandatory. President Eisenhower and the Administration solidly support this philosophy, and I am confident that these efforts will be more than fruitful in the very near future.

The fall began Sunday evening and continued off and on most of Monday morning, but by that afternoon had largely disappeared. This winter scene was taken about 10 o'clock Monday between Oakland and Gortner on Route 219. A pile of rolled up snow fences, wearing white bonnets, is shown in the lower right hand corner, taking this one lying down. Staff Photo.

IT'S AMERICA'S "BEST SELLER"

Because it's America's Best Buy

Ford has pioneered in bringing the most worth-while things to the most people . . . and more and more people are now buying Fords

FOR A LONG TIME, people have recognized that Ford is the "Worth More" car. And they have been expressing their preference in a great and growing volume of purchases.

The reason is simple. More and more people have found in Ford everything they want and need. They have found that Ford offers exterior beauty that has set the trend for the industry . . . interiors that are so colorful and in such good taste that just sitting in a Ford is fun.

If you're in the market for any new car, you'll be missing something if you don't come in and value-check a Ford point by point. And when you Test Drive a Ford and find out what a brilliant performer it is, you'll really understand why Ford is America's Best Seller and America's Best Buy.

In the first place: Ford offers the two most modern engines in the entire industry: the completely new 130-h.p. Y-block V-8 and the outstanding new 115-h.p. I-block Six.

As for comfort—Ford is the only car in its field with Ball-Joint Front Suspension. This amazing new principle provides a degree of handling and riding ease that cannot be equalled in any car without this new suspension system.

Choice, too, is a department where Ford excells. You'll find just exactly the car for you among the 14 body styles and more than 100 body color and upholstery combinations in Ford's three great lines.

And consider these facts, too. Ford is a completely modern car. The advanced fine-car features that make it "Worth More" when you buy it, will also make it "Worth More" to someone else when you sell it.

Why not accept our invitation to Test Drive a '54 Ford. We believe that you've never driven a car in Ford's field that is in any way comparable.

That Price Tag

Ever so often department stores will announce a bargain basement sale. Full page advertisements in newspapers tell of the tremendous bargains to be had.

If you have ever seen the crowds of women who flock to these sales, pushing and shoving, you will see an example of a seemingly almost universal urge, the desire to get something for nothing.

A man or a boy putting nickels or dimes into a slot machine or other gambling device is showing that same human urge.

I do not pretend to be especially wise, yet I have never been one to follow the crowds to a bargain basement. A few times in regular departments I have bought articles of clothing, supposedly cheap, only to find they shrink, discolor and soon become unfit to use. I have one department store I always patronize, for their clothing is always good, but the price is a little higher than elsewhere.

The urge to get something for nothing accounts for the strange things we sometimes do, forgetting to consult the price tag. I feel sure there is a price tag on everything in life, as well as on the clothing and furnishings we buy.

There is Janie, for instance, who cheated in an examination in school. She had been having too many social activities to study for it, so her friend gave her the answers. But, there was a price tag there, for she never felt quite right about the B she received on her test. In her own mind, she knew she did not deserve it, but was taking something she had not earned. The real tragedy was that she missed the genuine thrill she would have had from her own honest achieevment.

Harry, feeling himself in a tight place, told a lie to his wife. Quite by accident, she found it out. He asked her forgiveness and she forgave him. The matter was never mentioned again, but the care-free trust they had once known was gone, and each knew things were never the same again. A price tag on deceit.

Jack refuses to accept any responsibility in his community. He has lots of ability, yet he cares only for his own business, and getting ahead. Then, one day the community no longer counts on him, no longer asks him for help. He is an outsider. The price tag says he has missed a worthwhile experience in cooperation, good fellowship and community growth.

Mabel, busy with her clubs, does not take time to guide and talk with her children. Her children grow away from her, and one day she sees they are strangers. The thing she has wanted most has passed her by. A high price tag for neglect.

Henry, because of a misunderstanding with a neighbor, never goes to church. Years go by, finally he does not even want to go. He becomes cynical and hard, trusts no one. Finally God ceases to have a part in his daily life and thinking. He is losing life's greatest treasure, the experience of worship, love and service.

John, a concert pianist, is asked about his good luck. "Nothing of a mystery," he replies, "Just two hours practice a day for the past five years." A price tag for achievement.

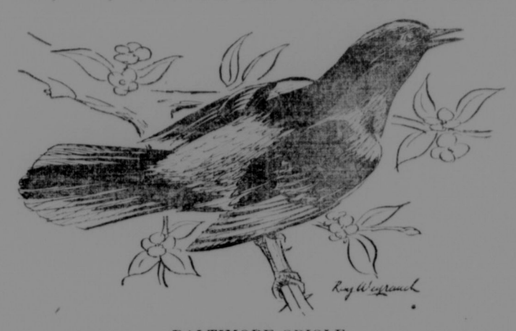
In a bargain basement, the price is cheap, the articles shoddy. In life it is the same.

Up on a higher level, the price is high, the merchandise strong and durable. Growing is like that. It requires effort, work, self-discipline, but the rewards are great.

Each one of us decides how much he wants to pay for the things in life we buy.

MARYLAND WILDLIFE

Prepared by the MARYLAND GAME & INLAND FISH COMMISSION



BALTIMORE ORIOLE

(Icterus galbula.)

RANGE: Breeds throughout northeast Canada and Atlantic Coast states; and as far south as Georgia; winters in Mexico and Central America.

DESCRIPTION: Head, neck and throat and upper part of back, black; breast, lower back, and lesser wing coverts deep rich reddish orange; wings black with the outer margir of the greater coverts edged with white. The Baltimore Oriole is the official bird of Maryland, so designated by the Legislature of 1947. Length about 8 inches.

BREEDING: Nests in tops of fine-twigged trees like elms; nest is a work of art, beautifully woven, hanging from branch tips; known as "tailor bird" in some places; if strands of various colored strings are placed nearby in conspicuous places, the orioles will weave them in the nest. Eggs 4 to 6, white with streaks or dots of brown. Nests so strong will last through the blasts of three or four winters. The female weaves the nest.

HABITS: Feeds mostly on insects gleaned from tree tops; some plant foods which, unfortunately includes grapes, bunches of which are ruined for market purposes.

MANAGEMENT: Numbers probably decreasing, but little if anything can be done by way of management of such a migratory bird.

VALUE: A valued protector of trees from certain insects; it's nest a marvel of workmanship, the bird a thing of beauty—a delight to both our eyes and ears.

Tableland Farming

A column devoted to agriculture in Garrett County

By John H. Carter
County Agent

William W. Nace
Soil Conservationist

Birdsfoot trefoil is a legume that we hear, or read about occasionally and may be tempted to use, especially in a pasture mixture. We need to know a lot more about its local performance than we do now before it is recommended for general use. And yet it is likely worthwhile for anyone making a pasture seeding to do a little testing of his own to see how Birdsfoot will perform.

This long-lived perennial legume has the appearance of a weak-stemmed alfalfa. In addition to the three terminal leaflets, there are two opposite leaflets at the base of the leaf stem. The flowers usually open in June. They are shaped like the blossoms of garden peas, and are a brilliant yellow. The seed pods resemble slender bean pods, about an inch in length. They are borne in clusters that look like a bird's foot, and give the plant its name. There is a branched top-root, and a dense system of shallow roots. It will grow on dry hillsides, or on land too wet for most other legumes.

We think that Birdsfoot should not be used for pastures where it is known that Ladino Clover will do well, and where Landino would be carefully managed. Its best use would be to supplement or replace little white clover in permanent pastures that cannot be managed as carefully as Ladino must be if it is to persist. While Birdsfoot stems may grow to a total length of three feet or more, it will stand close grazing if necessary, and can even bear seeds when grazed to three inches or less.

Four or five years ago, Harry Porter, Sr., found some Birdsfoot Trefoil growing along an old road at the edge of Paul Sebold's farm, near McHenry, and then discovered that it was growing thick in several pastures on that farm and adjoining pastures on the farm of Ward Savage. Evidently no one had planted it, and no one knew how long it has been there. It must have been started from a few seeds, accidentally, and spread by grazing animals. There are several places in New York where Birdsfoot has spread naturally over extensive pasture areas.

Three years ago, the Soil Conservation District bought a small quantity of seed for small plantings in different parts of the county, to see if the plant would spread as it has on the two farms near McHenry. Some of the farmers who made these plantings are Willard Swartzentruber, Arthur Fitzwater, Fred Glotfelty, Dorsey Guard, John Schlossnagle, Sam Teets, Isaac Elliott, and Alphonsus Weimer. It is too soon to tell what the results will be, although there are signs that it is starting to spread in one or two places.

If you are planning to seed a pasture and think that Birdsfoot may be desirable, it would be wise to contact the County Agent or the Soil Conservation District for some additional information. It requires special inoculation, and is slow to get started. The plant is highly palatable and nutritious in pastures. It may be that under some circumstances it would be a good hay plant where it is necessary to keep permanent hay on land too wet for alfalfa.

Candidates Announce

FOR STATE SENATOR

To the Citizens of Garrett County:

I am a candidate for the office of State Senator from Garrett County.

I have been a resident of Garrett County for the past forty-three years. I was County Treasurer from 1947 through 1950 and have served in the House of Delegates during the years 1927 through 1930, in 1945 and 1946 and in 1951 up until the present time. In the Sessions of 1952, 1953 and 1954 I was elected Minority Leader by the Republican members of the House. As such, I was a member of the Rules Committee, the Ways and Means and of the Legislative Council. The information and knowledge I will gather at the Council meetings this year will be of great value to our County and State if I am elected to this office.

I feel that my background as a farmer, a veteran of World War I, a merchant, an employee of the Board of Education (all of which I have been in the past) together with my experience as County Treasurer and as a member in the House of Delegates for seven regular and three special sessions fit me for this office.

I make no idle campaign promises, but, if elected, I pledge to follow the same policies and serve my County and my State in the same manner as in the past. I will give careful and thoughtful consideration to any suggestions and will earnestly endeavor, at all times, to keep myself worthy of the confidence placed in me by the Citizens of Garrett County.

BITTINGER

"The Serpent" wrecked man's garden fair,
By the venom in his tongue.
The lie he told to Adam there
From which all evil sprung.

A miniature winter was experienced in this section last Sunday and Monday when intermittent snow squalls turned all the landscape into an ideal winter scene. Snow fell in thick sheets and although it melted almost as rapidly as it fell, on Monday morning there was considerable accumulation of snow in sheltered spots and everyone kept indoors by their fires as much as possible.

Marvin Beitzel, who recently underwent an operation, returned to his home here from the hospital and is reported as recovering very nicely.

Work on the new dwelling being erected by William E. Buckel on his farm is progressing rapidly and it is said that it will be completed in the near future.

County Agent John Carter, of Oakland, was a business caller in this neighborhood on Friday of last week.

Rev. Connell Chaney, of Accident, accompanied by Rev. Leatherman, were callers in this neighborhood one day last week.

Russell Pancake, of the C. and P. Telephone company, spent part of last week here completing the survey for the construction of the telephone lines which are contemplated for this region.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brenneman, of near Baltimore, visited their home folk here last Sunday.

The snow storm of last Sunday afternoon compelled the cancellation of the ball game between the Bittinger and Oakland teams.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Legeer and family, of near Baltimore, spent the week-end with their home folk here.

Local History Of Homemaker Clubs Given At Meeting

Program Held At Accident In Recognition Of National Home Demonstration Week

The history of Home Demonstration work in the county was featured at a meeting at Accident last Wednesday, May 5, in recognition of National Home Demonstration week.

Many charter members were among the 25 persons attending the program. The history was given by members of each of the clubs, with some of the clubs presenting their historical record in skits.

Extension work has grown in the county from a sewing club formed in Grantsville in 1916, with 23 members, to sixteen active Homemaker clubs in 1954 with 350 members.

There have been 12 home demonstration agents over the thirty-eight years to bring new information in different fields of homemaking through the Extension service. They were listed during the program as Miss F. E. Gerber, June, 1917, to December, 1919; Miss L. I. Henshaw, July, 1920, to October, 1921; Miss L. B. Green, September, 1924, to June, 1927; Miss Elsie M. Benthien, September, 1927, to June, 1931; Miss Margaret K. Burtis, October, 1931, to July, 1936; Miss Mildred Barton (Mrs. R. T. Dearborn, August, 1948, to 1950; Miss Ethel Grove, March, 1951.

Mrs. Irva Mickey, reporting for the Grantsville club, told of a "Ladies' Sewing club" organized in 1916. Mrs. A. F. Neil told of the Friendsville women's club organized in 1918. They met with the Accident club.

The Mt. Lake Park club was organized in 1924, later changing to Mt. Lake-Loch Lynn club, inactive in 1953; Accident club was organized in 1925. History of this club was given as an album with living pictures of projects, such as making hats, draping materials for dresses, planning kitchens, weight reduction, caning chairs and making aluminum trays. Of five clubs reported organized in 1925, information on ones at Hutton, Pleasant Valley and Sunnyside was all that was available.

The Oakland club, organized in 1927, featured dresses of that date for its presentation last Wednesday, and sang two songs. Mrs. Floyd Wensel gave a reading, Mrs. Truman Bittinger, active charter member, gave the early history and Mrs. Cecil Bittinger gave the history of the later years.

Mrs. Lawrence Brenneman held a history class to give history of Bittinger club, organized in 1927. Mrs. Asa Lewis, charter member of the Kempton club, organized in 1930, gave the history and exhibited a cover-all garment made for garden work, featuring the first dot snappers.

Defense Minded . . . . .

The county may well feel proud of the words of commendation expressed through our state leaders and city newspapers concerning its citizens' interest in civil defense, in comparison to other areas of the nation.

No small part of that is due to the civic minded people of Kitzmiller. With comparatively little help from the outside the citizens of this community completed a fine rescue building and defense training center. It is one of the first of its kind constructed in the east on a community cooperative basis and local people did the actual construction work.

In the course of the dedication ceremonies yesterday it was learned that 400 or more people of that community have taken at least one course in civil defense activities and many of them have taken more than one. They have kept themselves prepared while others in the county have lagged.

During World War II, when there was visible danger, many people were volunteers for various tasks of civil defense. There is still grave danger but a lot of people won't believe it until it's right under our noses. As the governor remarked yesterday, "Who is there among us who can fathom the depths of madness in the minds of ambitious dictators?"

The governor advocated constant enrollment activity, constant training of new volunteer personnel and constant assignment to duties and posts. This has been done particularly at Kitzmiller.

If the rest of the county showed the same realism about this civil defense business as the people of Kitzmiller, Garrett county would be outstanding when stacked against other counties of the nation.

A respectful salute to them is very much in order.

Value Of Scouting Stressed At Annual District Meeting

The value of organizations such as the Boy Scouts of America in pointing the direction for youth, so that the future will be secure, was emphasized Tuesday night at the first annual meeting of the Deep Creek Scout District. Speaking on this subject was Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State School.

The dinner was held at the Mt. Lake Hotel with 48 in attendance, including Potomac Council officials. Present were Julian Patrick, council commissioner, Westernport, and his wife; Harry Biggs, Westernport, member of the Executive board of Potomac Council; Dr. Dixon Whitworth, district chairman of the Tri-Towns area and member of the Executive board, and his wife; Miles G. Get Scoutmaster Key

A surprise presentation of two scoutmasters' keys to Ralph M. Rauber, scoutmaster of Oakland Troop No. 31; and Harold M. Lantz, scoutmaster of Crellin Troop No. 41, was made by Lewis R. Jones, chairman of leadership training. Keys are given as a result of completion of leadership training courses and a number of other requirements, which would mean the same kind of work as a scout does in order to win an award of Eagle scout.

Officers Elected

Rev. John J. Atwell was re-elected chairman of Deep Creek District for another year. Joseph Welch was named vice-chairman and Elmer Upole was re-elected as scout commissioner.

There were reports of district operating committees, and entertainment was by Thomas Turney, who did a hill billy pantomime. Group singing was led by Beeson Snyder, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Russell Brown.

Firebrick Plant At Jennings Sold For $2,375,000

Is Second Largest Transaction Ever Consummated In Garrett County

The Harbison-Walker Refractories company of Pittsburgh, Pa., has purchased the Union Firebrick Company's plant at Jennings, for $2,375,000, it was learned this week in the office of the clerk of the Circuit court. It was the second largest transaction ever consummated in Garrett county and required Maryland recordation stamps in the amount of $2,612.50, which goes into the general fund of the county.

The deeds for the transfer of the property were recorded this week at the court house and revealed that the Union Firebrick company and the Garrett County Refractories corporation gave deeds to R. Green Annan, liquidating agent, of Pittsburgh, and he in turn deeded the property to the Harbison-Walker Refractories company, also of Pittsburgh.

The amount paid was for right, title and interest in 27.7182 acres of land on which is located the Jennings firebrick factory, and also part of a tract of land called Andalusia, containing 20 acres.

The plan of complete liquidation of the Union Fire Brick company was duly adopted by directors and shareholders of the corporation in an informal action on May 10, 1954, the records showed.

The Garrett county concern has been manufacturing firebrick from clay and other materials for the past eight years since the Jennings plant was built in 1946.

Meanwhile work is continuing at the Jennings plant while negotiations are being completed on the purchase. Officials of the new concern have not indicated what plans they have for the firebrick plant. Over one hundred persons were employed there until recently when the figure dropped to around 60. Also reportedly included in the deal was some fire clay property at Ohiopyle, Pa.

Green Annan, Pittsburgh, was listed as president of the Union Firebrick company and C. I. Young is plant superintendent at Jennings.

The largest transaction completed in the county was on February 28, 1942, when the Youghiogheny Hydro-Electric corporation sold its holdings in the county to the Pennsylvania Electric company. The figure in that case was over $3,000,000 judging from the amount of recordation stamps. The amount of stamps was $3,473.25 which are issued at the rate of $1.10 per thousand of actual amount of sale.

Officers Named By Southern Hi P.-T.A.

At a regular meeting of the Southern High School Parent-Teacher association on Monday evening, John Wolf was elected president, succeeding Howard D. Naylor, who had served during the past year.

From 350 to 400 persons turned out for the final meeting of this school term. A style show by the home economics groups of the high school featured. The girls modeled the clothes they had made during the year. The Junior High school band furnished music. In charge of this part of the program were Mrs. John Carter, Mrs. Glenn Randol, Mrs. Russell Brown, Miss Frances Patterson, Miss Janet Hyre, and Harold B. Wright.

During the business session it was reported that over $400 net had been received from the sale of calendars and that this amount had been turned over to the Athletic and Band funds.

Three Young Men Held After Fire In Warehouse

Three Charges Placed Against Oakland Trio; Held For Court

Three Oakland young men are being held in the Garrett county jail under $2,500 bond each on three charges in connection with a fire late Sunday night which caused considerable damage to the State Roads commission storage warehouse on 8th street, in Oakland.

The three were identified as Charles Truman Herman, aged 22; Charles Wade Ashby, 18; and Perry Donald Lewis, 20. They were ordered held for court under $2,500 cash bond each after they appeared before Trial Magistrate W. O. Bitzer Tuesday morning. The bond was set after State's Attorney W. Dwight Stover, prayed a jury trial. Herman was represented by Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., but the other two had no counsel.

Specific charges docketed against the trio included:

1. Breaking and entering the State Roads Commission garage with intent to steal seven gallons of gasoline.

2. Violation of section 11 of article 27 of the annotated code of Maryland in which they are charged with causing to burn or burning the State Roads company garage during the perpetration of a crime; and

3. Malicious destruction of property.

The bond was set at $1,000 each on the first two charges and $500 each on the third charge.

Edward P. Kahl, maintenance engineer for the SRC in this county, testified at the hearing that the fire caused damage of $8,500 to the building, five trucks, an air compressor, and road signs.

The three young men were arrested by Sheriff Paul Fisher and Trooper first class Robert D. Henline, of the State police, on Monday afternoon. Fisher said the three had admitted being in the warehouse at the time of the blaze, adding that one of the three called in the alarm before they became panicky and ran.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the SRC in Cumberland, praised the prompt work of the Oakland Volunteer Fire company "which undoubtedly saved many thousands of dollars worth of heavy equipment in the building."

One 7½ ton truck, costing over $12,000, another large truck with an air compressor, and three smaller trucks were stored in the building along with road signs, tools and other equipment. The loss was covered by insurance.

Fisher said about 25 volunteers responded to the alarm after 11 p. m. Sunday. They removed the heavier equipment from the frame warehouse and extinguished the fire in a short time.

Investigation indicated the three men had entered the warehouse supposedly to siphon gasoline from the truck tanks. While in the building the fire started from a spark or when one of the youths lighted a cigaret, Fisher surmised. They fled after sounding the alarm.

Authorities said numerous complaints had been received in the past three or four months of damage to county and state roads heavy equipment while siphoning or attempting to siphon gas.

Construction On Hospital Wing To Start Next Week

Construction work on the new wing to the Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland is expected to get under way next week, it was announced yesterday by Dana S. Johannes, one of the architects involved. Johannes, of Johannes and Murray, architects, of Silver Spring, said he had met with the contractor in Cumberland yesterday and then came here for final arrangements with the Board of County Commissioners.

He said he had received word on Tuesday that final approval concerning the government's share of the cost had been given by the U. S. Public Health Service, which is acting under authority of the Hill-Burton act, the same one in effect when the main part of the hospital was constructed. The Federal government will provide one-third of the cost of the new construction.

Low bid was $277,480 by the George F. Hazelwood company.

Mr. Johannes said the contract called for completion of the new wing in 300 calendar days.

Civil Defense Planning May Prevent War

So Governor McKeldin Declared Yesterday At Kitzmiller As Building Is Dedicated

Civil defense planning is one of the things that can keep America from war, Governor Theodore R. McKeldin told an estimated 1,000 persons yesterday when he spoke at the dedication of Kitzmiller's civil defense building.

He emphasized that the ability of this country to remain strong, and to be able to meet any attack, is the best assurance that none will come. "That attack may never come," he said. "We hope it never shall—but that hope does not lessen the hazard. While hoping for the best we must prepare for the worst."

The activities at Kitzmiller began at two o'clock when several Air Force planes staged an aerial show over the town. A parade of Northern and Southern High school bands, civil defense and mine rescue equipment and personnel, fire departments and Red Cross float proceeded through the town, ending at the civil defense building where the ceremonies took place. Governor McKeldin was introduced by Walter W. Dawson, who acted as master of ceremonies. Visitors to the town were welcomed by J. J. Walker and the group was led in singing The Star Spangled Banner by Olonzo P. Fike.

The building was dedicated to civil defense use by Sherley Ewing, director of civil defense for the State of Maryland. Later, a demonstration on rescue operations was given by the Kitzmiller Mine Rescue group, holder of national championships in this activity.

The new building, recently completed through community effort, will house the Bureau of Mines rescue equipment and will provide quarters for training various civil defense and rescue units in this section of the state.

Kitzmiller's serious interest in rescue activities dates from November, 1948, when five men lost their lives in a mine disaster. Following this, other miners and Kitzmiller citizens began to train themselves to meet emergencies.

Civil defense officials pointed out that the existence of such teams, trained to work under emergency conditions and with a proper knowledge of scientific rescue procedures, would be of invaluable assistance in metropolitan centers should an enemy inflict considerable damage. The methods used in mine rescue could easily be adapted to work in demolished buildings, it was stated.

Governor McKeldin said Garrett County would be the "ideal place of refuge for our people from Baltimore, Washington or Pittsburgh." He commended local citizens for their "realization of the things that are necessary, as indicated by the establishment of this fine rescue building and other activities."

The afternoon's activities were followed by a dinner on the school grounds, a concert by the combined high school bands of the county, and a dance.

The committee which arranged the affair includes J. J. Walker, general chairman; Melvin Arnold, A. W. Barrick, W. H. Norman, entertainment; Rodney Selders and J. Paul Ewing, invitations; C. C. McIntyre, G. D. Dick and Gerald R. Iman, publicity; Frank Burgess, I. C. Hutson, H. B. Buckley, C. B. Kimble, J. J. Walker and W. H. Norman, program; J. Banning, Dr. Ralph Calandrella, R. D. Work Party To Beautify Cemetery

At a meeting of the residents of the Deep Creek section held last Monday evening in the Deep Creek Baptist Church, it was decided to organize a "work party" to beautify the Thayerville Cemetery. This effort was started last year and has been carried forward until the cemetery, at present, is in the best condition it has ever been.

Those interested in the preservation of this land-mark, however, are not satisfied to let it deteriorate through any further neglect. As a result a call has been sounded for all lot owners, or those having loved ones interred in this spot by the lake, to assemble this Saturday morning to assist in the labor of keeping the cemetery in as beautiful a condition as possible. Contributions of labor or funds will be appreciated by the committee of residents who have been appointed to supervise the work.

ONE WORD . . .

Can Change Your Life

By REV. ROBT. OLEWILER
Pastor, Grace Reformed Church
Washington, D. C.

Example

God has given you and me responsibility for certain young lives. Even if you aren't a parent, there are some young people to whom you are an example.

"If you would plan for a year, plant grain;" runs a Chinese proverb. "If you would plan for 10 years, plant trees; if you would plan for a hundred years, plant men."

What kind of an excuse can we give to God if we fail to plant men, to train our young people in His service? Will we say: "I was always so busy I didn't have time; I couldn't help out in Church School because Sunday was the only day I had for golf; I thought someone else would look after their souls."

When you're really sincere about this matter, you'll recognize how much young people depend upon your example, the word that can change your life.

Going on Range A Critical Period in Poult's Life

Turkey growers can't afford to sit back and relax with the attitude that "the worst is over," if they have successfully brought their poults through the brooding stage.

"Poults go through one of the two most critical periods in their life when they are placed on range to complete their growing period," cautions Wade H. Rice, University of Maryland extension poultryman. He says the other of the "two most critical periods" is when poults go into the brooder.

The change in environment when poults go on range is a severe test of a poult's ability to survive. Rice points out that growers who check all details to minimize the shock of the change usually grow the best birds.

One of these details is to consult weather map forecasts and pick a period of mild, clear weather for moving the birds to range. It is also a good idea to confine poults to the range shelters for the first day to help them get settled to their new environment.

"Of course, birds should be provided with plenty of feed and water. It is also important to protect them from sudden storms and help them settle down for the night," the poultry specialist adds.

And just to be sure that everything is going alright, growers are urged to check the birds several times each day to correct any unfavorable developments.

Is There No Limit? . . .

Recently the Charleston Daily Mail newspaper carried a news item about a mother of seven illegitimate children who dropped into one of the hospitals there about 3:30 a. m., to have the eighth. Having done this she checked out, explaining that she had to get home in time to get the others off to school.

The Mail follows up this little story with an editorial which has been copied widely in West Virginia and which we feel should be of interest to every person who is interested in good government.

The editorial follows:

"Careful readers of this newspaper may have noticed the other day the story about the mother of seven illegitimate children who dropped into one of our hospitals about 3:30 a. m. to have the eighth. Having done this, she checked out, explaining that she had to get home in time to get the others off to school.

"This is all that we knew about the case at the time, and since we had no wish to capitalize upon what most people would regard as a misfortune, we let it go at that. But it does raise, quite apart from the question of personal morality and responsibility, some interesting problems.

"One illegitimacy we can understand. Two in one family is not uncommon, and occasions no comment beyond the observation that such things do happen and society must, in fairness to the children, shoulder the burden. It is too late to do much about their parents, but the children themselves make a special case for sympathetic care and protection.

"But eight in one family is quite another matter. This is plainly not a case of isolated waywardness, enlightened by a sense of repentance and a firm resolve to go and sin no more. In this instance there seems to be an addiction to a way of life which raises, among other things, a disturbing question as to who is paying for this delinquency.

"In this instance, we are informed, the Department of Public Assistance, which is to say the people of West Virginia, pays the bill, meeting the cost of the hospitalization and contributing to the support of the children through the program for aid to dependent children.

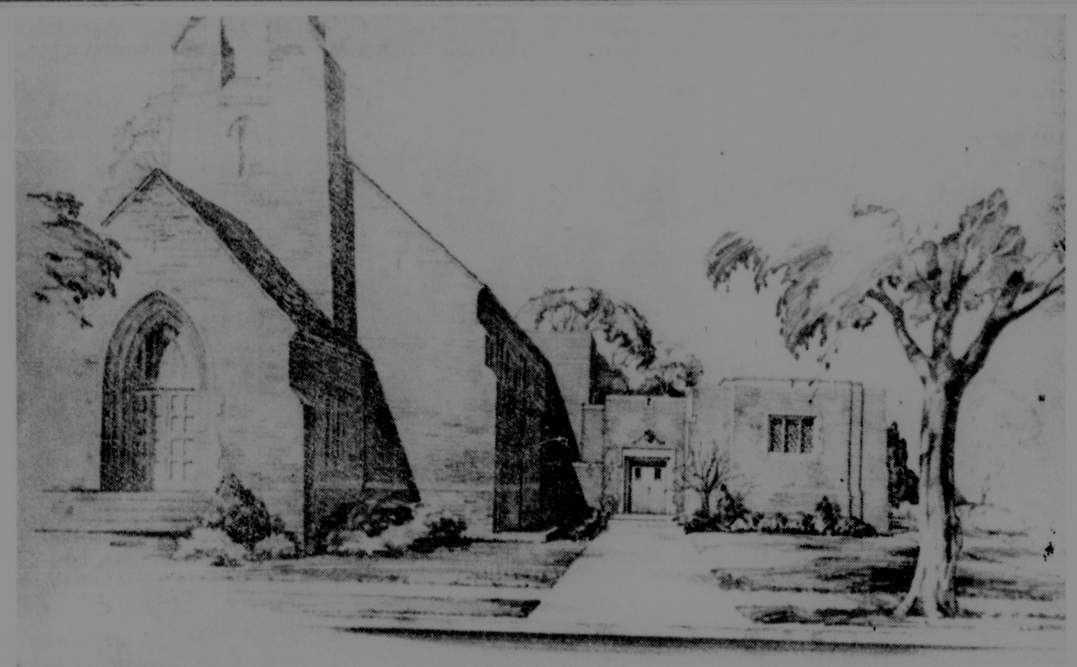
"The humanity of this we suppose, cannot be questioned. The legality, we are assured, is quite clear. In the absence of the father or proof of his inability to support his offspring, the responsibility for the care of children falls upon the state.

"But all the assurances on this score do not answer what is certainly the fundamental question? What is the state set up to do in these cases—care for dependent children or subsidize their illegitimacy?

"On the eighth arrival, we would think some searching questions are in order."

This case in West Virginia is not so unusual as it might seem. We hear of similar cases in this state and perhaps in our own county where the department of public welfare provides payments to unwed mothers for bearing children out of wedlock.

Most persons would agree with The Daily Mail that some searching questions are in order concerning the matter.



PROPOSED ADDITION—The above is an architect's drawing of a proposed addition to St. Paul's Methodist church in Oakland which will provide more space for recreation and Sunday School activities. A recreation room 19 by 59 feet will be provided on the ground floor with a large fireplace and also an activities room 17½ by 20 feet. Separated by modernfold doors, they can be made into one large recreation hall. The second floor will house the children's department of the church school. There will be a children's chapel 19 by 28 feet and three class rooms for the primary department about 10 by 14 and a large room for the beginners' department 20x29. The ground floor also will provide for a new furnace room 11½ by 20, with the room now being used for this purpose added to the church kitchen and greatly increasing it in size. The building will be of fire proof design, constructed of concrete blocks, concrete and steel with a brick veneer to match the present church building. The cost of the recreational hall will be met through a bequest of the late Miss Grace Loar in the amount of $25,000. Dr. W. S. Patterson, pastor, said an estimate for the complete building has not yet been made. When made it will be submitted with the preliminary plans to members of the church for their approval. When approved, the plans will be made to raise the additional amount required.

Historic Bridge Closed To Traffic

The State Roads Commission has ordered closed to all traffic the historic high arch stone bridge on Route 40, spanning the Castleman river. An investigation disclosed that water had damaged some of the stone work on the approaches leading to the arch, making it unsafe.

Built in 1813, the bridge was in continuous use until 1933, when the highway at that point was relocated and a modern steel and concrete bridge built.

The Roads commission plans a survey to determine what might be done to preserve the historic span.

Many folks already are finding great satisfaction in new work, arts, hobbies, begun well past "retirement age." This young view of life is expected to develop enormously as more medical discoveries are made in the field of geriatrics. Ask your doctor about them. You may be sure anything he prescribes will be available for you here.

Representative Seniors at Southern

MISS AND MR. HIGHLANDER—Miss Ruth Cooper and Howard Sweitzer were chosen by their classmates as most representative of the senior class at Southern High School this year. Bells' Studio Photo

"Youth" is the theme of this year's "The Highlander," yearbook of Southern High School. Symbolizing this theme are Miss and Mr. Highlander, two members of the high school class of 1954 who were chosen by their classmates as the most representative youth of this year's class. Winning the honor of Miss and Mr. Highlander of 1954 were Ruth Cooper and Howard Sweitzer. Other students chosen as nominees for the title were Patricia Burrell, John White, Norma Campbell, Dale Ream, Arthur Cullers, Gene Ridder, Donna Weimer, and Thomas Bernard. All ten of these students were selected by the senior class on the basis of character, leadership, friendliness, and scholastic attainment. Patricia Burrell and John White were very close second choices, Miss Roberta Cogley, adviser, stated.

The cover design of the 1954 Highlander is an original sketch by Gladys Harsh, depicting this year's theme of "Youth." This theme is further emphasized by photography and the topical divisions—Youth Respects Leadership, Youth Makes Friends, Youth Participates, Youth is Sportsminded, and Youth Belongs.

The publication of the book was under the direction of Patricia Burrell, editor, and Ruth Cooper, assistant editor. Other managers and staff members include Fred Sims, photography editor and advertising manager, assisted by Dale Schlossnagle, William Johnson, and Linda Pritts; Janice Mersing, business manager; Gene Ridder, copy editor; Gladys Harsh and Jackie Groves, art editors; Eugene Williams and Shirley Shaffer, sales managers; Norma Campbell and Shirley Rohrbaugh, circulation managers; Doris Heise, Mary Bennett, Juanita Beckman, Alma Crosier and others, as typists. All art work was originally sketched by students.

"The Highlander" is a pictorial review of the school year. It contains pictures of all of this year's graduates, faculty members and underclassmen. Also pictured are the athletic teams, school organizations, and social events and main performances of the year.

This is the second year for the production of The Highlander. Last year's publication, under the editorship of John Hanst, received commendation from the Columbia Press Association.

Officers elected to serve in the auxiliary were Pearl E. McKenzie, of Grantsville, president; Catherine Eggers, Oakland, vice-president; Wilma Ross, Frostburg, secretary-treasurer.

MARYLAND WILDLIFE

ROBIN

(Turdus migratorius migratorius.)

RANGE: The best known and best loved bird in North America; it is found over most of the United States and Canada and from Alaska to Mexico; common through all of Maryland from early spring through fall; most of them migrate, in flocks, south in fall, appearing in numbers in March; many winter in Maryland; probably more plentiful today than in years past, due to the clearing of forests and better protection.

DESCRIPTION: About 10 inches long; head black, breast red, tail blackish and slightly rounded, bill yellow; breast of young spotted, as in most other members of the thrush family.

BREEDING: Males generally arrive first in the spring and fight for their "territory"; nests in low trees, under eaves, sometimes in rainspouts and mailboxes; frequently raises, if lucky, two broods a season; Lays 4-5 eggs, of a green-blue color (robin's egg blue).

HABITS: Food largely earthworms, also grasshoppers, beetles, cut worms and many other insects; some small fruits in season such as cherries, unfortunately.

MANAGEMENT: Little more can be done to increase this valuable species than has been and is being done, with remarkable results; they have materially increased as agriculture has advanced and the heavy forests have receded; formerly shot, mostly south of the Mason and Dixon Line, for food; have increased in some sections to a point where they have become a nuisance, especially when cherries and other small fruits are ripe.

VALUE: The esthetic value of the friendly robin, also called "redbreast" cannot be estimated, as their cheery presence around farms and houses and villages, and their familar calls, give pleasure to millions; nor can its value as an insect destroyer be accurately calculated in dollars and cents; their presence makes this old world a better place to live in.

SAVE 160 GALLONS OF MILK PER CALF

Yessir, you may actually save 160 gallons of milk with every calf you raise on Calf Startena instead of whole milk. You can count on better growth, less scours, and heifers big enough to breed when 15-16 months old, when the Purina Calf program is followed.

Many dairymen in this area report calves fed Calf Startena are weighing 50-60 lbs. more at four months than the standard used by Morrison.

More than 1,000 calves have been raised on this program at the Purina Research Farm. Highest death loss any year was two calves!

—o—

GREEN GRASS IS NOT ENOUGH

The cow in this illustration is milking herself into the pail. This often happens in the spring when grass is tender and juicy. Cows like it, but because of its high water content, they can't eat enough grass to supply nutrients for their body and production.

Sure production increases; new grass is highly stimulating. But she's producing at body expense. Then when summer rolls round, already down in body weight, she begins her "summer slump" in milk. So don't rob your cows...keep 'em on a good Purina milking ration. Ask your dealer about Dairy Chow.

CHICKS IN?

We hope you smart folks who ordered early chicks to take advantage of high fall egg prices are getting your brooder houses ready. Next sunny day, sweep and scrape it down clean, then disinfect the whole inside, feeders and founts, too, with Purina Disinfectant.

When it dries, put down litter and set up the stove, brooder ring and feeders. Finally, we advise running the stove for 24 hours before chicks are due to make sure it's properly regulated and to warm up the house.

Pick up your Purina Startena when you get the chicks. Takes only 2 pounds per chick, and that's the cheapest investment in fast growth and chick vigor we know about. And Startena is now selling for the lowest price in years!

—o—

MANY POULTRMEN around here, both those with laying flocks and those who are selling hatching eggs, have fed Purina Booster Checkers at noon through the fall and winter. During this period of extra high production they find that Booster Checkers help to keep them up in good body condition.

—o—

EGGS WILL BE SCARCE THIS FALL, TOO!

Remember the September headlines about egg shortages? Spring storage stocks were exhausted and egg prices were zooming. That's the typical situation that recurs every year. There'll be a shortage of eggs next Sepetmber, too.

We wish more of our customers would plan ahead and have birds in full production during this period of top egg prices. Folks around here who buy good chicks, get 'em early and grow 'em right always seem to have plenty of egg money to spend.

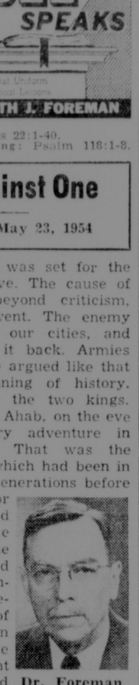
400 Against One

Lesson for May 23, 1954

EVERYTHING was set for the great offensive. The cause of the war was beyond criticism, as those days went. The enemy controls one of our cities, and we aim to get it back. Armies and nations have argued like that since the beginning of history. So it looked to the two kings, Jehoshaphat and Ahab, on the eve of their military adventure in Ramoth-Gilead. That was the name of a city which had been in Israelite hands generations before this and now for some time had been under the domination of the aggressive and land-hungry country of Syria. Jehoshaphat, King of Judah, had been a strong and wise king as kings went in Judah; and even Ahab, bad as his reputation is in history, had been a rather strong king of Israel. These two, uniting against Syria—how could they lose?



Dr. Foreman

* * *

Yes-Men

Ahab was never bothered by a conscience, but Jehoshaphat had misgivings. He sincerely wanted to know how God thought of all this. He felt in his heart that if God did not approve, the whole venture was sure to fail. So he asked his royal colleague Ahab to find out what was the word of the Lord about all this. This was Jehoshaphat's first mistake, for Ahab was the last man to know, or to want to know, the will of God. However, Ahab, being up-to-date and very rich besides, had a stable of yes-men whom he called prophets, men he hired, men who knew on which side their bread was buttered. It seems ridiculous to call such men prophets, but false prophets look and sound very much like true ones—especially when they tell us what we want to hear! So Ahab called a meeting of these yes-men and asked them the question: Shall I go to battle? Their answer was prompt, it was just what the king wanted to hear, as they well knew. What is God's will? Go, by all means. What will come of it, how will the battle go? The Lord will give it into King Ahab's hands. Two lies; perhaps the prophets knew it, perhaps not. Perhaps they did not care whether it was true or not; all they knew was what they were paid to say, and they said it. "Whom the gods destroy, they first make mad," says an ancient Roman proverb. We could revise that and not be far wrong: Whom God wishes to destroy, he first surrounds with yes-men.

Truth No Matter What

Jehoshaphat was still nervous. Unanimous opinion about a debatable question is suspicious in any language. So he asked if the king had any more prophets. Well, yes, there was one, a man named Micaiah—only you will never hear anything good from him, said Ahab. However, Micaiah was sent for, and in his coming and in what he said he put his name on the honor roll of history. Micaiah had everything against him; the vote in the Prophets' Association was 400 to 1; the king would not believe him, the war would start, and would fail, anyhow; and furthermore Micaiah himself would never be thanked for telling the truth and might end his days eating bread and water in jail. Nevertheless, Micaiah, being a true prophet, knew what the truth was, knew God's will and mind, and dared to speak it out. The world needs Micaiahs. We have any number of men who will tell the truth when it is popular, when people will believe them, when it "gets them" something.

This story shows, moreover, what a mistake it is to decide what is right and what is wrong by counting votes. Even if the vote is 400 to 1, the one man may be right. Even if Micaiah were silenced (as he was) and his "sour note"—as Ahab thought it—no longer disturbed that beautiful harmony of the 400 yes-men, they still could not make a lie true by agreeing on it. In a democratic country like ours we tend to forget this. We decide so many things by popular vote, that we come to suppose we can settle what is right and what is wrong, by popular vote. We read in a book that a great majority of people interviewed by the author do what we have always known was wrong.

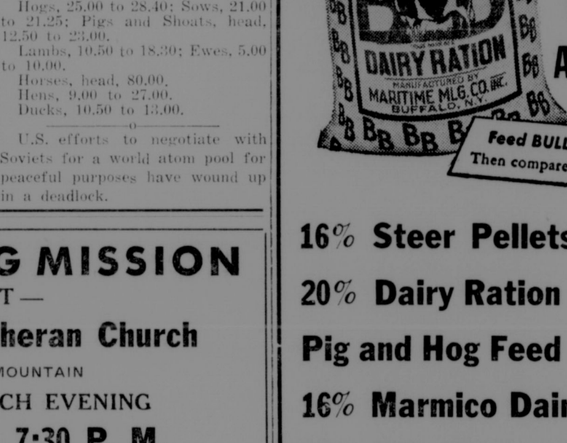
THE RACE OF LIFE


Life is much like this race. It is a handicap, a struggle against odds, a contest to be won.

This race begins in the cradle when the "little man" bangs his first rattle against the crib. It continues when he takes his first step, rides his first bike, carries his first books to school, and comes home with his first girl friend.

Preparation for living is all-important. Our children have so much to gain, so very much to lose. They will need robust health, a well-rounded education, but most important of all, they will need moral and spiritual strength. They must learn to interpret God's will concerning their lives.

Take your children to Church, so that their future destiny may be guided by God's word. And by example, show them how the most important race of all can be won—the race of life.

HOLY BIBLE
THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The Passing Scene

Speed and Carelessness Killed 29,900 in 1953.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

The Port of Baltimore is of vital importance to the economy of Maryland, and that is why I have opposed construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

As a member of the House of Representatives I became very familiar with the seaway since it annually came up before the Committee on Public Works, of which I was a member. During my present term in the Senate I objected to the project, but despite the concerted efforts of the Maryland Congressional delegation the project was finally passed, and the act signed by the President.

The version which finally reached the President's desk is not nearly as grandoise as its sponsors originally desired, and it is highly unlikely that any deep-draft ocean-going vessels will be going through the canal on their way to inland ports.

The seaway will, however, offer some competition to our port, particularly for bulk cargoes, such as wheat, which Baltimore is well prepared to handle.

And all the news about our port is not bad. The Eisenhower Administration has now approved a $94,000,000 improvement program to the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal, which links the ports of Philadelphia and Baltimore and the two avenues of ocean commerce—the Chesapeake Bay and the Delaware River.

These improvements will widen the canal to 450 feet, deepen it, provide bridges with greater clearance, and generally permit the movement of many more ships.

canal to 450 feet, deepen it, provide bridges with greater clearance, and generally permit the movement of many more ships.

Shipping interests have long sought these improvements, which Speaker of the House Martin said were gained through the hard work of Congressman Edward T. Miller and his Republican colleagues.

The C. & D. Canal is of great significance in the Port of Baltimore's future, and will put it in a much better position to compete with the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The seaway will not be completed for a number of years and in the meantime the port will have an opportunity to plan to offset whatever detrimental effect the seaway might have.

As the Baltimore Sun put it, "But Baltimore did not win its high position in world commerce without competition. It has sustained its position against strong and formidable competition. It did so by offering services which would stand up against competitors."

The $94,000,000 program for improving the C & D Canal will certainly be an asset to the Port and an added attraction to shippers who may desire to use either the Port in Baltimore or Philadelphia.

The multi-million dollar program also demonstrates that the Eisenhower Administration and Maryland's representatives in Congress are interested in the future of the Port of Baltimore.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

Last week, the Senate of the United States unanimously adopted a Senate Joint Resolution to add the words "Under God" to the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. This legislation would change the pledge to read as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

In supporting this proposal, I welcomed the opportunity to take my stand with those who would reaffirm the unique and fundamental basis upon which this government was founded, namely, that man was created by God who bestowed upon his creatures certain rights, and that for the protection and fuller enjoyment of these rights was our Government instituted, deriving all its legitimate power from the consent of the people.

There is much need in this day of aggressive secularism, sterile materialism and rampant atheism for our people to restate and rededicate themselves to the spiritual tradition and heritage which gave birth to, nurtured, and sustained this great nation through the years of soul trying tribulation. I am of the firm opinion that the foundation stone of our great constitutional structure and the spirit which pervades our law and respect for the dignity and inviolability of the human person is precisely the recognition that God is the author of all, and that no action which transgresses His will can have any permanence or validity.

If this sanction is denied, nothing stands in the way of pure expediency and power, which is the essence of all totalitarianism. What man gives, man can, without compunction, take away; what God gives, only God can rightfully deny.

We have said this in our Declaration of Independence, in our Constitution, on our coins. Let us seize this opportunity to proclaim it again in our pledge of allegiance to the flag, so that all the world may know that the reason for our greatness and strength lies not in a larger bomb or collection of gadgets, but in an idea that is larger than and encompasses all the world.

Senator Ferguson of Michigan, the sponsor of this measure stated that "It relates to belief in God in whom we sincerely repose our trust. We know that America cannot be defended by guns, planes and ships alone. Appropriations and expenditures for defense will be of value only if the God under whom we live believes that we are in the right. We should at all times recognize God's province over the lives of our people and over this great nation."

For these reasons, I sincerely hope that the House of Representatives will now approve the action taken by the Senate.

Coverage Under Social Security Is Explained

Many people are under the erroneous impression that six quarters of coverage will make them fully and permanently insured under the Social Security Act. While it is true that some employees and self-employed individuals need only six quarters of coverage for a fully insured status, others may need as much as 40 quarters of coverage.

A quarter of coverage is any calendar quarter after the end of 1936 in which an individual is paid wages of at least $50 for employment covered by the social security law. Beginning January 1, 1951, a quarter of coverage is any calendar quarter in which a self-employed person is credited with net earnings of at least $100. Before any net earnings from self-employment may be credited to an individual's account, he must have self-employment net income of at least $400 for the taxable year.

In determining the quarters of coverage required for a fully insured status, the starting point is January 1, 1951. To find how many quarters a given individual needs from that starting point, count the calendar quarters up to the quarter in which the individual reaches age 65 or dies, whichever occurs first. Divide the total number of elapsed quarters by two and drop any odd numbers. The result will be the required quarters of coverage for the individual. A minimum of six quarters of coverage is required in all cases, and a maximum of 40 quarters of coverage will be required in some cases. In no case would an individual ever need more than 40 quarters of coverage. Quarters acquired in covered employment at any time after 1936 may be added to quarters gained in covered employment or self-employment after 1950 to make up the required amount.

All social security field offices are supplied with leaflets and booklets concerning the various benefits payable under the Social Security Act. Booklet OASI-35 "Your Social Security," contains much information of a general nature regarding the whole program.

There is no charge for any of the services provided by your social security field office, neither is there any charge for booklets and pamphlets. Your field office has been established to serve the needs of your community insofar as they apply to old-age and survivors insurance. Use its facilities. Remember that no benefits are payable under the Social Security Act until an application has been filed. If you have reason to believe that you may be entitled to benefits on your own record, or on that of a deceased relative, contact your field office. Remember, too, that delays in filing an application can be costly to beneficiaries, because back payments cannot be made for more than six months.

Discuss Ways to Up Tourist Trade

Ways to increase tourist vacation trade in the state were discussed at a conference last week called by Governor Theodore R. McKeldin at Annapolis. Helmuth Heise, president of the Deep Creek Lake Promotion council, was among those attending.

The group decided to form an organization and named Heise as one of the members of the board of directors.

Earl Poorbaugh, state director of information, announced that a contest would be held to determine the name of the organization, and that the contest would be definitely announced within a few days.

Tentative prizes are being arranged. The winner will have choice of a week's vacation, all expenses for two at Colonial hotel in Ocean City; a week's vacation, expenses for two at any place along Chesapeake Bay, or a week's vacation at some place on Deep Creek Lake. Also offered are prizes of 100 gallons of gasoline, Thanksgiving and Christmas turkeys, presented by Garrett County Turkey Growers, and others. Details are being worked out, Poorbaugh said.

Tableland Farming

A column devoted to agriculture in Garrett County
By John H. Carter
County Agent
William W. Nace
Soil Conservationist

The time of year is here for the beginning of general use of insecticides for control of injurious insects on garden, vegetable and field crops, as well as trees and shrubs. Although some insecticides may not be definitely poisonous, they can be very harmful to people if they are improperly used.

Special precautions should be taken to avoid inhaling irritating fumes or vapors from fumigants. Special emphasis should also be placed on the necessity of proper labeling for all insecticides and safe storage where children and animals cannot reach them.

Simple precaution is the most important thing to remember in the safe use of insecticides. The following are a few rules which point out the most important things to remember:

1. Follow the directions of the manufacturer in handling, mixing and applying.

2. Always spray or dust with the wind.

3. Wear respirators when there is danger of inhaling fumes. Only those approved by the U. S. Bureau of Mines for the particular job you are doing should be worn.

4. Gloves, long-sleeved shirts and clothing to cover the entire body are recommended.

5. Wash hands and other exposed parts of the body thoroughly with soap and water after using poisonous chemicals.

6. Store poisonous materials in strong leak-proof containers. Be certain that they are out of reach of children and livestock. Bury unused portions.

7. Thoroughly wash fruits and vegetables to which poisonous chemicals have been applied.

Doesn't Define Who Is Communist, Local Resident Asserts

Deer Park Road
Oakland, Maryland
May 14, 1954

The Editor
The Republican
Oakland, Maryland

Sir:

I was amazed to read in the issue of your newspaper dated May 13th an article entitled "The American Way" and subtitled "Who is a Communist?" by Willis E. Stone.

I confess that I have heard neither of Mr. Stone nor of the organization of which he is reported to be president, the American Progress Foundation.

Although he would not seem to be a widely known authority on political subjects, Mr. Stone, as far as I can make out from his article, undertakes to demonstrate that the United States is sorely in need of two things:

(1) A definition of Communism so that we may know precisely who is a Communist, and

(2) A Constitutional amendment which would prevent the federal government from engaging "in any business, professional, commercial, financial or industrial enterprise, except as specified in the Constitution."

I am at a loss to see what light Mr. Stone casts upon the first of these supposed problems. There seems to be no definition anywhere in his article of Communism or of a Communist. Mr. Stone does, however, make some arresting statements. For instance, he writes, "The McCarthy, Jenner and Velde Committees of Congress are doing an amazingly fine job against tremendous odds."

I admit that men of this ilk are working against "tremendous odds," but can't understand how any rational person could believe they are "doing an amazingly fine job." The "tremendous odds" are supplied by the millions of Americans who realize that the McCarthy type of demagoguery, Fascism, character assassination, mishandling of facts, falsehood, abuse of power, bullying, and boorish conduct constitute something less than "a fine job." It seems to me than any reservations anyone may have had on this score should have been dispelled by the current hearings on the disputes between Senator McCarthy and the Army. McCarthy has repeatedly been caught in misleading statements, attempts to palm off false and manufactured evidence, and the most uncouth behavior. He is a disgrace to the Senate, the electorate of Wisconsin, and the American people. One can only hope that by now he has become sufficiently discredited that his future utterances will be recognized for the twisted mass of half-truth which they usually are. McCarthy, as well as Mr. Stone, has supplied very little by way of a definition of Communism.

As to Mr. Stone's second point, one is moved to wonder whether he could begin to grasp the incalculable confusion which such an amendment would cause. Mr. Stone is looking for definitions. How would he define "any business, professional, commercial, financial or industrial?" One might gather from portions of his article that all this would include such projects as Social Security, government housing, and federal administration of waterways. Even if he should seriously oppose the beneficial legislation resulting from the awakened social consciousness of the past quarter century—an attitude sufficient in itself to betray his irresponsibility—his amendment will still lead to further dangers. Could this proposal not also conceivably be interpreted to include such "business" as hiring and firing personnel for government office work, such "professional" undertakings as the establishment of a Civil Service Administration, such "commercial" endeavors as regulating imports and exports, and such "industrial" enterprises as letting defense contracts?

It is not difficult to see what utter absurdities can be defended under the provisions of this proposed amendment.

In short, throughout this lamentable article Mr. Stone displays not only the most patent lack of reasoning and the most painful ignorance of the national welfare but also an extremely imprecise manner of thinking and a most threatening penchant for wooley-headed scheming.

In my opinion you have done your readers a grave dis-service by printing this unmitigated diatribe called "The American Way."

Sincerely yours,
Robert L. Smith

Southern Wins 8-0

Heckling by Oakland fans caused Thomas High school's baseball team to walk off the field in the fifth inning Tuesday afternoon with Southern High school out in front by the score of 8-0. The victory was the fifth straight for Coach Leonard Ritchie's undefeated Highlanders.

Sedmock, Thomas catcher, was charged with ten passed balls. Southern is scheduled to play four more games, two with Elk Garden and two with Northern High.

Along The Potomac

With Your Congressman
DeWITT S. HYDE

Events since the start of the Geneva conference have helped unfold the clearest foreign policy America has had since the end of World War II.

Under our Constitution the President, with whatever advice he wishes to seek, is solely responsible for making America's policy in foreign affairs. Here, from statements by President Eisenhower and his chief adviser, Secretary of State Dulles, are the main points of our present policy in the Indo-China situation:

1. Conditions in Indo-China are not suitable for present participation by American forces. There will be no present participation.

2. Communist Viet Minh forces have conquered a good portion of Viet Nam, including the fortress of Dien Bien Phu. Viet Nam is one of the three nations of Indo-China. Cambodia and Laos are the others. We are now in the process of forming a mutual security alliance with these countries and six others: Australia, New Zealand, Britain, France, Burma, and Thailand. All are concerned in the southeast Asian area. The alliance would be similar to our North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Since NATO came into effect, there has been no further Communist aggression attempted in the North Atlantic-European area.

3. The French, who have been defending Indo-China for eight years because the three countries there have been French colonies, are seeking a truce with the Viet Minh forces. If the truce arrangements endanger nobody's freedom, we will regard them as a step toward peace. We also insist that France give independence to its three colonies.

4. If a forthcoming truce should be unsuitable, or if fighting continues, AND if our nine-nation alliance is successful, intervention in Indo-China would become the policy of President Eisenhower.

The fourth point is the key to our immediate future with regard to this latest sample of Communist aggression. Looking back, we see that the international Communist movement has captured (in Asia) North Korea, Manchuria, Tibet, China and most of Viet Nam. Looking forward, we see no indication that, if left alone, the Reds will stop their march.

America, as the leader of the free world, is therefore taking the initiative in disrupting the Communists' evil plans. For the first time in half a century we have a new and definite policy toward Asia which contemplates no retreat from the enemies of freedom.

Hence we are now able to watch three unfolding events—the Geneva conference, our efforts to create a southeast Asian alliance and the battle in Indo-China—knowing that regardless of the outcome our policy is already established. There will be no need for hasty and perhaps ill-conceived action. And most important, we have the repeated assurance of President Eisenhower that should intervention become necessary, the case will be laid before Congress and its decision will be binding.

Commercial Students Get First Hand Training

Finzel School Has Highest Attendance

Finzel school, with an attendance of 99.9 percent, led all other schools of the county in attendance for April, it was announced by John L. Fitzwater, supervisor of pupil personnel. Finzel is one of eleven one-teacher schools remaining in the county.

Corunna had 98.2 for second among one-teacher schools, with Wilson, Bethlehem, East Vindex, and Lynndale all being above county average.

Southern High school with an enrollment of 969, had an attendance of 92.7, while Northern, with an enrollment of 731, had a percentage of 91.8.

Swanton led the two-teacher schools with 17.5, while Jennings, Deer Park, Bittinger and West Vindex were above the county average. Loch Lynn led the graded schools with 97 percent. Five other schools were above average in this group, Mt. Lake Park, Oakland, Red House, Crellin and Kitzmiller.

The report showed a total enrollment of 4,451, with 1,700 of those in the two high schools.

The work experience program of the Commercial department of Southern High school, under direction of F. DeNeal Dean, head of the Commercial department, was concluded on May 14.

Approximately 30 students in the office practice class participated in this activity which proved highly successful and beneficial from the standpoint of both the students and employers, Mr. Dean declared.

One of the purposes of the program was to give the students actual experience in working in the business office, working on machines, acting as receptionists, taking dictation and transcribing, filing, general typing, billing, bookkeeping and general record keeping.

Business establishments participating in this program included Sanders Motor Freight, Acorn Associates, Half Price store office at Loch Lynn, R. and P. Firestone store, Gonder's Insurance agency, Department of Employment Security, Fred Beachy Lumber company, Garrett County Memorial hospital, Jackson's 5 and 10 cent store, Music Shop, Smouse's Supermarket, Dr. Alvin Friend, C. and P. Telephone company, Sanders and Hershman garage, Board of Education office, administrative and guidance offices at Southern High school.

Students participating included Donald Peck, Donna Weimer, Lou Hardesty, Harry Bittinger, Elizabeth Uber, Dale Ream, Arthur Cullers, Jackie Browning, Kitty Wainer, Katie Friend, Phyllis Wotring, Janet Beckman, Naomi Lewis, Nancy Forshey, Jackie Myers, Betty Shreve, Sara Friend, Norma Campbell, Ferne Foley, Naomi Ashby, Jackie Groves, Shirley Harris, Shirley Wright, Elsie Whitmer, Lawrence Hardesty, Tom Callis, Loretta Woods, Nancy Lane and Bernadette Bittinger.

Mr. Dean said he hoped that this cooperative program would grow and become a regular part of the training of commercial students at Southern High.

At a meeting of the Lutheran Young Adult group last Sunday evening Richard O. Glotfelty was elected president, succeeding John Forman. Others named were William Rees, vice-president; and William E. Sharps, secretary-treasurer.

School Segregation Banned By Court

The United States Supreme court ruled Monday that the states of the nation do not have the right to separate Negro and white pupils in different public schools.

By a unanimous 9-0 vote the high court held that such segregation of the races is unconstitutional.

Chief Justice Warren read the historic decision to a packed but hushed gallery of spectators nearly two years after Negro residents of four states and the District of Columbia went before the court to challenge the principle of segregation.

The ruling does not end segregation at once. Further hearings were set for this fall to decide how and when to end the practice of segregation.

For seventeen years Southern and border states have imposed compulsory segregation on approximately two-thirds of the nation's Negroes. Officials of some states already are on record as saying they will close the schools rather than permit them to be operated with Negro and white pupils in the same classrooms. In its decision, the high court struck down the long standing "separate but equal" doctrine first laid down by the Supreme Court in 1896 when it maintained that segregation was all right if equal facilities were made available for Negroes and whites.

Little Effect Here

The ruling will have little effect in Garrett county where there are no Negro children.

"Our Growing Edge"

MRS. MARTHA GLOTFELTY

Criticism Helps Us To Grow

We often think of the good and pleasant things that help us to grow, but there are ways of growing that are actually painful. The way of accepting criticism is one of them.

Chances are if you have never heard or received any criticism, you have never done anything worthwhile. Laying ourselves open to criticism is one of the prices we pay for any worthwhile achievement. So, I would say we should expect it, even welcome it.

An incident in my own life has proved to me the truth of that statement. After graduation from high school and a short training period in a teachers' college, I became a teacher in the public schools of Pennsylvania.

A member of the Board of Education, who had helped me to get the position, took a personal interest in my work, and checked to see how I was doing. One day he came to observe my work, and being full of self-confidence, and naive, as most nineteen year olds are, I thought he would find my work satisfactory. But, he did not. I will never forget the stinging criticism he gave me that day. In his opinion, I was doing most everything wrong. He did not bother to be tactful, but gave it to me straight.

Crushed and humiliated, I felt like my world had dropped from under me, and that I was a complete failure. Even today, that experience comes to me painful and sharp.

Somehow, I knew I had to try harder, and that is just what I did. From that day on, I took a new look at my work, and tried very hard for a new approach, a new zest. I believe I actually started to grow up as a person and as a teacher.

He came back some time later, and when he paid me a compliment I knew I had actually earned it. He tried to be a real friend and helper to me, and year after year helped me to get my teaching position again.

When I think of him today, I am sure he is one of the fine friends I have had in my lifetime, but most of all I remember how his criticism helped me to grow up. Sometimes I believe he taught me more than I had learned in many textbooks.

A very well-educated man once told me, we each have a blind spot in our personality. Very often we cannot see it, but others can. I have often stood back, and tried to see what it is in my own personality. It is very hard to be objective enough to see it in ourselves.

Yet, listening to the criticism other people level at us may point it out. So, I would say keep your ear to the ground and listen to what folks say about you. They could be right, you know.

GIGANTIC TRAINLOADS OF SILVER DOLLARS

If paid in silver dollars, the $459,000,000 in benefits received by Woodmen of the World members and beneficiaries since the Society was founded in 1890 would weigh 13,770 tons* and fill 257 box cars.

These millions, of course, were paid by check in these past 64 years to settle Woodmen life insurance claims and pay refunds.

The $559,000,000 of safe, sound, legal reserve protection some 438,000 Woodmen now enjoy would weigh 16,770 tons* . . . a load for 435 box cars.

Though not measured in money, Woodmen also enjoy many other benefits and much pleasure from Woodcraft's fraternal and social activities.

Ask a Woodmen representative how you can share in this safe, sound, legal reserve Woodmen life insurance protection and fraternal benefits. Let him help you select the type of certificate that best meets your needs.

Candidates Announce

FOR STATE SENATOR

To the Citizens of Garrett County:

I am a candidate for the office of State Senator from Garrett County.

I have been a resident of Garrett County for the past forty-three years. I was County Treasurer from 1947 through 1950 and have served in the House of Delegates during the years 1927 through 1930, in 1945 and 1946 and in 1951 up until the present time. In the Sessions of 1952, 1953 and 1954 I was elected Minority Leader by the Republican members of the House. As such, I was a member of the Rules Committee, the Ways and Means and of the Legislative Council. The information and knowledge I will gather at the Council meetings this year will be of great value to our County and State if I am elected to this office.

I feel that my background as a farmer, a veteran of World War I, a merchant, an employee of the Board of Education (all of which I have been in the past) together with my experience as County Treasurer and as a member in the House of Delegates for seven regular and three special sessions fit me for this office.

I make no idle campaign promises, but, if elected, I pledge to follow the same policies and serve my County and my State in the same manner as in the past. I will give careful and thoughtful consideration to any suggestions and will earnestly endeavor, at all times, to keep myself worthy of the confidence placed in me by the Citizens of Garrett County.

Arthur H. Green
Swanton, Maryland
District No. 1

—Adv. 7*

To The Voters of Garrett County:

I hereby announce my candidacy for the State Senate on the Republican ticket, subject to the June primary election.

If nominated and later elected I will encourage industrial enterprise to locate in Garrett county, especially the city of Oakland, to improve employment and the economic status of the community; I will advocate lower and more reasonable taxes for seasonal dwellers at Deep Creek Lake, to encourage greater building activity and more tax revenue; I will encourage a bill to give every war veteran the right to own a dwelling free from all taxation up to the appraised value of $5,000, thus encouraging home building and better economy for the state of Maryland.

Your vote is solicited.

William M. Nazelrod
—Adv. 7* District No. 14

To the Citizens of Garrett County:

I am a candidate for the office of State Senator from Garrett County.

To The Citizens Of Garrett County:

A great many people have been doing a lot of thinking about the need for some kind of industry in Garrett County that would provide employment for our citizens who are out of work. With the present industrial trend to establish plants at a safe distance from congested areas, our chances for obtaining some kind of a manufacturing plant in Garrett County have increased.

Recently, a State wide candidate, of the opposite party, sensing the trend towards de-centralization, and seeing our great need, attempted to capitalize politically by promising that if elected he will bring a couple of industries into the county. I am 100% in favor of getting industry into the county too! But we can't just order somebody to come in and build a plant. The question is how to get industry to come here.

We have enough man power available for a good sized industrial plant. But up to now, that alone has not been enough. We need to do something more. First, let us try to create a more favorable political climate for industry. Let us assure any prospective employer of a hundred men or more, that if he will invest in a plant and equipment in the county, we will help by granting favorable consideration in matters of taxation, etc. Perhaps better roads for transportation and travel would help. We should have representatives in our Legislature who will cooperate in doing the things necessary to make our county attractive to industry that may be looking for a place to establish in a community safe from attack from the air by bombs.

There is, of course, a very definite limit to what a representative can do, but by working together with our town councils and our Chambers of Commerce, and perhaps by spending a little money for advertising, we may have a good chance of attracting some kind of a business that will provide employment for some of our people. You can count on me for full and hearty cooperation in every way that a representative can help.

I am making this statement in answer to questions recently put to me, because some candidates have made definite promises that they will bring some industry into the county. This, they cannot do. Even a Governor cannot just order some big industry to move in here and establish a plant that will provide employment. But a Governor can help, your Representatives can help, your Chambers of Commerce can help, your County Commissioners, your Town Councils and the citizens can help. By working together we may be able to attract a manufacturing industry that will provide employment for hundreds of our worthy citizens. It is worth trying.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

It's In Our World

A trip through Swallow Falls Park at this time of year is to me as wonderful as a Hebrew's conception of the place where the gates are pearl and the streets are gold.

Never before have I been there when the Jack in the Pulpits were part of the scene, or where the flowering dogwood took precedence over towering pine.

Never before have I seen a painted trillium—and although our sixth grade daughter vowed they didn't grow in this area—there they were a living truth.

It was good to taste new sap in the birch and to smell the foliage of swamp honeysuckle.

Much water tumbled down the gorge—terrific power going to waste. But this day its power was in its beauty—which still gives it a right to be there. The theme song of "The Song of the Oaks" vibrated up and down the canyon. Its author really caught the movement of roaring water in that song.

Beavers cutting down water birch just beneath the falls, with the perfection of craftsmen. And we became negative toward that busy creature. "They can't do that to these trees—and right beneath Muddy Creek!" We'll not stand for an inch of that scene to be destroyed.

Again someone remarks, "That can't be a beaver for beavers aren't in this area." But some of us visit the Beaver Dam too often not to know his cutting ways.

—o—

The Baby

Little Tolliver reminds me of the baby of the family. As Dr. Broadwater, a promoter of more than a two child family, used to say, "The last one is always the sweetest." That's Tolliver. As fresh and sparkling and full of life as a baby at 6 a. m. and ten times more restful.

As we came upon her unexpectedly because we were looking at wood anemone and polygola and other small plant life, it was like a scene from fairy land flashing on a screen except more so. I have visited her in summer, autumn and icy winter, but no other season can touch this springtime beauty.

Then someone said, "Wouldn't you love to have Tolliver in your back yard?" No, if it were there, I would hurry past it, but no one hurries past it where it is. It's sort of like Heaven—no one wants Heaven just for himself!

—o—

We Were Lucky

We were lucky on our trip last week for we had a friend with us who knows the ways of nature and one, who although from afar, grabs every chance to visit Swallow Falls.

He can open the eyes of the blind on any nature walk. Not only is he a naturalist but a great story teller. So we learned the legend of Jack-in-the-pulpit (Did you ever taste the bulb from which Jack comes?) and the one about the Service berry and the wood sorrell—which St. Patrick of Ireland used to illustrate his point of the Trinity—the Father, Son and Holy Spirit—all in one.

Nature Sang a Solo

In autumn the little singing creatures remind me of a symphony—but on this trip we were entertained with solos, accompanied of course by waters, sometimes roaring, sometimes rippling—but a black throated blue warbler who never showed himself was in splendid voice, as were a dozen other birds—and than I wished that I had ears that I might hear.

—o—

Good For One's Soul

It is good for one's soul to go to Swallow Falls in the springtime. Makes one aware that we have been richly blessed. Then just for the sake of feeling humble—something I need desperately—I like to stand against a great pine, face close to the bark, and look up, up, up.

Now if you ever need to feel small that one will really fix you up.

Yes, at our back door is great beauty. On that day last week we had it all to ourselves. We are happy to share it. Our neighbor, Blackwater Falls, is known throughout the country. Yet the Swallow Falls area which excels it, gets a tiny flash in the film on Maryland. And many people over fifty miles away never heard of such a place.

Time for Reflection . . . .

The Memorial Day week-end is a good time to reflect upon the moral character of the candidates for public office, especially the ones who would have influence in future legislation.

Among these candidates are devout followers of a "whiskey ring" whose sole purpose is to make it legal to sell whiskey in this county. They are remaining comparatively quiet on the surface, but underneath they are attempting to bring all kinds of pressure to bear. They are endeavoring to distort their case with emphasis on how much more revenue the county would have in taxes. But they soft pedal the consequences of a free-flowing booze industry.

That is why this week-end will be a good time for reflection. The National Safety Council predicts at least 340 traffic deaths over the holiday week-end. The Association of Casualty and Surety companies has indicated that excessive speed and alcohol will be responsible for 210 of the predicted 380 highway accident deaths over the three-day period. Of that number 84 will die because of excessive use of alcohol. These estimates are conservative.

The voters are going to have to decide whether they will support the candidates who are trying to make whiskey more accessible to the young people of the area and increase the possibility of this "excessive use of alcohol" which causes deaths on the highways and alcoholism among more and more adults from month to month.

Those who are vitally interested in the future stability of this county will ask these candidates for public office just where they stand in regard to legalized whiskey. These same people should also make it their business to see that present violators of our county's liquor laws continue to be penalized for their flagrant disregard of the statutes.

Youths Enter Plea Of Guilty To Fire In State Garage

Three young men yesterday pleaded guilty to setting fire to the State Roads Commission warehouse here while attempting to perpetrate a crime, and also pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the building.

The three were brought before Associate Judge George Henderson in the Garrett County Circuit. Judge Henderson remanded the three, Charles Truman Herman, 22; Charles Wade Ashby, 18; and Perry Donald Lewis, 20, all of Oakland, to the custody of the sheriff pending an investigation by David M. Steele, probation officer.

W. Dwight Stover, state's attorney, said the boys told him they accidentally set the garage afire when one of them dropped a match near some gasoline spilled while they were stealing it from a truck. The trio had waived indictment by the grand jury and had agreed for immediate appearance before the court. At a preliminary hearing before Trial Magistrate W. O. Bitzer, in Oakland, Stover had prayed a jury trial.

The garage warehouse caught on fire about midnight Sunday, May 16, and before the blaze was brought under control five trucks and an air compressor were damaged. Damage was estimated at $8,500.

1,954 Free Chest X-Rays

A total of 1,954 free chest X-rays were taken in Garrett county during the annual visit of the mobile unit from May 6 to 20.

Participation was slightly up from 1953 when 1,852 were taken, but less than expected by officials of the Allegany-Garrett Tuberculosis association.

P.-T.A. Council Has Final Meeting

Suggestions to new presidents of local Parent-Teacher groups were given at the final meeting of the County P.-T.A. council held at the Northern High school last Thursday evening. Speaker was Dr. Adam Baer, of Cumberland.

The group decided to send letters of congratulation to students received into the Honor society during the year, and to Miss Kathryn Speicher who was elected president of an honor society in the state. A dinner meeting for the entire county group is planned in September.

The group will pay expenses of Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty, council president, to the National convention of Parents and Teachers in Atlantic City May 24-26. She will be one of the voting delegates from the state of Maryland.

Governor Will Officially Open Summer Season

Ceremonies Set For Thursday, June 10, At Oakland And Lake

The summer season for the Garrett County Recreation areas will be officially opened on Thursday, June 10, by Governor Theodore R. McKeldin, it was announced this week by the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce.

There will be a motorized parade at 12 o'clock DST, in Oakland, with the governor, county and city officials and perhaps some recreation floats in the line of march.

There will be a luncheon at 12:45 at the William-James hotel with official ceremonies slated to begin at Deep Creek lake about 3:30 o'clock. The official opening will probably take place at the new picnic area near the Deep Creek bridge.

Members of the press from Baltimore and Washington will be among those attending.

Also At Kitzmiller

Governor McKeldin also will participate in ground breaking ceremonies on June 10 when the first foundations are laid for a new interstate bridge across the Potomac River at Kitzmiller.

Brief ceremonies are scheduled for 4 p. m. on that day for the bridge which will be a relocation of Maryland Route 38 and West Virginia Route 42. The Governor and State officials of West Virginia have been invited, as well as State and local officials of Garrett County.

The bridge is being constructed by the State Roads Commission of Maryland on a contract awarded to the George F. Hazelwood Company of Cumberland at a price of $311,901. Half of this cost is to be assumed by West Virginia. The structure will be a five-span, steel beam bridge; the concrete deck will furnish a 28-foot clear roadway and two 5-foot sidewalks. Cantilever type concrete abutments and concrete piers will be on spread footings. Also included in the contract is the grading, paving and construction of drainage facilities for 1200 feet of approach roadway in Maryland and 650 feet in West Virginia.

Stock Car Races Draw Large Crowd

An estimated thousand persons attended the opening races for stock cars at the Deep Creek Speedway at McHenry last Sunday.

Those attending witnessed one of the biggest pile-ups in the history of the track when eight cars got tangled up in front of the bleachers in the feature race and several of them were turned over. No one was injured. The Mt. City Band, of Oakland, furnished music for the opening races of the season in which nineteen stock cars participated.

Pat Tralbert, Clarksburg driver, won the feature race with Ed. Shuttleworth, Clarksburg, second; Bob Miller, Grafton, W. Va., third; Bill Swiger, Clarksburg, fourth; and Dayton Alexander, driving Les Wotring's car, of Oakland, fifth.

Winners of heat races also were announced: first heat, Ray Neice, Keyser, first; Paul Thomas, Oakland, second; Bob Miller, third; second heat, Park Tressler, Oakland, first; Ed Shuttleworth, second; Claude Shelton, Belington, W. Va., third; third heat, Ed Shuttleworth, first; Park Tressler, second; Mark Beer, Elkins, third; fourth heat, Pat Tralbert, first; Pooch Polce, Clarksburg, second; Frank Beckman, Deep Creek, third. To Test Fire Siren

The old fire siren which was replaced in Oakland two weeks ago, has been repaired and will be tested at 1 o'clock DST on Sunday, it was announced by officials of the fire company.

The announcement was made so that no concern would be felt when the alarm was heard at that time.

Emroy Bolden, fire chief, said if the siren worked satisfactorily it would be mounted near where the new one was placed on the fire department building, for use as needed.

May Day Program To Be Given By Loch Lynn School

The P.-T.A. members will sell articles beginning at 7 o'clock, and continue after the program. Proceeds will be used for playground equipment.

To Resume Pastorate

Rev. William C. Rogers, pastor of the Mt. Lake Park Baptist church, who was critically ill early this year, has entirely recovered his health and will assume his regular duties the first Sunday in June, it was announced at regular services there last Sunday.

During the pastor's illness the pulpit has been occupied by Vincent C. Parker, a licensed Baptist minister and a student for the ministry. It was also announced that evening services would begin at 7:45 o'clock during the summer months.

This Sunday evening there will be a film presentation entitled: "What Happened to Jo Jo?" at the church. The story revolves around Jo Jo, a "super life of the party" teen-ager and her friends in the church young people's group who were only nominally concerned with the gang on the other side of town, until one of the gang bopped Jo Jo with a rock. The story deals with how she and her friends dealt with the situation. The public is invited.

Bowen Hardesty Named Head of Teacher College

Appointment Of County Superintendent To New Position Made Yesterday

R. Bowen Hardesty, county superintendent of schools here for more than five years, was appointed to the presidency of Frostburg State Teachers college yesterday by the State Board of Education. The appointment is effective December 12, 1954.

The board met in Baltimore and approved the retirement of Miss Lillian C. Compton as president of the college, effective at that time.

Upon the unanimous recommendation of a sub-committee composed of William A. Gunter, Cumberland; Mrs. Ruth McCormick Tankersley, Bethesda, and Jerome Frampton, Federalsburg, Mr. Hardesty was selected to succeed Miss Compton, who has held the presidency for nearly ten years.

The announcement came as a surprise to the people of Garrett county as he had recently purchased a home in Oakland into which he and his family had just moved.

To Seek Successor

Walter W. Dawson, president of the Board of Education, said this morning the board would begin immediately to seek a successor and that it was hoped that some competent person would be named by the board's regular meeting date on Monday, June 7.

Hardesty has had a wide background of experience in teaching and public school administration in the schools of Maryland.

A native of Calvert county, he attended Calvert county elementary schools and was graduated from Randolph-Macon academy, Front Royal, Va., in 1928. He attended Randolph-Macon college where his uncle, Dr. Bowen, was a professor of Latin and Greek. He was graduated in 1932 with a bachelor of arts degree, having majored in Latin and English, and minored in history.

In 1932-33 he attended Columbia university and then received his master of arts degree in 1934. Later he studied at Western Maryland college, qualifying to teach mathematics, and took additional postgraduate work at William and Mary college and Johns Hopkins university and is near the completion of requirements for a doctor's degree.

Hardesty started his teaching career at Millersville Elementary school, Anne Arundel county, in 1933 and in 1934 transferred to Dundalk High school where he taught until 1942 when he became principal of Carroll Manor Junior high school. In 1946 he was appointed principal of Aberdeen High school where he remained until February, 1948, when he was named assistant superintendent of schools in Garrett county.

Succeeded Rathbun

He was named superintendent here in December, 1948, succeeding the late Franklin E. Rathbun. During the course of his superintendency in this county he developed an outstanding educational program and also developed a building program resulting in two new high schools instead of the previous five.

He is a member of the Oakland Rotary club, official board of the Methodist church, American Association of School Administrators and other educational organizations.

He is married to the former Miss Evelyn Mattson, Baltimore. They have two children, Bowen, Jr., 13, and Linda Ann, 2.

The appointment will leave a vacancy in the superintendency of the Garrett county schools which will be filled by the Board of Education prior to December. The Hardestys are expected to take up residence in Frostburg sometime in the fall.

Praise For Miss Compton

Miss Compton, who will be completing almost 50 years in the field of education, will reach the age of compulsory retirement in December. The State board recalled her record in recruiting of a larger student body at the college, development of an outstanding faculty and exercising leadership in expansion of the physical plant of the institution.

The State Board, at its meeting yesterday, also raised salaries of all presidents of state teachers colleges to $10,000 a year from the present $8,625 level.

80 Youngsters Out For Little League

Over eighty boys between eight and thirteen years of age turned out for the first practice session for the Little League on Tuesday night at the ball field.

Equipment for the four teams in the league has been ordered from Carroll's Sport Shop and opening date is to be set next week.

A meeting of leaders is set for Friday evening at the Moose hall at 8 o'clock DST. Don Stemple has been named chairman of a committee to prepare a program for the opening day. Assisting him will be John Castilow and John Schaeffer. C. Wendelandt has been named equipment chairman.

Officials said the franchise had been received from official headquarters in Williamsport, Pa., and that work was progressing on getting the baseball field in shape. Bulldozers and graders have been used this week to level the field and bleachers are to be erected.

The Oakland Little League will be a unit of a national baseball club with thousands of teams throughout the United States. Rules and regulations are outlined with the main purpose being to develop instincts of fair play, sportsmanship and competitive spirit. Winning ball games was listed as of secondary importance.

The local club was organized through combined efforts of a large group of persons with special mention given to men and women of the Moose, the Lions Club, the American Legion and the Knights of Pythias. These organizations supplied the funds to equip the four teams which will form the league.

Practice sessions are Tuesday and Thursday evenings. On June 14 a player auction will be conducted with only the managers and player agent in attendance, and at this time four teams of fifteen players each will be formed.

Boys are cautioned that as a player they should conduct their actions in the style of a "big leaguer" and play with good sportsmanship as the highest goal. Managers and coaches are to be respected and the word of the umpire is not questioned. On the field conversation is to avoided with either the players or spectators.

Boys will be insured against injury during all scheduled practice sessions and games to the extent of $1,500.

This 200-horsepower Buick CENTURY is the Riviera—the hardtop model that's taking America by storm.

Live wire that really looks it

It's sports-car lines tell you there's lift and spirit here enough for any man.

And that look-of-tomorrow styling that's part and parcel of every new Buick—that sweeping panoramic windshield with the dream-car slant—all that says there's action here, and plenty of it.

But just note the name "CENTURY" emblazoned on its rear fender, and you can take it as gospel that this is a performance car of the very first water.

It's the livest of the live wires—the highest-voltage Buick in the line.

It is instant on getaway, a joy in cruising, a breeze on hills—and a honey of a friend in the added safety of its plenty reserve power always on hand for sudden needs.

It is, in fact, a 200-horsepower performance car, and priced far below it—the highest-powered car at its price in the land.

With this great-powered good-looker setting the pace—and with equally impressive SPECIALS, SUPERS and ROADMASTERS adding to the excitement—is it any wonder Buick today is outselling every other car in America except two of the so-called "low-price three"?

Come in and try one of these gorgeous new Buicks. With the prices we're quoting, you can make the buy of the year this very week.

Violations Cited In Recent Mine Report

Failure to rock-dust surfaces that were not definitely wet, the use of fine coal for stemming boreholes, and 29 other violations of the Federal Mines Safety Code are cited in a coal-mine inspection report released today by the U. S. Bureau of Mines for the No. 3 mine, W. and W. Coal Company, near Westernport, Md.

The mine employed 14 men underground and averaged 100 tons of coal daily when inspected recently by T. J. Ward.

The Federal inspector recommended preshift examinations for explosive gas and other hazards, additional roof tests in face regions, adequate fire-fighting facilities, and the use of goggles or shields while doing eye-hazardous work.

Other suggestions called for better maintenance of haulage tracks, direction signs along escapeway, and suitable first-aid equipment.

Seventy-Five Farm Families Enroll In FFBL Program

Garrett County's Farming for Better Living program is well into its seventh year of operation, L. Bush Swisher, Farming for Better Living director, announced this week, when he closed the 1954 enrollment with seventy-five farm families participating.

Farming for Better Living is an annual contest among farm families that encourages them to improve their farms and homes and to provide a better family living. The Garrett County Farming for Better Living Council, headed by S. T. Naylor, directs the program and provides a banquet and awards each November for the participating families who complete the year's project. The Council solicits the help of Garrett County businesses to make this affair financially possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hummel, of Grantsville, were the county champions last year among those families participating. A winner is chosen each year. Mr. and Mrs. Lenwood Bittinger, Mt. Lake Park, former county winners, were named the regional winners in a five-county area composed of Garrett county and Preston, Monongalia, Taylor and Marion counties in West Virginia. The Clark Schlossnagles, of Friendsville, former county and area winners, were the sweepstake winners in 1952 in the whole 26-county Farming for Better Living program.

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

Herbert Philbrick, the quiet, humble Massachusetts church worker who served nine years as an FBI counterspy deep within the Communist underground, gave a lecture recently to the Harding College student body and conferees attending the 15th Freedom Forum on the campus.

"According to the Communist Party, and unfortunately according to some prominent politicians and educators," he said, "our American people today are alleged to be filled with fear, afraid to express their minds or to express opinions, and constantly looking over their shoulders for a Congressional investigator. This claim is a complete falsehood. Of course the Communists hope, through this propaganda of theirs, to discourage anybody from taking a position against Communism."

He said the Communists are devoting a major effort today to the science of 'cybernetics.' "Never before," he said, "have we seen such a highly, skillfully organized propaganda machine. Cybernetics, according to the Communists is the manipulation and control of information"—through the press, radio, television, word-of-mouth; all fields of communications.

"And by this means," said Philbrick, "you can control people as you do puppets. I don't know of a single book on the subject of what the Communists are doing with cybernetics. As a matter of fact my own knowledge is limited to the facts i've gathered from inside the Communist Party. But the Reds have been working at this for many years. And today they are working around the clock in this study of the scientific manipulation and control of information."

Philbrick said that cybernetics, as used by the Communists, is based on the findings of Pavlov, the Russian scientist who developed the theory of conditioned reflexes in animals. The Reds have found, Phillbrick said, that "a man, like an animal, who is conditioned to respond to certain impulses, can be made to respond to words, phrases and symbols. Therefore you pour in the words, phrases and symbols to which he will respond without thinking. And then you withhold other certain words which would cause him to respond in a way you may not desire. It is the scientific control of human beings by means of control of information."

Hurt In Collision

A 53-year-old Accident housewife was injured last Tuesday in an auto-farm tractor collision at the intersection of routes 40 and 53, near Addison, Pa.

She was identified as Mrs. Mary Hachman, of Accident, who was hurt about the right arm but did not require hospital admittance.

State police said the car driven by her husband, Edward H. Hachman, 59, crashed against the tractor of Moss Hawk, 72, of Confluence, due to a misunderstanding. Total damage was estimated at $300.

Excess Pasture Can Be Stored In Silo

Cows on many Maryland dairy farms spend a lot of time this season of the year just loafing. There is lush green all around them, but they are too full to eat.

Some people look at this beautiful picture and think it's a shame that so much excess grass has to go to waste. John Dietrich, University of Maryland Extension dairyman, has a different reaction.

"Make silage out of that excess pasture grass and feed it next fall and winter," he urges dairymen. Properly preserved grass silage is almost as good as pasture and the cows really love it. In addition, silage is an economical feed and more nutrients can be preserved in silage than in any other method of storing grass."

For proof that dairy cows can consume large amounts of grass silage when it is available, Dietrich points to a Washington Agricultural Experiment Station experiment with 16 large cows. Some of the cows consumed as much as 122 pounds of grass silage per day for a one-week period when no other roughage was fed. The average daily consumption for a 5-week period was over 100 pounds.

For the dairyman whose herd has outgrown his present silo, Dietrich suggests a trench silo. "This type of silo can be dug in a few hours with a bulldozer. There are trench silos in almost every county in Maryland and more are being constructed every year. We know of trench silos holding 100 tons that have been dug for less than $100."

The dairy specialist says that where the water table is too close to the surface of the ground to dig a trench, an "above ground" horizontal silo can be constructed by pushing up a couple of parallel banks of dirt for the sides of the silo.

It is suggested that farmers contact county agents for Extension Bulletin 146, "Trench Silos for Maryland," for more detailed information on the construction of trench silos.

Spring Festival Due to Be Given Today at School

The Spring Festival is scheduled to be given this afternoon at 1:15 o'clock EST, at the Oakland Elementary school. The program entitled "A Revue of Spring," will honor the court and visitors. Charlotte Biser, queen, will be crowned by C. W. Englander. George Glotfelty will be the king.

Heart Attack Fatal

Frederick G. Gramtham, 32, of Cherry Tree, Pa., was found Tuesday morning near Silver Lake Park, south of Red House, along the highway beside his car, and died enroute to the Tucker County hospital in Parsons.

Hospital authorities said that Gramtham suffered a heart attack. A representative of the Swift Company's Baltimore office, chemical division, Gramtham was found unconscious beside the rear of his automobile, where he had apparently endeavored to get something from the trunk.

Headed For Oakland; Is Found Hanged

Amos Curtis Childs, 78, of Terra Alta, told relatives he planned to visit in Oakland last week. Whether or not he ever got here is not known, but the man was found hanging from a tree on Location Mountain near Parsons on Sunday afternoon.

He was not immediately identified but his son, Gay Childs, and his son-in-law went to Parsons after reading an article concerning the finding of the body which carried a description of the man, and identified him.

Just who he planned to visit here is not known, according to relatives, but authorities were told that the aged man was in the habit of making brief visits to friends in the area. So no fear was felt by his family when he failed to return home within a few days.

No reason could be advanced as to why the man should take his life. The body was discovered by Fred Barr who owns a farm near the summit of the mountain. He reported he found the body as he was walking to St. George, several miles north of Parsons. The man had been dead over 24 hours when discovered. The man apparently had walked into the wild region, removed his coat and neatly folded it on a wooden slab at the base of the tree, walked up the sloping trunk of the tree to a large, heavy limb, tied a new half-inch rope around his neck and around one of the larger limbs and stepped into space.

Southern High Nine Takes Northern 4-3

Undefeated Southern High school scored its sixth win of the season Tuesday by defeating its Garrett county rival, Northern High, at the Cove, by the score of 4-3.

Coach Leonard Ritchie's team won the game in the 7th inning when Bob Glaze was safe on an error, advanced to second on Fred Colaw's sacrifice and crossed the plate on Toby Colaw's single to right field.

Timmy Sisler excelled at shortstop for the winners, making several nice catches. Others playing for Southern were Glotfelty, Shaffer, Friend, Sweitzer, Welch and Holtsnider.

For Northern those playing were Georg, Beitzel, Wright, McKenzie, Hershberger, Mazer, Ringer, Rush, Frantz, and Baier. Sweitzer was the winning pitcher.

Southern winds up its season at Oakland with Northern High on June 1.

All organizations are asked to send a representative to the meeting and everyone interested in the program is invited to attend and sign up for some position on the program.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

I've got so much to do—think I'll just sit down and rest first.

—o—

Miss Grace

I hestitate to speak of her in a column for I've always felt that her story belongs in a book—but I would like to mention just one little thing I overheard last week at the orthopedic clinic.

Now if you're one of those fortunate people whose children have been perfect in posture, feet and spine, you might not have the slightest idea what one of these clinics is like. Toddlers in their first shoes to teen-agers move like clock-work before the keen eyes of Dr. Eaton who checks their histories, their defects and improvements.

Last Thursday as our child stood next in line, I watched and listened while he examined a spine that even my untrained eye could see that it was taking the shape of a question mark.

Then straightforward he started cautioning the girl about her exercises and said something about "you don't want to spend weeks in a hospital . . ."

But this remark is the one I want to pass on. He turned to "Miss Grace" with his instructions and added, "If anyone can pull her out of it, you can."

I couldn't help but think of the flat feet, knocked knees, bowed legs, sunken chests and crooked backs that she has pulled out of it—which to most mothers mean better looking children, but which is basically building stronger bodies.

I'm sure Miss Grace would feel that the work she has done for the almost normal youngsters is slight in comparison to what she has accomplished with those who are crippled.

Aren't we lucky to have her?

Some Power

So many people are talking about Norman Vincent Peale's "Power of Positive Thinking," a book which is at the top of the best seller and best lender list. I find myself picking it up and reading bits here and there—Feel that I don't have the capacity to take it all at once. It sounds so simple and easy to live the abundant life the way he puts it.

One minister, who mentioned it in his sermon, took the time to count the times Peale said in the first sixty pages to read the Bible and pray. Thirty-four to read the Bible, 60 to pray—just pray any time, he said.

One business man, caught in the whirl of tense living, says he decided to follow some of his advice. Not being able to sleep he finds that reading the Bible is better than a sleeping pill. "It really works," says he.

Maybe they'll revise that old song "There's Power in the Blood," and the next generation will sing and believe "There's power in the mind." Actually, though, Dr. Peale's ideas are not new—he got them from The Master.

—o—

I feel a little like the old colored preacher who prayed, "Lord I have been praying to have you send me a turkey. Now, O Lord, send me after the turkey."

—o—

I've just been wanting to get house cleaning done, the garden planted, clothes made—and here I sit.

Wish the Lord would speak to me in strong language—and say—if you really want these things, "Git up and git."

Conference For Lutheran Leaders Scheduled June 3

New Ventures in Parish Education will be the theme of a conference to be held Thursday, June 3, from 7:00 to 9:00 p. m., EST, in St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church at Red House, the Rev. William A. Renn, pastor, announced.

Leaders and workers of Lutheran church schools of the Mountain Top area will attend the conferences which are part of a continent-wide effort to strengthen and improve the teaching agencies of the church.

The local conference is one of more than 400 being held throughout the United States and Canada, and is sponsored by leaders of the United Lutheran Church in America. Local congregations participating include Accident, Aurora-Davis, W. Va.; Bittinger, Keyser, Oakland and Westernport.

The Rev. Lawrence M. Reese, associate secretary of the denomination's Board of Parish Education, Philadelphia, Pa., will lead the conference.

Features of the conference will include a visual description of a suggested total educational program for a congregation. Two special phases of the total program will be high-lighted. These are the new Children's Program of The United Lutheran Church and the weekday church schools. Attention will be called to the new curriculum for the weekday church schools which is a close-graded course for all grades from one through twelve.

Armyworm Outbreak Reported in State

"Be on the look-out for armyworms," warns University of Maryland Extension entomologist T. L. Bissell. "And if you find any, don't waste any time in taking control measures. If you wait, the pest may spread over the entire farm and do severe damage to small grains, corn and pastures."

Bissell sounds the warning because insect surveys reveal the pest is present in outbreak numbers in several counties in the State.

"So far, serious damage is mostly confined to counties in the Bay area," he says. "But armyworms may suddenly appear in regions far removed from any known source of infestation. Farmers all over the State should inspect fields regularly."

The best places to find armyworms are in the areas where the crop growth is most rank. A farmer probably will not find any worms by simply walking through a field or pasture; it is necessary to kneel down and closely examine the lower portions of the stems and trash on the ground.

Armyworms are greenish-colored caterpillars. Young worms are very hard to detect because of their small size, but adult worms may be 1½ inches long. Adults have one dark stripe along each side and a broad stripe down the center of the back. The stripes are often nearly black.

Control recommendations listed by Bissell are: (1) Use a ground machine or airplane to spray grain and corn with toxaphene, using 1 1/3 quarts of 60 percent emulsifiable liquid per acre in an appropriate amount of water. (2) Dust with 10 to 20 pounds of toxaphene dust per acre. (3) Spread poison bait made of 100 pounds of wheat bran mixed with 4 pounds of paris green and dampened with 12 gallons of water. Six pounds of calcium arsenate, 7 pints toxaphene, or 4 pounds of sodium fluosilicate may be substituted for the paris green. Broadcast 20 to 30 pounds of bait in late afternoon, as the worms feed mostly at night. (4) Sprays and dusts are not recommended for use on pastures where dairy cows or fattening animals are grazing.

HISTORY REPEATS—A twin heifer has given birth to twins. Three years ago on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. William Bittinger, Fairview community, a Holstein cow gave birth to twin heifer calves. These calves were sired by a purebred Durham and were considered good dairy prospects. Both were kept until after first freshening when one was disposed of. The other twin, still owned by Mr. Bittinger, was bred to a purebred Durham sire, and recently produced twin calves, one of each sex. The original twin is shown in the picture at three years of age, with her twin calves.

Oakland Nine Scores Second Victory, 14-9

Oakland scored its second straight win in the Mountain Top Baseball League Sunday, defeating Bittinger by the score of 14-9 in a slugfest affair in which 27 hits were chalked up.

The winners rapped 18 hits including a double and two singles by Sisler. Dale Glotfelty banged three two-baggers to lead the Bittinger attack.

Leo Rinker outpitched Harland Kelley to give Terra Alta a 9-5 decision over Loch Lynn, 1953 champions, who suffered their second straight loss. Harold Hardesty racked up four hits for Terra Alta while Shaffer hit safely thrice. Odell Warnick, Bill Sweitzer and Dwight Clary got two hits each for Loch Lynn. Rinker fanned five and Kelley whiffed seven.

Oakland now leads the league with Terra Alta and Bittinger tied for second. Terra Alta is scheduled to play at Bittinger and Loch Lynn at Oakland on Sunday.

Homemakers Plan Short Course Trip

Homemakers of the county are planning for the 28th annual Rural Women's Short Course, to be held at College Park June 14 to 19.

Known as a "College Week for Women," the Short Course will offer a choice of seventeen classes in homemaking and related subjects. Several will attend from this county.

Miss Ethel Grove, home demonstration agent, said that letters had gone out to club presidents with registration forms for club members interested in attending. Those interested will contact a homemaker club president, or the Extension office for registration forms. They are due on May 29.

The county is expected to have one four-year graduate, Mrs. Ralph Buckel, Bittinger club; and one who will receive her eight-year pin, Mrs. Sally McIntyre, of the Altamont club.

During the week the Maryland homemakers will live on the campus of Maryland university as typical college students. Classes will be held each morning, taught by specialists and other qualified authorities.

Power Unseen

Lesson for May 30, 1954

WHY does a President of the United States go to church? He may have many good reasons which are not the principal one. He may do it because it has been a tradition since the time of George Washington. He may go because he likes the minister; or because he feels he should set a good example; or because he knows that churches help make good citizens and he wants to encourage churches just as he encourages schools, boy scout troops and the Red Cross. But a much better reason why Presidents and the rest of us go to church or read the Bible or pray, is that we feel the need of strength.

Dr. Foreman

* * *

Foxhole Religion

A man who has been more or less independent all his life, not feeling any special need of God, will wake up to his need of something more than he has, when he finally gets into some trouble, some situation where he can't figure out the answers and where he knows he is not equal to the demands the circumstances make on him. We have seen in our time a President who has hardly taken office before he is baptized and joins a Christian church. Is this a sudden conversion? Probably not. Brought up in a devout Christian home, this man has always been aware of religion, he never denied God. But now, with a burden of responsibility and leadership which he never had before, he becomes not merely aware but acutely aware that by himself, even with all the human help he can get, by himself he is not enough. It has been said that there are no atheists in foxholes; and fox-hole religion has been low-rated as the religion of the scared-to-death. Nevertheless many a man whose religion began in a fox-hole did not end there.

* * *

A Dark Doorway to God

The Bible stories for this week describe several of the darker doorways to God. This is not quite the right way to put it, for God is not like a closed room. Rather, we are in closed rooms of our own, and the doors of our cells open out to the ever-present sunshine of God. Some of the doorways of life are somber enough, yet it is through some of the most forbidding of these that men and women have come through to a living faith in the true God. For example, the story of the woman of Shunem who had everything she wanted except a child. It was in her longing for a child of her own that her faith came to a burning-point. Then when the child was born and grew into boyhood and lay at the gate of death, again her faith blazed up. She did not usually seek the prophet Elisha except on stated days (she is not alone in this), but this time she went on the day of her distress. It was so with the king of Israel. His eyes were adjusted to the ordinary lights of this world; but on one memorable occasion God let him see the army of light surrounding his prophet.

Resources of the Spirit

Why is it that some people can endure what crushes others? To say it is faith that upholds the weak, is only part of the truth. The hymn says, "How firm a foundation, ye saints of the Lord, Is laid for your faith in His excellent Word!" The foundation is not faith; faith rests on the foundation, namely God and his promises. Faith alone is a poor support. It is God who is the true upholder of the weak. How shall the unseeing have their eyes opened? How shall those who never feel the nearness of God come to know him as ever present, our hope and our help? It is today as it was in the far-off days of Elisha; those who know God must make him known to others. If it had not been for Elisha, comfort and faith might never have come to the woman of Shunem. If it had not been for Elisha's prayer, the eyes of the young frightened king might never have been opened and he would have collapsed in panic. Faith, if you have it, is not something to be kept to yourself. It is something to share. Faith, if you do not have it, is something you may be helped to acquire, all the better, if you make friends with one who has faith.

THE THRESHOLD!

The Baccalaureate speaker was right. This was the threshold of life. Beyond today, spanning the years, were many paths each leading to a different goal. Someone in Bob Adams' position need only to choose his path.

Bob wasn't frightened. The choice would not be difficult. In fact, it had already been made.

Not that anyone had told Bob which profession to follow . . . which opportunity would be most rewarding. No! Those decisions were not yet final. . . .

But one decision was final. He had made it some years before—on the day he had become a member of the Church.

Bob had decided to build his life on faith . . . on the principles the Church had instilled in his conscience . . . on the truth and the power and the love of JESUS CHRIST. Bob Adams had chosen HIS Path!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Lions Club Honors Southern Hi Athletes

"Only gamblers and stupid people regard the success of athletics on a won and lost record," Robert N. "Red" Brown told the members of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions clubs and their guests at a dinner Monday night honoring athletes of Southern High school.

The coach of basketball at West Virginia university stressed the more valuable assets of a full athletic program such as character building, learning to get along with one another, and the spirit of fun that is needed.

The Lions club honored the Southern High students who had been awarded athletic letters, and also had as guests at their meeting the coaches, cheer learedS, parents of the athletes, the Board of Education and others. The dinner meeting was held at the Southern High cafeteria, under the direction of Erval Ream, president.

Robert W. Lohr was in charge of the program. Coach Kyle Wilson announced the list of winners of athletic letters. They received their awards at a school assembly yesterday. Some received recognition for participation in more than one sport, with Larry Friend, Fred Colaw and Don Colaw winning letters in soccer, basketball and baseball.

Others were Roger Glotfelty, soccer and baseball; Dennis Colaw, Charles Mason, Dave Benner, soccer and track; Wayne Biser, Carl Kreyenbuhl, Harry Bittinger, Delbert Bittinger, Harold Harsh, soccer; Carl Holtsnider, soccer and baseball.

Bill Savage, John Ruff, basketball and track; Bob Glaze, basketball and baseball; Charles Durbin, Fred Stemple, Paul Bachtel, basketball; Allen Sowers, Richard Deems, Dale Schlossnagle, Pete Johnson, track; Bill Schaeffer, Allen Knotts, Danny Garrett, Timmy Sisler, Howard Sweitzer, Clifford Welch, baseball; Don Welch and Jack Roth also received recognition for managers of athletic teams.

The speaker pointed out that the poor sportsmanship displayed at athletic events was the result of the attitude of the fans and not the participants and stressed the fact that the spirit of fun must pervade all athletic endeavor to make it most worthwhile.

Dr. James Collins also spoke briefly on the athletic program as a part of the health and physical education program of the school.

ONE WORD ...

Can Change Your Life
By REV. ROBT. OLEWILER
Pastor, Grace Reformed Church
Washington, D. C.

Collect

If you want the grace to live well, there are a few things you ought to collect.

One of these is sweetness. Drain the vinegar out of your veins. Christ was never sour on life, yet He had every reason to be. In spite of obstacles, he stayed sweet. So ought you and I.

Another is largeness. God never intended the end of your nose to be a stop light for your outlook on life. Exercise tolerance. "Lengthen your cords" until they encircle all manner and conditions of men.

Still another is holiness. This means healthiness, wholesomeness, an integrated personality. Holiness pulls life together and keeps it that way. It eliminates discord. It provides harmony.

Yes, if we want the grace to live well, sweetness, largeness and holiness are things you and I must collect, the word that can change your life.

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

In the spring of 1940, Herbert Philbrick, a young church worker in Cambridge, Massachusetts, was attracted to a new youth organization called "The Cambridge Youth Council." Names of prominent people were on its letterhead, and the printed objectives were in harmony with youth work he had been doing in his church. So he joined. He was a dupe being drawn into the Communist network.

Nine years later he was revealed as the most famous FBI counterspy in the history of our struggle against Communist infiltration.

Herbert Philbrick was an overnight guest in my home recently. It was enjoyable and extremely informative experience for my family.

When he joined the Cambridge Youth Council he accepted it at face value. Within a few months, however, "I woke up," he said, "to discover much to my shock that the Cambridge Youth Council was not a legitimate youth organization. It was a complete phony, an absolute fraud, and furthermore it was dominated and controlled by persons I suspected of being Communists."

He went to the FBI and it confirmed his suspicions. So he became an FBI counterspy and devoted a big part of his life to a dangerous mission for his country. He played along with the Cambridge Youth Council Communists, and in time was brought into the conspiracy. In the underground network he advanced until he was one of the most valued comrades. And all the while he was reporting to the FBI.

Herbert Philbrick is a modest self-effacing man. He had no idea at the time of the cunning, the brutality, the great hidden power of the Communist conspiracy. One factor in his becoming a Communist and a counterspy was his curiosity.

"I wanted to find out," he said, "how these (Communist) characters were able to manipulate things in such a fashion as to victimize not only myself, but the 300 to 400 young Cambridge people we had as members of the Cambridge Youth Council. All of the church organizations were represented in this organization; we held our meetings at the Y. M. C. A. at no cost to the Communist Party, and I wanted to know how it was able to pull such a trick as slick as that."

Today Herbert Philbrick is deeply disturbed by America's apathy to what's going on. People do not understand how cunning and what a menace the Communists are, he says. "We have not turned the tide against Communism," he says soberly. "We are still losing."

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

Memorial Day ceremonies remind us of the essential unity which we must have in these United States if we are to withhold the onslaughts of Russian Communism throughout the world.

In two addresses for Memorial Day services I have urged greater devotion to our free form of government and for an end to the unwarranted criticism and distrust which can divide us.

At the Antietam Battlefield I point out in my remarks that "the men who lie buried here at Antietam were the victims of suspicion and distrust. This national cemetery is evidence of a nation which was so divided and torn by internal dissension that two sections of this great country fell upon each other and the destruction which they wrought stretched throughout the North and South."

In an address recorded for use during Memorial Day services at the offices of the Social Security Administration in Baltimore and Wilkes Barre, Pa., I stated:

"Today, in some places of the world, the holocaust of war again threatens. Today, in some nations the governments are suppressing freedom, denying the people the rights and privileges of democracy. . . . We in the United States will make a mistake if we believe we are strong only because we have a democratic form of government.

"Our democracy in a republic is our faith; it is the tradition which is at the very root of our strength, but we have learned from past experience that ruthless dictatorships can become strong enough to challenge us and require vast expenditures and endless sacrifices in order for us to maintain our democratic and free government."

It cannot be denied that Russian communism is the new evil which stalks the world, and the Communists are united in their purpose. They must be opposed by men bound together by a strong faith in God and belief in the basic rights of their fellow men.

Communism has taken advantage of countries which had a democratic form of government, but which were weakened by internal dissension, by mutual suspicion, and a lack of faith among the citizens.

"A democratic form of government is not in itself sufficient protection. Democracy must be a meaningful part of our daily lives. It must be an affirmative, dynamic force to which every one of us is sincerely devoted. We cannot afford to be torn by internal dissension. We must possess mutual belief in, and devotion to, the form of government which has so well served the United States of America."

To stop communism the free world must stand firmly together, and before the allies can be united there must first be unity at home.

A United States, united in common purpose with the free people of the world, and dedicated to the basic and honored principles for which the dead of two world wars sacrificed their lives, need have no fear.

"We are peace loving people, who can become warriors only by necessity," I state in my Memorial Day remarks, "We honor and respect those whose self-sacrifice permit us to enjoy our free form of government today. We solemnly affirm that the just cause on which they made that sacrifice will not be dishonored by a lack of patriotism on the part of us, the living."

There is no better occasion than Memorial Day to rededicate ourselves to the principles embodied in our Declaration of Independence and Constitution.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

At the time of the so-called Korean Armistice Agreement I issued a news release calling attention to the report that some 700 to 900 American boys allegedly had not been returned along with the 22,000 U. S. soldiers who has been held prisoner by the Communist forces. I pointed out that if these boys had not been returned, then the Communists were violating the so-called Armistice Agreement which required all prisoners be returned. I demanded that our Government take action to bring these boys home.

"In our proper joy over the return of these 22,000 UN prisoners," I said, "let us not allow the more than 700 Americans who are still prisoners of the Red slave labor camps to become the 'Forgotten Men' of our day; the symbols of a betrayed trust, a callous indifference, and a national dishonor which will blacken the pages of world history from here to eternity."

I then sent letters to the Defense and State Departments requesting them to share with me any information which they might have concerning the above report, and also, what steps, if any, had been taken or were contemplated to secure the return of American boys who were allegedly still being held prisoner by the Communists. The Defense Department replied, in part, as follows:

"It is confirmed that there were 944 of our men concerning whom reports were received which indicated that the Communists possessed knowledge about their fate. Information concerning them originated, among other sources, from prisoner of war interrogations, statements of repatriated personnel, Communist radio broadcasts and news reports, and personal letters. An initial demand for an accounting for these men was presented to the Military Armistice Commission on September 9. The Communist reply of September 21 was regarded by the United Nations Command as totally unsatisfactory and unacceptable; and subsequently—on September 25, November 23, December 10, and January 18—further demands were made. The Communist responses have been uniformly unacceptable.

"In many cases, the reported information concerning the men was scanty and inconclusive. It has never been believed, or intended to be implied, that all 944 men were living. The demands presented to the Military Armistice Commission were not for a return of 944 men, but for an accounting for them—to include, of course, the return of all who might still be living. Our Government, through the Military Armistice Commission, will continue its negotiations to obtain information which would clarify the status of all the men; and will continue to investigate all sources of information and explore all feasible courses of action."

The latest development in this matter occurred on May 5th when our Embassy in Moscow gave an official note to Russian diplomats to the effect that there were numerous rumors that our unreturned soldiers were being held prisoner in Russia. Moscow, on May 12th, issued a categorical denial that any such prisoners were being held in the USSR. Obviously, the Russian denial, restricted as it was, did not cover all the possibilities.

Though we have little in the way of a positive result after these long months I am gratified to see that these unreturned American soldiers have not been forgotten and that their freedom will be of vital, continuing concern to their Government. I intend to follow this matter closely and to do whatever can practically be done to see these boys reunited with their loved ones again.

A mother is a lot of things! She's cook, laundress, nurse, teacher, housekeeper and companion. She keeps the family fed, clothed and happy.

It's a big job. And electric hands do much to make it easier. They help her clean her house—her clothes. They prepare and preserve the food, even bring her news and entertainment while she works. They do all this for only pennies a day.

And the men and women in your electric company are constantly working to make electricity even more useful—more of a bargain all the time.

Tableland Farming

A column devoted to agriculture in Garrett County
By John H. Carter

Farm ponds are popular, and seem to be getting more so each year. Anyone considering building a pond should know something about the Maryland law governing the construction of dams and ponds. The 1933 law (Sec. 5, Article 96B, Annotated Code of Maryland, 1939 Edition—in case you want to read the whole thing) requires that you obtain a permit in writing from the Maryland Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources before building, or rebuilding any dam more than 10 feet high or storing 1 million gallons or more of water. The 10 feet is height of the dam embankment, not depth of water. A million gallons is, roughly, 3 acre-feet.

The issuance of a permit, under the original law, usually required construction of a large and expensive reenforced concrete spillway, and made the building of a pond entirely too expensive for the average landowner to consider. Most ponds require a breast more than 10 feet high, and some of them store more than 2 acre-feet of water.

As farm ponds became more popular it was evident that the law should be changed, and this was done, by amendment, in 1950. The amendment exempts farm ponds from the provisions of the 1933 law if the following requirements are met:

1. The pond shall not exceed 9 feet in depth, at the spillway level.
2. The area of water surface at spillway level shall not exceed 60,000 square feet (about 1.4 acres).
3. The drainage area, or area of land draining into the pond, does not exceed 100 acres.
4. The pond shall not be closer than 500 feet to a public road or a place of habitation so situated as to be endangered by the breaking or failure of the dam.
5. Prior consent in writing must be secured from all abutting property owners within a distance of 500 feet downstream from the dam.
6. Before constructing a pond, the owner must send to the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources the following: (1) copies of downstream owners consents, if required, (2) a sketch map showing location of the pond. (3) a copy of the construction plan for the pond, showing height of fill, elevation and size of spillway, water depth and water area.

When the Soil Conservation District helps a farmer plan a pond, the technicians also help him make out the forms that must be sent to the Maryland Department.

During the last several years there has been demand for ponds larger, and with somewhat larger watersheds, than allowed by the 1950 amendment, particularly where ponds are needed for irrigation. The State Association of District Supervisors has appointed a committee to work with the water authorities and try to develop a plan that would allow the construction of larger ponds where they can be safely built.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Nonpartisanship Is Out

The trenchant comment has been made a number of times that the real cause of President Eisenhower's troubles is the fact that the voters who elected him so overwhelmingly in 1952 did not realize the terrible handicap they were imposing on the man of their choice when they failed to provide him with a workable majority in Congress.

—o—

The majority was so slender that it has now wholly disappeared in the Senate and been whittled down almost to the vanishing point in the House. This situation practically nullifies the power of the President to put through a really constructive program such as he promised and such as he has submitted to Congress. Under these conditions and in the national interests it would seem that the Democrats in Congress might support such of General Ike's proposals as appear sound. Certainly that was the Eisenhower hope and the reason so many of the measures he has asked Congress to pass were so drawn as to make it easy for those in Congress who want to vote on the merits of pending bills to go ahead and support them.

—o—

When this program was first sent to Congress and explained by the President over the air, the editorial comment from Democratic as well as Republican papers was almost unanimously favorable. Among the politicians there was naturally some dissent as to details, and from the bilious and bitter Senator Morse, of Oregon, general dissent as to everything. But, in the main, the program met with general public approval and even among the dissenters there has been no allegation that there was any partisan flavor or personal politics about it. Just a minimum of Democratic votes would have been enough to put it through.

It still is—but that minimum will not be forthcoming if the Democratic leadership in and out of Congress can help it. This is an election year, and election years are not auspicious periods for the consideration of anything on its merits. The Democratic leadership has made that exceedingly plain in the last few weeks. In his smug and hypocritical way, Mr. Truman has patronizingly explained that he does not want to add to the President's burdens. Yet he has adopted a form of criticism well calculated to do exactly that. The jocular Mr. Adlai Stevenson, who often talks like a nonpartisan, does precisely the same thing. As for Mr. Lyndon Johnson, the Senate Democratic leader, once the Texas primaries were over, he threw aside all pretense of nonpartisanship and, in accord with the labor boss pressure, proceeded to line up the Democrats in solid opposition to the Administration amendments to the Taft-Hartley law.

—o—

All of this is supplemented by the Democratic National Committee and CIO publicity, plus the frantic efforts of the New Deal-left wing columnists and commentators to belittle the President. None of these find good in anything Ike has done or proposed. They bellow loud demands that he "assert his leadership," but when he does "assert his leadership" they howl that he has done it in the wrong way and at the wrong time. They keep on vehemently declaring that he "fears" McCarthy, utterly ignoring the many times in which he has made it clear that he is utterly opposed to McCarthy, his manners and methods. No matter what he does and says, they bleat about his lack of courage and character, depict him as bewildered and confused.

The complete falsity of this picture is too obvious to make much of a public impression, but that does not prevent the Democratic leadership from painting it with tireless ardor and many brushes. Those in position to know say that General Ike does not mind the Democratic-CIO propaganda, the attacks of the columnists nor the Truman-Stevenson speeches, largely because—unless there is some special reason—he does not read them. What he does mind is the delay in getting action on his program. With no dependable majority in either branch the outlook is not too good, although some progress has certainly been made and some Administration measures passed.

Before the session is over there is reason to believe General Ike will put on all the pressure he can, including direct appeals to the people, in an effort to get action. Of course, what the Democrats are doing is natural though not admirable. Enactment of a strong Eisenhower program undoubtedly will diminish their chances of gaining control of the Congress this November and of the presidency in 1956. Nevertheless, it is reasonable to think that the voters who put Ike in the White House may not look with favor on members who, for purely partisan reasons, make it wholly impossible for him to carry out his pledges.

PURINA GROWENA

TRICKS TO ALL TRADES

The Purina dairy calf plan draws a laugh from lots of folk who've never tried it because it says "... on the 4th day teach calf to eat Calf Startena." They say it's such a chore to teach a baby calf to eat dry feed.

Actually t's easy. Try it this way and see if it doesn't work: After calf has finished her Nursing Chow, let her suck a little Calf Startena off your fingers. Then put the bucket next to an open feed trough and sprinkle a little Calf Startena in it and in the trough. Usually after 2 or 3 tries, she'll get the idea and start nibbling from the trough.

MAKES CALF FEEDING EASY

We've got the slickest calf pail you ever saw. You just screw a bracket on the wall, and the pail sets in it. The pail's seamless aluminum—mighty easy to clean. You sure ought to get one or more, and here's how you do it:

Just get a bag of Purina Nursing Chow, our famous milk replacer that raises bigger and better calves than milk at around half the cost. You can get a pail and bracket with each bag. The regular retail price is $1.75, but you can have it during our sale for only 85c. Drop in or call us quick. They won't last long at that price.

DON'T BREED GILTS TOO YOUNG

The Purina Research Farm folk tell us it's a mistake to breed gilts too young. Bred at 6 months of age, they're likely to have small litters and be hampered in their own growth and development. Better wait 'til they're 8 months old, when gilts grown on the Purina Program should be fully ready for breeding.

With Your Congressman
DeWITT S. HYDE

It is the duty of a Member of Congress to weigh with care the words of those who express uncertainty about our future as well as those who still believe that America continues to offer the greatest opportunities of any nation of the world. It is to those who are troubled about the future that I want to talk today.

We hear that hard times are ahead, that we are headed for a depression and that the door of peace, prosperity and happiness has slammed shut.

We are being urged by some people to enact what they have called a "full employment" program. Basically this program calls for three things: increase in exemption for individual income taxes, increase in certain government benefits and a stepped-up program of public works.

At first glance these remedies have a great deal of appeal to many people, and ultimately some of these suggestions may be adopted. However, this Administration is going slow in adopting such a program for definite reasons. The Administration is, of course, not opposed to "full employment;" no one in his right mind is opposed to full employment. The problem is what is the best method for obtaining full employment.

Now, why is the Administration not seizing immediately upon the so-called "full employment" program? There are several reasons.

First, this kind of a program was adopted between the years of 1932 and 1939. The same cry was heard during those years, that we had too much production, that we needed more public works and bigger government benefits—and such a program was given to us. What was the result: At the end of that period we still had between eight and ten million unemployed. In other words such a program did not solve the unemployment. On the contrary all it did was to increase the public debt without any real benefit to our economy.

Secondly, this Administration wants to try a different approach. It wants to adopt and is adopting a program which will stimulate the great free enterprise system of America which has given the American people the highest standard of living of any people in the world. We do not want to admit that private enterprise is a failure. Of course, to make such a program work it requires the full cooperation and devotion to his duty and to his country of every private businessman in this nation. Public works are not being entirely abandoned. We have just adopted the biggest highway construction program in our history. New schools are going to have to be constructed in the next few years on a scale never before known in this country. However, the emphasis of this Administration is on those measures which will stimulate our free economy. That is this Administration's full employment program and we are confident it will show real results after we get through this period of adjustment.

FFA Boys Prepare For State Contest

Judging Contests Held Recently By Students At Both High Schools

A number of F.F.A. boys from the Oakland and Cove chapters were given the opportunity to learn more about judging of dairy cattle when they participated in a county contest held last Thursday under the supervision of Extension Dairyman Schabinger, University of Maryland.

The dairy judging was done at several farms in the Grantsville area and was won by George Bishoff, of the Cove chapter. John Bernard, Oakland chapter, was second, while Coye's Glenn Hetrick won third. Fourth place went to Don Wagner, Northern, and fifth place to Monte Wilson, Southern.

Completing the top ten were John Roth, Southern, sixth; James Mellinger, Southern, seventh; Eugene Brenneman, Northern, eighth; Fred Lohr, Southern, ninth; and Ward Umbel, Northern tenth.

High scoring boys from their respective chapters will attend the annual state F.F.A. convention and judging contests to be held at the University of Maryland next month.

A tractor operators' contest is being held at Southern High school today under the direction of Guy W. Gienger, University of Maryland.

Two other contests were held recently, livestock judging and poultry judging.

Cove Wins Poultry Judging

Cove Chapter outscored boys from Oakland chapter in poultry judging, placing in four of the first five places. The judging was done at Northern High with Wade H. Rice, Extension poultryman, as judge. James McHenry, assistant county agent, assisted.

Blaine Resh, Northern, was first, followed closely by Max Bowser; Richard Bernard, Southern, and Forrest Jacobs, Northern, tied for third; Gerald Friend, Northern, fifth. Top boys in the contest receive money prizes for the first five positions, while top boys from each school will represent their chapter in the state contest at College Park the week of June 22.

Southern Takes Live Stock

Ernest Harvey, Southern High, won first place in the live stock judging contest held recently on local farms. Harvey scored 740 out of a possible 800 points. Charles Mason, Southern, was second with a total of 725 points. Tied for third were Richard Bernard and John Bernard, Southern, and Hugh Friend, of Northern.

Following these boys were Leo Custer and David Otto, Southern; and Ward Frazee and George Bishoff, Northern, all tied for sixth place. Completing the top ten were Dale Frantz and Wade Humberson, Northern. The top ten boys were awarded cash prizes for their efforts.

Official judge was Joseph Vial, of the University of Maryland, assisted by James McHenry.

A highlight of the day's activity was the opportunity for the boys to inspect a Hereford bull recently purchased by Thomas J. Johnson from the nationally famous Hillcrest Farms.

Home Dry Cleaning Can Be Hazardous

Make a rule never to use flamable liquids in dry cleaning. If you must do dry cleaning at home, use non-flamable, non-explosive carbon tetrachloride.

Many dry cleaning fluids such as gasoline, benzine and naptha look harmless but are of an explosive and volatile nature.

Guy Gienger of the University of Maryland Extension Service, chairman of the Maryland Farm Safety program, says many hazards are connected with the practice of dry cleaning at homes. There's no absolutely safe way to dry clean garments at home. Nor is there an absolutely safe dry cleaning fluid.

Ever carbon tetrachloride produces vapors which are harmful to breathe, so for safety's sake do all dry cleaning out of doors. Hang cleaned garments where the air circulates until the garment is thoroughly dry and most of the odor is gone. Never hang them near a stove or furnace.

Some persons develop a skin rash, infections and other bad effects after dry cleaning at home. Gienger advises that you use a plunger to avoid getting the cleaner on the skin, and use a minimum of cleaning fluid.

If you make a practice of occasionally going over upholstered furniture and rugs with spot remover or cleaning fluid, use caution. This practice can be extremely dangerous unless directions are carefully followed and proper precautions are taken.

Candidates Announce

FOR STATE SENATOR

To the Citizens of Garrett County:

I am a candidate for the office of State Senator from Garrett County.

I have been a resident of Garrett County for the past forty-three years. I was County Treasurer from 1947 through 1950 and have served in the House of Delegates during the years 1927 through 1930, in 1945 and 1946 and in 1951 up until the present time. In the Sessions of 1952, 1953 and 1954 I was elected Minority Leader by the Republican members of the House. As such, I was a member of the Rules Committee, the Ways and Means and of the Legislative Council. The information and knowledge I will gather at the Council meetings this year will be of great value to our County and State if I am elected to this office.

I feel that my background as a farmer, a veteran of World War I, a merchant, an employee of the Board of Education (all of which I have been in the past) together with my experience as County Treasurer and as a member in the House of Delegates for seven regular and three special sessions fit me for this office.

I make no idle campaign promises, but, if elected, I pledge to follow the same policies and serve my County and my State in the same manner as in the past. I will give careful and thoughtful consideration to any suggestions and will earnestly endeavor, at all times, to keep myself worthy of the confidence placed in me by the Citizens of Garrett County.

TO OUR CITIZENS:

The following indicates how the assessments on our Real and Personal property have increased during the past ten years.

1944 Basis on Real and Personal Property . $13,755,963.00
1949 Basis on Real and Personal Property . $16,700,825.00
1954 Basis on Real and Personal Property . $20,097,074.00

Below is listed the amount of the Levy for the current years indicated in order to present a picture of the growth of annual county expenses, and to provide a comparison over a period of Ten Years.

1944 Levy, Total for County purposes.....$339,193.02 (Rate—$1.56)
1948 Levy, Total for County purposes.....$580,070.75 (Rate—$2.00)
1949 Levy, Total for County purposes.....$657,167.57 (Rate—$1.95)
1950 Levy, Total for County purposes.....$648,799.63 (Rate—$1.95)
1951 Levy, Total for County purposes.....$696,150.28 (Rate—$1.95)
1952 Levy, Total for County purposes.....$741,581.61 (Rate—$2.00)
1953 Levy, Total for County purposes.....$747,055.19 (Rate—$2.00)
1954 Levy, Total for County purposes.....$819,163.85 (Rate—$2.00)

The above figures indicate the growth of our county budget over the past ten years, not including county roads which are financed mainly by the gasoline tax. When the amounts received from the gasoline tax are added to the 1954 budget, it will be seen that our County Commissioners are responsible for the expenditure of considerably over One Million Dollars this year. Over half of these funds are tied down by legislation making certain amounts mandatory in the Levy.

It should be noted that during the past ten years we have not only increased our budget by two and a half times, but we have also created a county debt that will approach Two Million Dollars by the end of this year. The debt will include money borrowed for schools, hospital and roads.

The above is presented for the purpose of creating public interest in county affairs, and to emphasize the need for careful management and economy in the future. We can pay the debt by being careful, but further legislation requiring bigger and fatter increases in our county budget could destroy the economy of our people. If we wish to entertain even the slightest hope of attracting outside business and investments, we must create a more favorable business climate. The best way to do this is to spend wisely and live within our means.

During the coming weeks I will use this space to outline some recent "Acts" of the Legislature that will increase our annual tax burden. These new laws making further increases necessary in our county budget at a time when we need to be searching for means of holding the line, are unfortunate to say the least.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR NOMINATION TO THE STATE SENATE

Home Rule Bill To Include All State's Towns

The constitutional home rule amendment to be voted on by the citizens of Maryland in the November 2 general election will affect every incorporated municipality in the state with the exception of Baltimore.

The Maryland Municipal League, which is strongly urging the passage of the bill, points out that Baltimore has had home rule for 36 years.

The adoption of the home rule amendment would not result in incorporated municipalities being completely independent from the state government.

Creatures of State

Municipalities are "creatures of the state" and therefore subject to state direction and control. If the amendment to the State Constitution is adopted, the General Assembly would still retain all of its inherent authority to control the governments of cities and towns.

However, the members of the General Assembly would have to exercise this control by general laws applicable to all incorporated communities, rather than local laws affecting any one city, town, or village.

The proposed amendment provides that the General Assembly may classify incorporated municipalities into four or less classes, according to law.

The amendment defines a general law as one that would be applicable to all the municipalities in one or more of these classes.

Not New Idea

The purpose of establishing the classes of towns and cities was because the Sobeloff Commission believed that it would be conceivable that occasions would arise when the legislators might think it wise to enact laws applicable to only the larger cities in the state, or possibly only the towns.

For example, whereas urban development is of concern to Cumberland, Hagerstown, Frederick and Annapolis, it is not a problem in the smaller towns.

The only grant of additional authorities made by the amendment is to the voters, since they must approve any proposed charter amendment.

The procedure for establishment of tax rates and tax limits of incorporated municipalities would not be changed if the measure is passed.

The home rule idea is not a new one. The earliest state constitutional provision limiting the authority to enact local legislation was adopted in 1812 by Louisiana. Today over three-fourths of the state constitutions in the United States contain such provisions.

"Our Growing Edge"

MRS. MARTHA GLOTFELTY

Let's Help Garrett County Grow

For many months, an outstanding rural magazine of the South, the Progressive Farmer, has been featuring articles on co-operative efforts of entire communities to make them better places in which to live.

Faced with the necessities of finding new sources of income and new means of employment, whole communities have banded together, pooled their resources, and urged new industries to come to their home town, village or countryside. Their achievements are really amazing, and show a real pioneer spirit in getting things done.

In the June issue, the paper is continuing to feature these articles and I am going to quote some of the editor's words, using Garrett County instead of the word South.

All over the South (it could be Garrett County) wide-awake farm folks are setting up community organizations for two express purposes: 1. To increase farm income. 2. To improve churches, schools, roads, libraries, playgrounds, recreation and all forms of neighborliness and happier living.

Most of these communities felt that their main problem was to bring more wealth into the community, so the first thing they tried to do was to get a factory or industry to locate in or near their home town or village. For two reasons the rural South (Garrett County) needs factories and other industries: 1. To give jobs to our surplus farm population; 2. To make better markets for farm products.

An 18-page pamphlet is available called "New Rural Industries to Fit Your Community." I am sending for that pamphlet, and will quote some of it later.

The editor suggests that farm people need to work hand in hand with local Chambers of Commerce and other groups.

What is our greatest need here in Garrett County? As I see it, the same problem faces us that the rural South has and we should do something about it. Several years ago, the women of my community asked me to write to our legislators, suggesting something like this be tried. This was done, and I believe we expressed the sentiments of many people of this county.

To hear the current gossip, one would think the only problem we have facing us is whether or not to legalize the sale of liquor. In my opinion it is too bad we could not settle this thing once and for all, and not have it overshadow all other problems. The legalizing of liquor would not bring in any more wealth, but would probably only add to the problems we already have. As for it bringing more tourists into the county, that argument is a fallacy. Fact of the matter is, I heard a reputable business man say the other day that many tourists say that is exactly why they like to come to Garrett county in the first place.

It would be interesting to know just how many of our graduates will leave Garrett County right after graduation. They have no other choice. Here we have expensive buildings, not yet paid for, and must educate our young people at great expense. Yet, when they are once trained to the point where they are capable of producing wealth and skills, they must go elsewhere. To my mind, it just does not make good sense. How many of them go to a big city, can afford one room to live in, lose all the cultural values they have been used to, and do not live nearly as well as they could here in Garrett County on less money.

Why don't we get together, forget about the liquor problem, and really try to do something constructive for Garrett county? That is not the answer to anything. We could, on the other hand, take a pattern from the rural South, who has seen its problems and tackled them together. I do believe we shall have to learn to work together to see Garrett county grow and prosper.

Limited Current Output . . . No possible fire hazard. Can't fire weeds or brush if fence should fall across them. Will not ignite any combustible materials.

Neon Safety Tube . . . Makes it impossible for 110-115 volt AC (high amperage current) to pass into fence in the event controller should fail to function properly.

Place To Eliminate . . . .

Students of politics will agree that it would be easier to elect good men to office if all voters paid more attention to primary elections. When voters in large numbers ignore primaries, the influence of the political machines and pressure minority groups increases proportionately.

We have a sample in this county of a minority group using pressure to get the sale of whiskey legalized. They would like to have only the voters favoring their "one and only" platform to go to the polls on primary election day.

If the majority who definitely oppose whiskey remain uninterested, and fail to go to the polls, the minority group might get what they desire. But one can recall what happened at the polls two years ago when aroused people went to the polls in greater numbers than ever before. Many voters were of the opinion that the give-away and spending policy of the New Deal could not be defeated." You can't defeat Santa Claus," many people thought. But he was defeated by an aroused majority who decided the important thing was to go to the polls and express their sentiments.

In a commencement address this week an executive declared "'There is a great need in the confused world of today for better morals, more self-discipline and a sounder sense of values." How right he is, but we won't get those things if we sit at home on primary election day and don't take the trouble to vote for the candidates who will declare themselves as to their moral character.

Elsewhere in this issue is a story concerning several groups that are asking the candidates for the legislature to declare just how they stand on the liquor question. They don't object to having their names used. We need more such groups and more such individuals, to become more outspoken —and to take proper action when the time comes.

Mail Carrier At Swanton Dies While At Work

Burzie S. Wilt, 66, rural mail carrier for the past 29 years in the Swanton section, died Tuesday morning, June 1, after assisting Mrs. Forrest Boyce to fix a flat tire along the highway.

Wilt left the Swanton postoffice about 10 o'clock. Along the Wilson road near the Log Church he came upon Mrs. Boyce who was attempting to fix a tire. He offered to help and jacked up the back of the car. The exertion appeared to be too much for him and he leaned against the car as Mrs. Boyce continued to change the tire. He finally slumped to the roadway.

Mrs. Boyce told authorities that she asked him if he wanted her to get help and he replied, "Yes." So she went to the Wilson school and then to Lake's Filling station where authorities were notified.

Investigating were W. Dwight Stover, State's Attorney; Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, deputy state medical examiner; and Sheriff Paul W. Fisher. Dr. Baumgartner said death was due to natural causes. They found him lying along the roadway.

A native of Dry Run, he was born December 7, 1887, and was a son of the late Allen and Rose Anna Broadwater Wilt.

He was a veteran of World War I. Surviving are his wife, Sarah Virginia "Sadie" Beckman Wilt.

The body is at the residence, route 2, Swanton, until Friday afternoon when funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock E-ST, from the Swanton Methodist church. Burial will be in the Murphy cemetery in the Dry Run area.

New Laws Into Effect June 1st

New laws relating to such varied subjects as black bass, trademarks and gross-receipts taxes went into effect on June 1.

Passed this year by the General Assembly the new measures show that the Legislature's interests were not limited to budget and taxes alone, even though this was a short session year.

Beginning June 1, all state boards and commissions, county commissions and councils and municipal legislative bodies must conduct their business in public. The law still gives these governmental agencies the right to go into executive session, but no ordinances, rules and regulations may be adopted unless the meeting is opened to the press and the public.

As part of a "self-clearing" procedure, trademarks will have to be renewed every ten years, designed to eliminate many old trademarks which are registered but never used.

The black-bass regulation makes tidal and nontidal water fishing schedules the same.

Other laws: a state bond construction bill for $7,864,600 worth of capital improvements in Maryland's state institutions; a $2 million supplemental bond issue for the state office building in Baltimore; an amendment to the 12-year road building program which permits the borrowing of $7 million for construction of a beltway around most of metropolitan Baltimore.

Under a new motor vehicle statute, all minors taking out driving licenses and all adult drivers who have lost their licenses through automobile violations will have to carry liability insurance or other proof of financial responsibility.

File Demurrer To Condemnation Proceedings Here

Attorney For Fulcher Smiths Say Petition Is Faulty

A demurrer has been filed in the Circuit Court here by William C. Walsh, attorney for Fulcher P. Smith and his wife, in the proceedings of the Department of State Forests and Parks in attempting to condemn a section of land along Deep Creek Lake for a public park site.

The demurrer was filed Saturday, May 29, and declares the petition for condemnation "is bad in substance and insufficient in law." It listed several reasons, the chief one of which was that the petition did not adequately describe the property of the Smiths which the petitioners wanted to condemn.

In answering the petition the Smiths, through their attorney, allege that the petitioners wish to acquire by condemnation a tract or parcel of land consisting of 70.82 acres in election district No. 6 in the Meadow Mountain area near Glendale bridge. It is stated however that the petition gives metes and bounds and description of the property of all the holdings of the Smiths in that area amounting to several hundred acres, and that it was impossible for the "respondents to determine from said allegations and descriptions just what land the petitioners wish to acquire in these proceedings."

The demurrer continues that the petition in no way indicates the 70.82 acres of land desired. It was indicated that other "good and sufficient" reasons would be shown at a hearing which would be held on the demurrer. Mr. Walsh signified in the papers filed in the court house that the demurrer was not intended for delay.

The petition instituting condemnation proceedings were started May 4. Filing the petition in the court were members of the State Board of Forests and Parks, which includes Paul B. Naylor, of Oakland; also R. Brooke Maxwell, chairman; H. Lee Hoffman, J. Miles Lankford, J. Wilson Lord.

Official ceremonies are scheduled to begin at Deep Creek lake about 3:30, probably at the new picnic area near the Deep Creek bridge. The ceremonies are scheduled for 4 p. m., at Kitzmiller.

Temporary Channels Check Erosion in Cultivated Fields

"Those small gullies that show up in cultivated fields after heavy rains may be big gullies by the end of the summer unless something is done to prevent further erosion," warns Charles P. Ellington, assistant Extension soil conservationist at the University of Maryland.

The conservationist recommends establishing temporary grassed waterways. He explains that the job can be done in just a few hours in most cases, if the farmer is too busy with other work to spend much time on the waterways.

"The best way to establish a temporary waterway is to spread manure, lime and fertilizer, then prepare a seedbed for the grass," he says. "But if it's not possible to do such a thorough job, protection can be given by simply walking along the eroded area and spreading seed of some fast-growing plant by hand."

Ellington recalls how this quick and simple method was used when a heavy rain started a gully on the agronomy department research farm near Beltsville two years ago. "We scattered annual rye grass seed on top of the ground right after a cultivation, and in a few weeks we had an effective waterway."

Sudan grass and spring oats have also been planted to give temporary protection. "Some farmers have even used corn," Ellington says. "However, it is necessary to stir corn seed into the soil, and corn plants don't give much protection when they get older."

It's not necessary to wait until after the last cultivation to seed the waterways, Ellington points out that "the sooner the cover is provided the less danger there is of erosion. Go ahead and plant and when the crop is cultivated, lift the plows and discs out of the ground when crossing these areas."

ONE WORD . . .

Can Change Your Life

By REV. ROBT. OLEWILER
Pastor, Grace Reformed Church
Washington, D. C.

Virtues

Few men knew people as well as the late Dr. Joseph Fort Newton. On one occasion, he made some penetrating comments about the faith some folks have in psychology as a means of salvation.

"They imagine that by further research we may find a mental gadget which will get our human relations right," he said, "But even psychologists have been known to get terribly tangled up while trying to untie knots in other lives. Useful as such knowledge may be when needed, it will not solve the puzzle."

Then Dr. Newton called for a few old-fashioned virtues like unselfishness, thought of others, forbearance and courtesy. They're still good. I challenge you to find a satisfactory substitute for them. If you want to get your human relations right in the home, at business, in school, then practice the old-fashioned virtues, the word that can change your life.

Vindex Mine Recently Inspected

Elimination of an unsafe roof condition along the main haulageway was urged today by the U. S. Bureau of Mines in a Federal coal mine inspection report released today for the Schell Coal Corporation's Earl No. 2 mine near Vindex.

T. J. Ward, who reinspected the 8-man, 25-ton-a-day mine recently, recommended removal of coal dust accumulations from the surface tipple, frequent roof tests by all face workers, recording of the results of preshift, onshift, and weekly examinations, and removal of mine refuse from shelter holes.

Ward also proposed keeping the trolley wire taut, equipping telephone circuits with lightning arresters, and the wearing of goggles or shields by workmen exposed to eye hazards.

Recent improvements included improved ventilation in the face regions and adequate rock-dusting of mine surfaces that were not definitely wet.

ENGLANDER'S PHARMACY Monthly News

A Message from Clinton W. Englander, "Your Pharmacist"

ACCORDING TO THE LATEST statistics, you are going to live a great deal longer than if you had been born in your grandparents' times.

THIS HAPPY STATE OF AFFAIRS is credited to the following basic reasons.

1. THE ALMOST MIRACULOUS RESULTS obtained by the use of Anti-Biotic drugs and Chemo-Therapeutic agents.

2. THE MORE GENERAL USE OF VITAMINS, which strengthen and fortify our bodies against the many types of serious infections, which formerly were responsible for a great many premature deaths.

3. THE GROWING TENDENCY TO CONSULT A PHYSICIAN before an illness becomes serious, and to follow his instructions more carefully.

AS YOUR PHARMACIST, we consider it important to keep informed about all the latest advances in Pharmacy and Medicine. Your physician knows that he can prescribe any of the newest discoveries, with the assurance that we will be able to compound his prescriptions.

Right To Work - - -

Writing in the May 17th issue of The Freeman, James R. Morris, a University of Chicago economist and specialist on labor unions, deals in considerable detail with a case which, in the view of many, may prove to be a milestone in the tangled history of labor legislation. The case is that of Sandsberry v. Sante Fe, and Mr. Morris' article carries the descriptive title, "The Right to Work."

Curiously enough, as Mr. Morris points out, ". . .the Supreme Court never has ruled on the constitutionality of compulsory union membership as a condition of employment." Now there are several cases involving the issue which may reach that tribunal. And one of the most significant of these, Mr. Morris states, is Sandsberry v. Sante Fe.

Under the original Railway Labor Act, passed in 1932, compulsory union membership was prohibited—any railroad worker was free to join or not join, as he chose. In 1951, Congress amended the act to make the union shop permissible. The Sante Fe Railway opposed the demands of the unions in this regard, even though threatened with a strike. Then, in 1953, thirteen Santa Fe employes went into the 108th District Court of Texas and asked for a permanent injunction against a union shop agreement between the Sante Fe and the unions, on the grounds that such an agreement would deprive them of rights guaranteed under both federal and state constitutions.

The jury held for the plaintiffs and against the unions. Last February 6th the Judge, E. C. Nelson, granted the desired injunction and, additionally, enjoined the unions from striking to coerce the Sante Fe into signing a union shop contract. It is Judge Nelson's reasoning which, Mr. Morris writes, ". . was based upon the jury's findings of fact as well as upon the Court's conclusions of law," that is of exceptional interest and significance.

Judge Nelson held that the section of the revised Railway Labor Act which legalized the union shop is beyond the power of Congress, and is a violation of the First, Fifth, Ninth, Tenth and Thirteenth amendments to the U. S. Constitution.

He held also the Texas right-to-work law valid and applicable. He said Congress' right to regulate interstate commerce ". . .does not mean that Congress has the right to regulate matters that have no essential relation to interstate commerce. . ." He emphasized that his decision was in no way an attack on labor unions, which are ". . . recognized as necessary and proper. . ." but that to require membership in any organization as a condition of the right to work" . . . is repugnant to American concepts of individual freedom."

Finally, and perhaps most important of all, Judge Nelson drew an analogy between the old, and long-outlawed "yellow dog" contracts and union shop contracts. Here he said: "The evidence indicates there was a period of union busting and head busting and of 'yellow dog' contracts. That was wrong, but that time, thank God, has passed. And it is just as wrong now that the unions should endeavor to compel men and women to join a union at the price of holding their jobs. The right answer is that they must be free to join or not to join, as they as individual persons choose to do."

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

The Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, of which I am a member completed work on the Federal Housing Act and debate is expected to begin Thursday, June 3.

The Senate Committee was considering a bill already passed by the House of Representatives, and another bill drafted in our committee, when the housing scandals broke.

Contrary to predictions that the revelations of irregularities would mean the end of housing legislation during this session of Congress, our committee fooled the prognosticators.

Realizing how important housing legislation was to the welfare of the people in ths country, and the helpful role the Federal Housing Administration has played in making it easier for people to buy their own homes, we proceeded with study of the housing bill and made an effort to tighten it so that no such irregularities would occur in the future.

The building industry is now one of the most important parts of our national economy, and any slowdown in building has an immediate effect on the economy of every community in the nation.

There is still a great need for houses and with FHA prepared to guarantee part of the risks our local banks, savings and loan associations, and private contractors are able to supply homes for those who want to own, and are prepared to buy, their own homes.

It should be remembered that FHA does not lend money to home buyers, but approves the contractors' specifications, and underwrites the mortgage held by the banks and other lending institutions in your community.

Now that the new housing bill has been reported out of committee, the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency will proceed with a full scale investigation into the past conduct of FHA officials in an effort to determine responsibility for irregularities which reportedly cost home buyers, and tenants, millions of dollars.

Among the changes in the housing law are those submitted by the Housing and Home Finance Agency itself, designed to outlaw fleecing of home owners, and windfall profits for builders.

The new law will end FHA guaranteed loans for barbecue pits, swimming pools, and many other unnecessary so-called "home improvements."

Included in the changes are recommendations by the committee which would:

1. Increase the maximum loan from $2,500 to $3,000 and extend term from three to five years, under the FHA improvement and repair loan program.

2. On multi-family loans, permit increases beyond maximum of $10,000 by allowing $1,500 per unit or $10,000, whichever is greater, and increases term from seven to ten years.

3. Give servicemen the same terms on government-guaranteed mortgages that they would receive as veterans.

4. Direct the VA and the FHA to consolidate as many of their functions as possible.

5. Extend defense housing and Wherry (military installation) housing.

6. Extend by $1,000 per room the maximum mortgages on slum clearance projects in large cities where costs are high.

There are many other substantial changes, a brief summary of which requires seven pages, and it is hoped that the bill will be passed by the Senate after about three days of discussion.

Prompt passage of the new housing bill will assure continued high activity in home construction, thereby providing another stimulant to business; prompt passage will also mean that new homes will continue to be supplied and Americans will be able to purchase them under a program which protects the buyer and the lending institution, at the same time preserving individual initiative and private enterprise.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Demagogue's Delight

The widely promulgated idea that young Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt, Ja., will gallop away with the New York Democratic gubernational nomination this fall, thus putting himself, if elected, within reach of the presidency, does not seem as sound as it did. Some of his supporters, while still feeling he will be named by the State convention, concede the picture is not quite so beautiful as it was.

—o—

Nor is the reason for this entirely due to the damage done by the unsavory charges of mass adultery made by the wife of his brother James, who is a candidate for Congress in California. Recently the names of several other New York Democrats have been mentioned in connection with the governorship. Among these is Mr. Averell Harriman. True, Mr. Harriman is a personal friend of Mr. Roosevelt and would not willingly take the nomination away from him. Still if the "powers that be" evince a preference for Mr. Harriman over Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Harriman would accept and Mr. Roosevelt be forced to stay in the House where he is understood to be terribly bored and has made no record other than a clearly negative one.

Those who know the New York situation point out several things that seem to detract from his desirability as a candidate. First, they assert there is no public sentiment for him whatever and his only asset is his father's name. That was Jimmie's asset in 1950 when the then Gov. Earl Warren defeated him by more than a million and a half in a state where the Democrats have more than a million registration majority. Second, that he has no strength of his own in New York and can only be nominated if DeSapio, the new boss of Tammany; O'Connell, the Albany boss, and New York's Mayor, Wagner, agree that he should be. Third, aside from the machine his chief support will come from Mr. Walter Reuther, head of the CIO, the left-wing Americans for Democratic Action, of which his mother is an official, and the American Labor party.

—o—

If nominated he would, of course, have the support of Mr. Adlai Stevenson, Senator Herbert Lehman and all the radical elements in the State. It should be recalled, however, that Governor Dewey has beaten this lineup (plus the Democratic machinery) three times, and if he can be prevailed upon to run against young Franklin nearly all the experts agree he would "eat him up." So would, they say, Senator Ives—if Mr. Dewey adheres to his intention to retire to private life. However, it is said young Franklin dissents from this view very strongly, indeed. He thinks that as a candidate he would "eat them up"—Dewey, Ives, or anyone else.

—o—

Those who have talked with him say there never was a more confident, not to say cocky, candidate. The fact that Mr. James A. Farley, former Post-master General, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee and the recognized authority on New York politics, does not favor his nomination and regards him as a weak candidate does not in the least shake young Franklin's belief in himself. Nevertheless, he won't get the nomination if the belief in him of the above-mentioned bosses is shaken. They are the determining "powers that be."

—o—

Concededly, his cause has not been advanced by the bill he recently introduced to restore prosperity, cure all our economic ills, relieve us of high taxation, solve our agricultural problems, solve the housing problems, vaccinate against unemployment, raise wages and promote many other desirable aims and ends. The title of the bill is one "to establish a comprehensive program for maintaining economic prosperity." "Comprehensive" is the right word. If Mr. Roosevelt has left anything out, it is not apparent. The bill contains 270 printed pages and twelve subtitles. Many of its "principles" have been taken bodily from the CIO publicity and much of the language is identical. Undoubtedly, the bill will please Mr. Walter Reuther, the A.D.A. and all the many "spend, spend, spend, tax, tax, tax," splinter parties and people.

But there are several things that can be said about it—one, that it has not the remotest chance of passing at this session or any other in the foreseeable future; two, that no one in Congress takes it seriously and the odds against any member of Congress ever reading it through are heavy indeed; three, if not the silliest bill ever introduced in Congress, it is certainly one of them. It has been called the "demagogues' delight," and there is much therein to justify the name. As for its effect in the campaign, certainly its tendency would be to consolidate every conservative, Republican as well as Democrat, against its author.

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

Every nationally-known person actively engaged in resisting the growth of Communist power and the spread of Communist propaganda in America warns that the American people still are dangerously apathetic to the menace. Why is this true? Herbert Philbrick, of the New York Herald Tribune, who served nine years as an FBI counterspy deep within the Communist apparatus, has made a serious study of this national apathy. He says that it is permitting the Communists to continue to win in their conspiracy to control the world.

"It's difficult for American people to conceive that anybody could be teaching and believing in the violent overthrow of the United States. But when you sit in these secret, conspiratorial meetings, as I did; and when you hear these characters discussing these matters in very practical terms, and meaning it, then believe me the cold sweat begins to run down your spine. These boys mean business. They always have; they always will. And when they talk of violence and bloodshed, the comrades are talking about your blood."

Another cause of the apathy, Philbrick found in his study, is the "reluctance of most people to recognize the unpleasant and unhappy facts of the world in which we live, and the fact that we are on the spot because the Communists have made it that way."

A third reason for American apathy, said Philbrick, is that the Communists want this apathy to continue undisturbed and therefore they use their greatest propaganda apparatus and the science of thought-shaping—cybernetics—to discount in the minds of Americans the true danger of the Communist conspiracy.

And yet, as Philbrick says, the world conspiracy of Communism which began with a mere 30,000 radicals in 1917 now rules 800,000,000 people with a brutal iron hand; and during every day since 1945 this criminal conspiracy has been taking over the territory of the world at the rate of 1,000 square miles a day.

Grantsville Notes

Dewey Yoder, of Scottdale, Pa., will be the guest speaker at a special service conducted once a month at Laughlin Brethren church. A quartet will accompany him and render some sacred music for the program. Offerings at these meetings will go into the building fund. The building at present is about one half completed and the plans are to have it completed enough for the Summer Bible School, beginning on June 21.

On Tuesday evening, May 26, a group of our people attended a summer Bible School workshop, at Scottdale, Pa. They were Rev. and Mrs. Jesse Whitacre, Mrs. Galen Beachy, Mrs. Ernest Bowser, Mrs. Luther Platter, Harold Bittinger, Mrs. Orpha Wisserman, and Miss Leona Butler.

Attorney and Mrs. Charles I. Bevans, daughter Sue Marlene, Robert O'Donnell, Harbor Defense Unit, Little Creek, Norfolk, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Brenneman and daughter, Arlington, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Naylor Glotfelty and family, Addison, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Eisel, son William and daughter Kay, Frostburg; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Brenneman and daughters, Grantsville; were Sunday dinner guests of their mother, Mrs. Agnes Brenneman, Bittinger.

Emmons Younkin, Wilkinsburg, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Miller, Richard and Ralph, were holiday guests of their mother, Mrs. Barbara Younkin, brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Glotfelty. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Crocren, Mather, Pa.

Attorney Charles I. Bevans was the guest of his mother, Mrs. Eva B. Beachy, over the holidays. Mrs. Beachy is very much improved after an attack of sciatic rheumatism.

The Grantsville Homemakers club met at the home of J. A. Beachy Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Raymond Rosenberger as hostess, assisted by other members of the club.

MARRIED

McDonald-Ashby—Miss Naomi Agnes Ellen Ashby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Ashby, Oakland, became the bride of Lloyd McDonald, of Junction, W. Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McDonald, at a quiet ceremony in the Kingsley Methodist church, Cumberland, last Friday afternoon, May 28, at 1 o'clock. Rev. Jacob H. Snyder, pastor, performed the candlelight service in the presence of members of the two immediate families.

Attendants were the bride's sister, Willavene Ashby, and the groom's twin brother, Floyd McDonald.

The bride is graduating this year from Southern High school. The groom is serving in the U.S. Navy on the heavy cruiser Helena, and is presently stationed at Long Beach, Cal. The couple will go to Long Beach to reside.

Crosby-Walker—Last Saturday evening at Asbury Methodist church in Charleston, W. Va., with Dr. Chelsea H. Kelley officiating, Miss Lois Jeanne Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Ray Walker, of that city, became the bride of Harry Ray Crosby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Crosby, also of Charleston.

A musical program was presented by two fraternity brothers of the bridegroom, Randall Marrs and David Collins.

The full skirt of the bride's gown of camellia white nylon tulle was caught with a lover's basket and the tight bodice was accented by Alencon lace and lover's bows. Iridescent sequins and pearls were embroidered on the lace mitts, her illusion veil was draped in madonna fashion and she carried a white Bible with a showered marker of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. David D. Bush, of New York City, matron of honor for her sister, was dressed in Nile green taffeta and net, made with a tucked bodice, fichu and peplum of tucked taffeta. Identical frocks of pale pink were worn by the bridesmaids, Mrs. Lawrence L. Crosby, Jr., of Chattanooga, Tenn., the Misses Anne Potter, Patricia Way and Nancy Hammond. All wore matching veiled bandeaux and had nosegays of carnations. The flower girl was Mary Butler.

Lawrence L. Crosby, Jr., was best man for his brother. Ushers were Malcolm Broaddus, Jr., of Hopewell, Va.; William Ratcliff, Philip Moore, Jr., John Nelson, Thomas Blair and Donn Langfitt.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. William D. Rees and daughter Beverly, Mrs. Floyd Custer and Mrs. John Browning, of Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin, Huntington; and Mrs. Myra C. Martin, Crellin. The bride is a niece of William Rees and Mrs. Myra Martin; and the groom is a first cousin of Mrs. John Browning and Mrs. Floyd Custer.

Both are graduates of Charleston High school. She is an employe of the Interline Payable Department of the Atlantic Greyhound corporation. Her husband attended Virginia Polytechnic Institute and is now a senior at Marshall college, Huntington. He is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity and the student Christian association.

Kidney Slow-Down May Bring Restless Nights

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, headaches, dizziness and loss of pep and energy. Don't suffer restless nights with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

POST HOLE DIGGER—State Senator Neil C. Fraley (shovel in hand) was trying to do it the hard way as he officially broke ground last Friday for the first pole for the new telephone line in the Bittinger area, during a special program there. Mr. Fraley started a train of events which will, within the next three months, see the erection of one thousand telephone poles in that section which will gve service to around 100 subscribers by the latter part of August. Watching the operation are Walter Haschert, left, area manager for Cumberland; Nelson Orendorf, president of the former Bittinger Mutual Telephone company; and Richard K. Dayton, local manager. Three crews are at present busy in erecting the poles, which are in charge of Joseph Lilley, construction foreman supervisor of the Cumberland area. During the program Mr. Dayton made some introductory remarks while Mr. Haschert explained what was being done to provide people of the Bittinger community with telephone communication. Rev. James M. Allan and Rev. I. K. Metzler participated with the invocation and benediction. County officials were introduced including George E. Coddington, Harry C. Edwards, Arthur H. Green and Neil C. Fraley, of the General Assembly and Jonas W. Sines, county commissioner. Other telephone officials present were Ellis Stroup, commercial supervisor, and Thomas Dwyer, district commercial manager. Hagerstown; and Mr. Lilley. Bells' Studio Photo.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

Developments of the past ten days in Guatemala would seem to signal greater activity in the Western Hemisphere by the partisans of atheistic communism. Undoubtedly, communist infiltration of Central and South America, in conjunction with continued and devious subversion in our country, is but part of a planned program for the complete subjugation of the United States and of all freedom loving people everywhere. There is much expert testimony to substantiate this point.

Thus, the repugnant pattern of world domination, created by the Bolshevik terrorists immediately following World War I and since, surreptitiously, and often openly, motivated by the Kremlin, moves closer to ultimate attainment, unless the free world, with alacrity and vigor, rather than apathy and indolence, awakens to the true nature and eventual goal of the Red menace.

Let it not be forgotten that international communism has but one, and only one, objective—world domination and subservience—the accomplishment of which has followed a definite plan of several specific phases:

First, the overthrow of the Czarist regime in Russia after World War I for the purpose of obtaining a national base for international operations . . . Second, in the years prior to World War II, the consolidation of Russia under communist control . . . Third, a program of periphery expansion to enable contiguous defense from satellite nations . . . Fourth, the mastery of Asia by either direct or indirect means—the latter having proved most effective . . . Fifth, the mastery of Africa with its vast storehouse of natural resources . . . Sixth, the mastery of Latin America as a prelude to the economic strangulation of the United States. Each phase requires no direct military intervention by Russia; on the contrary, results are obtained through the typical Kremlin-inspired tactics of subversion, infiltration and propaganda. Only recently, the scope of these tactics has been broadened to include a campaign of negotiated economic ties with the communist orbit.

The present tenseness in the Guatemalan situation might well be viewed in the light of results thus far achieved through this phased plan of international conspiracy, particularly since World War II: Establishment of Red China . . . Occupation of Tibet by "a People's Army of Liberation" . . . Invasion and division of Korea . . . Support of Ho Chi-Minh in Indo-China . . . Attempts to aid the insurrectionist Hukbalahps in the Philippines . . . Support of independence for Indonesia . . . Infiltration of Burma . . . A program to communize Thailand and Malaya . . . Creation of an "Iron Curtain" defense through a consolidation of satellite nations . . . Disruption of most Middle East Governments, except for Greece and Turkey.

With the knowledge of such a global conspiracy, and the inroads which have already been made in the community of free nations, the extensive reaction of lethargy to situations such as now exist in Guatemala is indeed incredible. If freedom, as a basic dignity and cherished heritage, is to be preserved, this latest threat to the Western Hemisphere must be challenged, perhaps, through a return to the principles of the Monroe Doctrine.

The Use Of Sodium Meta-Bisulfite In Making Grass Silage

Parties who are making grass silage, and using a preservative, may be interested in a new material now on the market.

Experiment Station workers at the Pennsylvania State University have tested the use of sodium meta-bisulfite to aid in the preservation of grass silage. Also, research has been conducted by the Bureau of Dairy Industry at the Agricultural Research Center at Beltsville, Md., and at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York. The meta-bisulfite reacts with water in the silage to form sulfur dioxide, a gas which goes to sulfurous acid, lowering the acidity of the silage and aiding in its preservation.

Interest in sodium meta-bisulfite has centered around the following points:

1. It is a dry chemical which is easily handled and used.

2. It is a relatively inexpensive preservative. Results indicate that a rate of eight pounds of sodium meta-bisulfite is adequate. The cost of the material varies from 6 to 10 cents per pound, depending on the quantity purchased.

3. It greatly reduces the disagreeable odors and tendency for poor quality silage with high quality moisture grassland crops.

From the experimental tests and from farm experience, this material appears to be entirely safe from the standpoint of the men handling the crop and also the livestock consuming the silage.

The sodium meta-bisulfite can be added in the field at the time the forage is chopped, or can be added at the time that it is blown into the silo. Some commercial equipment is available for applying this material to the silage. In other cases farmers have used a fertilizer attachment, such as contained on corn planters, to drop the material on the chopped forage.

Farmers using sodium meta-bisulfite are cautioned that the use of more than 12 pounds of this material per ton of forage is likely to result in unpalatable silage. Also the material has not proved to be of value on silage that has been wilted to the extent that it will keep without a preservative.

New Weapons in War on Flies

A few years ago, there were high hopes that a weapon had finally been developed to end the centuries-old battle against flies. The hopes were based on chemicals which scientists called Chlorinated hydrocarbon insecticides.

Some of the members of this chemical family were DDT, Lindane and BHC.

But the hopes that these chemicals would end the war against flies were a bit too optimistic—certain strains of flies developed resistance to the chlorinated hydrocarbons.

Fortunately, scientists don't give up easily. They developed a new family of chemicals called organic phosphate insecticides. Scientists don't promise that these chemicals are the final solution to the fly problem, but they are effective against flies that can survive spraying with the older insecticides.

Malathion, TEPP (tetraethylpyrophosphate), Bayer compound L 13/59 and Diazinon are some of the chemicals in this group.

A new technique of applying the chemicals has also been developed. The technique is to use sweetened baits—sugar or molasses is mixed with insecticide. Flies are attracted by the sweet ingredient, and while they feast on the delicacy they get a fatal dose of poison.

Entomologists at the University of Maryland caution that some of the organic phosphates are poisonous to warm blooded animals, and for that reason should be used with extreme care.

However, other chemicals in the group are quite safe when properly used and are even less toxic to animals than some of the chemicals in the DDT-Lindane-BHC family.

The government takes the toxicity into consideration when approving labels for the use of these insecticides the entomologists point out. For this reason, those who plan to use organic phosphate insecticides should read the labels carefully to see if they are for use in cattle barns only or for use in both cattle and dairy barns.

"Malathion baits have been approved for use in both dairy and cattle barns," says Dr. George S. Langford, one of the University of Maryland entomologists who have experimented with the insecticides. "These baits are easy to apply and they act fast. A liquid bait made by mixing 1 pound of granulated sugar and 1 ounce of Malathion (50 per cent emulsifiable) in one gallon of water proved effective in tests on Maryland farms.

"The solution can be sprinkled on concrete floors and the operation usually requires no more than 5 minutes. It is applied in strips on the floor or other places where flies congregate, but care must be taken not to contaminate animal feed.

"If a barn does not have concrete floors the bait may be applied as a coarse spray with a compressed air sprayer to stanchion pipes, support beams, window sills, door jambs and other areas where flies are normally found during the day.

"Flies begin to drop and die within 10 minutes after the bait is applied, and usually from 80 to 90 percent of the flies in a barn will be dead and on the floor within 1 to 2 hours."

Under normal conditions Malathion baits give satisfactory control if used once or twice a week through the season. The cost per application usually runs between 40 and 80 cents, depending on the size of the barn.

Some of the recommendations which have been made for years with other insecticides also apply to Malathion. For example: (1) follow manufacturer's directions, (2) be careful not to contaminate milk, (3) keep the insecticide away from children, (4) eliminate manure and other materials in which flies breed.

"Our Growing Edge"

MRS. MARTHA GLOTFELTY

Congratulations To A Graduate

Soon from our high schools and colleges will come a stream of graduates, prepared to take their places in a work-a-day world.

Graduation is always an impressive and exciting occasion. It marks the end of a period of life, devoted to study and learning, and is the beginning of the student's application of those things he has learned.

In Dr. Henry Drummond's book, The Greatest Thing in the World, he asks this thought-provoking question: "Once only I have my life to live. How shall I do it best?"

I am quite sure I would be right in saying that many thoughtful young people of every generation have in all seriousness asked themselves that same question. This year's graduates will be no different.

Every generation has had a need for the fresh, inquiring minds of youth. Without their vitality, their enthusiasm, their new ideas and ways of doing things, our world would grow stale, indeed.

There are some things that young people of every age have needed, without which life is neither happy or complete. The most important one of these is Faith, with the love and trust of our fellowman which goes along with it. Faith is the powerful force which will give you courage when you would be afraid, strength when you would be weak, hope when despair would overwhelm you. So, above all else, you need faith in God, faith in your fellowman and faith in yourself.

Have the courage to be yourself. Of all the people who have ever lived, or who are now living, each one of you is different, unique, distinctive. No two people have the same abilities, the same skills, the same personalities. Therefore, from the whole human race, you alone have a distinctive ability, a service to render humanity which no one can do in the same manner as you. It is a well known fact in the field of crime detection, that no two people have been found who have the same whorls in their finger prints. This physical fact is only one indication of the uniqueness of personality each one of us possesses. This great gift could have only been given to us by a Creator of infinite wisdom. Hold on to it.. Refuse to be forced into a mold by the world or events around you. Does that mean we should be difficult and un-cooperative? Not at all. As a matter of fact, it makes us all more able to recognize the fact that all others are as unique as ourselves, and this very variety makes the world move forward. In our own special way, we are to serve God and our fellow man. He who serves best is the greatest among you.

Choosing a life's work is an important decision. Today young people have many skilled people who can advise and guide them. Guidance counselors, teachers, pastors and parents can all help you in this important area of life. I think it is important to consider not only aptitudes, but limitations as well.

Someone has compared life to a game, more thrilling, more exciting than any sports event you have ever witnessed. When you were in school, you were taught not to cheat. In this greatest of all games, don't cheat, for there are always penalties for those who do. Play the game fair and square, and you will find in life heights and depths you did not know before. Then you will know the fair way is always the best way.

Those of us who have loved you and tried to guide you, wish you well on this, your graduation day.

Congratulations!

Petitions Ask Candidates To Declare Intentions

Five letters to the editor were received this week with signatures of one hundred seventeen people, declaring that "the time has come when our candidates who desire to represent us at Annapolis in 1955 declare themselves just how they stand on this liquor question through the columns of the newspaper."

Each letter declared "You may publish our names if you wish to." These letters came from Sand Flat, Altamont, White Church, Swanton and McHenry areas. Along with one of the letters came an appeal to the voters from an individual which is published below:

To the Voters:

It won't be long until we, as voters of Garrett County will exercise our one blessed privilege to go to the polls to cast our vote for the candidate we think is best. Let us not just go because it is our neighbor or friend, or because he thinks we are indebted to him in some way. But go because it is a privilege or for the betterment to our County. Let us question each one as to their stand on this liquor question in Garrett County. Make each declare himself, whether wet or dry. The only alibi the wets have are revenue the county loses. (How sad). Who wouldn't pay if it need be, a little more tax, to keep our County clean, decent, and respectable, rather than have liquor with all of its disgrace, shame, broken homes, divorces, etc. If they are honest and upright men, this is not asking too much. Come on Candidates, show your colors.

Arthur C. Savage

Another letter declared in part:

We don't see the sense of collecting a little revenue and then paying out twice as much for the added enforcement of law. They must have a poor opinion of our intelligence. We therefore request all candidates for legislative or enforcement offices to make it known as to their stand on the subject. No beating around the bush. Then we may know how to vote. We would like to know who would thrust the evil traffic on us for the enrichment of an immoral few, while impoverishing and degrading their patrons. That is the way the liquor traffic always has worked. We await your response. Our ears are to the ground. This letter was signed by J. Timothy Moon, Mt. Lake Park.

Coaching Positions Made for Next Year

The administration of the Southern High School has announced a change in the coaching staff for the 1954 and 1955 season.

Mr. Kyle Wilson, senior member of the staff, and this year's varsity basketball coach, has been elevated to the position of director over health, physical education, and interscholastic sports.

The addition of football to Southern's sports has called for a coach for that spot. Mr. James DeMoss has been chosen for this post. He will be assisted by Mr. Leonard Ritchie in this activity. Mr. DeMoss received this position through his experience in college football.

Mr. Ritchie, besides assisting in football, will handle both the junior and varsity basketball teams and coach varsity baseball, a post which he now holds.

The remainder of the coaching department remains unchanged. Mr. Thomas Stevenson will continue his role as track and cross country coach. Mr. John Veader, who has held the position of junior high basketball coach, will remain in that capacity.

The vacancy in the job of soccer coach has been formed with Mr. Ritchie's changed coaching position. A successor for the job has not been chosen.

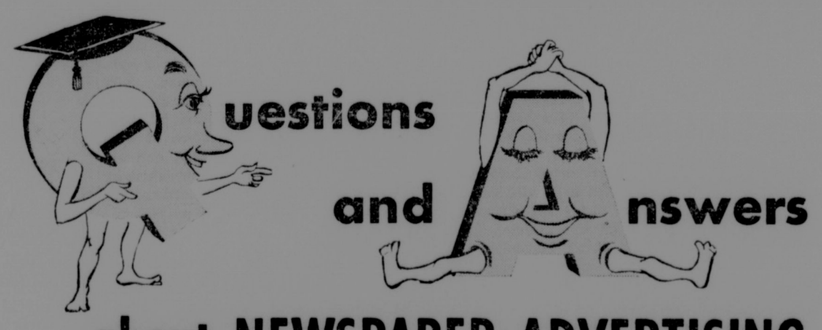
MEMO TO ADVERTISERS



about NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Q. What are the 3 most important rules for profitable newspaper advertising?

A. 1. Your advertising message should be newsy, friendly, informative, easy to read. Give facts and news about your merchandise and service.

2. Advertise regularly. Make your advertising do what successful salesmen do—call on customers and prospects consistently.

3. Insist on audited circulation reports that give you the FACTS about the audience that your sales messages will have when you buy newspaper advertising.

Q. Is there a measure for the value of newspaper circulation to an advertiser such as the standards a merchant uses in buying merchandise—for example, like STERLING on silver?

A. Yes—in the well known circulation standards of the AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS.

Q. What is the A.B.C.?

A. The A.B.C. is a cooperative, non-profit association of 3,450 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers in the United States and Canada. Organized in 1914. Brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing a definition for paid circulation, rules and standards for measuring, auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.

Q. What does A.B.C. do for me?

A. At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors makes a thorough audit of the circulation records of each publisher member. The results of each audit are published in an easy-to-read A.B.C. report for your use and protection when you buy newspaper advertising.

Q. What are the FACTS in A.B.C. reports?

A. A.B.C. reports tell you how much circulation, where it goes, how obtained and other FACTS that help you buy advertising as you would make any sound business investment—on the basis of known values and audited information.

Q. Are all publications eligible for A.B.C. membership?

A. No. Only those with paid circulation. This is important to advertisers because it is evidence that the paper is wanted and read.

Q. Is this newspaper a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations?

A. Yes. We are proud of our circulation. We want you to know the FACTS about the audience your selling messages will have when they appear in these pages. Ask for a copy of our latest A.B.C. report.

SINGS AT UNIVERSITY—Mrs. Anne Bell, wife of Jay L. Bell, Crellin, was at the University of Maryland on May 18th to sing at the annual banquet of the Maryland Classified Employees' Association. The banquet was held in the University of Maryland Dining hall with about 250 members and guests present. Mrs. Bell sang for the invocation "The Lord's Prayer." During the program she sang "One Kiss," and "Wanting You," from New Moon, by Rodgers and Hammerstein; and for an encore she sang "Didn't It Rain," by Burleigh.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

Aunt Martha Has Arrived

Much to-do is made of coming out parties for debutantes in our eastern cities, but they can't hold a candle to an affair I viewed from a church balcony Sunday.

It was the church service of the Hinebaugh family reunion but to me it was "Aunt Martha's arriving party," for her offspring from far and near came to pay tribute to her father for whom she had great admiration.

Mrs. John Robinson was the only one present of her generation but she glowed as she said, "This is one of the happiest days of my life."

Yes, she has arrived! Over thirty from her branch of the Hinebaugh tree including ten great grandchildren twigs were present for the occasion.

A son who preached an outstanding spiritual sermon; a niece at the organ; children, nephews, grandchildren, in-laws singing like a trained choir. Another bringing his infant to be baptized.

Little wonder her expression was one of "my cup runneth over"—and well it might—for she has had a lot to do with making it full to overflowing.

—o—

A Crown For The Queen

Charlotte Biser, the Queen of the May Day at the Elementary school, had the most gorgeous crown I have ever seen for such an affair.

Rich plush top ($12.00 a yard plush!) trimmed in pearls and jewels and with the look that it had been fashioned by a master craftsman.

So it was—her grandfather, Mr. Teagarden, made it. Took him three days, he said. He showed me his needle-pricked fingers. But from the look on his face it must have been well worth it for I doubt if any grandfather was ever any prouder of a queen—or the crown upon her head.

Me—A Bump On A Log

Sometimes I feel like a bump on a log—and if you wonder just how that would be, consider how unnecessary, unattractive, undesirable that bit of growth is. Some of my friends could also add—underprivileged.

This feeling always comes up when the conversation turns to television. I find myself sitting back feeling un-invited for definitely I'm out of the circle. Something like visiting in a strange town where all conversation is local.

Being such a talkative creature, I'm always opening my big mouth asking "Who's that?" or "What's that?" or "What in the world are you talking about?"

But I always get a startled, "Why, Polly, do you mean you don't know so and so—and so and so—and so and so?" Off they go again, talking over my head.

The thing that really gets me is that these enthusiasts think that all the important things move across the screen. As one said, "Why, you're missing the interesting personalities of our day."

Huh! Why even our little Monte Vista road has the drama, the comedy, the tragedy, the homespun humor, the philosophy of any television show—and it's live flesh.

I do not mean to run down our most recent medium for expression, for I'm sure it's wonderful in spots and surely a joy for the less active.

Somehow I think Shakespeare was right when he said, "All the world's a stage and its people merely players." I'd be afraid to spend too much time looking at television for fear I would miss something no camera could ever catch nor no record ever register.

What to do about feeling so dumb when around these enthusiasts is my big problem.

Right now, I vow, if we ever get television I won't jump in, hook, line and sinker—just like I vow, if I ever get grandchildren I won't load my purse with snap shots of them to display at the class reunion.

We shall see——

Activities of Civic Club Are Reviewed

A brief summary of activities of the Civic Club of Oakland during the past year was given by Mrs. E. Ray Jones, president, at the annual luncheon meeting last week.

She reported contributions of $10.50 toward restoration of Independence Hall in Philadelphia; $60 to local girl scout tour and party; $50 for twelve layettes for use of the County Welfare board. In addition the Penny Art fund has contributed to scholarships for students under the Maryland Federation of clubs.

She reported Christmas gifts distributed to 11 children and 7 families under the Crippled Children department, assistance given to the Red Cross bloodmobile unit, Red Cross nursing course and the Mothers' March of Dimes, as well as staffing one unit of the chest X-ray unit.

Two wheel chairs were available in case of accidents. During the Christmas season classes were held where candle making was demonstrated. Nursing homes were visited at Christmas and Easter time when appropriate gifts were left for individuals.

Two luncheon meetings, four dessert meetings were held; also two panel discussions with local participants. The American Home department sponsored a tea and an open meeting for civil defense, followed by a civil defense survey by club members and others. The annual style show and card party were given for the public.

A memorial service was conducted by Mrs. Grover Stemple in memory of two former members, Mrs. Owen Treacy and Miss Edith Bolden.

Mrs. W. W. Grant also installed Mrs. Franklin E. Rathbun as recording secretary, and Miss Mary Kay Williams as treasurer.

The club has recessed for the summer months.

Potomac River Fish Survey To Be Made

The Potomac River, its fish, its fishing, and its fishermen from Cabin John to Cumberland will be studied this summer in one of the largest research projects of its kind ever attempted, according to Ernest A. Vaughn, Director, Game and Inland Fish Commission. About thirty persons, game wardens, biologists, fish technicians, airplane pilots, and sportsmen will participate in the mammoth data-gathering job. The purpose of the investigation is to obtain information useful to the Commission in managing the river's sports fishery.

"The Potomac River has been enjoying an ever-better reputation as a fishing river, especially for smallmouth bass," stated Mr. Vaughn. "As a result, more and more people are fishing there and the increased fishing pressure has engendered fears that smallmouth bass fishing will soon deteriorate. It is hoped that this study will reveal the extent of the fishing pressure and provide some indication of the size of the harvest of fish."

Plans for the survey include interviewing of anglers and examination of creels along 140 miles of the rivers length, counting of fishermen from an airplane, daily counts of fishermen from strategic locations, determination of bass spawning areas, studies of bass growth by scale-reading, and observations of water temperature by means of continuous recorders. The mechanics of the huge project will be under the direct supervision of Edwin M. Barry, Chief of Fish Management and George B. Shields, Chief Game Warden, both of the Game and Inland Fish Commission. The data will be analyzed at the Department of Research and Education, Solomons, Maryland, by the Natural Resources Inventory biologists, H. J. Elser and R. D. Van Deusen.

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

Scripture: II Kings 14:23-29; Amos, 7—8.
Devotional Reading: Isaiah 58:1-8.

Social Justice

Lesson for June 6, 1954

IS THE country prospering? Ask the Chamber of Commerce and they will give you a commercial answer, as you would expect. They will give you figures on the national income and the national debt; they will furnish you with statistics on farm prices and freight-car loadings and employment figures. If all these look good, then the C. of C. will tell you the country is sound and prosperous. Away back in the times of the Bible, in the administration of Jeroboam II, if there had been an Israelite Chamber of Commerce, they must have been optimistic, even enthusiastic, about the prosperity of their country. Wealth had risen to unprecedented levels, trade was active, the territory of Israel was growing. There never had been so many millionnaires in Israel.

Dr. Foreman

* * *

Sour Note

There was just one man, so far as we know, who did not see eye to eye with the optimists in Israel. His name was Amos and he lived in the back districts as a hired man, perhaps as a migrant worker. He had had a good look at Israel from the seamy side, for his layer in the social cake was somewhere below the bottom. He is known to history as a prophet, but he did not claim that title for himself. "The Lord spoke to me," he said, and that was enough. Perhaps the reason he did not care for the label of prophet is that he did not want to be mixed in people's minds with such Yes-men as King Ahab had gathered around him. But he believed and we believe that he had the mind of God, and that is what a prophet has. He went up to Bethel, one of the main cities of Israel, and there made some speeches that nobody liked. He even got himself attacked as subversive. At all events, he brought what the leaders of Israel thought was a very sour note into the sweet chorus of prosperity.

* * *

What Is Happening to People?

Amos looked at "prosperity" in another light, or we may say he measured prosperity with a different yardstick. Whether a country is on the up-and-up or on the down-and-down is not to be discovered by looking at dollar signs or counting freight cars. The real question is: What is happening to people? The first of all questions is: Which seems to you more important, people or property? If they both seem equally important, or if property seems even more important, then Amos would say you are certainly using the wrong yardstick. He looked over the nation of Israel and he saw two classes of people, the poor and the rich. The poor went to jail for robbing the rich, but no one ever jailed the rich for robbing the poor. The rich were growing richer and the poor were growing poorer. This was not the worst of it, for in the process of becoming wealthy, the luxury-classes of Israel were growing both softer and harder than they should be—softer by indulging in luxuries, harder by indifference to the troubles of the people at the bottom of the pile.

* * *

A Few Questions

"Social Justice" or its opposite, social injustice, is a big all-inclusive phrase. If you think it has nothing to do with religion, you have the Bible against you. Let us bring it down to cases, as Amos did. Is there social justice in your community, your state? Before you can answer that overall question, you will have to break it down into particular questions. For example: Are there any second-class citizens in your community? Are the same jobs open to all, at the same wages or salary? If a man has to borrow money can he get it at a reasonable rate of interest or do the loan sharks run wild where you live? Are the responsible citizens of your community and state willing to be taxed for the benefit of better schools? Compare salaries paid in your state to horse trainers, with salaries paid to school teachers. Do horses seem to be rated higher than children? Does every child in your state have an adequate opportunity for an education, or are children penalized for being born in the country?

Two little girls left alone! It sounds like the beginning of a sad story.

But look again. There are certainly no tears. There is a comfortable home; and pretty clothes.

But these children have been given a great deal more than the ordinary comforts of life. There in the older child's hand is a book, "The Story of Jesus."

How reassuring to see that they have been given the advantages of a Christian training. Somehow all doubt has been removed from our minds. We feel that these little girls will be safe—not only during this one evening, but through their entire lives.

All of us want our children to be shielded from life's hardships and temptations, but we can guarantee no such protection. Our surest course is that we rear them in a Christian atmosphere, sending them to Daily Vacation Church School and taking them to the services of the Church regularly. Then, and then only, will we know that we have done everything in our power for their future success, happiness and salvation.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Southern Concludes Unbeaten Season

Tops Northern 5 to 0 Tuesday for Seventh Straight Win

Southern High School's Highlanders concluded their baseball campaign with a 7-0 record by defeating their county rival, Northern High school at Oakland Tuesday by the score of 5-0 behind the two-hit pitching of Howard Sweitzer.

The win gave Southern a sweep of the series, having copped the first game by the score of 4-3. The locals also won series games from Keyser and Parsons and defeated Thomas in a single game.

In posting his fourth straight win Sweitzer fanned four and issued one base on balls. One of the two hits he yielded was a two-bagger by Baker.

Sweitzer collected two of Southern's six hits. Toby Colaw belted his second homer of the season and Bob Glaze rapped a triple. Leonard Ritchie coached Southern's undefeated nine.

Playing for Northern were McKenzie, Georg, Wright, Hershberger, Rush, Mazer, Baker, Green, Frantz and Ringer. For Southern were Glaze, F. Colaw, Glotfelty, T. Colaw, Sisler, Holtsnider, Friend, Sweitzer, Schaeffer.

Congratulations are in order for Scout Troop No. 70 and Scoutmaster Willard Hayden. The Triangle where the Honor Roll stands was taken by the troop for its Civic Project. Accordingly all scouts were busy several days cleaning up, cutting grass, etc. Then the flag pole was placed and the new flag given by the town was raised. We sometimes wonder if this community fully realizes, or cares to do so, just how much this group means, not only to the boys themselves, but to the community. This applies to the Girl Scouts also.

FLIES NEEDN'T BE A BOTHER ANYMORE

Seems like flies get smarter every year, and build up resistance to more new chemical killers.

But Purina Research workers are smarter than flies, and they've got programs that really do kill. First there's Purina Building Spray that you use in dairy barns, poultry houses and other buildings where flies are troublesome.

Then there is also a new spray for cows. It both kills and repels after you spray.

CULLS WILL ROB YOU, IF YOU LET 'EM

You can't boost the price of eggs, but by culling you can lower your production cost. It's wise to study your production costs, then to determine the production rate necessary to leave you a profit. Holding production at 60¢, 65¢, or 75¢ may take some close culling, but it's the best way we know to protect profits.

PULLETS NEED GROWING CARE

Most of our customers regard the growing period as the most important time in a bird's life. If she doesn't develop a big frame and stamina to carry her through the year she'll never make the grade in the laying pen.

Switching to poor quality growing rations is a temptation that has tripped up a lot of folk with good intentions. Remember, next fall and winter you'll be looking for steady, high production. You can't expect much from your pullets unless you build 'em for it now.

In a pullet growing report from the Purina Research Farm, Purina-fed pullets at 20 weeks out-weighed their sisters fed an ordinary ration by 1½ pounds. Then during the fall and early winter months—the period of highest priced eggs, pullets grown on Purina laid 21 More Eggs Per Bird.

14 FIRST CALF HEIFERS AVERAGE 10,691 LBS. MILK

A recent report from the Purina Farm interested us. Fourteen grade Holstein heifers freshened during the year at an average age of 24 months. Their average weight was 1,244 lbs. In lactations of ten months average production from the 14 was 10,691 pounds.

We believe every dairyman in this area could equal that record, yet most of them miss on two counts. Average age of freshening in this area is 28-32 months, and production averages 2000-2500 lbs. less.

One way to correct this is by the care given heifers on pasture this summer. Even while on good pasture, it pays to feed heifers some good hay. A feeding of D & F Chow once a day costs mighty little in comparison with the extra growth for earlier calving and increased milk it promotes. Won't you come in and talk over this important heifer-growing program with us?

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Foreign Policy Crisis

At no time in the history of this country have foreign policies been so difficult to deal with or the consequences of mistakes so potentially disastrous. Even a superficial knowledge of the complications in the Far East, in Europe and in Guatemala makes this clear. When are added apparent inability to achieve any agreement with Russia tending toward peace plus the somewhat dangerous state of our domestic economy it does seem that the gravity of the burdens imposed upon the President and his Secretary of State are such as to command the sympathy and support of all citizens of good will regardless of politics.

If these men were feeble and incompetent it would be pretty awful but still they would be entitled to support so long as they were going in the right direction and the situation so critical. But when they are concededly strong, able and deeply patriotic certainly there seems no excuse for efforts to tear them down and increase their troubles. Yet, exactly that appears to be happening. From all quarters the hostile sharpshooters pour in their critical fire. Some of this is well intended but a great deal of it is ill natured and ignorant.

By no means all of this criticism comes from Democratic sources. A lot comes from men who do not—and cannot—have anything like the information or experience of existing foreign problems possessed by Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Dulles. And, of course, they have no responsibility at all. However, those facts do not prevent them from pointing out the "shocking blunders" of the State Department and deploring the lack of "knowledge and discernment" displayed by the President. We do not, it is declared, understand Britain, France, Indo-China, China or Germany. We have made "colossal errors" and it is doubtful now whether we can correct them.

—o—

There are several things to be said about these critics: 1, they obviously are not equipped with all the facts which White House and State Department have; 2, they are not free from personal prejudice and partisan feeling; 3, they resent not being called into the "inner circle" and their advice asked. All these critics do not agree. Some blame the Administration for not doing one thing; some another. Occasionally, one of these foreign policy experts will disagree not only with the others but with himself. It is worth noting that one of the most profound of these critics is Mr. Walter Reuther, of the CIO, who periodically points out the Administration "mistakes" and finds no virtue in it at all—which is easy to understand. Another is Mr. Arthur Schlesingef, Jr., speech writer for the glib Mr. Stevenson and head of the A.D.A.

—o—

How much attention Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Dulles pay to these acid and often violet attacks is not known. Certainly they are aware of them and certainly they do not make life easier. It can hardly be pleasant to wake up every morning and read articles telling how inexcusably stupid you have been and exactly what you should have done by persons infinitely less well informed and equipped with neither responsibility nor authority.

That can be exceedingly irritating but it can be stood—and it is part of the job of high public office. What is much harder to take calmly in times such as these is the vast harm which uninformed, partisan and prejudiced criticism of American foreign policy does to our position abroad—when made by American writers and politicians. Recently, a journalistic custom has become established which, in effect, could hardly be more deleterious to our relations with our allies if it had been conceived by the Russians themselves. Certainly, it must please them immensley. This is the habit of foreign press correspondents in this country cabling over to their home papers the gist of such domestic criticism as outlined above. When this appears in the British press it is promptly seized upon by American correspondents in London and cabled back as a reflection of British sentiment.

Of course, this would be a matter of general mirth if its effects were not serious. But they are. They stimulate anti-American feeling over there and anti-British feeling over here. So, when real differences over policy arise they become magnified all out of proportion. The basic fact that between the British and ourselves there exist unbreakable bonds of friendship is forgotten. A real rift between us is as unthinkable as that either could engage in a war that did not bring the other in as an ally. The recent bickering that has been going on is unreal and foolish. It has been stimulated by the attacks here on American foreign policy and by the journalistic exchanges above noted. The world crisis is too great and the possibilities too awful for this kind of thing now. It would be a sound idea to stop it.

THE AMERICAN WAY

No Room for Second-class Citizens

By George Peck, Chairman of the Board of the National Labor-Management Foundation and Executive Editor of its official publication, PARTNERS.

A pamphlet recently came to my desk, carrying the intriguing title, "Preference" vs. Fair Play. Its opening paragraph gives a definition of American fair play with which I heartily agree. It reads: "An outstanding characteristic of the American citizen is his sense of fair play. He doesn't care for punches below the belt, or brass knuckles, or blackjacks, or the people who force themselves into a ticket line ahead of him."

Reading on, I found that the pamphlet deals with preference clauses in the various flood control and reclamation laws that bind the Department of the Interior to give first call to "public bodies and cooperatives" for all electric power generated at Federal hydroelectric projects. According to the writer, this means our Government sets up two classes of citizens—those privileged to buy without question all of the Federally-generated electric power they need, and those second-class citizens who get only what is left, if any.

This didn't seem like the American Way, so I checked on the author, A. J. G. Priest. I learned that he is Professor of Law at the University of Virginia, was formerly Chairman of the Section on Public Utilities of the American Bar Association—a man well qualified to write authoritatively on this important subject.

As the power situation now stands 20 percent of U.S. citizens have a right to buy all the U.S. Government electricity they can use, simply because they are members of a cooperative, public utility district, or similar public body. The remaining 80 percent who buy electric power from investor-owned electric companies, can only have what is left because such companies are not preferred customers.

If the original intent of Congress had been carried out, there would now be little complaint about the law. For example, Section 5 of the Flood Control Act of 1944 provides that electric energy generated at reservoir projects shall be disposed of "in such manner as to encourage the most wide-spread use thereof at the lowest possible rates to consumers consistent with sound business principles," under rate schedules "drawn having regard to the recovery . . . of the cost of production and transmitting such electric energy." While preference is to "be given to public bodies and cooperatives," the energy is to be made "available in wholesale quantities for sale on fair and reasonable terms and conditions to facilities owned by the Federal Government, public bodies, co-operatives and privately-owned companies."

But, some of the dedicated advocates of public power misinterpret the intent of Congress—they have used the Preference Section to foster public growth at the expense of free enterprise. For instance, former Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes, on November 28, 1945, ordered his Southwestern Power Administrator to "advise and assist public bodies and co-operatives who are purchasers or potential purchasers of electric energy from the Administrator in acquiring, operating and maintaining distribution systems. . . and related facilities and equipment."

Mr. Priest interprets this statement that Honest Harold was saying in effect, "Do everything you can to convert investor-owned, tax-paying utility property into Government-owned, tax-eating utility property."

However, Professor Priest feels that history turned a new page in January 1953. The Administration is giving a New Look to this preference discrimination. "Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay and his associates," Mr. Priest writes, "have indicated they believe it is the primary responsibility of local, public and private enterprise to supply the power needs of any area, and that in carrying out its lawful functions the United States should not engage in any activity which its citizens are able and willing to perform for themselves."

He believes that under such a policy, investor-owned electric companies and public agencies not only can coexist, but can cooperate fully and effectively in the best interests of the electric customer. Even the preference clauses, in his opinion, can be administered as to satisfy "all except the most rabid advocates of public power."

This makes a heap of sense. No U.S. citizen should be discriminated against in the sale of Federal hydro power. In America there just is No Room for Second-Class Citizens.

With Your Congressman
DeWITT S. HYDE

Congress has before it a proposal by President Eisenhower for the federal government to take the sting out of our doctor bills without cost to taxpayers and without "socialized" medicine.

Mr. Eisenhower wants Congress to authorize a plan for private insurance companies to reinsure themselves with the government. The companies could then take greater risks and extend health insurance plans to new groups of citizens without increasing premiums. The companies would pay a fee to the government in order to participate, and if they had abnormal losses in their new insurance work they could collect up to three-fourths from the government fund created by their fees.

A serious illness can really jolt family finances, as we all know. We Americans are spending $10 billion a year on medical bills, and only a fifth of that is covered by insurance as things stand. So if we can get more insurance coverage, we are naturally going to be able to take better care of ourselves. Our nation will be healthier.

The only other way to achieve this would be to pass a law decreeing that everybody must have health insurance. The government would collect premiums and pay claims. This would be "socialized" medicine. It is flatly rejected by our present government.

The President has also made other health recommendations: Grants-in-aid to states could be used to construct non-profit rehabilitation facilities to help make progress in restoring two million handicapped Americans to productive lives. Funds should also be granted to states to help construct nursing and convalescent homes and diagnostic and treatment centers—many of them in small communities where medical attention can be improved and the pressure for expensive hospitals can be reduced.

Bills carrying out these proposals are in various stages in Congress. They are important because we are trying to build America into a strong nation to withstand the hardship of a war, should it be thrust upon us. Good health is essential.

President Eisenhower, in his health message to Congress, said: ". . . We shall with vigor and imagination continuously search out by appropriate means, recommend, and put into effect new methods of achieving better health for all of our people. We shall not relax in the struggle against disease. The health of our people is the very essence of our vitality, our strength and our progress as a nation."

This Saturday Mrs. Hyde and I will attend the "Boost Kensington" rally at the Kensington fire house, and then go on to the Fifth Regiment's supper and military ball at the Armory in Baltimore.

Miss Patricia Burrell Is Queen of Prom

Patricia Burrell was crowned Prom Queen at Southern High by Dr. James Collins, principal, at the Prom given to the senior class by the juniors on May 21. Her escort, Donald Peck, was crowned King of the Prom. Their court was made up of eight girls from the senior class. They were Juanita Beckman, Elsie Whitmer, Norma Campbell, Gene Ridder, Jackie Myers, Ruth Cooper, Roberta Markley, and Barbara Riley. The queen and her court were presented flowers from the junior class. The king and queen reigned over the guests from their thrones, during the entertainment and the grand march given in their honor.

Greeting the guests from the receiving line were D. F. Lane, president of the Junior class; Joann Hollan; Howard Sweitzer, president of the Senior class; Mrs. Randol and Mrs. Hutchinson, Junior class sponsors, and Dr. and Mrs. Collins.

Inside the gymnasium the decorations to the theme "Dancing in the Dark" were followed. A false ceiling was erected with silver stars suspended from it. In the center of the gym floor was placed a fountain structure, with grass-like material surrounding it. Along the sides of the gym were laurel branches with flowers among them against a white background. The throne of the king and queen was at the entrance end of the gym, decorated with greenery and flowers. At the same end in the left-hand corner refreshments were served. The refreshments included punch, cake and nutmeats. The orchestra, the "Midnighters," was found in a far right section. The entertainers, the Debonairs from Cumberland, Md., performed at the far left end. Tables were lined along both sides and the far end with the floor space being used for dancing.

The Juniors presented the senior girls with a small metal ash tray emblazoned with "Junior-Senior Prom—Class of 1954." Interlocked in the center was an S. G.—The Acorn.

Keep Hogs Cool For Steady Gains

Hot hogs don't put on much weight. In fact, if hogs get too overheated, they may even lose weight.

Boyd T. Whittle, University of Maryland Extension animal husbandman says that when temperatures get around 85 degrees F. or above it will pay farmers to provide hogs with some protection against heat. "And we can depend on temperatures above 85 degrees in a Maryland summer," he adds.

There are several things a farmer can do to keep hogs comfortable, Whittle says. "One cheap and effective practice is to build shelters out of scrap lumber and put woven-wire and straw tops on them. These shelters can be placed in the pasture so hogs won't have to go far for shade while they are grazing."

The live stock specialist says hog wallows are also beneficial if properly constructed and kept sanitary. He cites experiments in Louisiana which show the value of wallows. "Hogs in these experiments that had access to wallows required 35 pounds less feed per 100 pounds of gain, and they gained 1/3 pound per day more than hogs that were not provided with wallows."

Whittle point out that hog wallows constructed of concrete are most desirable, and they must be cleaned frequently to prevent stagnation. About two square feet of wallow per hog is considered adequate.

Wallows work best if they are in the sunshine and near a shady area, Whittle explains. "With this arrangement, the hog goes into the wallow and gets wet, then seeks shade where evaporation takes place and has a cooling effect. Wallows should not be in shade because hogs would want to stay in them continously and this would make a sanitation problem."

To keep hogs comfortable in buildings, it is recommended that the floor be sprayed occasionally, or the hogs themselves can be sprayed. "This is best done in houses or shades with concrete floors," Whittle adds.

Candidates Announce

FOR STATE SENATOR

To the Citizens of Garrett County:
I am a candidate for the office of State Senator from Garrett County.

I have been a resident of Garrett County for the past forty-three years. I was County Treasurer from 1947 through 1950 and have served in the House of Delegates during the years 1927 through 1930, in 1945 and 1946 and in 1951 up until the present time. In the Sessions of 1952, 1953 and 1954 I was elected Minority Leader by the Republican members of the House. As such, I was a member of the Rules Committee, the Ways and Means and of the Legislative Council. The information and knowledge I will gather at the Council meetings this year will be of great value to our County and State if I am elected to this office.

I feel that my background as a farmer, a veteran of World War I, a merchant, an employee of the Board of Education (all of which I have been in the past) together with my experience as County Treasurer and as a member in the House of Delegates for seven regular and three special sessions fit me for this office.

I make no idle campaign promises, but, if elected, I pledge to follow the same policies and serve my County and my State in the same manner as in the past. I will give careful and thoughtful consideration to any suggestions and will earnestly endeavor, at all times, to keep myself worthy of the confidence placed in me by the Citizens of Garrett County.

I hereby announce my candidacy as a member of the Democratic State Central Committee, subject to the Democratic Primary election. I am a taxpayer of Election District No. 9 and a life long resident of the county. The support of the Democratic voters will be appreciated.

George D. Meese
—Adv. 7*

To the Democratic Voters of Garrett County:
I have filed as a candidate for the Democratic State Central Committee, subject to the primary election June 28.

I have consistently supported the Democratic party all of my life. I firmly believe that members of the State Central Committee should not support any one party candidate in the primaries, but should lend their wholehearted support to the party's candidate in the general election.

If elected, I shall exert every effort to strengthen the Democratic party on a local, state and national level, and work for its progress.

I believe we have now had enough, and it is time for a change.

The support of every Democrat is respectfully solicited.

FALSE OR MISLEADING STATEMENTS

In traveling about our county in my campaign as a candidate for nomination to the office of State Senator, I find that several misleading or false statements are being circulated against me. However, in fairness, let me state that in no instance have I found that any of these tales have originated or been circulated by either of the other two Republican candidates for the Senate. They have been and are being circulated by other individuals who are opposed to my candidacy. I feel I must show the fallacy or falsehood of a few of these at this time.

1. There are some folk telling that all Green wants to go to the Senate for is to pass a bill retiring school bus operators. This reflects on the intelligence of our people because had I desired to do that, I have had four years as a member of the Legislature in which to have carried it out. Inasmuch as the school bus operators are independent contractors, it would be unconstitutional to pension them any more than it would to give a state pension to merchants, farmers, doctors, etc., and in addition as independent contractors all the school bus operators in this county come under the Social Security law passed by the United States Congress in 1950 making it compulsory for independent contractors, along with a large number of other classes of labor, to come under Social Security. This should make it clear to everyone that the tale being circulated has no basis whatsoever.

2. A lie is being circulated that concerns not only myself but the other two delegates as well. This is that we supported Senate Bill No. 79, which is the Act setting up an annual assessment program in the State. The truth is that I fought this proposal in Legislative Council and in the Ways and Means Committee and when it came to the floor the three of us voted against it. Here is an exact copy of the roll call in the House of Delegates, taken from Page 612 of the House Journal, 1954:

Senate Bill No. 79—By Senators Della, Bailey, Barton, Dippel, Fletcher, Goldstein, Kimble, Lawder, Lofstrand, Melnicove and Preston:

Subject: "Revenue and Taxes," sub-title "Rules of Construction." Revising the Method of Assessment to be Effective in This State Beginning in 1954, Etc.

The Bill was read the third time and passed by yeas and nays as follows:

Affirmative

Messrs. Speaker, Duke, Harris, (R. B.), Joiner, Clark, Duckett, Lankford, McNulty, Stieff, Hall, Hance, Jenkins, Quade; Boone, Brewster, Jackson, Staten, Trimble, Stevenson, Riggin, Tawes, Brinsfield, Lucas, Hassall, Lillard Jr., Pumphrey, Taylor Jr., Baker, Polk, Robertson, Derr (M. H.), Payne, Baldwin, Brown, James, Risteau, Blades, Merriken, Dabrowski, Henning; Milanicz, Mrozinski, Silk, Bartos, Behounek, Wagner, Welsh; Acker, Buffington, Dempsey, O'Malley, Tawney, Pollack (M. C.), Robinson, Rosenthal, Sklar, Bacharach, Cardin, Fitzgerald, Mandel, Corrigan, Davis, Meyers (W. W.), Myers (A. C.), Reisinger, Bradshaw, Gude, King, Lawlor, Marshall, Wallace, Hahn, Carr, Manahan, Cannon, Hanna. Total—76.

Negative (Against)

Messrs. Fowler, Lowe, North, Adams (J. T.), Shockley, Baumgardner, Derr (J. A.), Mach, Hopkins, Downey, Huyett, Kaylor, Cook, Driscoll, Kelley, Reed, See, Whitworth; Nock, CODDINGTON, EDWARDS, GREEN. Total—22.

In the Senate, Senator Fraley also opposed it so this proves to everyone in Garrett County that the tale is a deliberate lie. If someone tells it to you, you can tell them you know it to be a falsehood.

3. It is being told that I am running for the Senate in order to get a judgeship in this county for Senator Fraley. This again reflects on the intelligence of our people, because everyone knows that the Constitutional Amendment creating a judgeship in every county comes up for a vote on the ballot in November. If it does pass then the appointment must be made by the Governor from among the Garrett County attorneys and will be made before the new Senator from Garrett County is sworn in.

4. There are others dealing with state-wide administration measures which carried my name as Minority Leader in the House (and at times some carried both the Speaker and myself) and Senator Kimble, of Allegany County, as Minority Leader in the Senate. With a Republican Governor the Minority Leaders sponsor most of the Administration Bills.

If you hear these stories, or any other tales or idle gossip, please don't carry them any further until you contact the candidate personally, whoever he may be, and make certain they are true. Let's keep our compaign for all offices on a high level, not only among the candidates but among all the voters as well.

HARRY COLLIER ACCIDENT, MARYLAND

TO OUR CITIZENS:

In line with my statement of last week I herewith submit a partial list of recent legislation that will tend to increase our annual county budget:

Among the "ACTS" of the last Session there is one particularly undesirable and pestiferous law that I believe takes precedence over all the others. It is the "Annual Assessments Law." It requires that every man's property must be assessed once each year, beginning January 1, 1956. Here is a law that will extract many thousands of dollars from our citizens, and much of the revenue derived from it will be eaten up by its administration. In order to assess all properties each year our county will have to employ two or maybe three additional assessment officers, and that many additional clerks to keep the records. The law will increase the cost of running the Assessor's office at least three times. It is, I believe, reinforced with another law that gives to the State Tax Commission power to compel our local assessors to record every man's property on the books at full cash value. There is one redeeming feature in this Act and that is that it does not take effect until January 1, 1956, and can be repealed during the 1955 session. If I am then in the State Senate, I will make it my business to try to repeal this Act.

Another law, House Bill 46, by Delegate Green, would increase the State tax rate on real and personal property from where it is now, at approximately five and a half cents, to approximately ten and a half cents on each hundred dollars of valuation.

House Bill 18, by Delegates Green and Luber, increases the salary of the County Superintendent of Schools by approximately Twenty-five Hundred Dollars per year, and provides that for the sixth year of service and each year thereafter the salary shall not be less than Ten Thousand Dollars per year.

Another law, from the 1953 Session, provides for an attorney to the County Treasurer at a salary of $250.00 per year, and then goes on to require that the attorney to the Treasurer must be the same as the attorney of the County Commissioners. This was only another way of raising the salary of the attorney to the Commissioners by $250.00, for the County Treasurer does not need an attorney, but if he ever should happen to need one it would most likely be due to a dispute with the County Commissioners over insolvencies, and in that case he could not use the attorney to the County Commissioners.

Due to the fact that the official records of the last session have not been printed yet, I am unable to obtain further definite information on recent legislation at this time.

New Grass Silage Preservative to Get Trial on Md. Farms

A number of Maryland farmers who have used preservatives on grass silage indicate they are going to try a new preservative this year, according to John P. Dietrich, University of Maryland Extension dairyman.

The new preservative is sodium metabisulfite.

"This preservative is new to most farmers, but actually it has been in use for the past two years," Dietrich says. "Sodium metabisulfite has been used on the agricultural experiment station farms at Pennsylvania and Cornell universities, and it has also been used at the U. S. Department of Agriculture research center at Beltsville. All have reported favorable results."

A few Maryland farmers have also used the preservative. They are enthusiastic about the product and plan to continue using it, according to Dietrich.

The appearance of this new material is similar to ordinary table salt. The cost is relatively cheap compared to SO2 (sulfur dioxide gas), molasses, grains and other preserving materials normally used.

The basic principal of sodium metabisulfite is similar to SO2 gas, but it is easier to apply. It can be applied without special equipment and can be safely used by anyone around the farm.

There are several devices for metering out this new preservative so that it can be uniformly mixed with the chopped forage. A fertilizer attachment from a corn planter can be rigged up either on the forage harvester or attached to the blower at the silo. There are also some devices put out by machinery dealers which do an excellent job.

Some farmers who aren't too handy at rigging up these "Rube Goldberg" devices find it's just as easy to weigh out eight pounds of metabisulfite per ton of green chopped material and spread half of it on the chopped grass when the load is half on, then spread the rest on top of the load before it goes through the blower at the silo. This, and other similar methods, seem to give excellent results.

"It seems the main advantage of using this new preservative is that it eliminates the strong objectionable silage odor which is usually associated with the feeding of grass silage," Dietrich explains. "The silage is preserved with a nice green color and the odor is mild and sweet. Another advantage is that this preservative can do the job when the weather is too damp and cloudy to wilt the forage crop."

Unlike ground cereal grains and molasses, metabisulfite does not add any feed value to the silage. Also, it should not be used on crops that are wilted because the moisture in the crop is necessary to react with the metabisulfite to generate sulfur dioxide. This in turn forms an acid which is the actual preserving agent.

"Avoid using more than 8 or 9 pounds of metabisulfite per ton of green material," cautions the Extension dairy specialist. "Research indicates that more than 12 pounds per ton makes the silage unpalatable and the cows tend to consume less of the treated silage, which can cause a sharp drop in milk production."

Lane Heads Student Government In Southern High School Voting

D. F. Lane, junior student, captured the position of Student Government president in a school-wide election on May 21. He was opposed by Jenny Lynn Kessel, also a junior and who at present is serving in the position of secretary for the student governing group.

The election, which also decided the other officers of the organization, was supervised by the election committee and the current president of the government, John White. John reported a total vote of 779.

Others Elected

In the race for the other officers, Sam Moore was returned the winner over Carolyn Dusic for the vice-presidency; Deloris Warnick, officially unopposed, won the position of secretary. Efforts to elect Betty Bittinger on write-in votes for this position fell short by 55 tallies, although it made this the closest race. Grace Bachtel won the treasurer post as she was unopposed.

D. F., the new president, will be making his debut in the government organization, although he is active in several school bodies. His biggest achievement has been as President of the Junior class. Besides this he is business manager of the Acorn, member of the Senior Chorus and the F.T.A. chapter.

In this pre-election speech to the students D. F. outlined several objectives that he hopes to carry out as president.

He is a strong supporter of a student activity program. In this line he hopes to establish an Honor Society. Promotion of fund raising activities will head the first business of the new year.

The new officers were sworn in by the out-going president, John White, at the school assembly, May 26.

MARYLAND WILDLIFE

MARYLAND YELLOW-THROAT

(Geothlypis trichas trichas.)

RANGE: One of several subspecies that range from Newfoundland and Quebec to Florida and Mexico; it is doubtful if the Maryland yellow-throat goes much farther north than the state for which it is named and southern Pennsylvania; abundant summer resident in Maryland from middle of April to November.

DESCRIPTION: Length about 5¾ inches; upper parts olive-green; under parts yellow with conspicuous black mask across face and side of head; female and young mostly plain olive.

BREEDING: Nests in thickets, cattail bogs, meadows and hedgerows; nest made of dry leaves and grasses; 3 to 5 eggs, white with brown or purple spots; two broods annually; female builds the nest.

HABITS: Food essentially injurious insects; one of its chief enemies, cats. Search for it in briar tangles, bushes, reeds, especially near streams; rarely seen many feet from the ground.

MANAGEMENT: Little if anything can be done, as like all the countless warblers it is a migrant; it of course, as all wildlife, must have food, cover and protection, and an abundance of insects upon which it feeds is essential; bare fields valueless.

VALUE: One of most useful of our insectivorous birds, and, pleasing to the eye, and the song of the male at the nest is musical.

Vote for America...

Recognizing the urgent need for high type public officials to guide the nation's destiny through these critical periods of history, the American Farm Bureau federation recently adopted a resolution urging that "each individual and group undertake with renewed vigor the basic responsibilities of citizenship."

Writing in the Farm Bureau News it declared the resolution was based on the belief that "every privilege in our democracy must carry with it commensurate obligations if we are to endure as a free people under our Constitution."

The program of this Farm Bureau could well be emulated by other organizations and individuals to encourage voters of all ages to exercise their responsibilities of citizenship at the polls by studying issues and the qualifications of candidates and supporting those for public office who, in their opinion, would best serve the public interest.

If such a program is followed, voters have an opportunity to encourage good citizenship and influence the election of better qualified public servants.

Studying the issues and determining just what candidates are trustworthy and will give straightforward answers to questions put to them by the voters, are important phases of a person's interest in good government.

A lot of us have a tendency to wait until the General election before we cast our ballot. Others vote only in national elections and some just don't bother to vote at all. Any shortcomings in our governmental representation must be traced to these classes of voters.

Political responsibility goes all the way down the line. The citizen who votes for all offices in the primary and again in the general election, is fulfilling, we feel, those responsibilities imposed upon Americans by the founders of constitutional government.

There is also another important duty. In order to vote, people must be registered. Next Tuesday is registration day, giving people who have not previously done so an opportunity to register and become eligible to participate in an election. .

See that your neighbors and friends are registered. Encourage them to vote at the coming primary election. For the sake of America and the Americans of the future, cast your vote intelligently and for those candidates who have the moral integrity to know what is right and what is wrong.

Red Cross Seeks 140 Pints Blood

Next Visit Of Bloodmobile To Oakland Will Be June 23

The next visit of the Red Cross bloodmobile in Oakland will be on Wednesday, June 23, at the fire hall from 12 o'clock noon until 6 p. m.

Mrs. Grover Stemple, chairman of the blood donor program in the county, pointed out that if medical requirements for whole blood are to be met during the coming year, one out of every 20 people in the nation will be needed as a blood donor.

She said the blood bank was critically low and there was danger that the free blood program might be curtailed in areas not meeting their quotas. The quota set for the June 23 meeting in Oakland is 140 pints.

Letters have been sent out by Mrs. Stemple to all former blood recipients in which she is requesting that in appreciation for the blood received by them that they volunteer as blood donors. If unable to do this she is asking that they arrange to have a relative or friend make the replacement.

Mrs. Stemple also announced that she had been informed that jaundice (infectious hepatitis) was no longer a disqualifying factor in the donation of blood. While this blood is not used in whole transfusions it can be safely used in cases requiring only blood derivities. She urged that people call the Red Cross chapter and volunteer to give blood on the day.

Sentence 3 On Arson Charge

Young Men Given Two And One Year Sentences In Reformatory For Males

The three young men who pleaded guilty to setting fire to the State Roads commission warehouse in Oakland last month while attempting to perpetrate a crime, and to charges of breaking and entering, were sentenced Monday by Associate Judge George Henderson in the Circuit Court.

On the charge of arson and burning, Charles Truman Herman, 22, was sentenced to undergo confinement in the Maryland State Reformatory for Males for a period not exceeding two years.

On the same charge, Charles Wade Ashby, 18, and Perry Donald Lewis, 20, were sentenced to undergo confinement in the Maryland Reformatory for Males for a period not exceeding one year. All three were allowed the time they already had served in the Garrett County jail since their arrest May 17.

On the charge of breaking and entering all three were given an additional sentence in the Maryland State Reformatory for Males for a period not exceeding three years. These sentences were suspended for a perod of five years, during which time none is to own a motor vehicle. During their probation they are to be under the supervision of the Maryland Department of Parole and Probation.

All three had waived the right to indictment by the Grand Jury and had requested an immediate trial. When brought before Judge Henderson May 26, they entered guilty pleas, but sentencing was withheld until Monday when Judge Henderson came to Oakland to call the docket for the June term.

S. F. Hamill, Jr., was appointed by the court to be attorney for Herman and Lewis, while L. R. Jones was attorney for Ashby.

To Build Warehouse

The Community Wholesale Grocery, an organization formed here several months ago, and which has been conducting its business from a warehouse in Mt. Lake Park, has made arrangements to construct a warehouse on Liberty street in Oakland. The size will be 50 by 75 feet and will be of concrete block. Edgar Hardesty is the contractor and work will begin immediately with completion set within a two-months period.

The building will be located next to the Standard Oil property.

Voter Registration Scheduled Tuesday

Will Be Held In The Twenty-Seven Voting Precincts In County

The Board of Supervisors of Elections has scheduled a registration of voters for next Tuesday, June 15, at the twenty-seven voting precincts throughout the county.

William L. Gibson, president of the board, said that the registration books would be distributed on Saturday and Sunday and that the registration officers would be instructed in the use of the new system.

There will be three additional voting precincts this year, the board having divided Accident, district No. 5 into two precincts; Oakland, precinct 14-3 being further divided into two; and district No. 16 at Mt. Lake Park being divided into two precincts. This action was made necessary because of the large registration in these areas.

Both registration precincts at Accident will be at the fire hall. Both new precincts in Oakland will be at the City Hall, while the two new precincts in No. 16 will be in the Community building.

The registration places will be open from 9 a. m. until the hour of 9 p. m., EST.

This will be the only registration day prior to the primary election. Following the primary election there will be two registration days and also a revision day prior to the general election in November.

The board stressed the fact that those previously registered as active voters in their respective precincts have had their names transferred to the new books in their proper precincts and do not have to re-register in order to be eligible to vote.

However, it was also pointed out that those who had not voted for the past five years should re-register.

It's a BUICK!
It's a V8! It's only $2285.63*

TAKE heart, good friend—you can buy a hit-of-the-year Buick if you can afford any new car.

And we proudly show our price here to prove it.

For this price is the delivered price—the local delivered price—of the new Buick SPECIAL 2-door, 6-passenger Sedan—and it's just a few dollars away from those of the so-called "low-price three"—lower, in fact, than even some models of those very same cars.

But look what this Buick price gets you!

It gets you the very look of tomorrow in styling modernity, even to the spectacular new panoramic windshield that seems to outdate everything before it.

It gets you Buick V8 power—highest in SPECIAL history—plus the economy of new Power-Head Pistons.

It gets you Buick room, Buick luxury, Buick size and structure and solidity—including of course, the famed Million Dollar Ride and a new precision in handling ease.

It gets you, too, solid and deep-down value.

For any way you look at it, you're money ahead with the car that's years-ahead now in looks and line and the lift of its power—and the car that's outselling every other car in America except two of the "low-price three."

Drop in today or the first thing tomorrow—just to try and to drive and to compare a new Buick. We'll let the car prove its points.

Grantsville Mine Inspected Recently

Firing of permissible explosives with fuses and caps and stemming boreholes with combustible materials were condemned strongly by the U. S. Bureau of Mines in a coal-mine inspection report released this week for the Grantsville Coal Company's Shaw mine, near Grantsville.

The Federal inspector urged provision of an alternate escapeway from the working section to the surface, preshift and weekly examinations for explosive gas and other hazards, and adequate fire-fighting facilities.

He also proposed safer surface explosives-storage facilities, improved ventilation in the face regions, and several haulage betterments.

Ward warned against the use of open lights and smoking underground.

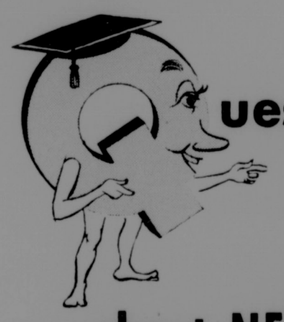
MEMO TO ADVERTISERS



Questions and Answers about NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Q. What are the 3 most important rules for profitable newspaper advertising?

A. 1. Your advertising message should be newsy, friendly, informative, easy to read. Give facts and news about your merchandise and service.

2. Advertise regularly. Make your advertising do what successful salesmen do—call on customers and prospects consistently.

3. Insist on audited circulation reports that give you the FACTS about the audience that your sales messages will have when you buy newspaper advertising.

Q. Is there a measure for the value of newspaper circulation to an advertiser such as the standards a merchant uses in buying merchandise—for example, like STERLING on silver?

A. Yes—in the well known circulation standards of the AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS.

Q. What is the A.B.C.?

A. The A.B.C. is a cooperative, non-profit association of 3,450 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers in the United States and Canada. Organized in 1914. Brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing a definition for paid circulation, rules and standards for measuring, auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.

Q. What does A.B.C. do for me?

A. At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors makes a thorough audit of the circulation records of each publisher member. The results of each audit are published in an easy-to-read A.B.C. report for your use and protection when you buy newspaper advertising.

Q. What are the FACTS in A.B.C. reports?

A. A.B.C. reports tell you how much circulation, where it goes, how obtained and other FACTS that help you buy advertising as you would make any sound business investment—on the basis of known values and audited information.

Q. Are all publications eligible for A.B.C. membership?

A. No. Only those with paid circulation. This is important to advertisers because it is evidence that the paper is wanted and read.

Q. Is this newspaper a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations?

A. Yes. We are proud of our circulation. We want you to know the FACTS about the audience your selling messages will have when they appear in these pages. Ask for a copy of our latest A.B.C. report.

1500 Gather For Southern Graduation

Around fifteen hundred persons gathered Tuesday evening in the Southern High school gymnasium for the second annual graduation exercises for the ninety-four seniors of the school.

The address to the graduating class was delivered by Dr. David W. Zimmerman, assistant state superintendent of schools in finance and research. Dr. Zimmerman urged the graduates to do their best in whatever field they entered, to build a fine, happy and Christian home, and to be confident and optimistic about the future.

He stressed the fact that the foundation for good character and good citizenship was started in the home.

Diplomas were presented by Walter W. Dawson, president of the Board of Education and he pointed out the advances made in education throughout the years, and how the citizens' interest in education had grown as evidenced at the large crowds at both graduation exercises this week. He termed the advancement of education as one of the noblest of motives which he termed "for the public good."

Rev. Forrest T. Benner, of near Philadelphia, former pastor of the Nazarene church here, whose son was one of the graduates, returned to participate in the program, giving the invocation and benediction. A sextette from the senior chorus sang and the Southern High school band played the processional, recessional and other numbers. The seniors and audience joined in singing the Star Spangled Banner, led by the band under direction of Harold B. Wright. Seniors, parents and guests of seniors and other guests were seated in the center of the gymnasium, while bleachers on both sides of the building were well filled.

Fort Necessity To Have Bicentennial

Fort Necessity, near Uniontown, Pa., along U. S. 40, will observe its bicentennial on July 3 and 4.

Elaborate plans have been made for dedication of the reconstructed fort on the 200th anniversary of Washington's first major military engagement.

General George C. Marshall, former Secretary of State and former Chief of Staff, will open the bicentennial program at 2 p. m. on Saturday, July 3. Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the governors of Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland; U. S. Senators from these states; ranking diplomats from England, France and Canada, and other notables will be present for the two-day celebration. Dr. William Blake Hindman, Uniontown and Farmington, Pa., is chairman of the Fort Necessity Bicentennial Committee.

Cumberland, according to J. William Hunt, in "Across the Desk," in the Sunday Times, was the Colonial and British military headquarters in 1754 which was the jumping off place for the expedition that resulted in the Battle of Fort Necessity.

Through Garrett county later this month will march approximately 100 officers and men of the 125th anti-aircraft battalion (Virginia National Guard) enroute to the Fort Necessity site. This battalion, Hunt says, is directly descended from the two companies of Virginia militia commanded by Washington at Cumberland and at the fort. The men will follow the route taken by Washington and his soldiers 200 years ago. These modern Virginia militiamen will comprise the Guard of Honor at the bicentennial celebration.

At least 16 men of the battalion will wear the forest green frontiersmen uniforms worn by the Virginia militia in 1754. This uniform consisted of a buckskin trimmed blouse and breeches, tri-cornered black hat and moccasins. These 16 will form a color guard whose flags will include a reproduction of the standard carried by the Colonials from Alexandria to Cumberland and from there to Fort Necessity, according to Hunt.

Entomologist Urges Cleanup to Prevent Grain Storage Woe

It's hard enough to keep grain stored on the farm from spoiling even if all the recommended storage practices are followed. And if a farmer ignores the recommendations, he is inviting trouble.

"In order to be reasonably sure that grain does not deteriorate or become contaminated during storage a farmer must take precautions against high moisture, insects, rodents and birds. And of course this means that the storage structure must be solid and tight," says T. L. Bissell, University of Maryland Extension entomologist.

Insects live from season to season around farm buildings in spilled grain, in feed and in bits of grain left in wagons and machinery, Bissell explains. "Cleaning up these places helps control not only insects but also rats and mice."

Bins should be made ready for this year's crop with a thorough cleaning and disinfecting, Bissell continues. "Remove old grain and sweep down the ceilings and walls and sweep the floor. There are probably some insects in the cracks where they are out of reach of a broom, so destroy them with an insecticide. Prepare a spray containing 2.5 percent of DDT, methoxychlor, or TDE. Sprays containing 0.5 percent of pyrethrins or allethrin are also effective.

"Buy one of these insecticides in the form of a wettable powder or emulsifiable concentrate and mix it with the amount of water recommended on the label."

Granary pests like moisture with their grain, so it is recommended that grain be stored when it is dry. And it is well to remember that the more moisture there is at storage, the closer it must be watched.

After grain is placed in the bin it should be fumigated for protection against insects. "Ask your county agent for U. S. Department of Agriculture Leaflet No. 345," Bissell urges. "This leaflet gives recommendations on chemical protection and other storage recommendations."

Practice Alert To Test Civil Defense

Boy Scouts of Oakland also will perform a "rescue" around the City Hall and take the patient to the hospital for "treatment."

The Forestry department has a fire drill scheduled, and members of the Deer Park fire company will perform rescue work. A first aid demonstration will be given at the fire hall by nurses.

The afternoon prior to the scheduled blackout the girl scouts will distribute handbills. All participants will gather at the fire hall 30 minutes before the blackout—at 7:30, to get last minute instructions.

Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh said he hoped the people would give their wholehearted support to Rev. Atwell's attempt to make this an outstanding practice program within the nation. Hinebaugh said that during the blackout people coming into town would be halted at the outskirts of the town and ordered to seek cover.

All lights in homes, places of bosiness and in automobiles must be out completely to make this a success. Persons with civil defense auto tags or manned by people with armbands will be free to travel in the area with all lights out.

The program called "Operation Alert" will be conducted throughout various parts of the United States at the same time. Oakland is the only place in Maryland where such elaborate plans have been made, it was stated.

In other parts of the county boy scouts of Mt. Lake Park and Crellin will conduct rescue projects of their own.

The all-clear signal will be sounded at 8:15 and will be indicated by three blasts of the fire siren with 30 second intervals between each blast.

Home Nursing Course Will Begin June 14

The New Germany Homemakers club plans to start its home nursing class June 14 at the New Germany School at 8:00 p. m., DST, it has been announced. Mrs. Delwood Merrill is the club Health chairman and Mrs. Elmer Durst plans to instruct the group.

The course is open to all women in the area, whether members of the Homemakers club or not. At the first meeting, the dates for other meetings will be decided upon.

Olonzo P. Fike, Accident, sanitarian for the County Health department since 1942, will leave July 1 for Hagerstown where he has been appointed supervising sanitarian for Washington county with headquarters in Hagerstown. He will be succeeded here by Charley B. Miller.

Engagement Told

Mr. and Mrs. Lambert R. Bernard, of Swanton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Maxine Louise, to Irvin Gerald Steiding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald E. Steiding, of Piedmont, W. Va.

Miss Bernard was graduated from Oakland High school in 1951. She was formerly employed as a stenographer by Sanders Motor Freight, Inc. At present she is attending Zion Bible Institute, East Providence, R. I., where she is a member of the senior class.

Mr. Steiding was graduated from Piedmont High school in 1950. He was employed by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper company before entering Zion Bible Institute in East Providence. He attended the institute for three years and was graduated May 31. At present he is engaged in the Evangelistic field of the Ministry.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Gives Surprise Shower

Mrs. B. A. Tomassetti, Philadelphia, gave a surprise shower last Wednesday evening, June 2, at her home, honoring her cousin, Miss Muriel Robinson, bride-elect of A. F. Franc, Jr., of Pittsburgh. Thirty guests attended.

Decorations were wedding bells and an umbrella suspended over the dining room table with ribbon streamers attached to the gifts. A large cake with the inscription "Showers of Happiness," centered the table with bride dolls surrounding it.

Garage Owner Agrees To Remove Portion Of New Building

Had Been Constructed on Sidewalk Area, Corner Third And Oak Streets

Ray Teets, garage owner, was requested by the Mayor and Town Council on Monday night to remove about eight feet of a structure from the town's property, which he had recently added to his building at the corner of Third and Oak streets.

The Council declared that a portion of the building extended over the sidewalk on Third street. Mr. Teets and his son, Creigh Teets, appeared before the Council at its regular monthly meeting this week in reference to the controversy and after they made a personal inspection of the building Mr. Teets agreed to remove the partition which projected on the town property. The town agreed to allow Mr. Teets to keep the marque effect on Third street with stipulation that it would be removed when and if street improvement is ordered.

Mr. Teets had received a permit the previous month from the Council to construct a canopy in front of the building, facing on Oak street, for display purposes.

Other Routine Business

Other routine business was conducted Monday night. Council agreed to construct a sewer line, about 600 feet, on Bartlett street, north of Pennington. Permits were granted to Don Stemple to conduct a parade for the Little League on June 25, and to A. G. Gortner for the Oakland fire company for a carnival in Oakland June 28 to July 5, with a parade scheduled July 5 at 7 o'clock DST.

Ordinance Passed

An ordinance was enacted providing for an additional charge of ten percent of the water rent payable if the amount was not paid in full within forty days after billing. Water rents are payable quarterly.

Arthur Lawton, clerk-collector, reported collections of $10,056.05 for the month, with $583.10 from water, $3,530.67 from taxes and $5,942.28 from miscellaneous. Among the miscellaneous items were $3,989.21 from traders' licenses, $675 from parking meters and $596 from beer licenses.

Expenditures amounted to $8,994.62, not including electric power bill. Expenditures included payment on well No. 4 of $1,175. His report showed a balance on hand of $2,302.98 with all current bills paid.

The council contributed $200 to the cemetery clean-up committee. Sunday movie tax amounted to $88.25 for May.

Two permits were granted, one to John Michael, Jr., to construct a one story frame and stone house, 36 by 26, of five rooms and bath with full basement, approximate cost $7,000, on Seventh street; and to Edward F. Smouse to construct a warehouse for the Wholesale Grocery company, 48 by 72, with loading platforms.

The Council completed the redecorating of the second floor of the City Hall, for use of the scouts and other organizations.

State Road Work

The State Roads commission was notified by the town that it had extended its curbs and gutters on Third street in a widening program and the commission announced it would proceed to backfill where the town had made the extensions and would complete the job this summer with a layer of bituminous concrete.

Fire Auxiliary Has Annual Convention

The thirteenth annual convention of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Allegany-Garrett County Fire department was held June 3 at Friendsville. Mrs. Elda Schell, LaVale, president, presided.

Flags were presented by Mrs. Jenny Smith and Miss Louise Plummer. Prayer was offered by the chaplain, Mrs. Deloris Fatkin, Clarysville, after which all repeated the Lord's Prayer and sang the Convention song. There were 91 ladies present, representing 14 officers and sixteen out of twenty-two auxiliaries. Also present were four past presidents.

A memorial service was held for Mrs. Irving Ritchie and Mrs. Mary Phillips, Bowling Green. The Clarysville quartet sang "Ivory Palaces," after which there was silent prayer. Mrs. Fatkin, chaplain, in charge of service, gave the closing prayer.

An all-day basket picnic was planned for Wednesday, August 4, at Swauger's dam. Mrs. Marie Dunn, Midland, was named chairman.

Mrs. Schell told of organizing the Grantsville auxiliary, the success of the second annual bazaar and that 90 badges were sold at the convention. A donation of $25 was voted to the state hospital fund, and $50 toward expenses of retiring president to the state convention to be held in Ocean City, June 23, 24 and 25.

The following officers were elected for next year. Mrs. Alma Wilt, District 16, president; Mrs. Arvella Loar, Midland, senior vice-president; Mrs. Jennie Smith, Lonaconing, junior vice-president; Mrs. Laura Shuhart, Barton, secretary; Mrs. Hilda Phillips, Lonaconing, treasurer; Mrs. Elizabeth Moody, LaVale, chaplain; Mrs. Hazel Swager, Mt. Savage, guard; Miss Louise Plummer, Shaft, and Mrs. Frances Comp, Deer Park, color bearers; Mrs. Evelyn Wilson, Baltimore Pike, pianist; Mrs. Flo Alexander, LaVale, historian; Mrs. Stella Wade, Mt. Savage, trustee.

Officers were installed by Mrs. Schell, retiring president. On behalf of the group Mrs. Hilda Phillips presented a gift to Mrs. Schell.

Executive meetings for the next year will be held at the following places: Kitzmiller, September; Ellerslie, December; District 16, March; Clarysville, May. The next convention will be held in Shaft in June, 1955.

A silver march was held, at which it is customary to give two prizes. These prizes by coincidence, were won by mother and daughter from Corrigansville.

Short talks were given by William Chenowith of Pikesville, state association president, and State Senator Robert Kimble.

Meetings were held in VFW hall, after which dinner was served in the cafeteria of the public school.

His father is superintendent of one of the Erie stations for the Pennsylvania Electric company and was formerly superintendent of the station at Power house in this county. Stanley attended Southern High school until this past school term. The Busseys own Crook Crest property, formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Weeks.

Turkey Growers See Debeaking Process

Carlton Knox and Robert Glotfelty led a discussion and demonstration on debeaking and wing notching of turkeys at a meeting of the Garrett County turkey growers Monday night at Bittinger.

Around 26 persons were present with some of the other members of the unit trying their hand at the debeaking and wing notching process after the demonstration ended.

A committee, composed of Roy Glotfelty, Marvin Beitzel, Blaine Glotfelty and John Reckner, was appointed to explore the possibilities of a turkey festival this fall.

The association will place a float in the firemen's and legion's parade at Accident on Saturday, July 3. John Bowman, Roy Glotfelty and Blaine Glotfelty were named as a committee for this event.

The members agreed to contribute two dressed turkeys, one for Thanksgiving and one for Christmas toward the promotion of Maryland recreation possibilities. A contest is being conducted for the best letters as to "Why you should spend your vacation in Maryland." There are other valuable prizes.

The next meeting will be held Monday, July 12, at the Bittinger school, at 8 o'clock, EST.

Memorial Day week-end had a record of 539 violent deaths.

Tableland Farming

A column devoted to agriculture in Garrett County
By John H. Carter, County Agent
William W. Nace, Soil Conservationist

Several years ago, rummaging in the attic at my wife's home, I came across three old Yearbooks of Agriculture, published by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The three are for the years 1869, 1870 and 1875. I brought them along home, where they somehow got stowed away, and never got around to looking through them until a few weeks ago. Now I wish the original owner, whoever he was, had also saved the books for 71, 2, 3, and 4.

In the light of our present knowledge, some of the experiments reported in these old books seem sort of ridiculous. Like the one in 1869 when someone tried the application of gypsum and salt to improve a stand of clover. On one plot he used gypsum, which we would think of as a liming material, at the rate of two bushels per acre. On another he used common salt, at the same rate. The third plot got a bushel of gypsum and a bushel of salt to the acre. The best results were obtained with the mixture of salt and gypsum. Now we use two tons or more per acre of ground limestone, and you rarely hear of putting salt on the land.

But it would be a bad mistake to think that the old boys didn't have a good idea once in a while. Or that all the so-called new methods are really new. The 1875 report devotes twelve pages to "The French Mode of Curing Forage." In them I found out some things that I had not known before. Here are some quotations from the article. "The fermentation in pits, of maize, straw of cereals, and other forage materials has become quite popular in France, and is practiced in Germany, Austria and Hungary. It is possible that conditions favorable to this practice may be found to a limited extent in this country. The term ensilage is derived from the word silo, which means a pit or trench, and indicates the process of storing green maize in the soil. In some cases the silos are mere pits, with walls of bare earth. In other cases they are lined with brick or cement, either on sides or bottom or on both. It is found necessary to exercise special care in covering the ensilage with earth to entirely exclude the air. The sides and ends of the pit should be sloped." And all the time I thought that pit silos were something fairly new.

The article indicates that ensilage had been used in Hungary for seventy years before the report was written. Evidently the first ensilage was made from unchopped forage, but by 1870 some of it was being chopped "in lengths less than an inch." Most attention seems to have been given to ensilage made from corn, referred to as maize in the French reports. However, they also used other forage plants such as rye, rape, red clover, vetch, "and even the leaves of trees and vines in seasons of short fodder crops." Some of the sketches with this 1875 report could be used as a pretty good plan for a modern trench silo.

Amos on Alcohol

Lesson for June 13, 1954

THE prophets of Israel are singularly up-to-date. They lived thousands of miles away from here, thousands of years ago. Yet the problems of mankind are much the same then as now. The prophet's inspired eyes could see what was wrong with the world around him, and he would say bluntly what it was. But few prophets often used that blanket word "sin." Nobody's in favor of sin. What the prophet always did was to name certain particular sins. These habits, these acts, these customs, he would say—these are what our country is dying from. These things are fatal. So it was in 800 B.C., so it is in 1954 A.D.

Dr. Foreman

Liquor Is Not Alone

It is only fanatics who believe that some one sin is by itself destroying the country. No sin, in fact, exists by itself. Also it is true that when a country is destroyed, as Israel was destroyed, it dies of more than one disease. The prophet Amos named a number of evils which were eating into the vitality of his nation and people. The consumption of liquor was one of these. But Amos never said that liquor was the only thing wrong with his country. He associates it with selfishness, greed, indifference to real problems, adultery, dishonesty and other sins. One of the bad features of liquor is that it attaches itself to other evils and makes them worse. There would be speeding on the highways even if everyone were always cold sober; but drinking drivers make the problem worse and the accidents more often fatal. (There really can't be such a thing as a drunken driver—a drunk can't drive at all. It's the drinking drivers who make the trouble.) There would be murders if whiskey had never been heard from. But every day murders are reported in the papers that would no doubt never have been committed if everyone concerned had been sober at the time. Rape and seduction are not unheard of by any means, in Mohammedan countries where alcoholic drinks are completely forbidden. But liquor pushes many young people over the edge who without it could retain their self-control and self-respect, but with it in them, lose both.

'The Best People'

In the time of Amos he took note of some quite "respectable" people who were drinkers. Churchgoers he mentions first of all, people who drink wine "in the house of their god." (This of course has nothing whatsoever to do with the communion service, a sacrament instituted by Christ.) He condemns these church-goers more than he does the riff-raff. It is worse for some people to drink than it is for others; and perhaps worst of all for church people. After all is said and done, people who know little and may care less about what is right and what is wrong, will think that anything a church member does must be all right. One church member who is known to drink, even if he is very temperate about it, can do more harm than a dozen alcoholics. Another respectable class Amos mentions are the women of wealth and social position. Amos is not exactly respectful to these ladies; on the contrary he calls them cattle, "kine of Bashan"—a specially fat kind of cattle of these days. Again, the use of liquor by wives of successful men, women who are leaders in their communities, does more harm than all the drinking down in the poolrooms. The harm done to others by the drinker is often greater than what he does to himself.

Amos Saw It Coming

Amos predicted that his country would soon fall because of its sins, and fall it did. No doubt the drinkers of his day thought their liquor drinking helped them to escape from their troubles; Amos could see that it only brought on more troubles. The truth about liquor is seldom to be had from people who are its victims, more seldom still from those who make money by it. Ministers, doctors, welfare workers, see the situation from the standpoint of those who have to try to patch up the wrecks. Do you want a strong America? Strong countries, like strong people, are not made so by strong drink.

Ordained As Priest In Catholic Church

Rev. Fr. Benedict Edward Pope, OFM Cap., son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude S. Pope, formerly of this county, was ordained as a priest last Saturday in the Roman Catholic church in ceremonies in Washington.

He will celebrate his first solemn high mass in St. Ann's church at Avilton on Sunday, June 13, as a member of the Capuchin Order. He is the first person born in St. Ann's parish to become a priest or a member of a religious order.

The priesthood was conferred by the Most Rev. John M. McNamara, D.D., auxiliary bishop of Washington, in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Claude Pope and family were among those attending.

At his first mass the Rev. Hilary Liehr, OFM Cap., pastor of St. Ann's and also of St. Stephen's church, Grantsville, will be assistant priest. The Rev. Joseph M. O'Toole, West Salisbury, Pa., will assist as deacon. The Rev. David Dressman, OFM Cap., former pastor of St. Ann's, will be subdeacon. Four brothers of Father Benedict, James, Eugene, Earl and Stephen, will be servers at the mass. Choral parts of the mass will be sung by Capuchin students from the college in Washington. Music for the mass will be Gregorian Chant.

Following the mass Father Benedict will give his first priestly blessing. From 7 to 9 there will be a reception at the family residence on the Alverno farm, Salisbury, Pa.

Father Benedict is the eldest of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Pope. He was born in this county, seven miles west of Frostburg, on September 17, 1929. He attended Grantsville Elementary school and entered St. Fidelis college and seminary, Herman, Pa. He was graduated with honors in June, 1951, with a bachelor of arts degree. He also spent one year at the Capuchin novitiate in Cumberland where he received his religious name, Benedict, and on July 14, 1949, made profession in the Capuchin Order. After graduation from St. Fidelis in 1951 he went to Capuchin college, Washington.

Following his first solemn high mass Father Benedict will spend two weeks at the Alverno farm with his family. He will then return to Capuchin college for one more year of theological study before being assigned his field of work.

IT TAKES PRACTICE

What a dilemma! Johnny should sit here and practice his piano lesson for the next hour. But there are so many things he would prefer doing .... Of course he'd like to be able to play well. Who wouldn't?

So many of us are like Johnny. We'd like to be able to accomplish something, but we aren't willing to spend the necessary time and effort.

The same holds true in the practice of our Christian religion. How can we hope to understand the will of God without reading His Word or without supporting His Church?

In order to live the richest life, we must devote our time and talent to God's work. We will learn to direct our efforts where they will accomplish most if we will study His Word and worship in His House.

ONE WORD . . .

Can Change Your Life

Meetings

Americans are so mass meeting minded that surgical concern soon may have to be given to a new infection: Meeting-itis. Seriously, too many of us are too busy running from one conference to another. Some preachers I know spend almost as much time at "clerical clambakes" as they do in their parishes.

Recently a British surgeon, Sir Heneage Ogilvie, wrote that present-day Western civilization has made it hard to make proper use of the mind. Then he went on relating his observations as to ulcers, high blood pressure and over-active thyroids. Yet, he did venture into the field of social relationships by saying that science is advanced farther in a shorter time by the informal chatter of a few like-minded friends over tea-cups than by the formal exchange of a paper at any number of conferences. So is religion. So are a lot of other things!

Diet on those conferences and guard against meeting-itis! Go easy on those meetings, the word that can change your life.

Oakland Batsmen Score 4th Straight

Loch Lynn Tops Terra Alta In Mt. Top League Play

Scoring nine runs in the first inning of play, Oakland kept its record unblemished in the Mountain Top Baseball league by bagging its fourth victory over Bittinger at Oakland Sunday. The final score was 17-4. Seven runs were scored in the sixth inning.

The 16-hit attack was paced by Toby Colaw with a double and two singles and Gary Baker with three singles. "Boots" Wolfe slammed a pair of two-baggers and Ted James and Lynn Kitzmiller garnered two singles each.

The winning pitcher, Lynn Kitzmiller, and his reliefer, "Boots" Wolfe, yielded nine hits, three of which were credited to Bob Buckel and two to D. Buckel.

Loch Lynn broke a three-game losing streak with a four-run rally in the top of the ninth to defeat Terra Alta at the latter place by the score of 12-10.

Sweitzer's two run single, coming after two out and the score knotted at 10-10, was the key connection.

Cecil Warnick had four hits to his credit for Loch Lynn; Sweitzer had three singles and Foltz rapped a triple. Joe Fraley socked a two-run homer and also a single, and Larry Bolyard had two one-base wallops for Terra Alta.

Oakland will play host to a Kingwood team next Sunday at 2 p. m., EST, on the local field.

He is interested in the work of Christian education, and has served as a member of the Board of Directors of Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky., for a number of years. Results Of Tree Planting Reviewed At Pleasant Valley

The result of 15 years of tree planting experimentation at Pleasant Valley, in this county, is reviewed in the current issue of The Old Line Acorn, publication of the State Department of Forests and Parks.

Written by James M. Gwin, director of Extension service, the article points out the results of cooperative effort, since 1937, of the Forest and Parks department, the Extension service and 4-H club members.

Each year since 1947, more than 100 4-H members from all parts of the state have visited evergreen plantings at the center and in surrounding areas of Garrett county. Foresters demonstrated the best methods of selecting and management of young plantations. The pleasures and profits of tree planting were explained.

According to Gwin, "The results of such close cooperation have demonstrated their values. This will be continued in the future. With just slightly more than one acre of woodland in Maryland for each man, woman and child in the state, the need for more wooded areas and the cooperation of everyone in growing and protecting our trees is plainly evident."

Saves . . . and saves . . . and saves
It's probably happened to you a lot of times. You've gone into town, or to visit a friend—perhaps at a considerable distance—and returned all the way home before you remembered something you wanted to buy, or a message you wanted to deliver. That's when you're really thankful for a telephone, a real time, step and money saver. In fact, if you stopped to add up all it saves you, you'd probably say, like so many others, "My telephone is worth more to me than it costs."

Pitching in on a picnic
One of the nicest things about living in a small town or in the country is that picnics are so easy to have. You simply call up your friends—Sally brings the potato salad, Edna bakes a cake, Johnny takes care of the stove equipment, and you're off for a grand time. When you think of it, though, it's sharing the work that makes it so much fun. Just like on the party line. When everyone shares and shares alike, service is so much better, more useful for all.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

Relax—'tis Summer

Summer issues of magazines from the front to the back cover fill us with ideas of how to have a relaxing, lazy summer. I always smiled, half hearted, for I've doubted if there was such a thing.

But when I read one by Dr. Lillian Gilbreth (Come cheaper by the dozen Gilbreth) who some years ago was America's mother of the year, I have to sit up and take notice, for we can be sure she knows what she's talking about.

She's an expert in motion and engineering dealing mostly with energy and time saving. As I read her article in Better Homes and Gardens about how a family can work together I wonder if her great secret of success lies in engineering or psychology—the field she first specialized in.

We can hardly smile in a smirking way about how to have an easier life and more fun, when a Gilbreth writes about it for we know from reading Cheaper by the Dozen that the whole family was expert at that.

I'm full of plans. I'm going all out a la Gilbreth. Not going to iron one thing that doesn't need it. Anything that gets mussed on immediate use—tea towels, pajamas, sheets—maybe pillow cases (I have a neighbor who declares if starched, they look better the second day if unironed).

I'm also ready to skip the peeling. The dishes we will drain. Big ambitions; streamlined ambition for an easy summer. (Am sorry I'm not an artist for I'd have thumb nail sketches all through this. Sitting on the terrace watching the garden grow. Lush foods from the garden—self picked and washed. On and on—)

It will be easy—if I can use psychology on the family and get them to do all the work—and I engineer.

Even then I'd probably not be satisfied—just like the farmer who wants more acres, or the producer who wants larger output. I'd probably be wishing for a dozen children so there'd be more hands to do more work.

Isn't it hard to know where short cuts end and standards for gracious living begin?

School's Out

Our kids yell with glee and jump in the air with the bounce of jumping jacks as they hand over their report cards and promptly start planning a summer so full of activities it almost makes your head swim.

It's a shame today's children have to work so hard at play. I almost feel sorry for them when I remember the play houses in the woods that were fit for a fairy queen, moss carpet and all; grapevine swings; fine millinery fashioned from leaves of cucumber trees.

Hours of play without a hurry in it. But they refuse to believe they were the good old days when they learn that we went swimming once each summer—on the fourth of July.

A Good Goose Egg

A goose egg is something we don't like on a score sheet but there's one place it really looks good—on a report card at the bottom which says, Number of days absent—0.

It really is about the only thing on these present reports that make sense to me. That goose egg is an achievement worth a half dozen check marks elsewhere.

Bible Vocabulary

Children today are lagging in church vocabulary, said a national church educator recently.

If we would even speak clearly the words we say over and over, it would help.

One youngster in saying the Lord's prayer says, "Our Father who art in Heaven, how di you know my name."

Another says, "For I'm in the kingdom—"

The little fellow had things figured out pretty well when in saying the creed, said "conscious Pilate." Wish I'd been that smart as a youngster to figure that one out for I still find it hard to say Pontius Pilate."

Foot Notes

Edna Frances Harvey Neville, the vivacious red head who always says, "I'm going home" when she returns to the farm in Garrett county, had many interesting footnotes to give on "The Lady from Arlington," that weren't in the book. They came from her neighbors in Virginia by word of mouth.

My foot note about Edna Frances—I enjoyed her poem on Spring, which just had to have its roots in Garrett county even more than her expert book reviewing.

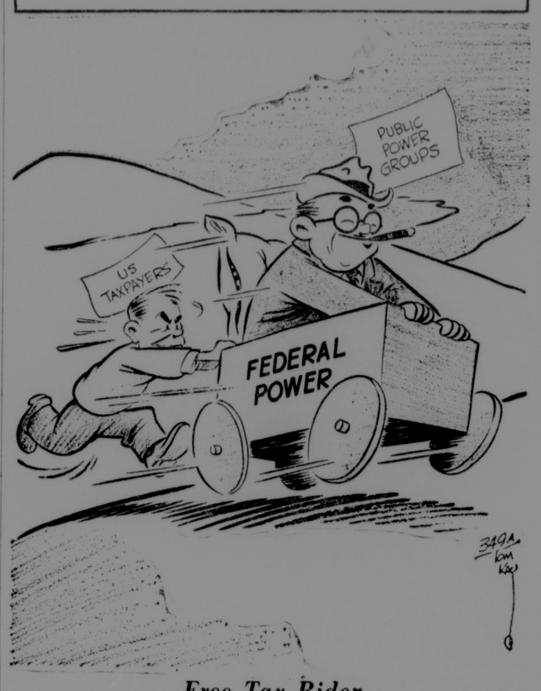
THE AMERICAN WAY



Free Tax Rider

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

President Eisenhower last week emphasized his Administration's desire for an impressive legislative record which would benefit every citizen, and the Senate proudly passed the Eisenhower-sponsored housing bill the following day.

The President also took advantage of his press conference to explain how the Republican Administration is going about the tedious job of combating Communist efforts to infiltrate.

The record he gave should be comforting to every person who has feared Communist subversion, and, as President Eisenhower explained, the constant surveillance of Communists in this country is a 24-hour, seven day a week, 52-weeks a year job. It is carried out by the appropriate Federal agencies in conformance with due process of law. It is being done quietly and relentlessly, and those who best know its effectiveness are the Communists themselves.

There is probably more confusion about Communism within our borders than about any other one subject, and in order to set the record straight as to just what the Republican Administration has done let us review the Eisenhower record.

In the sixteen months this Administration has been in office the Attorney General, working with the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Immigration and Naturalization Service, has:

1. Arrested seven Connecticut leaders of the Communist party during the last week of May, 1954, in Connecticut and New York City.

2. Convicted 41 Communist party leaders—13 in New York; 7 in Honolulu; 5 in Pittsburgh; 5 in Seattle; 6 in Detroit, and 5 in St. Louis.

3. Indicted 20 additional Communist leaders, including 9 now on trial in Philadelphia, and 11 soon to be tried in Cleveland.

4. Ordered the addition of 62 new organizations to the Department of Justice's list of subversive groups, making a total of 225.

5. Secured the conviction of one person for treason, and two for espionage. Eight others have been convicted for making false statements to the Government—three have been convicted for perjury.

6. Deported 84 alien subversives.

7. Issued orders for deportation of 268 persons with records of subversive activity or affiliation.

8. Started denaturalization proceedings against 24 naturalized citizens charged with being subversives.

9. Barred entry into this country of 127 subversive aliens, who had arrived at ports of entry.

The point of these listings is that this Administration is establishing a commendable record for dealing with subversive groups—a record of hard and loyal work not dramatized by reckless charges but evidence, legally valid, which can get an indictment from a grand jury and a conviction in a court of law.

Among the other accomplishments of the Eisenhower Administration in Congress last week was the House action on the Social Security Bill, which brings increased benefits and coverage for thousands upon thousands.

Also the Senate passed the Agriculture Appropriation Bill, containing $1,083,000,000 for the operation of that Department during the next fiscal year. Actually the Senate approved about $100 million more in funds than the Eisenhower Administration had requested.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Are We Ready?

Whether or not we are going to become involved in Indo-China as we were in Korea is not a question anyone can answer definitely. However, in well-informed circles the chances are regarded as at least 50-50. Under these circumstances it goes without saying that we are prepared for the worst. Those who assert that we have no Indo-China policy and thus will be caught flat-footed and surprised simply do not know what they are talking about.

There are two things to be said about the existing situation. One is that we are not going to sit still while all Southeast Asia falls under Communist control. The other is that if we go into another war—or take the risk of going into one—we are not going to repeat the costly and inexcusable mistakes of the past. To do so would be supremely idiotic. And the men who man our Government today are not idiots; nor are they incompetents. Quite the reverse. Therefore, you may be sure of three things—one is that they fully grasp the dangers; two, that every possible and honorable way of avoiding war will be exhausted; three, that if and when that stage has been reached, there will be no delay, no weakening and no timidity about our attitude.

—o—

There will be action, and there will be no halfway measures. In brief, the man who will make the ultimate decisions for us is a man who believes in the soundness of a statement made several years ago by Sir Winston Churchill at a private dinner in New York when he said, in effect, "the way, and the only way, to deal with Russia is to give her an ultimatum—to draw a line and say that is as far as you can go and no farther. If you cross that line, you have got to fight." But, said Sir Winston, "you must not say that unless you fully mean it and unless you are ready and determined to fight with everything you have and to the limit." And then Sir Winston added, "If you say that and fully mean it you won't have to fight."

—o—

In brief, we are not going to capitulate, appease or surrender. The overwhelming sentiment of Americans is against that—and the thinking of those who run this Government from President down is in tune with that sentiment. We want peace; we are against war—but there are worse things than war. Chief of these is living in a Communist dominated world. Realization of this is the reason this Government has made up its mind to fight if there is no way honorably to negotiate. We are not going to fight alone and we are not going to fight without a concurring Congress, but if the Red Chinese and their Russian backers go across the line where our own safety is clearly involved, that we will fight few really informed men doubt.

An interesting and significant thing that confirms this line of reasoning is the thought being given in high Administration circles to our domestic policies in event of war. Militarily—particularly with the new atomic weapons—it is agreed we are prepared. Nevertheless, there is a firm conviction in the White House that military preparedness cannot exist unless based upon a sound Federal fiscal foundation. Accordingly, there exists a strong determination not to repeat the tragic Truman mistakes. It will be recalled that at the start of the second world war sweeping war powers were conferred upon the then President, among which were those advocated by Mr. B. M. Baruch, giving him power to impose a ceiling on rents, food prices and wages.

—o—

Upon our entrance into the Korean war similar powers were granted Mr. Truman—but so far as wages were concerned he never used them. This, of course, did not surprise politicians who knew that Mr. Truman was only nominated for Vice President after he had been "cleared" by the CIO leaders in 1944 and whose political tie-up with them was complete. Failure to put ceilings on wages and food prices, according to Mr. Baruch, led not only to literally hundreds of strikes during the war but to an inflation that unnecessarily cost the country upward of a hundred billion dollars. Should a similar crisis arise this Administration is determined not to permit anything like this to happen again.

This statement of Mr. Baruch that more than a hundred billion dollars had been the cost of the failure of the Messrs. Roosevelt and Truman to exercise the powers that Congress gave him has never been challenged. It has been printed many times, but neither from the labor bosses nor the Truman "liberals" has there been an answer. Everybody—and especially the President—hopes there will not be another war emergency—and there are real grounds for hopes. However, if one comes we should be everlastingly grateful that it does not find us with another man in the White House under the labor-boss influence.

THE AMERICAN WAY

By GEORGE PECK
Chairman of the Board of the National Labor-Management Foundation and Executive Editor of its official publication, PARTNERS.

Each year about this time, when the Government's fiscal year is coming to an end, we take a look to see just how much has been added to the national debt. We usually wince at the figure, especially when we think of the size of the tax bills we are paying. There's some small grain of comfort in the fact that all our neighbors are also paying taxes, and that the burden, for the most part, is shared with some sense of equity.

We would be up in arms in a minute if we discovered that Joe Doakes down the block did not have to pay any Federal taxes at all just because he had blue eyes, whereas we happen to have been born with eyes of another color. Well, strangely enough, there is something like that going on in the field of corporation taxation. There are business enterprises that pay 23 cents out of every dollar of income taxes, while other enterprises selling the same product in the same way do not pay any taxes at all. Impossible, you say? Not at all.

The investor-owned electric utilities of this country hand over to the tax gatherers 23 cents or more of every dollar of their revenues. Eighty percent of us are customers of these companies, relying on their efficiency every time we flip a light switch. But the other 20 percent of American electricity consumers are served by publicly-owned utilities or co-operatives which retail the energy generated at federally-built and federally-financed hydroelectric projects. When one of these consumers throws the switch, he gets the same kind of light, but when he gets his monthly bill, he also gets the benefit of federally-subsidized rates.

There federally-subsidized rates are lower because the public power systems do not pay federal taxes. The Tennessee Valley Authority and some of the other public power projects do pay to state and local governments—but not to the federal treasury—a portion of income in lieu of taxes, but these charges are less than one-fourth the tax bills of the privately-owned companies.

The TVA, for instance, boasts that it is a money-making proposition, but if it paid taxes on the same basis as the five investor-owned utilities now operating in Tennessee, its net revenue would turn into a deficit of more than $50 million a year. C. J. Green, an engineer-accountant who was with the Federal Power Commission for 20 years, estimates that if the TVA's operations were made comparable with those of private electric companies, its rates would have to be approximately doubled.

You might wonder why a Government-owned project should be asked to pay taxes or payments in lieu of taxes. The answer is simple enough—unless the present inequity is straightened out, electricity consumers in most of the country will continue, through taxes, to help pay the electric bills of those living in the federally-served areas. As one humorist put it, the Tennessee River flows through but three states but it helps drain the other 45.

As it works now, the customer of a privately-owned company pays not only for the cost of his own electric service but also a share of the nation's tax burden. The consumer in the TVA area or other regions where federal power is marketed is nearly tax exempt in this respect. Of course, when a fifth of our citizens fail to make contributions to the cost of Government, it means that the remaining 80 percent are forced to share a bigger bill.

This discrimination against 80 percent of our citizens and preferential treatment for the remaining 20 percent is just about as fair as it would be to have electric customers with brown, green, or grey eyes pay their way while those fortunate enough to have been born with blue eyes get a free ride.

MARYLAND WILDLIFE

MOCKING BIRD

(Mimus polyglottos polyglottos.)

RANGE: Maryland is about the northernmost limit of the mocking bird; plentiful south to Florida; has increased in numbers in recent years. Many spend entire winter in our state, but majority migrate south in fall as far as Bahamas.

DESCRIPTION: Length about 10 inches, more slender than robin, longer tail; upper parts gray with a little brown; under parts white; not to be confused with the shrike which it resembles.

BREEDING: Nests in trees, shrubs, thickets and hedges; generally 8 to 15 feet from ground, although occasionally nest will be found much higher; lined with grasses and in south sometimes with cotton; raises more than one brood annually; eggs 4 to 6, bluish-green speckled with brown.

HABITS: Our leading bird musician and imitator; their songs and imitations are enjoyed by everyone except sometimes when they sing endlessly on moonlight nights. Food in spring and summer largely insects such as ants, flies, wasps, grasshoppers and spiders, making it a very beneficial bird; in summer and autumn it consumes some weed seeds such as blackberry, poison ivy, sumac, red cedar berries, honeysuckle berries and Virginia creeper.

MANAGEMENT: Little if anything can be done to further increase this valuable bird; it fearlessly chases such enemies as dogs and cats, away from nest and young.

VALUE: Valuable for its destruction of injurious insects, and for its songs and imitations; to a slight extent injurious to small fruits such as cherries.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

The plight of the Nation's shipbuilding and ship repair industries has been the subject of great concern to me during the past several months. This alarm has been magnified through testimony presented to the Senate Water Transportation Subcommittee, of which I am Chairman, and through the knowledge that this serious situation greatly affects the economic life of the Port of Baltimore, and thus the State of Maryland.

Maryland has long been a significant sea-faring State, with outstanding shipbuilding and ship repair facilities, and auxiliary components, centered around the Port of Baltimore, the Eastern Shore, and the tributaries of the Chesapeake Bay. The importance to national security of a vital merchant marine and a shipbuilding and ship repair industry to service American shipping, and capable of rapid expansion to meet defense mobilization requirements in time of emergency cannot be denied, and has been very effectively demonstrated in World War II and the Korean crisis. Our Maryland yards can be justifiably proud of their successful role in these past efforts, and must be preserved as a part of a long range national defense nucleus.

To this end, developments of the past week have been extremely encouraging.

On June 2nd, I introduced in the United States Senate the Emergency Ship Repair Act of 1954 for the purpose of facilitating immediate improvement and modernization of needed merchant type vessels in the reserve fleet and thereby also providing an essential stimulus to the shipbuilding and ship repair industries of the Nation. This legislation would make available $45,000,000.00 for such a program, and the Department of Defense and the Maritime Administration have estimated that 205 vessels in the "moth-ball" fleet come within the category of requiring immediate and substantial repairs if they are to be in a satisfactory condition to meet any future emergency. From this standpoint of urgency, this proposal must be considered by the Congress quickly, and prompt passage unquestionably will result in much-needed work for our Maryland yards. Approximately 92 of the vessels involved are in the reserve fleet on the East Coast.

The June 4th announcement by the Bureau of Ships of the Department of the Navy, to the effect that The Bethlehem-Sparrows Point Shipyard, Inc., has been awarded a contract, totalling $23,250,000.00, for the construction of two ammunition ships, has also improved considerably in the local picture. Sparrows Point was the lowest of eight concerns bidding on this new type of ammunition ship, designed especially to meet the strenuous requirements of present-day rapid replenishment at sea.

This award will mean many hundreds of man-hours of gainful employment for skilled personnel at Sparrows Point and elsewhere, who until recently viewed the future with some degree of uncertainty. I shall vigorously continue all efforts in the development of an adequate long-range merchant marine program to ensure that our Maryland industries will be given the opportunity to participate in our national shipbuilding and ship repair efforts.

Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., former judge of local circuit, died at his home in Cumberland, June 2. He was 66.

Candidates Announce

FOR STATE SENATOR

To the Citizens of Garrett County:
I am a candidate for the office of State Senator from Garrett County.

I have been a resident of Garrett County for the past forty-three years. I was County Treasurer from 1947 through 1950 and have served in the House of Delegates during the years 1927 through 1930, in 1945 and 1946 and in 1951 up until the present time. In the Sessions of 1952, 1953 and 1954 I was elected Minority Leader by the Republican members of the House. As such, I was a member of the Rules Committee, the Ways and Means and of the Legislative Council. The information and knowledge I will gather at the Council meetings this year will be of great value to our County and State if I am elected to this office.

I feel that my background as a farmer, a veteran of World War I, a merchant, an employee of the Board of Education (all of which I have been in the past) together with my experience as County Treasurer and as a member in the House of Delegates for seven regular and three special sessions fit me for this office.

I make no idle campaign promises, but, if elected, I pledge to follow the same policies and serve my County and my State in the same manner as in the past. I will give careful and thoughtful consideration to any suggestions and will earnestly endeavor, at all times, to keep myself worthy of the confidence placed in me by the Citizens of Garrett County.

Some Things I Favor

I favor industry for Garrett County. The people in our county, as in all other counties, are eager and anxious to have industry locate plants here. To promote this I think an appropriate committee consisting of individuals from the various sections of our county should be selected to work in cooperation with our County Commissioners, officials of our incorporated towns, Chambers of Commerce and other interested persons who feel that something should be done in this connection. If elected Senator I shall be pleased, as in the past, to cooperate in every way possible to bring payrolls to Garrett County.

I favor better and safer highways. I have worked for and supported Governor McKeldin's twelve-year road program to give them to Maryland.

I favor increased recreational facilities for Garrett County, in order that we may provide vacational opportunities for the people of our county and State and for those from other states, which will in turn bring more people and more money into our county.

I favor the best educational facilities possible for the boys and girls of our county. Our future lies in our boys and girls and for too long a time they were deprived of advantages which others in our State enjoyed. I think we should protect that future by giving our children the best schooling in the best schools that we can financially afford.

I favor lower taxes whenever this can be accomplished without impairing necessary services to our people. I am on record as one of the sponsors of a resolution for the purpose of an investigation of mandatory services and expenditures of the various State departments to determine whether taxes can be reduced. If amendments or repeal of our present laws are deemed necessary to get more for our tax dollars I shall favor and work for such legislation.

Our county has a unique record and I want to do everything possible to help make it cleaner and stronger. From May, 1952, to May, 1953, our daily average number of jail prisoners was two; and from May, 1953, to May, 1954, the daily average was less than one-half prisoner. I do not believe that this can be equalled in any other part of our State. At the same time our number of juvenile cases has been very low. THEREFORE, I AM OPPOSED TO THE LEGALIZED SALE OF WHISKEY IN OUR COUNTY IN ORDER THAT THIS SPLENDID RECORD CAN BE MAINTAINED.

I believe in Garrett County. I think we have one of the best Counties in our State, and through constructive thought and coordinated effort we can go forward to an even better, greater and more prosperous land in which to live.

These are some of the things I favor and in which I believe. I think the citizens of our county are entitled to know this, hence this article. I will appreciate the vote of all our citizens who feel as I do about these matters. The Republican Primary is on June 28th. Let us all vote. It is our duty as well as our privilege.

TO THE VOTERS OF GARRETT COUNTY

As you know, I am a candidate for the House of Delegates.

I believe that the eight years of experience I have had, from 1930 to 1938, should qualify me to represent the people of Garrett county to the best interests of all the people.

I want to say here and now that I will not sponsor or go along on any legislation that is not in the best interests of all the people. Neither will I go along on any measure that would in any way affect the moral well being of the people of Garrett county and especially our young people. As we all know, our young boys and girls of today are our hope of tomorrow.

I am opposed to anything that would affect or destroy the moral fiber of our young people. Let me say emphatically, I am opposed to any legislation that would legalize the sale of liquor in Garrett county.

ARTHUR G. CULLERS
REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR NOMINATION FOR HOUSE OF DELEGATES

TO OUR CITIZENS:

We have reached the stage in this campaign where I believe it is necessary for opposing candidates to state their differences. I enter into this phase of the contest without rancor, and I sincerely hope that we may be able to state our opposing views without recrimination, and with a poise befitting the dignified office to which we both aspire.

First, I want to observe that there is a long list of bad legislation that was passed during the last four years, and nobody seems willing to accept any responsibility for it.

Second, The House and Senate journals of the last Session are still at the printers, and therefore we are unable to establish how Members voted.

Delegate Green, in his statement last week, says that the story that he would pension School Bus Operators has no basis whatsoever. I have not made an issue of this subject, nor would I have mentioned it here had he not brought it out in print himself. However, there are some significant facts which I believe the people should know: During the past four years, the School Bus Operators' Association has kept a Lobbyist at Annapolis at every Session. This lobbyist has been trying to work up support among our Legislators for some kind of a Retirement Act to provide pensions for members of the Association. I am told that a Bill to carry out the plan was introduced a few years ago, but it failed for lack of support. Delegate Green now says that it would be unconstitutional to do this thing. I agree, but when was it decided, or has it been decided, and why is the lobbyist still there? So long as the Association keeps sending its lobbyist to the Sessions to lobby for the Pension Act, the idea is not dead. The notion still persists, and the possibility of some kind of a Pension Act remains.

Three years ago, a Gas law had been lying in the incubator at the Legislature for almost a year. Our Representatives told us that this proposed Gas Law was no good for us, and it would not be passed. Yet, at the very next Session of the Legislature, the Bill was passed in the closing days of the Session, in a hurry, without any warning to us, with Mr. Green voting for it. Lobbyists for the gas company were down there at the time, and the Bill was passed, although it was very damaging to us and unconstitutional too. Fortunately, the law was so unpopular that it was repealed in order to head off public resentment, in view of the approaching election. Regardless of the repeal a residue of damage still remains with us.

Again, I feel it necessary to take issue with another statement. It is his Statement No. 4. He says that there are other laws dealing with administration measures carrying his name, etc., indicating that because he was Minority floor leader in the House he was compelled to sponsor legislation which he was opposed to, and which he would not otherwise have voted for. It is true that the Minority leader is supposed to introduce bills sent down by the administration when we have a Republican Governor. But when the Floor Leader doesn't approve of such measures it is customary to introduce the Bills marked "By Request," and he is under no obligation to vote for them. Yet, Mr. Green apparently did sponsor many of these measures. I would not have done so, for as I see it, a representative's first duty is to his people back home. When a representative votes against the interests of his constitutents for political purposes in order to stand in well with the State Administration, he is doing a great dis-service to his people and his Party.

This, then, is perhaps the chief difference between us, and it is what the voters must eventually choose us on. Mr. Green has indicated that he owes first allegiance to the state administration, and because of that he sponsored legislation putting needless expense upon our County. I am an independent who believes that I owe first allegiance to my people back home who sent me to represent their interests at all times. As I see it, if some policy of the State Administration conflicts with the interests of my county, or would place needless expense upon it, then I must stick with my people at home. I believe that in the long run, I can serve both my State and my County best in this way.

DeWITT S. HYDE

With only eight dissenting votes the House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill which will greatly improve the federal social security system.

In order of the number of people affected, it does these things:

1. Raises the amount of annual salary on which you contribute to social security from $3600 to $4200, and raises the benefits you will receive accordingly.

2. Brings under social security for the first time 3,500,000 self-employed farmers; 3,500,000 state and local government employees, other than police or firemen, if they vote in their local areas by a two-thirds majority to come into the program; 400,000 self-employed professional people, including just about everybody except doctors, who generally work later in life and preferred not to be covered; and finally, about 1,000,000 other persons in various types of jobs.

3. Increases benefits for about 6,000,000 people now receiving them. The average retired worker will get about $6 a month more, with payments to individuals running to $98.50 instead of the present $85, and to $200 for families instead of the present $168.75.

4. Increases the limit on how much a retired person can earn in a part-time job before he loses any benefit payments.

As I predicted in this column weeks ago, almost the entire House supported the President on this bill. It should pass the Senate easily.

It illustrates something we are acutely conscious of in Washington: That while political arguments may be catching the headlines, there is much hard and constructive work being done by your government officials. While the disputes make juicier reading they will be of no importance in the future, as Washington veterans learned long ago.

My own activity during the past week has reflected the general air of urgency with about two months left of our Congressional session. I made a statement before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee in behalf of amendments to the Railroad Retirement Act which would lower the retirement age from 65 to 60 and allow rail workers to retire after 30 instead of 35 years' service.

I also submitted a statement to Senator Cooper, who is Chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Education, calling attention to the need of federal funds for school construction in federally-impacted areas of Montgomery and Frederick Counties. This same statement was sent to the House Appropriations Committee. This past Thursday, I testified before the Senate Judiciary Committee in support of a Joint Resolution designating September 1955 as John Marshall Bicentennial Month. Senator Byrd and I have introduced companion bills.

TO THE CITIZENS OF GARRETT COUNTY

Because I could not get to see everyone, I will take this means to let everyone know that I stand firm on what I have said.

I have promised nothing that I cannot do, and one is that I will get the soldiers a bonus as I believe they are entitled to it and should have it.

I am in a position to bring industry to Garrett County, and I don't have to demand or order one. Any body would know no one has power to do that. But I shall devote my full time, and I will not sell out or forsake the citizens of Garrett County, as I would like to see industry here to meet the people's demand.

I know the coal and timber industries have played out in Garrett County, and there is no other source for anything except the taxpayers to keep it going. Half of the people are depending on the other half, and we will have to do something soon. That is why I am here to lighten their taxes and to bring industry to our community.

I pledge myself to be true to my friends and citizens of Garrett County, and try to serve them at all times. If you want industry, I will look for your help on June 28.

Soldier Is Commended

Pfc. Mike P. Kahl, of Accident, was recently commended by his commanding officer for his soldierly qualities, at his station in Korea where he is serving with the 31st infantry service company.

Kahl is a son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Kahl. The captain of the company, prior to leaving for a new assignment, wrote Pfc. Kahl saying he had learned from his immediate superiors that "you are one of the better drivers in this company. I have observed that you are sincere in trying to do your best, regardless of the assignment. In short, you are the kind of soldier a company commander leans on. We depend upon people like you who do your jobs earnestly and well day in and day out. You are the backbone of any unit. When the reports come rolling in on the irresponsible minority who never grow up, it is a great comfort to me to know that I have the backing of mature soldiers like you."

House Agriculture committee voted to continue present system of rigid high-level supports through 1955.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our Dad, Jacob Beitzel, who passed away a year ago today, June 10, 1953.
You went away so suddenly,
Without a last goodbye;
But we will not forget you, Dad,
Tho the years pass swiftly by.
The road into the sunset is one we each must tread,
And though it brings us sorrow,
when loved one goes ahead;
Still there is comfort knowing we will meet again some day,
When grief and pain are over, and the clouds have passed away.
Sadly missed by your son Herbert, and daughter Iva.

Without Fanfare...

President Eisenhower was being discussed a few days ago by a citizen. "Somehow I wish the President would assert himself a little more."

What that person had in mind, we believe, was that the President should make more of a holler, stir up more controversy. The pattern that person had in mind must have been a Truman or Roosevelt, two Presidents who felt that they were making progress only when they were making headlines in the daily newspapers with slam-bang, witty retorts, and action not in keeping with their high office.

It has been refreshing to us, and we are sure, to millions of American citizens, that over these past two years, regular order has been restored in government, with President Eisenhower not once having lost his temper against sometimes unreasonable opposition; having sought the help of Almighty God in bringing order out of chaos, having stood firm against those who would have wrecked his tax structure; and having been persistent in returning to Congress its proper powers.

Business today is 20 percent above what would be considered normal for this period. The production index rate has held steady according to a national business index. There has been no big "popping off" about this by the administration but it is significant how those who predicted a depression have stopped their ridiculous prattle.

Without undue publicity the Eisenhower administration has embarked on a relentless drive to get rid of every Communist or other subversive who seeks the overthrow of our government. It is being done legally, with work of Congressional committees authorized to deal with the menace. Without fanfare in the past 16 months 84 alien subversives were deported, 268 more are on the way; 41 Communist party leaders have been convicted; and twenty more indicted.

The same type of effective work is being done in other branches of government which touches the Executive.

You can bank on it. President Eisenhower is asserting himself—but he's doing it in a gentlemanly way. He doesn't have to punch somebody in the nose and call another one a lousy so-and-so to do a good job as President. As he has said, "my policies are to build a better and stronger America."

Vindex Child Dies In Hospital After Drinking Kerosene

A 16-month-old Vindex child, Gary Lamar Kinser, died early Sunday morning at Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland after drinking an undetermined amount of kerosene.

On Saturday, the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Kinser, went to Oakland to do some shopping, leaving the child at home in the care of his older brothers and sisters.

At about 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening the child found a can containing the kerosene. He drank an unknown quantity of the piosonous substance and became very ill.

Neighbors took the child to the hospital in Oakland and while on their way there, encountered the parents returning to Vindex.

The boy was admitted to the hospital at 10 p. m. Saturday in an unconscious state. He never regained consciousness and was pronounced dead at 5:30 Sunday morning.

Besides his parents the boy is survived by eight brothers, Julius, Hugh, Norman, Benjamin, Harry, Eric, Douglas and David, and one sister, Diane, all at home.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock from the Pentecostal Holiness church at Vindex. Burial was in the Tasker cemetery.

Youth Dies of Injuries From Auto Smash-up

Edward Barricks, 15, of Westernport, who was critically injured early last Wednesday, June 16, in an automobile accident where state route 41 joins state route 38, near Deer Park, died Friday morning in Memorial hospital in Cumberland.

State's Attorney W. Dwight Stover said that a warrant charging William Marple, 21, of Luke, driver of the car, with manslaughter by motor vehicle, would be issued sometime this week. Stover said the young man would be held under $1,000 bond for his appearance before a Trial Magistrate for a hearing on the charge.

The victim suffered a fractured skull and other injuries when the car in which he was a passenger wrecked at the junction of the two highways, crashing into an embankment and turning over.

Four other passengers in the car also were injured and all were admitted to Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland. The Barricks youth was transferred later that day to Memorial hospital in Cumberland.

Others injured were William Marple, 21, Luke, driver; Ellis Burke, 14, Westernport, both of whom suffered head injuries; Edward K. Riggins, 15, Luke, bruises and lacerations of the body, and his brother, Thomas Riggins, 16, fractures and lacerations of the body.

A son of Mrs. Henry Linkswiler, of Westernport, the dead youth had graduated last Tuesday from Bruce Junior High school in Westernport. He was a member of the Westernport Evangelical United Brethren church.

Surviving besides his mother and step-father, is a sister, Delores Barricks, at home.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Ev. U. B. church at Westernport, Rev. Andrew Agnew, pastor, officiated and interment was in Philos cemetery, Westernport.

The Farm Queen contest is open to all unmarried girls 16 to 18 years of age, inclusive, and living on a farm of not less than three acres, but may be in college or working away from home.

The selection of the County Farm Queen will take place July 24, at the Farmers' picnic and 4-H rally day at Pleasant Valley. Miss Engle will mail application blanks upon request.

No Traffic Fatalities In County In May

Garrett county was one of nine counties of Maryland which had no traffic fatalities during May.

Forty-one persons were killed in motor vehicle traffic accidents during May in Maryland compared to 35 for the same month last year. This raised the total number of traffic deaths during the first five months of this year to 184, a decrease of 17 percent over the corresponding period last year. The rate has decreased nationally by 5 percent.

Lake Yellow Perch Dying From "Ich"

Biologist Reports Disease Appears To Be On The Wane

Yellow perch in Deep Creek Lake have "the Ich" and have been dying in large numbers, according to a report of Harold J. Elser, fisheries biologist for the State Department of Research and Education, of Solomons Island.

Mr. Elser, along with Jack Gilbert and Richard Claybaugh, of the Game and Inland Fish Commission, completed the survey this week, with the observation that as of today the disease appeared to be dying out among the yellow perch but that it seemed to be spreading into the ranks of bull heads, rock bass and golden shiners.

Mr. Elser said that dying fish were noticed in the lake as early as mid-April by local residents but not until the first week in May did they appear in numbers sufficient to cause alarm.

Inquiries soon reached the Game and Inland Fish Commission and steps were taken to identify the cause of death. Albert M. Powell, superintendent of fish hatcheries, requested a sample of fish taken to Dr. S. F. Snieszko, fish and wildlife service, Leetown, W. Va., for examination. This was carried out May 28 by George Coddington, of the Bear Creek hatchery, with a sample of fish seined from the pond back of the road at McHenry.

Mr. Elser on May 29 visited the lake and identified the trouble as an infestation of a "protozoan parasite" called "ichthyophthirius multifillis"—"Ich" for short.

Elser visited 45 stations around the lake in the following two days, finding dead fish and showing that the disease was widespread. From the 13,500 feet of shore he found 1,292 dead fish and he estimated that 28,300 fish were dead along the shores. By estimating also the ones consumed by birds and animals, those which did not come to the surface, the number of sick fish eaten by larger fish, Mr. Elser declared that 170,000 perch have been killed by the disease, which is over seven times the total number of perch taken by Deep Creek Lake fishermen during the last three years.

Elser's diagnosis of the disease was corroborated by Dr. Snieszko. He said the disease was well known from hatcheries and aquaria, the the primary condition necessary being an over-crowded population of fish.

The infested fish will not cause illness if eaten by man, but the biologist said the fish would not appear very appetizing.

He made one prediction, that if the disease affected only the perch in general it would benefit a great deal because there were too many perch in Deep Creek Lake and they were somewhat stunted. He said a thinning out had long been needed.

Just what effect the disease will have on other fish in the lake is yet to be determined.

Escapee Indicted In Preston Court

Paul Morgan, Jr., an escaped "trustie" from Hopemont, who was captured near the B. and O. bridge across Youghiogheny river, west of town last March, was among those indicted by the grand jury in Preston County last week.

Morgan was assigned to Hopemont and was serving two to ten years from Harrison county where he was convicted of a felony in November, 1951. He was charged with walking off from the work detail at Hopemont sanitarium.

He was captured after an exciting chase with Garrett county officers assisting West Virginia state police to apprehend him.

Morgan will be tried at Kingwood during the present term of court.

Rescue Equipment Used In Real Emergency

A real emergency arose just after the blackout on Monday evening when the Oakland fire company learned that E. C. Clatterbuck, of Deer Park, had suffered a heart attack at his home.

Members of the fire company took their rescue equipment to the town, rendered first aid and used the department inhalator in supplying oxygen to the man. He was then transported to the local hospital in the Belden ambulance where he remains a patient. His condition is much improved.

15,000 Folders Will Publicize Area As Mt. Top Playground

Fifteen thousand folders in color, publicizing Maryland's Mountain Top playground, were recently printed by the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council.

They have been placed with the State Department of Information and with other information and travel centers to let tourists know what is offered in this area. On the front is Muddy Creek Falls, while other color photos show Swallow Falls, Deep Creek Lake scenes with sail and motor boating, fishing, aquaplaning, an overall view of Oakland, a map of the county, showing recreation spots, and other scenes.

The folder boosts the county as a vacationer's paradise in all seasons, but emphasizes the summer season around Deep Creek lake.

The folder was financed by contributions by business places around Oakland and Deep Creek and other parts of the county.

Dedication Service For Cherry Grove Church Set For 27th

Dedication service for the new Cherry Grove Church of the Brethren will be held Sunday, June 27 at 2 p. m., DST. This new building was erected during the period from March 1953 until June 1954. The old building was built in 1865 and stood two miles south of Avilton, Md. This building was torn down to furnish lumber for the frame work.

John Merrill and Eleanor Merrill, his wife, and Elis Weitzell were the pioneer members who settled near, and started this church in 1841, which was organized into a congregation in 1847. The Cherry Grove Church was the first one to be established in Western Maryland. The congregation was built by ministers from adjoining districts. Then local talent ministered who were David Merrill, Daniel Wampler, Jonathan Kelso, Nathaniel Merrill and Jesse Robeson. David Merrill was resident elder for thirty-nine years.

In 1924 the church called Bro. Paul Longenecker as its first summer pastor. From 1925 to 1928 Bro. Robert Haney and wife served as part-time pastor and taught in the community schools. They were followed by Bro. Bernard King, who served for two years. Many others labored faithfully, including Elder Arthur Scrogum, who has been Elder since 1929, John Grim, James DeVault and Saylor Wampler. Present pastor is Bro. Daniel Whitacre, a recent graduate of Juniata College, and the first pastor to work with the congregation in the new building.

The new building is brick veneer. The brick work was done by John Hershberger, contractor of Grantsville. The carpentry work was in charge of John Beiler, with all the members donating time and materials.

This building located just off Route 40, on the Avilton Road, measures 28x40 feet and will have a seating capacity of 130. It is now completed with a full basement, rest rooms and forced air heat. New pews were installed.

The Elder, Rev. Arthur Scrogum, will be the principal speaker for this dedication service, with other Brethren churches of the Western District of Maryland taking part.

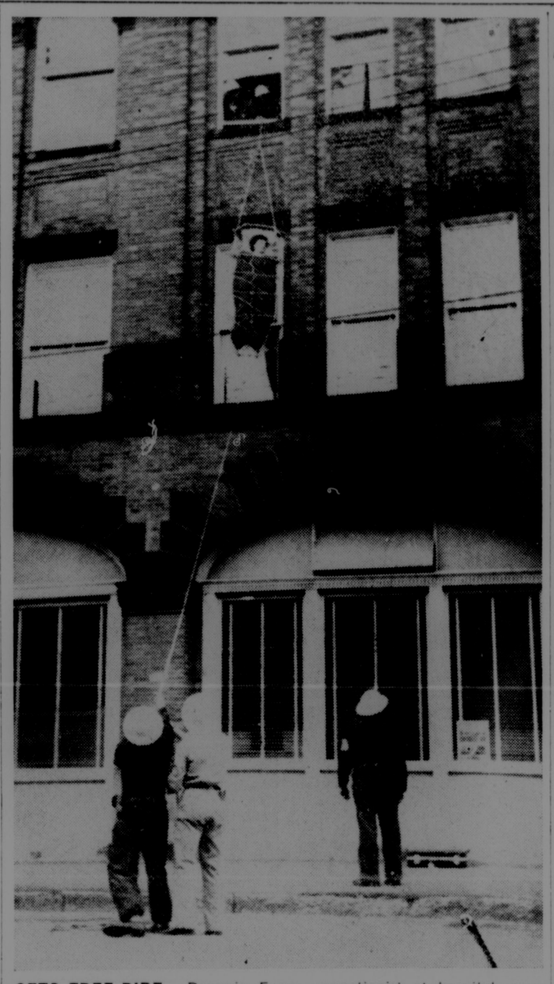
Local Bible School To Conclude Friday

The Daily Vacation Bible school conducted for the past two weeks in St. Paul's Methodist church in Oakland, will be concluded on Friday morning.

The closing program will be presented at 10:30 o'clock, following the first class period. Children are to meet in the church for the showing of a picture entitled "When Jesus was a Boy." Certificates are to be presented for faithful attendance and work. At the close of this part of the morning program the boys and girls will return to their departments for a treat and the exhibition of their hand work.

Parents and friends of the children are invited to come at 10:30 a. m. for the program.

Considered one of the most successful vacation Bible schools held in recent years, it was sponsored by St. Mark's Lutheran church, The Church of the Nazarene and St. Paul's Methodist church, and was open to all children of the community.



GETS FREE RIDE—Deannie Evans, receptionist at hospital, was the "guinea pig" for the Mine Rescue squad of Kitzmiller during the air raid alert Monday in Oakland. Deannie was lowered by litter basket from the third floor of the First National Bank building, after supposedly becoming a casualty from a bomb strike. After reaching the street she was given oxygen by use of the inhalator and taken to the local hospital for further treatment. That her treatment was carried to completion is shown in another photograph on page three. Staff Photo.

Red Cross Seeks 140 Pints Of Blood To Fulfill Quota

Regular Visit Of Bloodmobile To Be Made In Oakland Next Wednesday

An urgent appeal to contribute blood to the American Red Cross went out this week from Mrs. Grover C. Stemple, blood recruitment chairman.

The Red Cross is seeking 140 pints when the bloodmobile unit comes to Oakland next Wednesday, June 23, from 12 o'clock noon until 6 o'clock p. m.

The usual schedule will be followed. The bloodmobile will be at the Oakland fire hall where local committees will be in charge of various activities. Four women from the recent Red Cross nursing classes will assist the regular nurses this time. Another committee will prepare dinner for the Red Cross staff coming from Johnstown and also will furnish sandwiches and coffee to those who give blood. Another group of local women of the Red Cross organization will keep the records and be in charge of registrations.

Mrs. Stemple declared that the health and even the life of numbers of people will depend on this community filling the 140 pint bottles with blood.

"When blood is needed, minutes may mean the difference between life and death. To make sure your community hospital has blood if a member of your family or some other family requires quick transfusion, give blood regularly."

Mrs. Stemple pointed out that it is known that every healthy man or woman can safely donate blood five times a year, and added that giving blood regularly was quick and easy.

Nobody pays for blood collected under the Red Cross National blood program, the only cost to the recipient being a laboratory charge for the typing and cross matching of the patient's blood with that of the same type from the blood bank. Mrs. Stemple made this clear since a Baltimore hospital recently sent to a family a bill for $750 for fifteen pints of blood used in an accident case.

Letters were sent out last week by Mrs. Stemple to patients who had received blood from the hospital here, asking that friends and relatives make up the deficiency by offering their blood for some other person who becomes ill and needs it.

Air Raid Alert Is Carried Out With Real Vim

Shows Most Of County Would Be Prepared In Case Of Emergency

Actually, the air raid alert on Monday evening was just play and all for fun, but the manner in which every organization participated proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that in the event of the real thing Oakland and other parts of the county would be prepared to carry out their appointed tasks.

"Operation Alert," was a nationwide civil defense drill and there wasn't a small town anywhere in Maryland that functioned better than Oakland, according to reports received from the State headquarters.

Plans for the alert in Oakland had been made weeks in advance by Rev. John J. Atwell, Oakland's Civil Defense director, and after it was all over John S. Elliott, county director, who observed, said there was one hundred percent participation.

Here's the way the different groups worked throughout the fifteen-minute period of the alert.

As soon as the siren blew at 8 o'clock, all traffic was stopped except a few authorized cars and people were ordered to take cover. National guardsmen patrolled the streets and served as traffic guards. They set up radio walkie-talkies at the fire house and the hospital.

Several simulated events took place. A "fire" occurred at the town lot just off Second street and the Oakland department answered the alarm. A casualty from the fire was taken to a casualty station set up in the fire hall and manned by members of the Red Cross home nursing classes and other registered nurses.

Wheat Acreage Allotments for 1955 Crop Are Probable

Although no official announcement has yet been made the present large supply of wheat indicates that acreage allotments are almost certain to be required for the 1955 crop, it was announced by H. Robert DeWitt, chairman of the County ASC Committee. In view of this preparations are now being made to establish allotments for the wheat farms in this county.

If allotments are required one will be established for all farms that are known to have produced wheat during any one of the years 1952, 1953 and 1954. Allotments will not be established for other farms except upon request. Farms on which no wheat was produced during any of these years but on which wheat will be planted for harvest in 1955 are termed "new wheat farms." June 30, 1954, has been established as the final date on which allotments may be requested for "new wheat farms." All farmers in this group are urged to contact the County ASC office at Oakland and file a request for an allotment before this date.

It is important that an allotment be established for each farm on which wheat will be seeded for harvest in 1955, Mr. DeWitt stated. Under the present law, if marketing quotas are again voted in by wheat farmers, persons who plant more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest as grain without an allotment large enough to cover their planted acreage will be required to pay a penalty on the excess wheat. If more than 15 acres of wheat were planted on a farm for which no allotment was established the entire wheat crop would be considered excess. At present, acreage allotments apply to all wheat to be harvested as grain, irregardless of what the wheat is to be used for and also to mixtures of wheat and other small grains.

---AND A GOOD TIP FOR YOU

Which is only natural. Popularity like that means success.

We know, because for years Buick has held such an envied position—the unquestioned sales leader in its class. And with good reasons in styling, room, power, value.

But today, folks like you have pushed Buick success even beyond such bounds.

Today, the top sales standings of a full generation have been changed.

Today, latest sales figures for the first four months of 1954 reveal this phenomenal fact:

In total national volume, regardless of price class, Buick is outselling all cars in America except two of the so-called "low-price three."

That's a tip too good to pass up.

That's the tip-off that Buick must have the hottest styling of the times and the sweetest performance of the year.

More important, that's the tip-off that Buick prices are well within the reach of more and more people—and that such prices buy a lot more automobile per dollar.

So why not look into the tomorrow-styled Buick that puts you so far ahead today?

Come in, or phone us this week for a demonstration. Then you can judge for yourself that Buick really is the beautiful buy—by far.

Buick Sales are Soaring!

Air Raid Alert Is Carried Out

one of their number from a bombed building and transported him to the hospital where hospital nurses were prepared to receive emergency cases. The hospital also carried out a fire drill and had the kitchen prepared to feed 50 extra people. The auxiliary gas generator was switched on that is used when electricity fails.

The Mine Rescue team from Kitzmiller carried out a project at the First National Bank corner, lowering Deannie Evans in a litter basket from the third floor of the building and transporting her to the hospital for further treatment. The forestry department brought in two patients to the casualty station as it carried through a fire project.

Rev. Atwell said that all deputies were alerted at their homes during the fifteen-minute period and that during that time the Sanders Motor Freight, the American Red Cross, all utility companies, were alerted and were ready for action. The Telephone company had a fire drill of its own at its Oakland office.

The Welfare board was prepared to take care of registration of refugees.

The sheriff and deputy and town police were made available for traffic or other duty. Two doctors, two pharmacists and the local press were alerted.

A gasoline truck made a trial run from East Oakland to a gas station on Liberty street and went from there to the hospital.

The effect of the alert was observed by Rev. Atwell at various parts of the town and at his headquarters in the fire hall. Assisting him were Merritt Feather, administration officer, and Merrill Cargo, officer of the Ground Observer corps. Frank Powers, superintendent of the Bureau of Mines, and John Elliott, county director, also observed the extent of participation. Taxis were made available for the officers for emergency use.

Atwell also noted that a previous survey had shown that Oakland homes were ready to receive 1,200 refugees. He expressed himself as extremely well pleased with the spirit of cooperation he had received from all agencies and from the citizens of the town. He noted only one traffic violation and eight minor violations during the entire period.

Others Take Part

The county director noted that Grantsville, Bloomington and Deer Park also had 100 percent participation. Kitzmiller was also given credit for complete participation with its rescue squad performing in Oakland and the balance of the area having conducted its own civil defense day recently when the new defense building was dedicated.

Bloomington joined with the Tri-Towns area, and Grantsville and Deer Park carried out projects of their own. Mt. Lake Boy Scouts had a first aid drill, Elliott said Friendsville and Accident did not participate. The entire county had about an 80 percent participation in the nation-wide alert.

The all-clear signal was given at 8:15 and normal traffic was resumed almost immediately. Leaders met to discuss the results.

Missionary Society Meets

Mrs. Jonas Beachy led the topic, "One World in Christ—World Council of Churches." The aims of the lesson were: 1. To look back through the Doorway of History and catch a glimpse of the decumenical movement. 2. To stand on the threshold of the Doorway of Today and see the World Council of Churches in operation. 3. To cross the threshold and start toward tomorrow and Evanston (the meeting place for the next assembly of the World Council of Churches).

The business meeting was in charge of the vice president, Mrs. Ralph Buckel. There was the quarterly ingathering of the Thank-offering. A proposed budget of $500 was accepted by the society. Mrs. Russell Klotz reported that plans for Bible School have been made. A contribution was sent to Twin Bridges, Montana, to aid their "Church of the Valley."

Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty gave a report on the West Virginia Synodical Missionary Convention.

NOTICE!

There seem to be a few individuals known wet who are pretending to be my supporters, who are spreading a story around that they are supporting me because I have promised them a liquor bill.

This is a diabolical lie. I believe that they may be using this scheme to defeat me and secure the nomination of a weaker candidate in order that they may be able to elect a Democrat to the State Senate.

Proposes Candidates Oppose Any New Liquor Legislation

The Republican
Dear Sir:

I would like to take this way to urge each voter to make an effort to familiarize himself, or herself, with the character and capabilities of each candidate for the office he seeks. I feel it is especially important this year for all of us, who are opposed to legalizing the sale of liquor in Garrett County, to know how each candidate stands on this issue. Realizing how difficult it is for many citizens to interview all the candidates and for them in turn to contact all the voters, I would like to make the following offer:

I will furnish the space in the Republican, next issue, for the following statement and room for each candidate to list his name in support of it. IN THE INTEREST OF CLEAN GOVERNMENT, GOOD MORALS, PROSPERITY, AND THE SUPPORT OF THE CHRISTIAN WAY OF LIFE FOR THE CITIZENS OF GARRETT COUNTY, I HEREBY PLEDGE THAT I WILL OPPOSE LEGALIZING THE SALE OF LIQUOR AND WILL SUPPORT THE OFFICERS OF THE COUNTY IN ENFORCING THE LAWS.

To be sure all candidates for Senate, House of Delegates and County Commissioner will be informed of the above offer a copy of this letter will be mailed to each.

Sincerely yours,
W. Blair Simmons

The Great Double Cross

That the labor bosses (particularly of the CIO) have achieved such control of the Democratic party that it cannot nominate its candidates for either President or Vice President without labor boss approval has been stated a good many times. The most recent is in the autobiography of former Vice President Barkley just ended in a national magazine and soon to emerge in book form. Never before have the facts been laid on the line so concretely and convincingly by so high a ranking Democrat.

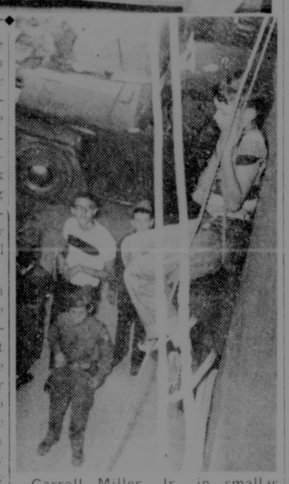
For twenty years this situation has been deeply deplored by Democrats who understood it and hated to see the party to which they belong dictated to by men whose chief purpose is to serve their own interests and for whose character and brains they have neither respect nor regard. The facts have not been driven home to the people as a whole for two reasons—first, because the Democrats shrink from the degradation of conceding them; the second, because the Republicans, always angling for labor support, shrink from being branded as the anti-labor party.

The stupidity of this in both parties is clear. Not only are the labor bosses unshakably Democratic but it has been shown that they by no means can deliver the rank and file of organized labor at the polls. Upon at least two striking occasions when they were completely unified in opposition they have been overwhelmingly beaten. Mr. Barkley's story of how his 1952 candidacy for the presidency was scuttled by Mr. Truman and the labor bosses, all of whom had committed themselves to support him, ought to be understood by all who do not like the idea of a labor-dominated President and a labor-controlled party. "I arrived in Chicago for the 1952 convention," wrote Mr. Barkley, "with the assurances of party leaders from President Truman down that Adlai Stevenson would not take the nomination and I would be the convention's choice. Governor Stevenson had repeatedly insisted he did not want the job, and Jake Avery, the Illinois committeeman, had told me he thought it could be arranged for Stevenson to nominate me." Then Mr. Barkley proceeds to tell what happened to him. Before he left Washington he had talked with Mr. Truman; Mr. William Green, of the AFL, and Mr. Philip Murray, of the CIO. All three personally assured him of support. Mr. Truman was particularly cordial. Mr. Murray said, "You can count on us 100 per cent." Mr. Green said, "We will do everything we can for you." Mr. Barkley arrived in Chicago a confident and happy man.

The next day—Sunday—news came to him that a group of labor bosses, including Jack Kroll, director of the CIO's Political Action Committee; Joe Keenan, head of the AFL's League for Political Education; George Harrison, AFL vice president; Walter Reuther, who later succeeded Philip Murray as CIO president, had given out a statement that "organized labor could not support me. That same afternoon Kroll and Harrison telephoned the White House. They have since disclosed they passed the word to President Truman that labor would not support me." "This," wrote Mr. Barkley, "put the kiss of death to my candidacy." The next day Mr. Barkley had a number of these bosses to breakfast at his hotel but, while they agreed he had been a friend of union labor all his life, he could not shake their verdict. Realizing the finality of their attitude, Mr. Barkley issued a statement that afternoon withdrawing as a candidate, in which he said, "I have learned that certain self-anointed political labor leaders have announced their opposition to me as a Democratic nominee for President. They have admitted to me that weeks ago they committed themselves to a program and candidates other than myself which would give them greater control of the machinery and policies of the Democratic party."

Next day, the labor bosses swung to Mr. Stevenson—and so did Mr. Truman. Mr. Barkley showed no bitterness, made a stirring speech for Mr. Stevenson and, of course, supported him. But if ever a man was treated shabbily it was he, and if ever a President yielded to pressure after giving his word it was Mr. Truman. Most of this has been stated before. But Mr. Barkley's added facts have made the labor dominance of his party clearer. Altogether it is an ugly story, but certainly after this recital no one can longer doubt that the Democratic party has been completely taken over by the labor bosses and that its leaders are completely subservient to them. If they get fully to understand the facts it is pretty sure that more Democrats than revolted in 1952 again will revolt against this kind of party control which still exists and which certainly would have been strengthened if the very supliant Mr. Stevenson had been elected.

"Casualty" Slated For Hospital



Carroll Miller, Jr., in smaller picture, is let down in approved style from the second floor of the City Hall after becoming a "casualty" in the air raid drill Monday. After being lowered to the street he was given first aid and bundled in Scoutmaster Ralph Fauber's Jeep where he was taken to the local hospital for further treatment. Riding along in the Jeep were, left to right, Billy Moore, Bruce Swift and Dick Nace. Staff Photo.

THE AMERICAN WAY

By GEORGE PECK
Chairman of the Board of the National Labor-Management Foundation and Executive Editor of its official publication, PARTNERS.

What the citizens of different nations have been able to accumulate by and for themselves and to store away against a rainy day, is a mighty good barometer of their comparative standards of living.

At the outbreak of World War II, here is how Uncle Sam's nephews and nieces stood on life insurance holdings in comparison with the peoples of the leading totalitarian countries of that time. Life insurance per captia was as follows:

As to deposits in savings banks per capita, at the start of World War II, the United States was also very far in the lead, as the following statistics demonstrate:

United States, $578; Germany, $114; Japan, $37; Italy, $62; Russia, no figures available.

Another indication of America's overwhelming superiority is that the average American regards so many things as commonplaces that the peoples of Fascist and Communist countries consider luxuries, because in these latter nations they are only available to the very wealthy. For example, millions of American workingmen own automobiles, a thing unheard of in totalitarian countries. At the outbreak of World War II, for every 1 million population, there were the following automobile owners:

For Russia, even then behind the Iron Curtain, no figures were available, but it is common knowledge that workers in the Soviet Union, now as then, do not own automobiles. Only a few of the top Russian bureaucrats possess a car which the average American considers part and parcel of his way of life.

One could go on and on comparing ownership of refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, radio sets, television sets, in fact, with practically all of the semi-luxuries and luxuries. The fact is that we Americans possess so many more of all these things than do the peoples in dictator-ridden countries.

Surely, we should thank Almighty God for these many blessings and earnestly pray that He continue to shower these beneficences upon us—these boons which have given us the highest standard of living ever achieved by any nation at any time in world history.

But, we must do more than be thankful and to pray that Divine Providence will continue to favor us. Benjamin Franklin said, "The Lord helps them that help themselves." Our thanks and prayers must be accompanied by action, because a diabolical world-wide conspiracy is working day and night to take these good things of life away from us.

We must back up the Congressional committees that are doing their level best in the face of many obstacles to root out of our Government, our schools, our churches and our theatres, all of the spies and saboteurs of that world-wide conspiracy that are now carrying on their nefarious plotting within the borders of this nation.

And most certainly we ourselves should do nothing to endanger the continued possession of our blessings—by all means, we must guard and preserve our American Capitalistic System of Private Competitive Enterprise, which with God's help, has given these great boons to the American people.

The foregoing are the things we must and must not do if America is to maintain its overwhelming superiority.

Northern High Wins

Umbel was followed closely by Richard Bernard, Leo Custer, John Beachy, Lawrence Wolfe, Charles Mason and Robert Terrant, all of Southern, who also shared in the prize money. Others who competed were Forrest Jacobs and Hugh Friend, Northern; and Monte Wilson, Southern. High scorers from each school will compete next week in the state contest.

Judges at last Wednesday's events were Howard White, manager of the Carnation company, and J. Thomas Cain, manager of the West Maryland Power company.

In the tabulation of prize money distribution, Northern High students have received $41, and Southern High students $39. Prizes were given on a basis of $3 for first, $2 for second and $1 for other placings, except the public speaking contest which was $9 for first and $6 for second. Forty boys from the two schools have won prize money in the seven contests with Max Bowser winning -11 in two events.

Trucker Dies, Child Injured in Accident

A Florida tractor-trailer driver was killed and a small child was seriously injured in a four-vehicle highway crash Tuesday morning on U.S. Route 40, about three miles east of Farmington, Pa. Property damage amounted to approximately $17,000.

Authorities listed the victim as Gordon Lee McLamb, Seminole, Fla. He was driving a truck loaded with bathroom fixtures.

Taken to Uniontown hospital in serious condition was Ronald Maston Myers, aged 1½ years, who resides near Farmington. He suffered a fracture of the skull, lacerations of the scalp and was in shock when taken to the hospital.

The accident occurred when a Grantsville area tractor-trailer, driven by John Arthur Menges, pulled over to the left of the highway to avoid hitting the child who was walking along the road.

His truck, headed west, was loaded with fire brick from the Big Savage Refractories in Mt. Savage. McLamb, driving east on route 40, hit the truck operated by Menges, continued on his way to sideswipe a parked truck and travel into nearby private property.

McLamb, according to police, fell from the cab of his truck and struck his head on the bed of the parked truck. He died instantly. McLamb's truck struck the Myers child who was also apparently struck by some of the bricks from the Menges truck. Another vehicle involved was an empty truck driven by Stanton Eugene Humberson, of Grantsville.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

The Sugar Was on the House

A friend of mine was a witness to this and she has no tongue for exaggeration.

She was having breakfast in a hotel the other day and overheard the order of the couple who sat at the table next to her.

"Two cups of coffee and two bowls," they said briefly and the waitress soon returned with them.

Then my friend saw a strange thing to be taking place in a hotel dining room. The couple opened a paper sack, took out a bottle of milk and box of cereal and proceeded to prepare their own breakfast—using the sugar that was on the house.

The Last Straw

"That's nothing," remarked a listener to the above story, "I can go you one better than that."

"A fellow took his girl to the drug store and ordered two glasses of water and two straws. Then he took a lemon out of his pocket, cut it in two, squeezed half in her glass, the other in his. He was generous with the sugar that was on the table."

That's what you could call something different on a date— or the younger set might say, "yes, but too much of a lemon."

—o—

I'm sure that neither of the above got the look from the waitress that I got one day this week. I was in Morgantown and it was almost too hot to breathe. So I dashed into a drug store for a cooler-offer and was delighted that buttermilk was spelled out across a mirror.

Now anyone a generation back would agree that it's the most cooling of all drinks—as refreshing as a spring house or Little Tolliver on a sweltering day—and hardly a calorie in it.

Hastily I took a drink and enthused out loud, "Uh,—better than a coke." But I caught the horrible expression on the girl's face as she replied, minus enthusiasm, "Is it?"

—o—

A Lost Cause

I came face to face with inheritance when we got into cleaning the garage. Well do I remember how my father and mother differed on getting rid of junk.

He was always threatening—"Some day I'm going to hitch up the team and haul a load of this stuff away." And he did. He chose a day when Mama was away.

The "cellar house" was the catch all—though its original purpose was to store cured meat. But there was ample room for the spinning wheel, the reel, picture frames, some horrible late Victorian furniture with green plush upholstery, and a lot of other things that are listed in sale bills "too numerous to mention."

Well, he got rid of the "too numerous to mention" and all the other things he could junk.

The day we cleaned the garage I overheard my sons say to their father, "It's a lost cause. We'd throw away the shuffle board discs and she'd go right over and pull them out and she'd say, 'that's wood. That will make kindling—or we might use those for flower pot bases, if they had a coat of varnish'—and then where do you think she put them? Right back on the window sill.

"Or we'd pick up something else and she'd say 'Oh, don't throw that away. It's walnut!'

"Or take that finger paint set—dried out and useless. But she'd say, 'we could clean out those jars and use them for jelly. They'd maks awfully nice give-aways if they had jelly in them'—and back they'd go.

"All we've done is reshift the junk. We carried it out of the cellar to get rid of it—now we're carrying it back to get rid of it. What we ought to do when she goes away—is just load it up and haul it to the dump."

If they only knew—that on the subject of junk—all my life I've wished that I had taken after my father.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Scripture: Hosea 4:6—7:16.
Devotional Reading: Hosea 11:1-4ab; 14:1-4.

What God Wants

Lesson for June 20, 1954

WHAT does God want? It is the most important question anyone can ask. There are religions that answer in one word: Nothing. He goes his serene way uncaring what we do. But the Christian religion, and the Jewish religion before us, believe that the prophets of the Bible were true prophets. They did really know the mind of God. And those prophets one and all—and for that matter every writer of every part of the Bible—teach that God does care, he does want something of us.

Dr. Foreman

A Great Word

The prophet Hosea preached in a very "religious" era. At least, that is what his fellow citizens may have thought. There were temples crowded with worshippers, there were treasuries piled high with tithes and offerings. The smoke of burning animals consumed as sacrifices to the Most High God could be seen rising above every important city, especially in Jerusalem and Bethel, "religious capitals" of the little countries of Judah and Israel. What the contemporaries of Hosea thought God wanted was public worship, rites and ceremonies, attendance at the temple, plenty of animals for sacrifice. Hosea knew better. In memorably simple words he says, speaking for God, "I desire . . ." At this point our English translators of the Hebrew Old Testament—it should never be forgotten that no part of the original Bible was written in English—our translators run into trouble. The Hebrew word Hosea used at this point is "chesed" (pronounced rather like "hesseth") and it is interesting to see how many different words are used in our English Bibles to translate this one Hebrew word. It is called "goodness" (as in Psalm 33:5, Hosea 6:4); "kindness" (as in Gen. 20:13; Neh. 9:17); "pity" in Job 6:14; "mercy" (as in Ps. 100:5 and Hosea 4:1); "loving kindness (as in Psalm 103:4; Hosea 2:19). All these are in the old King James Bible. More recent translators have used still other words. Every student of the Hebrew Bible knows that we have here one of those great words that is bigger than any word used to translate or explain it. The translators of the Revised Standard Version have used for the most part the expression "steadfast love" to express the deep meaning of this word.

What God Wants Most

Hosea told his people, and he tells us, that what God wants most of all is this great thing which is more than mercy, more than kindness, something that can best be expressed in the two words "steadfast love." Not sacrifice and burnt offerings, as it used to be thought; not anything else we can think of. Just steadfast love. Then Hosea puts with this and beside it something else: "the knowledge of God." This does not mean theology out of a book. The Hebrew word for "knowledge" never meant simply information about facts. A person could memorize all the facts about a President of the United States and still not really know him. Knowledge in the Bible sense of that word is a deeper thing, it is to enter intimately into the understanding of a person, to know him as it were from within. God wants of us today, as he did and does always, more than anything else, that our lives may show "steadfast love" which reflects his own.

Nothing Else Will Do

We hear a lot in America about "Back to Religion" or "Back to Church," but a good deal of this comes from people who have a kind of vague idea that if the churches were only full every Sunday God would reward our fine record of church attendance with bumper crops and prosperity in general. Hosea would smile a sad smile at such an idea. It was exactly the kind of idea his wrong-headed people had. It was not that God did not want sacrifices at all; but they were no substitute for what God really desired most of all. So with us. Church-going, occasional bursts of reform, "cracking down" on gamblers now and then, more beautiful worship services, bigger and handsomer churches—none of this can be America's substitute, or Americans' substitute, for steadfast love and the knowledge of God. He wants it. Do we?

Air Spotting of Oak Wilt Under Way

District Forester William H. Johnson, accompanied by W. E. Zebley, pilot from Martinsburg, W. Va., were scheduled to fly over three Western Maryland counties this week to look for outbreaks of oak wilt.

They were planning to spend three or four days in the air over these counties in the next two weeks.

Flights already have taken place over Frederick and eastern Washington counties where two areas on Sugarloaf mountain looked "suspicious."

Another foe of the area oak tree is the fall canker worm which has caused the defoliation of many oak trees in this county. The larva cycle is only about six weeks and it is expected that the trees will grow a new set of leaves this summer. For some that will be the third set this year. A freeze in the county killed leaves early this spring. The canker worms are now killing a second set.

A spray of arsenate of lead will get rid of the canker worms, the district forester advised.

To Attend Convention

Oakland will be represented by a delegation of seven at the district convention of Jehovah's Witnesses at Cincinnati, which will open June 24. John W. Weber announced that the group would travel by car and train to join some 15,000 others from twenty states for the four-day convention.

The Passing Scene by Lepper

"It's getting to be kind of a little game with Fred—so far, he's been hit by Connecticut, Vermont, New York and Oklahoma drivers!"

Surprise Party Held

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hahn and daughter Sandra, Mrs. Walter Hardesty, Dan Miller, Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Strawser and daughters, of Terra Alta; Mr. and Mrs. Edgel Screno and family, Hutton; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Thrasher, Mr. and Mrs. B. Scouts Get Building

Since the town officials moved to their quarters in the bowling alley building, speculation has been rife as to just what would be done with the old quarters. It was decided that the building be sold or torn down and the lot also sold. However, when the council met on Friday night, June 11, a new factor came into the picture. There appeared before them two Scouts from Mt. Lake Troop 70, William Murphy and Wayne Callis. They came with a request that the troop be permitted to use the building as its headquarters. In their talk they agreed to completely paint the building, clean up the grounds and to keep same in first class condition.

The Mayor and Council not only granted the Scouts the use of the building, but promised to supply the paint.

Another summer project which is meeting with the approval of all Park residents is keeping the honor roll grounds in good shape and flying the American flag there every day.

The boys are in need of paint brushes, old or new, and are hoping that anyone having brushes they have discarded will turn them over to the troop.

Scout meetings are every Thursday evening from 7:00 to 9:00

Candidates Announce

FOR STATE SENATOR

To the Citizens of Garrett County:

I am a candidate for the office of State Senator from Garrett County.

I have been a resident of Garrett County for the past forty-three years. I was County Treasurer from 1947 through 1950 and have served in the House of Delegates during the years 1927 through 1930, in 1945 and 1946 and in 1951 up until the present time. In the Sessions of 1952, 1953 and 1954 I was elected Minority Leader by the Republican members of the House. As such, I was a member of the Rules Committee, the Ways and Means and of the Legislative Council. The information and knowledge I will gather at the Council meetings this year will be of great value to our County and State if I am elected to this office.

I feel that my background as a farmer, a veteran of World War I, a merchant, an employee of the Board of Education (all of which I have been in the past) together with my experience as County Treasurer and as a member in the House of Delegates for seven regular and three special sessions fit me for this office.

I make no idle campaign promises, but, if elected, I pledge to follow the same policies and serve my County and my State in the same manner as in the past. I will give careful and thoughtful consideration to any suggestions and will earnestly endeavor, at all times, to keep myself worthy of the confidence placed in me by the Citizens of Garrett County.

Some Things I Favor

I favor industry for Garrett County. The people in our county, as in all other counties, are eager and anxious to have industry locate plants here. To promote this I think an appropriate committee consisting of individuals from the various sections of our county should be selected to work in cooperation with our County Commissioners, officials of our incorporated towns, Chambers of Commerce and other interested persons who feel that something should be done in this connection. If elected Senator I shall be pleased, as in the past, to cooperate in every way possible to bring payrolls to Garrett County.

I favor better and safer highways. I have worked for and supported Governor McKeldin's twelve-year road program to give them to Maryland.

I favor increased recreational facilities for Garrett County, in order that we may provide vacational opportunities for the people of our county and State and for those from other states, which will in turn bring more people and more money into our county.

I favor the best educational facilities possible for the boys and girls of our county. Our future lies in our boys and girls and for too long a time they were deprived of advantages which others in our State enjoyed. I think we should protect that future by giving our children the best schooling in the best schools that we can financially afford.

I favor lower taxes whenever this can be accomplished without impairing necessary services to our people. I am on record as one of the sponsors of a resolution for the purpose of an investigation of mandatory services and expenditures of the various State departments to determine whether taxes can be reduced. If amendments or repeal of our present laws are deemed necessary to get more for our tax dollars I shall favor and work for such legislation.

Our county has a unique record and I want to do everything possible to help make it cleaner and stronger. From May, 1952, to May, 1953, our daily average number of jail prisoners was two; and from May, 1953, to May, 1954, the daily average was less than one-half prisoner. I do not believe that this can be equalled in any other part of our State. At the same time our number of juvenile cases has been very low. THEREFORE, I AM OPPOSED TO THE LEGALIZED SALE OF WHISKEY IN OUR COUNTY IN ORDER THAT THIS SPLENDID RECORD CAN BE MAINTAINED.

I believe in Garrett County. I think we have one of the best Counties in our State, and through constructive thought and coordinated effort we can go forward to an even better, greater and more prosperous land in which to live.

These are some of the things I favor and in which I believe. I think the citizens of our county are entitled to know this, hence this article. I will appreciate the vote of all our citizens who feel as I do about these matters. The Republican Primary is on June 28th. Let us all vote. It is our duty as well as our privilege.

NOTICE
To The Taxpayers And Voters Of Garrett County

There has been a rumor circulating that if I am elected Commissioner of Garrett County I was going to build myself a road, with County funds, along shore of Deep Creek Lake where I and my wife own property.

I wish to correct this rumor, as I have no intentions of using public money to develop the property, but I do expect to develop the property, regardless, with my own money in the near future.

AUBREY C. BRENNEMAN

—Political Advertisement Authorized By The Candidate.

TO OUR CITIZENS:

From 1934 through 1942 I served the people of our county in the State Senate.

During that time our people were not molested nor threatened with any ill considered, hasty or extravagant legislation. There was a steady and consistent pressure in the interest of economy. Our county taxes were reduced. Bills that would have placed heavy burdens upon our county were opposed and defeated. No new laws were legislated in order to make jobs for myself or my friends.

I opposed and defeated all attempts to include Garrett County in Bills to legalize hard liquor, and will do so again. Our people need have no fear that I would go to Annapolis and legislate hard liquor back into the county, now.

Among the local laws sponsored by me will be found the law that took the maintenance of our county roads away from the State and turned them back to our county, with the provision for the payment of the county's share of the Gasoline tax to our County Commissioners to be expended by them on our county roads. Another law is the one dividing the county into three County Commissioner Districts in order to make sure that our commissioners will represent all sections of the county, thus assuring a more equitable distribution of the county roads funds. Another law provided for the construction of a school building at North Glade. Improvements and additions to school buildings were provided for at Accident, Grantsville, and other points in the county. I supported the educational programs in our county and state on a pay as you go basis, and will do so again. I refused to support bond issues for our county unless there was provision on same for a vote by our people, for any purpose, and will do so again.

If I go to the Senate again I will work for economy in our state and county governments. There is a very definite limit to the things that your Senator can do to enforce economy, but his opportunities for harm are almost unlimited. If he is a man who can be induced to support extravagant spending programs he can defeat every attempt by county officials to economize, and he can create new obligations that have to be met by the taxpayers.

During the past several years our taxpayers have been the forgotten people of our county. Therefore, it will be my desire, more than anything else, to represent the farmers, small business men and working men. Taxes have gone up, while the earnings of our people have gone down. In view of the heavy burdens that our county has incurred we are confronted with a necessity to increase the average income of our citizens. Many of our good people are unemployed. Our great need is for jobs. We need to try to attract factory pay rolls by preparing a favorable political climate. This is not so much a matter for legislation as for determination. We need first, to do the things that are necessary in order to get on a competitive basis with other communities that are also trying to attract business. We must offer tax concessions to prospective employers of twenty-five men or over, and even more than that, we must have the WILL to compete. We have retired business executives now living here, who have the "know-how" and the connections, that have offered their personal aid and assistance in helping to secure various types of suitable industries for our county, if we will put our house in order. If we really hope to get business here we must see to it that our tax policies are changed. So long as we pounce upon every new industry with a high tax bill, even before it gets into operation, we will not be able to attract industry, no matter how much idle labor we may have.

As I see it now, the kind of representation our county needs is the kind that will keep the tax collector from strangling business, in order to stimulate and promote industry, and create jobs for our citizens.

BY GEORGE S. BENSON

President of Harding College

Herbert Philbrick, who was for nine years an FBI counterspy working intimately with leading American Communists, was an overnight guest in my home recently. To illustrate the nature of the Communists' subversive work, he tells the story of a shipment of sardines to our east coast from Russia.

The FBI sought to intercept the shipment. The sardines, in cans, were being thrown overboard by the ship's crew under the pretense they were spoiled. The FBI discovered that the cans floated, and that instead of sardines they contained little 24-page booklets printed in Spanish.

Philbrick has an actual photographic copy of one. The front cover states that the booklet contains the rules for playing the American game of football. But when you open the book you find that the first paragraph gives specific instructions for sabotaging electric power lines, transformers, central electrical headquarters, conduits, cables, turbines—complete and detailed instructions on techniques of espionage as well as of sabotage.

Under the guise of football rules, the instructions for sabotage are smuggled to the Communist conspirators in this country. In one section are specific instructions for making bombs. The big bomb which the booklet blueprints is powerful enough to stop a tank or a large vehicle. A smaller one is designed to stop a patrol car or a motorcycle policeman. There is a very small bomb designed to fit inside a hatband!

Here are the instructions, printed in Spanish: "If you have a citizen whom you wish to eliminate, you simply place one of these little bombs inside the band of his hat while he's at his favorite bar or restaurant. And when he goes to leave the restaurant and puts on his hat, he blows off the top of his head. It's very effective. He doesn't talk any more."

This information, together with the technical instructions for sabotaging America's industrial strength, was a part of the training in the deeply underground Communist cell into which Herbert Philbrick worked his way.

And the facts revealed by him now should arouse the American people from their apathy toward the Communist menace. Philbrick says that until our people do wake up and recognize the awful truth about Communism's growth and power, "we will continue to lose."

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

Each year the fishermen of Maryland harvest vast quantities of the finest crabs, oysters and fish, from the Chesapeake Bay, its tributaries, and the Atlantic Ocean, and we can be justly proud of the contribution this great Maryland industry makes to the prosperity of our State and to the health and stability of our national economy. Most certainly, the fishing industry, comprised largely of small companies and individuals, whose self-reliance without Government assistance in the form of subsidies or price supports, is one of our Nation's finest examples of the free enterprise system.

Yet, for causes beyond its control, this industry finds itself in an ever-worsening situation and faces the future, not with assurance, but with a deep sense of foreboding. The catches of many of the most popular species of fish, such as the salmon and the mackerel, have declined disastrously in recent years, and the yields of once profitable fishing grounds have vanished. The seeding of oysters has also decreased sharply in every section of the country, and there have been outbreaks of disease and parasitic attacks causing incalculable losses to all forms of fish life. Unless immediate action is taken to ascertain the causes of, and the cures for, these disasters, the ability of this great industry to supply continuously sufficient and vital quantities of sea foods, at reasonable prices, is open to serious question.

An extensive, comprehensive, integrated program of fishery research would seem to constitute the desired answer to these and many other complex problems. Senate Bill 2802, of which I am a co-sponsor, recently approved by the Senate and now being considered by the House of Representatives, would provide for the establishment of such a research program, to be financed from a portion of the custom duties collected on imported foreign fishery products. As I stated during the Senate debate on this bill:

"While agriculture and other industries have benefited from scientific and technological advances, only recently has the fisherman sought the knowledge of the marine biologist and other scientists. Fishing in many ways is still carried on by methods like those used hundreds of years ago. Many factors which, if known and understood, would contribute to the greater success of the operation, remain obscured among imponderables collectively referred to as "fisherman's luck."

If our great fishing industry is to keep abreast of our expanding economy of the future; indeed, if it is to even preserve and enhance its present position, its knowledge of the seas from which this wealth is taken must be expanded, and new processes and marketing techniques must be developed. It is my most earnest hope that Senate Bill 2802 will be speedily approved by the House of Representatives so that this essential research program, long overdue, may be initiated without further delay.

ONE WORD . . .

Can Change Your Life

By REV. ROBT. OLEWILER

Pastor, Grace Reformed Church

Washington, D. C.

Action

I hope you're not numbered among those misguided souls who believe individual and collective, or social, action are opposed to each other. They aren't. Both have the same goal: the welfare of persons. Furthermore, individual ends can be advanced by social means. Examples: A Community Chest, a Family Welfare society, a labor union, a city government.

There are times when social action is the only effective way to help individuals. A person can't protect himself against floods, epidemics, or bombs by acting alone. The individual's right to worship God as he chooses is largely an abstraction unless he joins with others in providing a church in which to worship. The right to educate himself isn't of much use to a man until action on the part of the community, which is social action, has put books and schools within his reach.

Don't be misled. There isn't any conflict at all between individual and social action, the word that can change your life.

Season to Begin June 25

The Little League season will open Friday afternoon, June 25, with a parade scheduled for 4:30. Games are to be played on the Little League diamond on the high school athletic field, just off the Dennett road. There will be a flag raising ceremony at the field.

Those in charge of the Little League announced that in an effort to raise the $400 still needed to cover all expenses the auxiliary members and other interested persons would offer for sale about 400 decals to paste on cars at $1 each, indicating that the purchaser is a booster for the Little League.

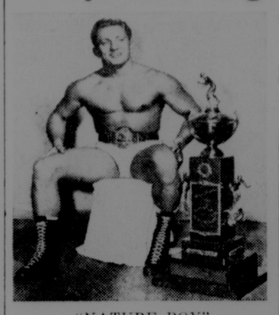
Mt. Top Chamber Of Commerce To Sponsor "Bigtime" Wrestling



"NATURE BOY"

"GREAT SCOTT"

Wrestling matches, to raise funds to further promote Garrett county as a recreational area, have been arranged by the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce, it has been announced. The first such matches will be held at the Deep Creek Speedway at McHenry, on Monday evening, July 12.

Characterized as "big time" wrestling, the first match will feature Buddy Rogers, known as wrestling's "Nature Boy," the world's uncrowned heavyweight champion; and "The Great Scott," of St. Andrew's, Scotland.

Rogers, called the king pin by many sports scribes, is considered the biggest drawing card in the game today. He hails from Camden, N. J., weighs 235 pounds, is over six feet tall and has held heavyweight championships such as "The Texas," "Rocky Mountain," "Pacific Coast, "Canada," "Eastern States," and also some fifteen other states and sections of the country.

Scott is a 225-pounder. He moves into the ring under swirling bagpipes. He says he knows wrestling science from toe hold to wristlock and can get in and pitch fists with the best of them when the occasion demands.

There will be other feature bouts on the program including two women wrestlers, Nell Stuart Lee and Chona LaClaire.

The matches will start at 8:30 p. m., DST. Ringside seats will cost $2.60 with general admission being $1.50.

July 12 will mark Scott's second title shot at Rogers in this area. Arrangements were made after Charles Briner, secretary of the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce, witnessed the title tiff between Rogers and Scott at Cumberland May 31.

Arrangements are being made to accommodate 1,200 patrons at the ringside for this show. There also will be 1,500 bleacher seats. Tickets are on sale at Englander's, the Music Shop, Carroll's Sport Shop.

Along The Potomac

With Your Congressman DeWITT S. HYDE

Crowded schools, heavy traffic and worn-out roads—these are a few of the things Marylanders must put up with because of the location of the nation's capital on our doorstep.

Last week I felt compelled to call the attention of the House to just one angle of the problem: A $70 million appropriation for aid to schools crowded because of federal employees swelling local communities will be a big help to our Congressional District. But our share is based only on the number of federal employees who work in Maryland.

The day is gone, of course, when Washington alone was the capital; in a sense, the entire surrounding area of Maryland and Virginia is very much part of it because of the streams of federal workers who live in the states and travel—some of them many miles—to and from their homes each morning and night.

It was my suggestion, therefore, that the Appropriations Committee make careful study of a different formula for aiding our crowded schools—a formula based at least partly on the number of federal employees who live in our communities, rather than actually working in them.

An economic bright spot for Maryland: The Bureau of Ships of the U. S. Navy has advised me that Bethlehem Sparrow Point shipyard in Baltimore has been awarded contracts for construction of two ammunition ships. More of the same will be welcome.

June 3 was an important day for the many persons in our district who are receiving or someday will receive railroad retirement benefits. On that day Congress sent to President Eisenhower for his signature a bill to permit dual benefits under both rail retirement and the social security program.

Attention high school boys: Congress made history this year by approving construction of a third school to take its place beside the naval and military academies at Annapolis and West Point: The Air Force Academy. Air Secretary Talbott is deciding now whether to build it at Lake Geneva, Wis.; Colorado Springs, Colo., or Alton, Ill. Meantime, I want to hear from the young men who want to compete for appointments to the first class of the Air Force Academy. I'll be glad to send you information about it.

Looking forward to an enjoyable week: Saturday I'll visit the Frederick Boys School and will be honored to address the alumni at their dinner. . . . Monday Mrs. Hyde and I are to be guests at the dinner of the Allied Civic group in Silver Spring. . . . Tuesday I will be the guest of the Frederick News-Post at a reception and dinner in honor of President Eisenhower, given by the National Editorial Association.

Next Wednesday, as a member of a joint Congressional committee, I will fly to Albany, the capital of New York, to participate in the 200th anniversary of the First American Congress, held there in 1754, more than 20 years before the Declaration of Independence. It was then that Ben Franklin and a host of others began to assert their leadership that was to carve out brilliant records as the founders of these great United States.

What Persons Think Of Garrett County Revealed In Survey

An industrial survey conducted by the 12-c Core class at Southern High school this spring was completed just prior to the closing of school in early June and revealed some surprising results about what people thought of Oakland and vicinity.

The survey was conducted among students and private citizens, the latter regarding expansion of industry locally.

One hundred sixty-six private citizens were interviewed and almost all felt they would like to see young people stay in the community, but that many young people had to leave the county because there was not enough variety of jobs to be found and that wages were too low.

Citizens preferred a small type of industry that would employ and train young people and other citizens and which would not mar the beauty of the area.

Students were found to be interested in 65 different jobs, with most of them wanting nursing, secretarial work, forestry and farming. Out of 318 answering the survey, however, 231 students were planning to leave the county to obtain the type of work they wanted. Fifty indicated they would stay in the county with 37 undecided. One hundred ninety-four of the students of the 318 indicated they would stay in the county if they could find the work they wanted.

Two hundred fifty-eight students said they liked to live in Garrett county because of good scenery, friendly people and the fact that it is home. The main reason for not liking it was lack of work and no future.

The material in the booklet was actually a collection of five different surveys and summaries. The project was undertaken by the students to find out what the citizens thought of their town of Oakland, to discover if there was enough work in the community, to examine types of industry which might be brought in. The steering committee in charge included Bill Johnson, Helen O'Brien and Jerry Browning, students, with Miss Roberta Cogley as adviser.

"Rate Your Town"

A "rate your town" survey was used. Students asked local citizens forty questions concerning conditions in Oakland which added up to whether or not the citizens could say they were "proud of the town." Of the forty questions asked, thirty-two had more "yes" answers than "no" answers. If thirty of them were answered "yes" the town was one to be proud of.

Some of the things citizens thought needed improving were: clearing town entrances of junk, shacks and billboards; repair of more streets and sidewalks, more parking space in business section, public toilets for visitors and farm folk, a large "decent" recreation hall.

Some of the favorable points: a place to swim within easy reach, library with good collection of recent books, modern hospital, hotel and motel for visitors, annual clean-up campaigns, shade trees on nearly all streets.

Graduate Study

A survey was made of graduates of the local high school since 1949. Of 94 seniors graduating in June, 1953, 20 were working outside the county, four months after graduation. That same fall only 26 of 86 1952 graduates, 22 of the ninety-three 1951 graduates and 13 of the one hundred six 1949 graduates were still working in the county. Fifty-one of 379 graduates since 1949 were pursuing further education and 67 were in service in the fall of 1953. Twenty-three were not employed.

Want Youth to Stay

Under the reasons given as to why the young people should stay in the county were the following: 28 said "The future of our county depends upon our youth and we don't want to lose them;" 32 said, "It would keep young people with their families;" 13 said, "Opportunities for advancement are greater in a small community."

Some termed it a good wholesome healthy place to live with good climate, others said "peaceful and beautiful."

Business Survey

Thirty-nine business men were contacted. All of them favored two things, to see the town expand and to see more work for students graduating from high school. Most of them favored some small industry such as glass, textile or cannery plants. There was some indication that expanding farming in the county would help.

In the final recommendations members of the class suggested in the line of food, a potato chip industry, expansion of the frozen foods business, and a candy industry as a possibility, on account of the use of local products.

"Our Growing Edge"

MRS. MARTHA GLOTFELTY

Congratulations to Allen

Two weeks ago in this column, I offered my congratulations to every member of our graduating classes here in the County. This week, I would like to offer my special congratulations to one boy, Allen Georg, President of the Senior Class and graduate of Northern High School.

Why would I want to speak especially of him? Because for the first time in years, at least that I have heard, he paid a tribute to some folks who have long deserved it. Speaking as the class president, and for them all individually, he paid a public tribute to all of their parents. I do not know whether the idea was his own, his counselors, or all the teachers, but I think it was a fitting and deserved tribute, and I am sure it warmed the hearts of the parents who heard it.

After giving credit to all the powers that be, the Superintendent of Schools, Board of Education, faculty, etc., it was nice to remember the parents. I would not in any way detract from giving them the credit due them, but somehow or other when the laurels are passed out the parents are usually overlooked.

It seems to be a popular indoor pastime to find fault with everything a parent does. He is either too old-fashioned, entirely outmoded, or just lets the kids do as they please. All juvenile delinquency can be traced to parents, so they say. You can scarcely pick up a magazine or paper that does not lay it on the line about our colossal failure as parents.

Junior acts up at school, as most kids have always done, and always will do. Who is to blame? Not Junior, no, indeed. He is the innocent victim of a mother who spoils him, never makes him take responsibility. Mary Jane is boy crazy, giggles all the time, pays no attention to the teacher. Is Mary Jane to blame? Not Mary Jane, but her father and mother who constantly spoil her, and let her do anything she pleases at home.

How true are these charges hurled at parents today? Right here and now, I wish to say as a fairly intelligent parent, I am sick and tired of it, and I do not believe it is entirely true.

Let us take the case of Junior. His father and mother have been doing their very best to get him to take responsibility, as they have with Mary Jane. Who is able to say their actions are the fault of their parents? Partly, but not all. Many other factors and forces enter into the picture.

Anyone who read Dorothy Thompson's recent article, "I remember Me," will know what I mean when I say parents could not be to blame entirely for either Mary Jane's or Junior's behavior.

It is true the home is a basic influence in all our children's lives. They do get their first and most powerful impressions there. Many of their attitudes are molded there. Yet, to say everything they do is a direct product of what happens at home is downright untrue.

Parents for the most part are hard working, self-sacrificing people. They are anxious for their children to have all the advantages they can possibly give them. No one is more interested in their children's welfare than they are.

Janet needs a new dress for a school party (parents tell me this sort of thing has about reached the breaking point) and mother does without something she needs badly to buy it for her. Johnny wants to play in the band. Dad buys him a musical instrument, with money he set aside for farm machinery he badly needs. They do it willingly and lovingly as parents of every generation have done. Let's give them credit for the years of self-sacrifice they have given to all of us.

To you, Allen Georg, for remembering the parents who did so much for each member of your graduating class, my heartiest congratulations!

Recently Wed At Accident

Miss Retha Groer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Groer, Accident, became the bride of Carl Edward Whorton, of Hagerstown, on Friday evening, May 28, at 7:30 o'clock in St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church in Accident.

Rev. William E. Carlson officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with white peonies, gladioli and white lighted candelabra.

Prior to the ceremony Miss Gail Kesner presented a recital of nuptial musical selections and accompanied Mrs. Connell Chaney as she sang "O Perfect Love." Mr. Nelson Zaph sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown designed with a fitted bodice of lace with long sleeves ending in points at the wrists. Her fingertip veil, attached to a lace tiara adorned with seed pearls, matched the full skirt of her gown. The bride carried a white Bible with white satin streamers and a white orchid. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Lyrine Snoeberger, Cumberland, was maid of honor. She was dressed in an off-the-shoulder ballerina length gown of pink net with matching net stole and a headdress of pink flowers. Her bouquet was designed of pink and blue flowers with matching pink streamers.

Howard MacDonald, Cumberland, served as best man. Ushers were Robert Clites and Lawrence Groer.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Groer chose a pink dress trimmed with rhinestones. Her accessories were of white and she wore a white rosebud corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Community hall which was decorated with white streamers, flowers and a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

Maryland farmers receive 84 per cent of their total cash receipts from crops which are not supported by any Government price support program.

The per cent of cash farm receipts from basic commodities enjoying Government price supports is only 15 per cent of the total cash receipts of Maryland farmers, and 8 per cent of that is in support of tobacco—which, for reasons peculiar to tobacco farming, will continue to be supported at 90 per cent of parity under the Eisenhower-Benson program.

Figures just released by the Department of Agriculture show that Marylanders are earning their income by the sweat of their brows and not from Government handouts.

The farm picture in Maryland turns out to be as follows:

1. 84 per cent of total cash receipts are from nonsupported commodities and dairy products.

2. 69 per cent of total cash receipts are from meat animals, and poultry products—for which price supported feeds are an element of cost.

3. 58 per cent of total cash receipts are from nonsupported commodities, which includes meat animals, poultry and eggs, fruits and other crops.

4. 8 per cent of total cash receipts are from basic commodities, other than tobacco, which are supported under the Government parity program.

An interesting revelation from the figures is that the cash receipts from basic farm commodities supported by the Federal Government is only a minor part of the Maryland agricultural economy, and that the income from these basic price support commodities is concentrated in nine southern states, one midwest state (Kansas), and two northern states (North Dakota and Montana).

The farm program worked out by President Eisenhower and Secretary Benson is not a cure-all, and, as Secretary Benson has said, "There is no such medicine, but it (the Benson program) does offer real promise of starting the patient on the road to recovery."

The argument against the flexible support program, which is backed by the National Grange, American Farm Bureau Federation, and other organizations, is kept alive by the controversy over what effect flexible supports would have on six basic commodities—wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco, peanuts and rice.

On a national basis these six commodities account for only 23 per cent of the total cash receipts of farmers, and, as stated before, for only 15 per cent of the total cash receipts in Maryland.

The President's recommendations are that the present law, which provides for flexible supports on these crops next year, be permitted to become effective as scheduled; except for tobacco, which would remain at 90 per cent of parity because of the rigid production controls which growers have been willing to accept.

Of the $6.3 billion which this Government has tied up in price supports, five billion is invested in wheat, corn, cotton, and tobacco.

All evidence points out convincingly that farmers and the government have gotten into difficulty only on commodities which have been supported at 90 per cent parity. The Eisenhower-Benson program for flexible supports can assist in stabilizing the economy of farmers engaged in production of these basic commodities.

The 90 per cent of parity program has resulted in serious overproduction of a few commodities, in only a few states, and Maryland farmers will realize that these highly supported commodities increase their own costs of production.

Tableland Farming

A column devoted to agriculture in Garrett County
By John H. Carter
County Agent

With fly season approaching, many dairymen are concerned about some economical method of fly control that would have government approved label, for use in dairy and livestock barns.

Sweetened baits provide new and low cost method of fly control, and have been found to be particularly effective in situations where flies have become resistant to chlorinated hydrocarbon insecticides, such as DDT, BHC and Lindane.

This year, Malathion will have government approved label for use in dairy barns, and is being recommended by the Extension Service to be used with sweetened bait for a good economical fly control method. Malathion baits are fast acting. Flies will normally began to die within ten minutes after the bait is applied, and usually 80 to 90 percent of the flies in the barn will be dead on the floor within 1 to 2 hours.

The application of the bait is easy and simple. If the barn has a concrete floor, it may be applied to the floor with a sprinkling can, and the operation usually requires no more than five minutes. It is important never to use the material where it will contaminate animal feed. If a barn does not have concrete floors, the bait may be applied as a coarse spray, with a compressed air sprayer to stanchion pipes, support beams, window sills, door jambs and other areas where flies are normally found during the day.

One outstanding advantage of the bait treatment is the low cost as compared with spray operations, in which walls are coated with a residual spray.

Anyone interested in using the sweetened bait method for fly control in dairy barns, can secure detail instructions for same from County Agricultural Agent, John H. Carter, Oakland, Maryland.

There will be a number of fly control demonstrations conducted by the County Extension Service this summer. As soon as demonstrations are established, they will be announced in the local county paper.

June Bride at Wheeling

Miss Ruth Elizabeth Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Page Carter, of "Everbreeze," Wheeling, W. Va., became the bride of Lynn L. Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Lewis, Alder street, Oakland, at a lovely home ceremony solemnized last Saturday afternoon, June 12. The vows were exchanged at 3:30 o'clock with Dr. W. Don McClure, uncle of the bride, officiating at the double ring ceremony.

Members of the immediate family, relatives and close friends attended. The home was decorated with standards of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and palms. There was an improvised altar in front of the living room fireplace which was banked with flowers and ferns and lighted candelabra on either side. Mrs. Reid A. Feather, Nitro, W. Va., played a medley of nuptial music and the traditional wedding march. Miss Carolyn Lewis, sister of the groom, sang "Through the Years," and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

The bride entered the room on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. Her gown, an original creation designed and made by the bride, was floor length embroidered Swiss imported organdy over taffeta. The short embroidered sleeved bodice had a wide, round neckline ringed with Venise lace. The gathered skirt was designed with a double flounce of embroidered organdy. Long organdy mitts were worn and a fingertip length veil of illusion cascaded from a tiara of satin and orange blossoms. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Mary Ellen Carter was her sister's maid of honor and she was attired in a waltz-length lilac gown of embroidered Swiss imported organdy over taffeta which featured a rounded neckline trimmed with Venise lace. She wore a headpiece of flowers and carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds and delphinium. Paul A. Eary, Charleston, W. Va., was best man. Mary Louise Beall, in pastel salmon, and Janet Beeler, in pastel blue, were flower bearers. Both were cousins of the bride and carried baskets of rose petals.

The bride's mother wore a navy sheer dress with white accessories and a pink carnation corsage. The groom's mother wore a printed rose dress with white accessories and a white rosebud corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered cake. Later Mr. and Mrs. Lewis left for a southern wedding trip, the bride traveling in a teal blue summer suit with white accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Upon returning they will reside at 1537 Laurel Avenue, in Knoxville, Tennessee.

Mrs. Lewis is a May graduate of Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va., with a bachelor of science degree in home economics, cum laude. She is a member of Kappa Omicron Phi, professional home economics fraternity and other campus organizations.

Mr. Lewis was graduated from West Virginia Wesleyan college, Buckhannon, with a B. S. degree, and received his master's degree from Marshall college. He is now completing degree requirements for the Doctor of Philosophy degree in chemistry at the University of Tennessee. He is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity, also Sigma Xi, and the American Chemical society.

Attending the ceremony from Oakland were Mr. and Mrs. Asa Lewis, Misses Elaine and Carolyn Lewis. Other relatives from the Terra Alta section also were present.

Angus Cattle Sale Hits $9,045 Total

The third Angus cattle sale within a year was held June 9 at the Evans Stockyards in Terra Alta. Thirty-nine head from eleven consignors were sold in two hours and fifteen minutes with Ira Mahaffey as auctioneer.

The sale totaled $9,045 to average $232 per head. Two bulls averaged $225 and thirty-seven females averaged $233. Two high selling animals were baught for $400 each and went to Burlington and Buckhannon. They were said to be the best in Angus pedigree and family. High selling bull of the sale was consigned by Clem Teets and Sons, Terra Alta. He was a grandson of the 1949 International champion Eileenmere and sold for $265 to Claude Harvey, of Deer Park. Largest buyer was Sterling Farms of Reedsville, taking 15 head to establish a registered Angus herd. K. R. Hardesty, Oakland, was among the other buyers.

Emergency Brucellosis Regulation Announced

An emergency regulation to eradicate brucellosis of cattle in Maryland was announced by Dr. Arthur L. Brueckner, director of the Live Stock Sanitary Service, a branch of the State Board of Agriculture.

Brucellosis is a costly disease in infected herds due to loss of calves and lowered milk production. The disease in humans, commonly known as undulant fever, is caused by the same germ.

Dr. Brueckner said the Live Stock Sanitary Service has been cooperating for several years with the U.S. Department of Agriculture in a brucellosis control program that has already made considerable progress in eradicating the disease. Farmer participation in this program has been voluntary.

The new regulation makes it compulsory for owners of beef and dairy cattle to place their herds under one of two control plans before the end of this year.

Owners choosing to have their herds placed under Plan A must have all their cattle tested by January 1, 1955, and all the infected animals must be slaughtered immediately.

If cattle are placed under Plan B they must also be tested by January 1, 1955, but infected animals need not be removed at once.

"A choice of these two plans will be permitted to prevent the hardship that would result in some cases if Plan A were enforced immediately," explained Dr. Brueckner.

He added that "all cattle must be placed under Plan A and have at least one test completed by November 1, 1955, and all infected animals must be removed for slaughter by December 31, 1955. After January 1, 1946, only Plan A will be acceptable in Maryland."

Take It Seriously...

We are hopeful that the voters of Garrett county will show no evidence of apathy on Monday. Webster's dictionary defines the word as "indifferent" and as one having "unconcern."

We are thinking for the moment of all elections, where people living under a form of government such as ours may exercise their right to select by popular vote the ones who will represent them in various phases of government. The primary election on Monday is only a small part of the overall picture but since it is so close at hand, it gives us the opportunity to stress the importance of being interested and showing concern at all elections.

Sometimes it takes a crisis in government to make people see the need of voting action, but they must realize that it is a never ending process if our way of life is to survive. So take it seriously. Go to the polls on Monday and vote.

We would also like to see the day come when all voting was taken seriously. Particularly in local elections we see evidence of write-in votes for some Tom, Dick or Harry, some town ne'er-do-well, in an attempt to make it amusing. Actually voting is no joke, and we are hopeful that in this primary election there will be no votes cast that do not have sincerity as the foundation for a voter's choice.

If we can take this job of voting seriously, and go to the polls Monday, the county is bound to feel the effects of it. We are confident that the effect will be for good.

Arthur Lake Is Termed Suicide

Found Dead Early Today—Left Message On Front Door

Arthur E. Lake, Sr., was found dead at his home at the intersection of the Swanton and Kitzmiller roads, about 7:30 o'clock this morning. Sheriff Paul W. Fisher revealed.

Death occurred as the result of a wound in the right temple from a .38-calibre revolver shell. The bullet passed completely through his head and death must have been almost instantaneous.

Dr. James H. Feaster, Jr., acting deputy medical examiner, issued a verdict of death by suicide.

Mr. Lake's body was discovered in the room back of the main part of the store by three men who stopped there enroute to their work. They noticed a sign hanging on the front door saying "You'll find my body in the back." Dr. Feaster identified the three as Martin Tichnell and Glenn G. Rexrode, of Swanton; and Harold Stark, of Kitzmiller. They told Sheriff Fisher that when they read the note they began to investigate. Finding a side door unlocked they entered the building and found him lying on the bed. They then notified county authorities.

Investigating the tragedy were Dr. Feaster, Sheriff Fisher and Deputy Sheriff E. J. Frantz.

The body was brought to the Bolden Funeral Home in Oakland. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

He was born November 17, 1896, and was aged 57.

Mr. Lake had been living alone for several months. His wife and other members of his family had been residing in Baltimore, and the home next to the filling station and store had been vacant. Mr. Lake had been "batching" in a small room in rear of the store.

He has a brother who resides in Keyser.

Surviving are his wife and three children, James A. Lake, Arthur E. Lake, Jr., and Mrs. Ken Singleton, of the Baltimore and Washington area. He also has a sister, Mrs. Ruth Holcomb, Marietta, Ga.

County Picks Up 605 New Voters In Registration

Total County Registration Now 10,041—Complete Figures Published

Gains were noted in every one of the twenty-seven voting precincts in the county as the official figures in the recent registration were released by the Board of Election Supervisors. A total gain of 605 was noted, with the total registration in the county being 10,041.

Election officials said, however, that this number would be decreased somewhat after revision day, because of the number of names that will have to be taken off, of persons who have died or moved away.

There will be two registration days and one revision day between the primary and general election days.

Present official figures show there are 6,408 Republicans registered; 3,585 Democrats and 48 others. Of the total 5,643 are men and 4,398 are women. Gains in the various voting precincts went from one at the Elbow to 58 in Friendsville 2. Swanton and West Oakland 14-1 both had gains of 47.

Registered Republicans still outnumber the Democrats by 2,943. The biggest Republican majority is still in Sang Run where the figures stand 289 Republicans to 60 Democrats. Jennings and Bittinger are close seconds. There are four voting precincts where the Democrats outnumber the Republicans. These are in second precinct of Accident, second precinct of Friendsville, Vindex and Johnson. Republicans have a majority of six at Kitzmiller, 288 to 282.

Outboard Motors Stolen From Boats

Authorities are seeking information this week leading to arrest of a person or persons who stole two large outboard motors from two boats on Deep Creek Lake on Sunday night.

Boats owned by James DeWitt and Dr. Coburn were discovered floating on the lake on Monday morning, minus their motors. The boats were located near Glendale bridge.

The DeWitt motor had been used less than one hour, Paul Fisher, sheriff, said investigation would continue.

Bible School To Close

The Daily Vacation Bible school which has been conducted by the Ev. United Brethren church of Loch Lynn will conclude with a special program on Friday evening.

Eighty-five boys and girls were enrolled during the two weeks' period. The theme has been "building citizens for Christ."

At the closing program on Friday evening which is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock EST, certificates are to be awarded to those who were faithful in attendance and work. The group enjoyed a picnic last Friday afternoon.

County To Improve Old Dennett Road

The Garrett County Roads department has begun the improvement of the Old Dennett road, back road from Oakland to Mt. Lake Park, it was announced by W. W. DeWitt, county roads engineer.

Mr. DeWitt said the department would make a new grade for the twenty-foot pavement which will extend between the two towns. This road will provide an improved highway to the athletic fields of the new high school, where the Little League baseball diamond also is located.

He said the work would take about a month.

Refuse Permit To Sell Beer

The Garrett County Board of License Commissioners, following a hearing on Tuesday, denied George R. Schroyer, of Friendsville, a license to sell beer at his place of business in that town.

A protest was made against its issuance several weeks ago after application had been made. At the hearing on Tuesday, some thirty residents of the town were present. Those protesting its issuance had E. R. Jones as their representative, while Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., was attorney for Schroyer.

The two-member board ruled that issuance of the license "was not necessary for the accommodation of the public. Third member of the board, J. Edward Helbig, did not participate in the meeting.

It was announced that a hearing on another protest would be heard next Tuesday. Genevieve DeWitt applied several months ago for a license to sell beer at the former Rainbow Inn on Deep Creek Lake, across the roadway from the Baptist church there. A protest against issuance of the license was lodged by a petition.

Scouts Plan Camp

Oakland and Crellin Boy Scout troops and explorer posts will again join forces for the annual scout encampment starting July 25. The camp will continue for two weeks.

A number of scouts from Oakland, Crellin, Mt. Lake Park and Deer Park will have an opportunity to attend Camp Potomac, near Oldtown, August 8 to 15.

The program for the fourteen-day stretch at the camp area on Deep Creek Lake is being worked out by Ralph Fauber, scoutmaster, and members of the Troop committee from the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions club. Around forty boys are expected to attend.

The boy scout camp will be in use this coming week, a scout troop from Silver Spring having engaged the grounds for that period.

Secretary of State at Annapolis received 402 requests for absentee voting ballots for primaries.

TV Show to Feature Garrett County Area

Garrett county and its advantages as a vacation travel spot are being featured in a travel program over television station WAAM in Baltimore tonight at 8 o'clock.

The Automobile club of Maryland is sponsoring a series of eight half-hour travel programs, which will be presented in the form of a weekend vacation to an outstanding place in Maryland, plus a longer journey to vacation points in other parts of the country. Tonight's program will also include a travelogue on North Carolina.

95 Pints of Blood Obtained Yesterday

James Nally's Pint Yesterday Made Total Of Two Gallons

Among the ninety-five pints of blood contributed yesterday during the visit of the Johnstown bloodmobile to Oakland, was one given by James B. Nally of Oakland.

What made this particular pint unique is that it made a total of two gallons of blood that the Oakland man has given. During World War II while Nally worked at a Baltimore shipyard he became a member of the gallon club. Since that time he has continued to give blood during the frequent visits of the bloodmobile to Oakland. His record is one that few people will equal.

Other Participants

Other persons are compiling an enviable record at the blood bank. Frederick Thayer, 21, gave his 13th pint of blood, not all of them locally, however. He has given whenever possible while away at school.

Donald MacMurray gave his 10th pint, Mrs. Arthur Ofsthun her 9th and Elmer Upole became a member of the gallon club. Mrs. Stemple said there are several who have contributed seven times.

The breakdown on the figures released by the local American Red Cross unit showed that 123 persons were scheduled. Of that number 81 filled their appointment and 42 did not. There were 33 persons who gave blood for the first time. There were 37 walk-ins. Twenty persons were rejected for various reasons.

Fifteen of the pints given were given for replacement at a specific hospital.

The local committee had sought 140 pints in this month's visit, Mrs. Grover C. Stemple, blood recruitment chairman, said that the date came right in the midst of haying season for the farm people, many of whom would have given, had it been at another time.

Plan Class Reunion

Members of the class of 1934 of Oakland High school are planning a class reunion on Saturday evening, July 10, at the Oakland Fire department hall, it has been announced.

A dinner will be served at 7:30 o'clock DST, followed by a program. Details of the program are to be announced.

This Is Progress?

Postoffice Going First Class While Service To Public Decreases

The Oakland Postoffice will advance from a second class to a first class office on Thursday, July 1. This was made possible when the stamp sales at the office reached $40,000 during 1953. Actually the stamp sales amounted to $41,202.77 for that year.

In changing from a second class to a first class, citizens would be inclined to believe that service to the public in general would reflect improvement, but according to information received by T. J. Stanton, assistant postmaster, here are the changes that will be effective, and none of them will benefit the public.

Stanton announced there would be a change in the hours of the service windows in the finance section on that date. The money order, postal savings, registry and COD windows will not open for business until 8:30 a. m., thirty minutes later than at present, while the postoffice is still a second class one.

Attention was also called to a change in the limits of weight and size of parcel post packages. When parcels are mailed at a first-class postoffice for delivery at another first class postoffice in the United States, the weight is limited to 40 pounds, local, first and second zones; 20 pounds, third through eighth zones. At a second class postoffice the limit is 70 pounds. Customers can still have the same size package, however, the limit of size to 72 inches in length and girth combined not having changed.

It was pointed out that the above limits of weight and size do not apply to parcels mailed on, or addressed for delivery on, a rural or star route, or parcels containing baby fowl, live plants, trees, shrubs, agriculture commodities, (not including manufactured products thereof), or books, or Braille writers, sound reproducers and other appliances for the blind, for delivery to any second, third or fourth class postoffice, to or from any APO or FPO or to or from any territory or possession of the United States.

Postoffice box holders also were notified this week that their box rent would automatically be increased because of this increase in receipts which lifted the local office from a second to a first class office.

Oakland Day Is Scheduled at Races

The Manager of the Cumberland Fair association notified Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh of Oakland early this week that it was setting aside Thursday, July 1st, as Oakland day at the Cumberland race track.

At least three special trophies are to be awarded to the owners of three winning horses in that day's races. One is being donated by Hinebaugh's Restaurant, one by Ward's Restaurant, and one by the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland. The expense for the latter one is being subscribed individually by the Mayor and the six members of the council.

Other events are being planned for this day, Mayor Hinebaugh said.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Beeson Snyder went to Martinsburg, W. Va., this morning having been called there on account of the death of the former's uncle, Newton Snyder, whose funeral will be held tomorrow morning.

Pedestrian Markers Placed on Streets

Pedestrian markers, to show persons where to cross the streets in Oakland in the business section, have been placed at the intersection of Liberty and Green streets with Second street, for "test" purposes, it was announced by Joseph Hinebaugh, mayor.

The markers were purchased to see how they would fit into the town's program for keeping the streets well marked. Hinebaugh said that yellow paint markers to indicate pedestrian traffic soon wore off and that in the long run the markers would be more economical. The sample markers of about 100 cost $36.00. They are made of plastic material. The markers were placed across Second street in two places and across Green street. Reaction of the public will determine whether or not additional ones will be purchased for other parts of the business section, Hinebaugh said.

Voters Warned on Proper Ballot Marking

"X marks the spot" is a well know phrase that will certainly hold true next Monday when citizens go to the polls, but the Attorney General of Maryland is repeating his caution to each voter to be careful just how the ballot is marked or the X mark won't count.

Election officials in years past have revealed that many choices are not counted officially because of irregularities in markings, and that many voters as a result have lost their entire ballot.

Since many persons who go to the polls never take the time to read the instructions to voters by the Attorney General, some of the significant facts are being reproduced here to aid voters.

Ballots are to be marked with indelible pencil. These pencils are supposed to be in each voting booth and if they aren't there the voter should demand one. Any other kind of pencil or a pen will make your ballot illegal.

Voters are to make a cross-mark (X) after the name of every person for whom they wish to vote. The cross-mark should be entirely within the square. No other marks should be made on the ballot.

Voters are cautioned not to make a check mark (✓) to indicate their choice of candidates. This is permissible in some states but not in Maryland.

Voters should look over their ballot when received and see that there are no marks of any kind on it. If it is soiled in any way with dirt or oil or some clearly defined imperfection in the paper which could indicate that an erasure might have been made, the voter is entitled to ask for another. If a ballot is marked wrongly, a voter is also entitled to ask for another ballot to correct the error. But if one spoils three ballots he loses his vote.

Voters should be careful to mark only the number asked for on the ballot. When it says to vote for one, two or three, those instructions should be followed completely.

The Attorney General, Edward D. E. Rollins, has added on his instructions that the privilege of casting the ballot is one of the most sacred and time-honored rights reserved to the people under our form of Government. "You are respectfully urged to guard this right carefully and exercise it correctly, and efficiently in accordance with the law."

Historical Society Plans Annual Session

The Garrett County Historical Society will conduct its annual meeting on Thursday, July 8, at the William-James hotel in Oakland, it was announced this week by J. J. Walker, Shallmar, president.

The meeting will be at 7 o'clock DST, and Mr. Walker has asked that members indicate before Tuesday, July 6, whether or not they plan to attend. The program is to be worked out.

Candidates Support Pledge Offered By W. Blair Simmons

"In the interest of clean government, good morals, prosperity and the support of the Christian way of life for the citizens of Garrett County, I hereby pledge that I will oppose legalizing the sale of liquor and will support the officers of the county in enforcing the laws."

Several candidates are making a statement on the liquor issue and may not wish to list their names here, also. My letter of last week was motivated only by a desire to help the public ascertain how the candidates stand on this issue and was written without the knowledge of any candidate.

CUSTOM NOTE: Twin-Turbine Dynaflow and Safety Power Steering are standard equipment on every Buick ROADMASTER at no extra cost.

It makes you feel like the man you are

You must know, of course, that a fine car is more than merely a means of fine travel.

It is, as the psychologists tell us, an extension of a man's own personality.

It reflects what you feel, what you like, what you are.

So we ask you to take the wheel of a Buick ROADMASTER like the one shown here—for it is, we have found, the automobile chosen more and more by those who are definitely moving ahead in the world.

You will find it a car that fairly breathes success.

From its size and its breadth and the magnificent modernity of its styling, you know it is a car of custom stature—and so does the watching world.

You will find it, too, a car of luxurious obedience.

From the moment you ease your foot down on the pedal, you take immediate mastery of the road and of distance.

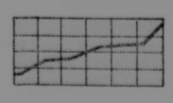
And you know it—in the silken whip of Twin-Turbine Dynaflow, the might of Buick's greatest horsepower, the magic cushioning of coil springs on all four wheels, the exhilarating ease of Buick Safety Power Steering at your hand.

But with all this, you buy with prudence when you buy a ROADMASTER.

For—though it is, and looks, custom production—it sells for the lowest price-per-pound in the fine-car field. And so wise an investment makes you feel even more like the man you are.

Drop in, or phone us this week, and we'll gladly arrange a demonstration.

BUICK SALES ARE SOARING!



Latest figures for the first four months of 1954 show Buick now outselling every other car in America except two of the so-called "low-price three." Better look into Buick if you want the beauty and the buy of the year.

WOMEN GET WEEK OF COLLEGE—This group of Garrett County homemakers attended the Rural Women's Short Course at the University of Maryland, College Park, June 14 to 19. The Short Course, sometimes called "College Week for Women," offered classes and lectures on subjects ranging from foods and nutrition to landscape gardening and Parliamentary law. About 1,200 homemakers from all over Maryland attended the Shore Course. Women in the Garrett County delegation are: First row (left to right) Mrs. Asa Lewis, Mrs. William Harman, Mrs. W. W. DeWitt, Mrs. Arthur Green, Mrs. Mary Cesnick, Mrs. Mary McIntyre, Mrs. Mary Piotrowski. Second row: Miss Ethel Grove, home demonstration agent; Mrs. Francis Spoerlein, Mrs. Ralph Buckel, Mrs. Richard Coddington, Mrs. Allen Baker, Mrs. Della Martin, Mrs. Nina Murphy, Mrs. Mary Shaffer. Third row: Mrs. Don Newman, Mrs. Vesta McSpadden, Mrs. Jesse Woods, Mrs. Guy Hardesty.

Protect Roses Against Insects and Disease

Take steps now to avoid disease and insect infestation of roses. Maryland's humid climate makes it necessary that you follow a regular disease control program for roses if you want vigorous plants.

Dr. L. O. Weaver, extension plant pathologist, University of Maryland, recommends spraying or dusting to prevent disease and to stop insect damage. However, during the hot summer months, the spray method of control is recommended.

Use ferbam or captan alone (two tablespoons per gallon of water) and apply at 10-day intervals. Weaver points out that dusting isn't usually as effective as spraying for disease control, but if dusting is done regularly, control can be achieved.

For more complete recommendations on the control of disease and insects among roses, see your county extension agent or write to the Bulletin Room, Extension Service, College Park, Maryland. Ask for a copy of Fact Sheet 73—"Diseases and Insects of Roses and Their Control."

Weaver says that recognition of rose diseases and the damage they cause is the first step in a proper control program. The two most common diseases of roses are black spot and powdery mildew. Almost all rose varieties are susceptible to both diseases.

Black spot is now causing damage. It appears on the upper surface of the rose leaf, forming a circular outline with an irregular fringed border over most of the leaf. Infected leaves turn yellow and drop prematurely. The disease thrives during moderate temperatures, frequent rainfalls and high humidity. Splashing water, rather than air currents, spreads the disease.

Mildew, a powdery white fungus growth, appears on the leaves, stems and flower buds. It distorts the leaves and reduces the whole vigor of the plant. Buds fail to open at all or they open imperfectly. High humidity and moderate temperature are most favorable for the development of mildew, and fungus spores are spread by air currents and splashing water.

QUACK DIAGNOSIS

By George Peck

For the past three decades, the Left-Wingers have been riding high; they have made an all-out drive to sell the human race on the idea that collectivism and economic planning are the answers to all of the ails and ills of mankind. In fact, these Do-Gooders have gone so far as to accuse all who differ with this concept of being un-Christian, reactionary, fascist or anti-Semitic. They made a quack diagnosis and prescribed a large dose of socialistic medicine as the one and only treatment to create and maintain a socially-healthy society.

For a time, here in America, they succeeded in making many converts to their pattern for Utopia. This was due largely to the fact that very few voices were raised to dispute their illogical, even ridiculous theories. But with the transition of Socialism to Naziism in Germany, it became evident that inevitably economic planning leads to dictatorship—gives birth to Hitlers and Mussolinis, to Lenins, Stalins and Malenkovs, who in order to achieve their ends, usurp absolute power over the individual, thereby depriving that individual of his freedom.

The American people are learning that these social thinkers (?) labor under the tragic delusion that by curtailing the individual's power and transferring it to Government, thereby power is given to all people. But they are no longer fooling Joe Doakes and Mary Smith—these folk realize that placing in the hands of a small group of planners, power formerly held by many individuals, opens the door to dictatorship—the ultimate result of which is control of men's lives.

It is a fallacy to assume that a few men who have been given or have seized power over the lives of their fellow men, possess the ability, the determination and the integrity to plan a society that will better serve the average man, than a sociey which he works out patiently through individual effort in cooperation with his fellows.

The ideal society is not created by a few so-called enlightened super-thinkers, planning every last detail of the individual's life—rather it is developed by multitudes of men thinking for themselves, solving their problems through the clash of opinion and discussion.

The totalitarian psychology of the economic planners is revealed by their impatience with any one who dares to differ with them. This is particularly noticeable among certain clergymen who have knowingly or unwittingly embraced socialism. They do not argue against ideas but resort to personal smears of those who cling to constitutional Americanism and are so old-fashioned as to still believe that government should be of, by and for the people.

Their particular smear is to accuse their opponents of not being Christians. This is absolutely ridiculous as a perusal of the New Testament will reveal. This one and only source of our knowledge of the principles of Jesus Christ proves beyond shadow of doubt that He recognized private property rights and differentials in position of individuals, that He accepted the principle of inequality in ability and application and that larger rewards should go to those who work harder and better.

The Left-Wing section of the clergy tackles an impossible job in trying to convince anyone that Jesus was a Socialist—that is, anyone who has carefully read the New Testament. Nowhere in the Scriptures does He advocate collectivism, economic planning and Government control. By example and teaching, Jesus emphasized the importance and dignity of the individual.

This columnist is in complete accord with the social ideals of Christianity, but definitely repudiates the idea that Socialism and collectivism are the social ideas of Jesus Christ. According to my understanding, the goal of Christianity is to develop Christ-like men, men who love each other regardless of race, color, creed or station in life; men who are honest, sincere, unselfish and decent; men who have strong regard for themselves as children of God; men determined to make the most out of their lives; men inspired to serve their fellow humans to the best of their ability.

Those are the kind of men who launched and built this great Nation; those are the kind of men who will make America an even greater nation if allowed to do so. On the other hand, social progress, in fact, all progress will stop and retrogression set in, if we should fall for the quack diagnosis of the Left-Wingers and take too large a dose of their socialistic medicine.

Aerial Survey For Oak Wilt Finished

An aerial survey of four Western Maryland counties conducted to determine the possible location of oak wilt, has been completed by William H. Johnson, district forester.

The study showed a number of infected areas in Allegany and Washington counties but Johnson was not positive whether or not oak wilt was the cause of the destruction of the trees.

Recent lightning storms damaged a large number of trees.

In Garrett county two areas were located on Savage mountain in the vicinity of the Savage River dam. Ground crews have gone into action and will take samples of the wilted trees. Samples are to be sent to the University of Maryland where cultures will be made to determine whether or not oak wilt is the cause.

Johnson said that trees found to be affected during a survey made last year and treated have not spread the disease to other trees in the immediate area. Oak trees within 50 feet of an infected area are treated with chemicals in an effort to combat the wilt and keep it from spreading.

During the latter part of next month another check of four counties is expected to be undertaken.

Leafhoppers New Threat to Alfalfa

"Don't think you have got the insect problem in your alfalfa whipped if you succeeded in controling alfalfa weevils, spittlebugs and pea aphids," warns T. L. Bissell, University of Maryland Extension entomologist.

The entomogolist points out that potato leafhoppers may move into alfalfa fields and do a lot of damage unless the crop is closely watched. Leafhoppers overwinter in the South and usually show up in Maryland in the latter part of June.

"We recently found a small number of leafhoppers in Kent County," Bissell says, "so we should be on guard for heavy infestations."

The first warning a farmer may have that leafhoppers are present may be dwarfing and yellowing of leaves. Some types of yellowing caused by diseases or by nutritional deficiencies are hard to distinguish from advances stages of potato leafhopper injury.

"Because of the small size and green color of the insect," Bissell points out, "you cannot rely entirely on casual observations to determine the seriousness of an infestation. The best method is to use an insect-collecting net with a 15-inch opening. If you capture in average of one leafhopper per sweep, you have an infestation that may damage your crop within three weeks."

The control recommended for leafhoppers is one quart of methoxychlor per acre in 10 to 20 gallons of water. The time to apply is at the first sign of injury or when sweeping operations show a large number of insects are in a field.

The adult leafhopper is a pale-green, wedge-shaped insect about one-eighth inch long. It is very active, jumping or flying when disturbed. The greatest damage done by the insect is usually to the second cutting of alfalfa. Leafhoppers also damage other forage legumes, as well as potatoes and beans.

The world food supply could be easily doubled, a British food authority declared in a nutrition report.

THE AMERICAN WAY

By GEORGE PECK

American business is currently undergoing rapid changes in its approach to salesmanship, and this possibly, more than any other single development, will go far toward averting a major economic slump.

It has been many years since any real sales effort has been needed by most businesses. We have lived through times of scarcity when anyone could sell anything; and through years of inflationary spirals when consumers had plenty of money to spend. Through this period, the formerly important salesman lost his place in the sun because business leaders assumed the attitude that "we do not have to worry about salesmen because we can sell whatever we make."

As a customer, I welcome this change of atmosphere in the sales arena. It is good to have the producer once again camping on my doorstep instead of my having to camp on his. It is refreshing to witness members of the business community speaking in terms of sales campaigns, dealer promotions and all-out efforts.

A superbly developed system of sales, merchandising and advertising was in large degree responsible for America having built up such a high standard of living. The competitive nature of business—indeed, the rivalry of sales people—has consistently helped keep goods plentiful and prices down. We have been able, through progressive sales methods, to mass-produce many products that otherwise would have remained available to only a favored few.

By returning to a revitalized selling economy, we are going to find more and better goods produced; and we are going to witness an increasingly larger national income.

There is an interesting new slant to the coming sales era, however, that was pointed out a short time ago by one of the nation's outstanding sales executives, Fen K. Doscher, Vice-President in charge of sales for Lily-Tulip Cup Corporation. According to Mr. Doscher, the new boom in salesmanship will bring all the advantages enumerated above, without the disadvantages and even the aggravations which in times past caused the American people to look with some misgivings at the sales profession.

No longer, says this sales executive, will we have to put up with the stereotyped, noisy, back-slapping American salesman or drummer of yester-years. There is a New Look in the selling profession and in his place we find a dignified, reliable individual. Today's salesman is a productive human being who will produce best if management gives him the right kind of leadership, rather than the wrong kind of drivership.

If these new techniques in salesmanship are backed up by advertising programs, also dignified and reliable, then indeed will this nation enter into an era of unprecedented prosperity. This columnist is hopeful that these advertising programs will call for a much larger share of advertising appropriations to be allocated to small-town newspapers—to reach the most important segment of the nation's population—those who live in the grass roots.

Never in all history has a people attained so much as we Americans have obtained for ourselves under our American Capitalistic System of Free Competitive Enterprise. And a great factor in making that system tick has been the sales program of all companies, large and small.

Perhaps this new salesmanship by statesmanship philosophy of Mr. Doscher and others, to be used in selling goods and services to our own people, can also be used in selling our way of life to people everywhere. If we can defeat depression at home with the help of our sales know-how, it is a good bet we can defeat communistic inroads abroad with the same kind of ability and approach.

At any rate, it is grand to realize that salesmanship is once again a vital cog in our economic scheme of things—that the salesman who has been out in the field for much too long an inning, is now at bat again and in there swinging.

To Conduct Emergency March Of Dimes Drive

Maryland will participate in a Polio Emergency March of Dimes, August 16 to 31, it was announced this week by George L. Radcliffe, state chairman for the March of Dimes.

Mr. Radcliffe, at the same time, released a statement by Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, in which Mr. O'Conor stated that "Americans contributed nearly $55,000,000 to the March of Dimes last January—more than in any previous year—yet the sum fell short by $20,000,000 of meeting the current year's needs."

As a result, he said, it will be necessary to seek the additional amount through an Emergency March of Dimes. The decision to hold the emergency appeal for polio-fighting funds was made late last week at a meeting of the National Foundation's Board of Trustees, he disclosed.

Is Your Name CALLIS?

DO YOU KNOW THAT:

CALLIS, an old and honored surname that has been used for a number of centuries in western Europe, admits of at least two derivations. For example, according to some authorities on nomenclature, it is of local origin and was bestowed, when surnames came into vogue, upon those migrated from the city of Calais, France. This was in line with the well established practice, followed in mediaeval times, of naming individuals in accordance with their occupations, physical characteristics, or the community from which they came. The name was first bestowed as Calais and then was gradually transformed to CALLIS. It is said also that CALLIS may merely be a contraction of "challis" which means "cup" or "bowl;" and the name was often applied to shopkeepers or innkeepers whose establishments were identified by a sign with a cup or bowl thereon.

WILLIAM OVERTON CALLIS (1756-1814) served as a captain in the Virginia troops during the Revolutionary War. He was wounded at the battle of Monmouth and was an aide to General Thomas Nelson at the siege of Yorktown.

CALLIS sand is any fine white sand such as was used years ago for drying ink, scouring and other purposes. Originally it was imported from Calais, from which its name is derived.

ROBERT CALLIS, an English attorney who lived during the first half of the 17th century, was one of the most distinguished lawyers of his time.

THEODORE EDWIN CALLIS is advertising director of the Wall Street Journal, with headquarters in New York City.

HAROLD BAKER CALLIS, of New York City, entered the employ of the Hotels Statler Company, Inc., in 1915, advanced through the ranks of that nationally known hotel organization and has been vice-president of the company since 1937 and a member of its board of directors since 1945.

Purina's New Dairy Chow

A Researched Dairy Raton Of Proven Ability

Purina has tested this ration on two high producing herds and it has not only been able to hold the high milk flow, but also comes up to their rigid requirements on maintaining body weight and condition.

By omitting pellets, cracking certain grains, and working on a volume basis, PURINA DAIRY CHOW sells for an unusually low price.

Available in complete rations only (16% and 18%), this product is a natural for cows on pasture.

Ask your dealer about special carload prices.

One reason why it takes so little Purina to grow a pullet is that it's MICRO-MIXED. Eight tiny but powerful growth and health boosters are mixed into the feed so carefully that each pullet gets her full share each day.

Grow 'em Right for MORE MEAT and EGGS

HEALTH HINT

FEED BIRDS BUT DON'T FEED WORMS

I don't blame folks for balking at catching pullets on range to give them a worm capsule. In worming with Chek-R-Ton Granules you don't have all that fuss. Yet, Chek-R-Ton gets the worms without upsetting the birds. When birds are 10-12 weeks old, simply substitute Chek-R-Ton Granules for their regular feed for a period of 2 days. Repeat this treatment just before moving birds to the laying house. This way you leave the worms (and lots of potential trouble) out on range.

Oakland High Class Of '44 Holds Reunion

Meeting together after ten years, members of the Class of 1944 of Oakland High School elected Dr. Alvin P. Friend, Oakland, to head the alumni group and made plans for another reunion in 1959. The affair was featured by a dinner and dance Saturday evening in the Oakland Moose Hall.

Other officers named were Rex Teagarden, vice-president; Cleda Stewart, secretary, and Phyllis Trickett, treasurer.

William O. Treacy was placed in charge of a committee to prepare a yearbook for the class showing each member's activities since graduation.

Mrs. Phyllis Trickett was chairman in charge of the anniversary gathering.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Butt, Miss Clara Sukow, Miss Lillian Shaffer, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Helbig, Mr. and Mrs. John Evans, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Stewart, Ray Porter, Mrs. Melvin Hoffman, John Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wolfe, Theodore Stockslager, Dr. and Mrs. Alvin P. Friend, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sharps, Helen Beeghly, Miss Rosalie Stahl, Robert Statler, Mrs. Patricia Welch, William O. Treacy, Samuel R. Moon, Mrs. Phyllis Trickett and Robert Hart, Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Callis, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fauber, John Savage, Mr. and Mrs. George Zimmerman, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Veryl Weimer, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Teagarden and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hayden, Mt. Lake Park.

Hubert Custer and Jeremiah Paugh, Deer Park; Mr. and Mrs. Lorraine Sines and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Creston Ford, Keyser; Mr. and Mrs. William Beard and Mr. and Mrs. Orville W. Whitmer, Silver Spring; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Enlow and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stroup, Akron, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Strawser, Terra Alta; Rachel Knotts, Elk Garden; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nine, Aurora; Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Schmidt, Swanton; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lantz, Washington, D. Postoffice Going

Those previously paying 90 cents for three months will now pay $1.10; those previously paying $1.10 will now pay $1.50; those paying $1.50 will now pay $2.25, and those previously paying $2.25 will now pay $3.

The limit of weight and box rents, according to Stanton, are caused by certain laws passed by Congress some years ago, relating to first class offices, and are ones over which the local office has no control.

The fact that the increase in stamp sales reflects the increase in general of business in the Oakland area is about the only satisfaction that customers may get out of this elevation from second to first class postoffice. The postmaster and his assistant, however, have a little something to make it more appealing to them. The postmaster's salary is increased by $300 and the assistant receives an additional $226 annually.

If the sale of stamps does not continue to reach $40,000 or above each year, the postoffice will again be classed as second class. Customers are wondering whether or not this is something to look forward to.

We think that in the coming Democratic primary election that we should support Dr. H. C. We may not as individuals notice much difference in our daily living but as being a benefit to the State of Maryland as a whole. Truck Driver Is Held in Death of Accident Victim

A Grantsville truck driver is being held on bond pending a coroner's inquest into the death of two persons in a freak accident on U.S. Route 40 near Markleysburg, Pa., last Tuesday, June 15.

Ronald Mason Myers, 17 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Myers, Markleysburg, died Wednesday in Uniontown hospital as a result of injuries sustained when struck by flying debris when two tractor-trailers collided.

John Arthur Menges, Grantsville, was headed west with his left rear wheels apparently to the left center of the center lane when an eastbound tractor-trailer driven by Gordon Lee McLamb, Sanford, Fla., crested a hill and swerved to the left to avoid hitting the Myers child who was walking on the right side of the road.

The impact of the collision sent the McLamb vehicle crashing through the yard of Dale Devault, Markleysburg, route 1, and it came to a stop against a fence. The sudden stop threw McLamb from the cab of his tractor onto the bed of a truck parked in front of the home of W. E. Myers, that was also involved in the accident. McLamb was killed in the crash.

Enameled goods and bricks were spewed from the two tractor trailers and state police theorized that a piece of brick struck the head of the Myers youngster. The child was taken to Uniontown hospital with a scalp laceration and fractured skull.

Also involved in the accident was a fourth truck operated by Stanton E. Humberson, Grantsville. Damage from the collision excluding that to the Devault property, was estimated at more than $18,000.

Weed Control May Be Needed In Farm Ponds

A pond with clean, clear water is an asset to any farm. But a farm pond that is filled with weeds and scum may only be an eyesore and a disappointment.

When ponds become clogged with weeds swimming is unpleasant and livestock do not favor drinking the water. Weeds also present a problem in irrigation ponds because they often clog the equipment. The same may be true where water is piped from the pond for watering livestock. The pipes and valves may become clogged with the plant material.

"One of the most objectionable weeds in the pond is the filamentous algae often called 'pond scum' or 'frog spit', says Charles P. Ellington, University of Maryland assistant Extension soil conservationist. "It is also one of the more difficult to control. In a bulletin recently released by the Cornell Extension Service, the use of copper sulfate is recommended to control the scum. Before applying the material it is necessary to calculate the amount of water in the pond and then treat with not more than one-half pound of copper sulfate for every million pounds of water in the pond. Higher concentrations will kill the fish."

Copper sulfate may be dissolved in water and sprayed on the pond. Repeated applications may be necessary to bring the algae under control.

Another type of pond weed, commonly found in Maryland, includes those weeds that are rooted on the bottom but have leaves on or above the surface of the water. Cattails and lilies are in this group. Often times hand pulling of the weeds is the best control, but they may also be controlled with 2, 4-D mixed with water or kerosene. Concentrations of 5 to 10 per cent are recommended.

Some plants are rooted to the bottom and grow entirely below the surface of the water. These are the third type of pond weeds. They may be controlled with applications of sodium arsenite. Concentrations of 3 to 4 pounds per million pounds of water in the pond are recommended.

"Sodium arsenite is, of course a deadly poison and must be handled with extreme caution at all times," Ellington adds.

"Where the pond is highly infested with weeds it may be desirable to spray only one section at a time," the soil conservationist explains.

"The decay of weeds may cause a shortage of oxygen in the water resulting in injury to the fish population."

Martin Luther (Niall MacGinnis) the 16th century monk who split church and empire through his demand for religious reform, nails his fame-destined "95 Theses" to the door of the Wittenburg church. The scene is from the dramatic feature film, "Martin Luther," produced on location in Western Germany, being shown in Garrett county next week, both at the Grand Theatre in Friendsville and the Maryland Theatre in Oakland.

HOW BIG IS A DOLLAR BILL?

Just for fun, see if you can pick the one that's $-size

If you picked the big one, you're only partly wrong. Bills were that big once. But they went out along with short skirts in 1929. Today's dollar is smaller (the middle size).

The dollar has shrunk in value, too, as everybody knows. But it may surprise you to know that today's dollar is buying almost two and one-half times as much household electricity as the "big buck" of 25 years ago.

In these 25 years, the electric light and power companies have doubled and redoubled their supply of electricity. And they are busy building ahead—by 1960 there will be half again as much electricity available as there is today.

With this record, isn't it wasteful for the federal government to go on building unnecessary electric power projects?

The country's fast-growing electric needs always have been met and always can be met by *America's Electric Light and Power Companies.

Scripture: II Kings 17.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 85:1-7.

Here Lies Israel

Lesson for June 27, 1954

IN THE graveyard of nations there lie many whose very names are strange to us. But among all the unfamiliar names—Phus, Lydia, Elam and many another—there is one we all know: Israel. It was a going nation for about 200 years. Seen through the eyes of other nations it was "small potatoes" as we know from inscriptions which have been dug up in recent years by the archaeologists' spades; it covered no more of the earth's surface than New Jersey does. But in its own eyes it was important; what nation is not? When Israel was just a little older than the United States is now, it crashed to nothing, and since that time has been only an unfragrant memory, a dead nation. The writer of II Kings 17 wrote its obituary.

Dr. Foreman

The Nation Forgot God

What killed Israel? The nation did not die of old age, for 200 years is not a very long time for a nation to exist and prosper. Something killed that country. It might be said that it committed suicide—but what was the name of the poison which it swallowed? In one word, it was sin. But that does not tell us much. It is like giving "disease" on a death certificate as the cause of death. What disease? What sins? Looking over the record as II Kings 17 sums it up, we can see that serious sin which was the root of most others: forgetting God. The nation forgot what God had done for them in times past; they forgot that he is a God of righteousness, they supposed he did not specially care what they did so long as their tithes were paid up and they had a good record of attendance at public worship. They had reminders of "God" all over the place, but these were idols, images of beasts. They used the word "God" without realizing either the goodness, the greatness or the holiness of the only true God.

Can God Be Despised?

High-lighted in the sad obituary of a dead-and-gone nation is the fact that as a nation they despised the law of God. How is it possible to despise the Almighty? Nations and individuals show their real contempt for God by paying no attention to what he has said. Millions of people in America today act just as if the Ten Commandments (for example) were only a set of by-laws for fanatical churchmen, or—worse still—as if they were an out-dated set of rules from a primitive civilization. To judge from what you may read in any newspaper, would the Man from Mars suppose that Americans, as a people, are living by any Law of Love? If all the church members in our country were practicing Christians, would this country be what it is? A nation's sins both by the actual sins of the sinful and by the consent of those who know better but do nothing about it. Now you can despise God and his laws for a while; but his laws are not arbitrary, they are not like basketball rules that can be changed every season. The roads that lead away from God and his laws may be wide, but they are short. They come to a very dead end. It is possible to despise God; but it is not safe.

Paradox and Parallel

A nation can be simply peppered with religion and yet lose the salt of morality. In ancient Israel the name of God was everywhere; religious observances were going on "under every green tree" as the prophets said. But the more religion they had, the less morality. Israel died of a kind of moral dry-rot, in the midst of shrines without number. Dr. H. P. Van Dusen has recently made thinking Christians sit up and take startled notice with these two sets of facts. On the one hand, since World War II church membership has increased till today it is at an all-time high. Church attendance is also at an all-time high. Religious reading is popular. Young people are interested in religion more than for years past. But on the other hand; alcoholism has increased enormously; divorce has shot up; juvenile delinquency has multiplied; drug addiction has increased; sexual morality is sinking to a lower level. Can it be that in America as in Israel we fail to gear our religion into our behavior? Can it be that perhaps for all our "religion" we really have made an idol of the Dollar?

Mt. Lake Park Holiness Camp Meeting

72nd Annual Session (Interdenominational)

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.

June 25 Through July 4

Services Daily From 9 A. M. To 9 P. M., Standard Time

What do you see, Sonny? A plane, streaking across the sky? A pony, galloping into the sunset? A sailboat, gliding across the lake? If I were to look into those glasses, I might see other things. For you are viewing the world with the eyes of youth . . . while mine is the sight of age.

I, too, can marvel at the speed of a plane, the grace of a pony, the beauty of a sailboat. But in all of them, I sense a force much greater than that of the man who pilots the plane, saddles the pony, or rigs the sail.

You are learning about that force when you go to Church each Sunday, and understanding it will be one of the greatest assets in your life. It will teach you to keep things in their proper perspective so that, when you get to be my age, though your sight may be dimmer you will see so much . . . so very much . . . more.

HOLY BIBLE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Low Amperage . . . Can't possibly kill even a small child of 2 to 5 years standing in water and holding tightly to fence. Remember, it is high amperage, not high voltage in electricity that kills.

Intermittent Output . . . Alternate pulsations make it possible for humans and animals to get off fence during period when current is off. No danger of becoming paralized on the fence.

Limited Current Output . . . No possible fire hazard. Can't fire weeds or brush if fence should fall across them. Will not ignite any combustible materials.

Neon Safety Tube . . . Makes it impossible for 110-115 volt AC (high amperage current) to pass into fence in the event controller should fail to function properly.

You need have no fear of danger to humans or livestock when you have Southern States Unico fence controllers on your farm. They have every known safety feature—are guaranteed 100% safe. Yet they give a sharp, effective charge that will turn all your livestock. In addition, they're reliable and easily serviced. TO THE MORALLY CONSCIOUS VOTERS OF GARRETT COUNTY

We are neither running for office nor promoting any select group of candidates, except as concerns the Moral Issue of the coming election. We believe that many voters are unaware that in casting their ballots, they will be voting for, or against, Whiskey for Garrett County. While this will not appear on the ballot, it is the outstanding issue.

A well organized liquor league of men from Garrett County and many more from adjoining Counties in West Virginia and Pennsylvania, are plotting and scheming to maneuver wet men into all key positions in the coming election. Flanked with booze and boodle, they plan to buy votes and honor, from the riff-raff or any other who can be befuddled or bamboozled into selling his birthright for a mess of miserable pottage. They have set up nearly half the ticket for County Commissioner, House of Delegates and the Senate. Some are candidates whom they hope to elect, while others are merely stool pigeons to siphon off votes from candidates they wish to defeat. Some of these "birds" could, undoubtedly, shoulder responsibilities approximating those of Fourth Assistant Dog Catcher.

We believe that Garrett County still has a majority of sane and sober people who will vote against legalized sale of whiskey when they know the facts. We believe also the majority are broad minded enough to rise above partisan politics and select their candidates on the basis of fitness for office, sound judgment and good character. Church people, especially, have moral obligations far stronger than political ties.

We are aware that some of these candidates, campaigning on liquor money, are deliberately talking dry to those voters whom they know will not vote wet. To others they wheedle about the fairness of a referendum; (usually an admission of wet interest.) Beware of hypocrites; they are little more to be trusted than liquor men. Do not be misled by their propaganda on liquor revenue. No County ever receives half enough, in revenue, to cover the added cost of licensed whiskey. Toss in with this financial loss, the incalculable stream of human wreckage strewn in the wake of hard liquor, plus the many people murdered on our highways by drunken drivers, and you have the principal ingredients of a business in which only a liquor peddler or greedy moron could find the profit. A few candidates refuse to state their position on the liquor issue. It would be unfair to label all of these as wet, yet we of the Prohibition League cannot endorse them for dry voters.

Running for each of the important offices of Senate, House of Delegates and County Commissioner, are men whose past record, or present declaration, bear evidence of intention to oppose hard liquor for our County. For each of these offices also, are men set up and promoted by the liquor ring. In this latter group are a few fence straddlers trying to win votes from both sides.

We urge careful consideration of candidates. If you cannot have confidence in a man, then better to leave blank his space on the ballot. We earnestly urge all voters, of moral conscience, to go to the polls Monday, June 28, and give support to trustworthy candidates of your choice.

Yours for a clean, progressive County,

C. C. GNEGY

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Not A Pretty Game

With some few exceptions, the conduct of both Democratic and Republican politicians toward the Negroes in this country has been marked by cowardice, hypocrisy and demagoguery of the lowest type. This is not so true among the Democrats of the South. Among them—and only among them—has there been so much as a trace of sincerity. One reason for this is that in the South, there is slight competition for the Negro vote; another is that the overwhelmingly opinion of the people being for segregation, the politicians can afford to go along with a public sentiment that accords with their own.

—o—

Outside the South there are thirteen states where the Negro vote is not only large but often decisive. These are Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Delaware, Maryland, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Missouri and California. The comparative census figures show that in the last two decades there has been a great increase in the Negro vote in all these states, particularly in the big cities. Prior to 1936, this vote was 95 percent Republican and had been for more than 70 years. It had been counted as a basic and increasing Republican asset ever since the Civil War.

The change came in 1936. It was then that ex-Senator Joseph P. Guffey, of Pennsylvania, and the then chairman of the Democratic National Committee, James A. Farley, conceived the great idea of stealing this asset. Mr. Farley regards it—and with reason—as the greatest coup in American political history. Though Mr. Roosevelt, then President, co-operated enthusiastically with an unprecedented number of Federal jobs for the Negroes in these states, Mr. Farley conceded that it could not have been done without two factors. One was the influence of Mrs. Roosevelt, who, for years, had been strongly against segregation. The other was the active support of the late Mr. Harry Hopkins, head of the Works Progress Administration who put many thousands of Negro votes on the Federal pay roll in all those states.

Add to this the distribution in those states of 1,000,000 pictures of Mrs. Roosevelt, encircled and surrounded by Negro students, plus the putting on the Democratic committee pay roll of scores of Negro preachers, teachers and speakers who carried the Roosevelt gospel into those states and the Messrs. Farley and Guffey had got together an irresistible setup. When the Republicans woke up to what was going on their basic asset had vanished. To say they were stunned is an understatement. In every campaign since they have striven hard to recover it—but, despite the fact that the Democrats have failed in Congress after Congress to enact a Fair Employment Practice Act or to advance against segregation in any other way, the great majority of Negroes have remained Democrats. The competition, however, is fierce and the politicians are unscrupulous about it.

The Democrats have been planning to attack the Republicans this fall, and in 1956, as having a weak record on civil rights, notably on Negroes. In most states the labor bosses, mostly Democratic, are relied upon to keep the Negroes in line. However, some of the more astute among them have suddenly become aware that the Republicans under Eisenhower have a much better score with which to lure back the Negroes than they. For example, there is the great anti-segregation decision of the Supreme Court. True, the court is largely composed of Roosevelt and Truman Democrats, but the decision was written by the Chief Justice, who is a Republican and an Eisenhower appointee. There are also these facts to consider. Segregation in District of Columbia restaurants and theaters has been abolished. All segregation has been removed in army-navy establishments, veteran hospitals and the armed forces generally. No segregation at all will exist in District of Columbia schools by the end of the year. Many more Negroes are in higher and better-paid Federal jobs than before. It is a rather impressive record.

Considering all these things, the Democrats are more uneasy about the Negro vote than they have been in eighteen years. It is the Eisenhower weight which has brought these things about and no one charges that he has done it for political reasons. Everyone gives him credit in these segregation matters. But that does not go for either the Republican or Democratic politicians. They are ready to go as far as Mr. Eisenhower will go on this road—and a good deal farther if it seems expedient. The thing they are after is votes. It isn't a pretty game they play. Because, regardless of the segregation decision, and the steps taken toward narrowing it, this racial gulf is still the deepest and widest in the world. And to go too far too fast is to invite trouble. Every thoughtful man knows this, but that will not stop the politicians from going the limit.

Taking Part in Rocket Competition

A Garrett countian is among four Marylanders having a part in making U.S. air force history at Yuma, Arizona, in the country's first air-to-air rocketry competition, now being staged over the Arizona desert.

One officer and three airmen from Maryland have been selected to participate in the meet. The officer is a naval lieutenant from Annapolis. One of the three airmen is Staff Sergeant Dale S. Gnegy, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Gnegy, route 2, Oakland, who is working with the engineering section of the Moody AFB F-94C all-weather rocket team representing Crew Training air force at Yuma. He was graduated from Oakland High school in 1948.

Four jet interceptor teams will compete in the rocket firing competition. The teams were selected after elimination shoot-offs.

The air-to-air rocket, the most modern weapon for aerial combat now in regular use by the U.S. air force, is the 2.75 missile which will be fired in passes at 20,000 and 30,000 feet by the competing teams.

"Our Growing Edge"

MRS. MARTHA GLOTFELTY

Let's start growing up in our political thinking about politics, which I have no doubt is an indication of our immaturity in other things.

Let us analyze the situation. Many people when speaking of political activities of any kind say, "Oh, that's just dirty politics" or "I never vote, it makes no difference who is elected." Now, I ask you, does that make sense? And, why would politics be any more dishonorable than any other form of work, or even a profession? Do we, by implication help to make it a discredit, rather than a trust which it should be?

Today we have two choices in politics. One is a dictatorship, called Communism, Godless, ruthless, with no concern for human welfare. The other is free and secret elections. True enough we do not have Communism here in this country, in the government at least, but we can allow one phase of that sickness to exist, when we allow some one to do our thinking for us, or fail altogether to exercise the priviledge of voting.

The word Politics means in one definition, the science and art of government. Somehow I believe if we thought of it more in that sense, it would help it to become just that, a science and an art. It gives us the right to choose and elect the men we consider best fitted for a particular part of that government, so the men we elect to office are a mirror of the people who elected them.

A look back over the history of our nation will tell how our forefathers, wise and honorable men, set up a form of government which has survived wars, depressions, and social planners and still is strong and vital, the best hope of freedom loving people in our world today.

We are nearing the end of a campaign here in Garrett County. This is the place you and I exercise our privilege of voting, a privilege denied one third of the world's population. Think that over.

Make no mistake the men we elect to office will affect our daily lives. They will decide on matters concerning our welfare as women and that of our children. We should try to get the facts, THEN VOTE.

I think we should give more time and thought to local politics, and also in the over-all picture of our nation. Maybe it is high time we started growing up in politics, as well as other things.

BITTINGER

Mrs. Ida Reckner and Mrs. Lenora Buckel left Sunday for College Park, where they will attend the summer teachers course at the university.

Lawrence Brenneman, who had been confined to his home by illness for a couple of weeks, is now able to be about again.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Bradley and grandson, Neil Smith, of Cumberland, drove to this village last Sunday evening from Grantsville for a brief visit.

County Commissioner Stewart Stahl, of Grantsville, was a recent caller here.

Asa J. Orendorf made a business trip to Pittsburgh one day last week in company with Raymond Beitzel.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

While the Army-McCarthy hearings were coming to a dramatic windup last week the Senate passed a 29 billion dollar defense bill and three other bills beneficial to education.

The attention of the nation was focused on the caucus room in the Senate Office Building where for 36 days the charges and countercharges surrounding the controversial Senator from Wisconsin were aired.

Most every citizen saw most, or at least part, of the hearings on television and each has his own opinion. However, I think that almost everyone has been disappointed to see the impairment of Senate dignity and integrity—and let us hope that some means will be found to restore the great tradition of fairness and selfless devotion to the national interest which must characterize the conduct of every Senator if our country is to be well served by the Legislative Branch.

Such exhibitions are divisive and dangerous to our national unity, and by creating dissension at home also jeopardize our relations with friendly allies.

It is significant that on the very afternoon those hearings were being concluded the 29 billion dollar appropriation for the defense of this nation was being voted on by the Senate.

Protecting the United States during this period of Communist expansion is the primary duty of your Government—and that includes the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Branches. To fully protect the interest of the United States every branch of Government must cooperate and seek the united backing of the people of this country.

If opinions become so divided that public faith and confidence in any one branch of Government is destroyed, then truly we will have a difficult time defending ourselves and leading the free forces of the world against the evil aims of Soviet Russia.

The Eisenhower Administration's Defense Department budget of 29 billion contains sufficient funds to guarantee us a strong military force which is the greatest deterrent to Communist aggression.

In the long run we can best protect our traditions of freedom and best meet the totalitarian and faithless teachings of Communism by having an alert and educated people.

The American people have higher standards of education and more advantages of education than any other nation in the world. Further advancement in the education field is added insurance that we will not be susceptible to false teachings and dogma.

In order to assist the States in considering their educational problems and to mobilize for their solution the Congress passed a bill authorizing a series of White House Conferences.

To assist the States in collecting the facts and materials necessary to make the conference a success the Senate authorized $1,500,000 with no State to receive less than $15,000 or more than $75,000.

Under two other bills which passed the Senate, a nine member representative committee would be created to advise the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare on pressing problems of education; and the other bill would authorize cooperative research in education in order to more effectively accomplish the purposes of the Office of Education. The Commissioner of Education would be authorized to enter into contract or jointly financed cooperative arrangements with public and other nonprofit universities and colleges and State educational agencies for the conduct of research, surveys, and demonstrations in the field of education.

Some good news for the many wheat growers in our district: The Department of Agriculture tells me most of the government holdings of wheat in the Baltimore terminals have been sold and are being moved out.

This will make room for the loan wheat of the 1954 crop—making this year's storage situation look greatly improved. As wheat growers know only too well, it has been lack of storage facilities that has delayed the transportation of grain from their own communities.

I want to urge in the strongest terms that every reader should vote in the primary elections next Monday. —o—

Today Mrs. Hyde and I are flying up to Albany, New York, where we've been invited to represent our state at the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the first Congress held in America.

It was in 1754—a generation before the United States came into being—but in Albany the first plan was produced for uniting the colonies.

Maryland sent two delegates to the Congress—Albert Barnes and Benjamin Tasker, the latter an outstanding lawyer. The meeting was called to deal with the problem of defending the colonies against the French, who were trying to wrest them from England.

A colorful event of June 29th, 1754, was the attendance at the Congress of about 150 Indian chiefs. They had been summoned by messengers to consider making alliances with the colonies. The discussions were successful, and after the treaties were signed a great Mohawk leader named Hendricks made this reference to the strength of the Indian people:

"If any of our enemies arose against us," he said, "we had no occasion to lift up our whole hand against them; for our little finger was sufficient."

Benjamin Franklin, the most famous delegate present, drafted a plan to unify the colonies. It was not ratified by them because they were suspicious of a central authority to raise armies and levy taxes. Nevertheless, Franklin was able to see, in the later years of his life, the realization of his dream.

Our Congress today is working for the same things on a larger scale: Peace, security and freedom. I hope that all of us who are a part of this picture will be able to see these dreams become very real, too.

The Maple Grove Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. Bernard Merl. Mrs. Norman Patton was in charge of the program. Mrs. Resh presided at the business session, with nineteen members answering to roll call. Twenty-eight sick calls were reported made during the past month. It was announced that there is more painting to be done at the church. Mrs. Walter Younkin made an apron which will be circulated among members and friends. MARYLAND WILDLIFE

EASTERN BROOK TROUT

RANGE: Found in Maryland's best trout waters of Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick Counties. Stocked also in some of the better waters of Cecil, Montgomery, Carroll, Baltimore, Harford and Anne Arundel Counties. Because of increased pollution of various types, range is fast decreasing.

DESCRIPTION: Back with worm-like markings. Body red-spotted. Lower fins with white, black and orange. Color varies with bottom, food and other factors.

BREEDING: Female prepares round nest in gravel; about 1-2 feet in diameter and 2-10 inches in depth. Young fish spawn an average of 200 eggs in late Fall when temperature of water is around 49°F; male fertilizes eggs; female covers them with gravel; hatch in 44 days at 50°F following Spring; fry (young fish) absorb yolk sac and begin feeding; young may grow 2-2½ inches first year, depending on abundance of food.

HABITS: Not a leaping fish, like bass or rainbow trout, when hooked; may rise clear of the surface in striking fly.

MANAGEMENT: Will live in streams having a summer temperature even as high as 70°F provided there are swift currents. In streams feed largely on aquatic insects, in ponds mostly on smaller fish. Many good trout streams ruined by deforestation, water pollution and ill-advised introduction of predatory fishes. Must have pure, clear, cool water to exist.

Private Robert C. Crowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert C. Crowe, of Eglon, W. Va., has been appointed a squad leader with Company A, 2nd Infantry Training Regiment, Camp Gordon Replacement Training Center, where he is receiving his basic training.

At Camp Gordon's Replacement Training Center, recruits receive eight weeks of instruction in such subjects as weapons, map reading, tactics and other military skills. Instruction and training is supervised by capable officers and non-commissioned officers who have had combat experience.

TO THE VOTERS OF GARRETT COUNTY

In regard to Mr. Simmons' letter, I don't know why the candidates for County Commissioner are classed as a legislative body. I think they are more of a law enforcement body.

I am not in favor of liquor, but if the legislative body should pass a liquor bill it should be with a referendum and voted at a regular election. Then all will have plenty of time to transfer or register. That will give equal rights to all. That is what the Constitution of our country calls for.

I have given all the time that was possible in making personal contacts with the citizens of Garrett County that I may be better acquainted with them. To those of you whom I was unable to contact, I would like to say I have made no promise or pledge to anyone. After all, we are known by our deeds rather than by our words.

I urge that every voter go to the polls on June 28 and vote for candidates of your choice. It is your duty.

If nominated and elected, it shall be my duty to live up to the oath of this office.

I sincerely solicit your support and influence.

TO THE VOTERS:

The Primary Election is only a few days away now, and this campaign is drawing to a close. I have enjoyed seeing and talking with many of my good friends and acquaintances. If I win in the Primary I will be around to see you again, in the General Election. If I lose, I shall remember you always as my good friends, and I hope you will remember me as one who has taken a life-long interest in our county and state.

During the campaign I have tried to furnish information about the county finances, the amount of our debt, the steady increase in our county budget, the cost of our schools, and the problems confronting us in the future. These problems could grow more serious under poor management. They could become less of a worry in the coming years under wise and prudent management. It all depends upon the kind of men you elect to handle your affairs.

If I go back to the Senate again, I promise you all honest and faithful service. Nobody has any strings on me and I can therefore serve all the people without fear or favor. I will not be a "yes man" for the office holders of our state and county. Their requests will be given fair consideration in the light of what is best for the average private citizen and taxpayer. Only free and independent men can serve the people fairly at all times.

It is the duty of your representatives to guard your liberty and your property, and to act as a watch dog over the public treasury. More than that a faithful representative will serve with integrity. The laws of our state can be no more honest than the men who make them.

As I see it, we are in great danger from ill considered, extravagant and bad legislation. I will use the following examples to explain what I mean:

(1) Each year the State sells the citizen a truck license for $175.00. For that amount of money a license is issued for that truck to carry thirty-two thousand pounds. But four years ago a law was passed making it illegal to have a load of that weight on the truck. The result is that the truck owner can be arrested and fined several hundred dollars for having a load of even less weight than that for which the State has granted him a license, and yet the license fee must be paid if he expects to operate the truck. The State thus dishonors its contract with the citizen, but the State can do this because our representatives passed a law making it legal for the State Police to disregard the terms of the license and arrest the truck owner for doing what the State sold him a license to do. The same law took from the Magistrates all discretionary power and made the imposition of a fine mandatory.

(2) Another Bill is passed. A man who is an appointed official of the State and therefore cannot be removed by a vote of the people is empowered to exercise the privileges of an appointed guardian over our land owners who have Gas rights to sell. The right to negotiate for the sale of his Gas is virtually taken from the land owner who pays taxes and given to the appointed official in Baltimore. Under the threat of a penalty of up to $1000.00 per day the land owner must obey the official in Baltimore. The official who should be only a servant of the taxpayer becomes his master.

The above represents actual cases and are true examples of laws enacted during the last four years. The Gas law was repealed after it was attacked by the Farm Bureau. There are others which I have not the space to list.

The Annual Assessment Law which requires that every man's property must be assesssed each year is another example of bad and extravagant legislation. If I become your Senator I will try very hard to repeal this "Act."

Finally, no good citizen has anything to fear from honest representation. Every worthy endeavor from teaching school to cutting wood can make better, surer progress under sound laws. Under honest policies more schools can be built for less money, children can be better educated, respect for law and order can be increased.

It takes men with backbone to stand up against the lobbyists at Annapolis. "Yes Men" in spite of glowing promises have never stood the test. On the basis of my own record of sincere service and independence, I respectfully solicit your support and influence next Monday, June 28.

Sincerely yours,

CANDIDATE FOR THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION FOR

GOVERNOR... DR. H. C. BYRD

HAS IMPROVED THE OPPORTUNITIES OF MARYLAND CITIZENS

Dr. H. C. Byrd, President of the University of Maryland for 25 years, has acted as "career blazer" for thousands of young Marylanders. His leadership and initiative in providing broad, educational opportunities for the youth of our state has literally raised the level of our standard of living and broadened our spiritual values. The other services that he has organized and improved have helped Marylanders on the farm, in the town and cities.

MARYLAND NEEDS MORE ACTION—LESS TALK

Dr. H. C. Byrd has demonstrated his vision translated into action—his courage and determination to GET THINGS DONE!

MARYLAND NEEDS EXPERIENCED PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Dr. H. C. Byrd knows how to make practical service of a public dollar. In the construction of our great State University, he secured a full dollar's worth of service or construction for each and every dollar spent.

We need that trained ability throughout our State Government.

We need that trained ability for effective and productive cooperation between State Legislature and the Departments of State Government.

We need that trained ability to lead the State of Maryland through the next 4 years without new or higher taxes.

DR. BYRD ACTUATES IMPROVEMENTS

In addition to the increased potentialities for career opportunities for our Maryland youth, Dr. H. C. Byrd pioneered the first chapel on a State college campus in the United States. While improving, advancing and increasing the educational opportunities in law, medicine, pharmacy, nursing, teaching, engineering, agriculture and home economics, Dr. Byrd felt balanced education necessitated opportunity for spiritual development.

Leaders of various Religious Faiths and State Governors have expressed their enthusiasm in scores of commendatory tributes. Here is a brief sampling of the high evaluation placed on this great addition to the University of Maryland's religious program—

FROM REMARKS OF HIS EXCELLENCY, ARCHBISHOP O'BOYLE, AT THE UNIVERSITY CHAPEL MEMORIAL SERVICE, ON SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1953:

"I wish to take this opportunity to express my personal thanks to Dr. Byrd and the officials of the University of Maryland for their constant support of the religious program at this University. This beautiful and commodious church, situated so prominently on the University campus, evidences the desire of President Byrd to give religion its proper and rightful status in the life of the University.

"It is my earnest hope that through the religious facilities provided here, all students will recognize their dependence upon a Creator and their obligation to love God and their neighbor."

BISHOP NOBLE POWELL OF THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH WROTE DR. BYRD:

"I was at the Chapel yesterday afternoon and had a wonderful time. That is a most gloriously beautiful temple to God. You've done a magnificent thing in putting it there."

LETTER FROM FREDERICK BROWN HARRIS, MINISTER OF FOUNDRY METHODIST CHURCH OF WASHINGTON:

"It was a rare privilege to march in the procession and to sit with you in that gorgeous Chancel of the new Chapel. I congratulate you on the erection of that beautiful symbol of worship. That whole colorful altar thrills one like stained glass windows. The whole effect is so gripping that it made me think of a verse that came to me when I sat in Chartres Cathedral:

'In Blessed Notre Dame of Chartres,
Where jeweled windows shine,
I said, if man conceived this place
He is himself divine.'

"What marvels you have seen pass from vision into reality on that campus. You have dreamed great things there and brought them to pass. It can be said of that campus: If you seek President Byrd's Monument, look about you!"

PRAYER OFFERED ON THE OCCASION OF DR. BYRD BEING HONORED AT A TESTIMONIAL DINNER BY THE B'NAI B'RITH:

"Bless the man to whom we pay tribute, the builder of a great university, a man who has erected edifices for the mind and a beautiful edifice for the spirit in the University of Maryland Memorial Chapel, a chapel which can rightly be called 'a house of prayer for all peoples.'

"We join with his countless friends and grateful students in thanking Thee for his long years of public service, for his 40 years of devotion to the cause of education and to the cause of good will and fellowship among men.

LETTER FROM FRANK A. SHALLENBERGER, FORMER HEAD OF KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS OF MARYLAND:

"In the name of many thousand of Catholics in our State and in the United States, and in the name of the Knights of Columbus, I want to thank you for this magnificent edifice and to tell you that we will never forget the fact that at the head of the University of Maryland is a native Marylander who must have been inspired to see to it that this building was erected."

VOTE FOR YOUR OWN BEST INTERESTS ON JUNE 28th

It is your public duty as a thoughtful citizen to insure the State of Maryland will receive the benefit of H. C. Byrd's experienced leadership. His record of service for 45 years proves he will serve the best interests of all Marylanders.

Vote Monday, June 28th For...

- C. FERDINAND SYBERT FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL
- J. MILLARD TAWES FOR COMPTROLLER

Some Things I Favor

I favor industry for Garrett County. The people in our county, as in all other counties, are eager and anxious to have industry locate plants here. To promote this I think an appropriate committee consisting of individuals from the various sections of our county should be selected to work in cooperation with our County Commissioners, officials of our incorporated towns, Chambers of Commerce and other interested persons who feel that something should be done in this connection. If elected Senator I shall be pleased, as in the past, to cooperate in every way possible to bring payrolls to Garrett County.

I favor better and safer highways. I have worked for and supported Governor McKeldin's twelve-year road program to give them to Maryland.

I favor increased recreational facilities for Garrett County, in order that we may provide vacational opportunities for the people of our county and State and for those from other states, which will in turn bring more people and more money into our county.

I favor the best educational facilities possible for the boys and girls of our county. Our future lies in our boys and girls and for too long a time they were deprived of advantages which others in our State enjoyed. I think we should protect that future by giving our children the best schooling in the best schools that we can financially afford.

I favor lower taxes whenever this can be accomplished without impairing necessary services to our people. I am on record as one of the sponsors of a resolution for the purpose of an investigation of mandatory services and expenditures of the various State departments to determine whether taxes can be reduced. If amendments or repeal of our present laws are deemed necessary to get more for our tax dollars I shall favor and work for such legislation.

Our county has a unique record and I want to do everything possible to help make it cleaner and stronger. From May, 1952, to May, 1953, our daily average number of jail prisoners was two; and from May, 1953, to May, 1954, the daily average was less than one-half prisoner. I do not believe that this can be equalled in any other part of our State. At the same time our number of juvenile cases has been very low. THEREFORE, I AM OPPOSED TO THE LEGALIZED SALE OF WHISKEY IN OUR COUNTY IN ORDER THAT THIS SPLENDID RECORD CAN BE MAINTAINED.

I believe in Garrett County. I think we have one of the best Counties in our State, and through constructive thought and coordinated effort we can go forward to an even better, greater and more prosperous land in which to live.

These are some of the things I favor and in which I believe. I think the citizens of our county are entitled to know this, hence this article. I will appreciate the vote of all our citizens who feel as I do about these matters. The Republican Primary is on June 28th. Let us all vote. It is our duty as well as our privilege.

MARRIED

Mahaffey-Schrock—Mr. and Mrs. Page Cline Schrock, Sr., of Aurora, W. Va., announce the marriage of their daughter, Helen Catherine, to Dave Leon Mahaffey, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mahaffey, of Loch Lynn.

The wedding took place at six-thirty p. m., Saturday, June 12, at St. Paul's Lutheran church in Aurora, with Rev. George W. Weirick, pastor, officiating at the double ring ceremony. Miss Lenora Schrock, cousin of the bride, played the nuptial music.

The bride wore a ballerina length gown of white nylon organdy, fashioned with a bouffant skirt, Peter Pan collar and tiny rhinestone buttons from neckline to waist. She wore a white nylon tulle hat trimmed with miniature rosebuds and carried an old fashioned nosegay.

Her maid of honor, Miss Dolores Wotring, of Aurora, wore a sky-blue nylon organdy gown identical to that of the bride. She also carried an old fashioned nosegay.

Mr. Paul Harvey, of Loch Lynn, was Mr. Mahaffey's best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Schrock home. The bride's table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake. Miss Laura McGinnis and Miss Alice McGinnis, of Silver Spring, and Miss Alice Douglas, of Westernport, assisted at the reception.

Mrs. Mahaffey was graduated from Aurora High school in the class of 1953. She is employed at the Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland. Mr. Mahaffey was graduated from Southern High school in the class of 1953. He is employed at the Mason Glotfelty garage in Oakland. They are now residing in the Spiker apartments at 6th and Alder streets in Oakland.

Paugh-Zimmerman—Miss Lela Leesta Zimmerman, 19, daughter of Mrs. Roy Zimmerman, of Mt. Lake Park and the late Mr. Zimmerman, became the bride of Wesley Gordon Paugh, son of Mrs. Pauline Paugh and the late Wesley Paugh, Sr., last Saturday evening at the home of the bride.

Mrs. Clyde Liller, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Mr. Liller served as best man.

The room was decorated with cut flowers. Rev. H. O. Teagarden, minister at the Haven of Rest chapel, Oakland, performed the ceremony.

Thirty-eight guests attended a buffet dinner served following the ceremony. Among the guests were Mrs. Pauline Paugh, mother of the groom, Betty, Charles, Helen and Naomi Jean Paugh, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Liller and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Liller and four children, Mrs. Roy Zimmerman and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Shafer and children, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Sweitzer and children, Mrs. H. O. Teagarden, and Mrs. Hattie Sowers, grandmother of the bride.

Secret Mission Delays Marriage

A secret mission of the United States Navy is delaying a Garrett county marriage for a week.

The wedding of Miss Encie Rhodes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rhodes, Swanton, to Kenneth Ward Teets, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Teets, of Friendsville, was scheduled for Monday, July 5. But Teets, who is now serving with the United States Navy, stationed at Norfolk, had orders to be a member of some secret mission.

Arrangements are now made to have the wedding on Sunday, July 11, at 3 o'clock, in the Ev. United Brethren church in Swanton.

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON

President of Harding College

There isn't a better illustration of the unsound financial situation in which we are involved today than the table of top salaries in America, published recently by a weekly news magazine.

A vice president in charge of production for a big manufacturing company is listed as receiving $590,000 for last year's work. We need not discuss this man's real worth to the company, undoubtedly it is great. But we do need to examine the fantastic aspects of this salary.

Just a generation ago a sizeable manufacturing company could have been established with $590,000. Had its vice-president been a man of unusual capabilities in American industry, capable of expanding production, increasing profits and creating more jobs, he might have received $35,000 a year and earned it. He would have paid a few thousand in taxes. In comparison let's see what happens to today's $590,000 vice president.

If the vice president has only himself and his wife, and his net income is $575,000, the federal government takes in taxes $156,820 of the first $200,000. On the remaining $375,000, the government then levies a 91 per cent tax. That amounts to $341,250. Thus from this one man—working for a salary—the government takes $498,070. This represents about 85 cents in federal income taxes out of every dollar of income. Indirect taxes and other direct taxes hit what's left; and so do the state and local taxes, including state income tax, sales tax, etc.

There is something drastically wrong with a tax program which takes 85 per cent of anybody's salary in income taxes. There is something fundamentally wrong with the tax system when a company must pay out the fantastic sum of $590,000 to give its top production executive a take-home salary in keeping with his worth. The company actually is paying the executive about $7,000 a month and the federal government $41,500 a month for the privilege of employing him. The situation is ridiculous.

To restore sanity to the financial base of our government, and to safeguard the financial stability of our whole national economy, a broad program of governmental reform is needed. Along with this organic reform must also come a reform in the philosophy of taxation as now practiced.

To Truck Owners And Operators Of Garrett County

Clifford Friend, candidate for the State Senate on the Republican ticket, recently circulated hand bills addressed to Truck Owners, in which he complained of truck weight legislation now on the Statute books.

Do not be misled by wild statements that you have been betrayed by your present members in the Maryland Legislature. The Garrett County delegation has at all times endeavored to represent and protect the interests of all truckers—small and large. Maryland's truck laws compare favorably with or are better than those of any other state.

Weight laws are basically applied to the carrying capacity per axle. Compare the weight restrictions of neighboring States:

Pennsylvania	20,000 lbs. per axle
West Virginia	18,000 lbs. per axle
Virginia	18,000 lbs. per axle
Maryland	22,400 lbs. per axle

The Maryland Legislature and your present Garrett County delegation have repeatedly voted down weight-distance taxes on trucks. Such a tax would place a tremendous hardship on all truck owners and increase the hauling costs to the general consumer.

We recommend to future Legislators at Annapolis the same fair and unbiased representation that we have had there in the past.

An Open Letter To The Taxpayers Of Garrett County

On Monday, June 28, the Republican voters of this County will, in all probability, nominate three men who will serve as County Commissioners for the next four years.

The Office of a County Commissioner is the most important local office to be filled, and the importance of selecting able and qualified men to serve cannot be looked over lightly.

We have two men who have served capably and efficiently who are seeking re-election, namely, Mr. Jonas W. Sines, and Mr. Stewart F. Stahl.

The business of running this County is big business. That office is responsible for the proper and efficient spending of a million and a half dollars of the taxpayers' money. It is no position to be held by an inexperienced person.

During the service in office of these two men Garrett County has advanced more than in any similar period in the history of our County.

Let's look at their record of accomplishments.

The construction of two new modern high school buildings, with shops and gymnasiums, and modern equipment.

Repairs and renovation of existing school buildings.

Fullest cooperation and support in the construction, equipping, and in maintaining Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Support of the Ruth Enlow Public Library.

In the past four years the County Commissioners, through the Roads Department, has constructed 72.16 miles of new County roads. In addition to the above the following bridges have been constructed: Youghiogheny River Bridge, the bridge at Lewis Dam, and Friendsville to Selbysport.

The above results have been accomplished without any increase in the tax-rate, and are but a few of the many important improvements.

The experience, knowledge and familiarity with the many important problems of this office should not be overlooked.

On June 28, when you go to the polls, re-elect these competent men, Jonas W. Sines and Stewart F. Stahl, as your County Commissioners.

GEORGE E. CODDINGTON

Candidate For Re-Election To

The House Of Delegates

Recently an advertisement appeared in the newspaper and many citizens have written letters requesting information from various candidates as to how they stand on the liquor question.

My record in the Legislature on this question is well known and speaks for itself. I have no hesitation whatever in repeating my position on this matter. I have always opposed the legalization of the sale of whiskey in Garrett County and if re-elected I shall continue to take that stand. I want all of the voters and my friends to know this.

I feel that I am qualified by experience to continue to serve you at Annapolis and I thank you for your continued support.

TO THE VOTERS OF GARRETT COUNTY

As you all know, I am a candidate for the office of County Commissioner of Garrett County, County Commissioner District Number One.

I have traveled many miles in our County and talked with many people in the past two months, but have found it impossible to meet each one personally, and now I must take this means of telling you all, some of the things I favor, and some I am against.

First, let me say I was brought up in a good Christian home, and was taught to respect the Christian way of life. I do not drink whiskey and have never tasted it, the smell of it was always enough for me. Therefore, I AM OPPOSED TO THE LEGALIZED SALE OF WHISKEY IN GARRETT COUNTY.

I am in favor of improving the back roads of our county as well as the highways, especially SCHOOL BUS ROUTES and Mail routes. I formerly owned and operated a school bus in the county for six years, and I know the conditions of many of the roads, and I also know the responsibility of the bus drivers with so many precious lives entrusted to their care.

I, too, favor the best educational facilities for the boys and girls of our county. Give them the best we can afford without working a hardship upon the taxpayers of the county.

If there is any way possible, I am in favor of bringing industry into Garrett County. We all know too well when our children finish school they must leave the county to find employment, unless their parents own a farm or some kind of business. We have many acres in Garrett County, State and Federal owned, that could be used for industry. We are not collecting any taxes on this land; therefore, I would be in favor of exempting the industry of taxes for five, ten or fifteen years, depending on the size of the plant, and the number of employees.

I am also in favor of Social Security for the county employees. However, this cannot be brought about by the County Commissioners alone. This requires an act of Legislature, and I would recommend that a bill be presented, to bring the county employees under Social Security.

I am also in position to devote all my time to this increasingly important office, if need be, and I would cooperate with the other officials of the county to make this a still better county in which to live.

To the faithful observance of the obligation of the County Commissioners, I pledge my sacred word of honor.

I sincerely solicit your confidence and support.

Respectfully yours,

Dwight A Barrick
